Minnesota Weathers Not Declared Transcontinental.

The supreme court of Minnesota refused an important decision in the case of Barry against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads. Barry contracted to build a warehouse on the right of way of the road under the guarantee of the road to pay the warehouse bill of $1,880, and was defeated in the district court. He then sued to enforce his claim, and the case came before the supreme court on a demurrer. The court now held the provisions of the Minnesota anti-pass law constituted a bar to a grain warehouse upon the right of way of a railroad, and that the fact that the company of one dollar, is unconstitutional in the state property without just compensation. The court says: "The contract shows that the company agreed to lend to be taken does not affect the principle. If the state can take and use the lands it can take it all; if it can put another purpose to appropriation to possession of so much of the company's land as is necessary for a warehouse and build an elevator or warehouse, it can put another appropriation to possession of so much of its lands as may be necessary for a hotel and maintain another railroad. Indeed if it can, under the pretext of regulating the use, cut the company from any part of its property for over indemnity, no reason can be given why it may not, as a regulation, cut it from its right of every part, depot, grounds, tracks and stations and put other parties in possession of them, for it holds and employs them for public use. The fact that the section requires railway companies to let in any person in possession of any portion of their land without the compensation required by the constitution, is invalid."

State Chemist White of Georgia, decided ten tubs of butter shipped to Atlanta by a Chicago firm was oleomargarine. The United States chemists at Washington have just decided that it was pure butter. It has been released.

W. K. Vanderbilt's private steam yacht Alva is really a splendid steamship drawing seventeen feet of water, costing $1,000,000, and requiring a crew of sixty-five men. Her first trip will be to Bermuda taking the Vanderbilts and a number of their friends.

Secretary Manning according to the well-informed correspondent states privately to his friends—who give it out for publication—that he expects to retire from the Treasury Department between the 4th of March and the 1st of April. This is as near the date as he can fix.

The Boston Herald says: "We will match the climate of Boston against that of Russia, or of almost any other country, for disagreeable qualities the present winter." It is a shame that since the "cold snap" Eastern papers are not talking so much as usual about Western blizzards and Western cold.

A crank in a San Francisco opera house tried to kill Patti's life on stage. He was an infernal machine but injured only himself.

The supreme court decides that the law requiring railroad companies to permit others to use their warehouses and hotels is unconstitutional.

Mr. Alex. a servant girl of West Suffield, Conn., cut off the head of her newborn illegitimate child, and tried to burn it in a stove and put the body in the cellar. The young woman will probably die.

New candidates for places on the interstate commerce commission are appearing. Major Dow of St. Paul, who is at the Ebbitt house, has seen the president several times, and is now pushing a strong Minnesota claim for a place on the commission.

The senate committee on improvement of the Mississippi river decided to report a resolution for the appointment of a commissioner by the president to investigate Capt. Eads' proposed plan for improving the river by the Lake Borgne outlet project.

The president is expected to act upon the time which he can get in the consideration of the department, prompt work is the opinion of the most of the house persons who have talked with other congressmen who hold within the last few days that he will act in time.

There is a question among railroad officials as to what date the new interstate commerce bill goes into effect. Something is made of the fact that it was the last day of the last house of congress, and others say it was from the approval of the president. According to reading of the bill it takes effect, so far as the appointment of commissioners is concerned, immediately upon the approval of the president, and so far as its general provisions are concerned sixty days after its passage.

Thirteen citizens of New Lexington, Ohio have petitioned congress to instruct the president to open negotiations with Great Britain for the cession of Canada and other British possessions in North America.

A fuel famine at Fort Benton is imminent, but there is no fear of any suffering at that place. At other points they are burning the furniture and the contents of hotels. The bears heretofore entertained for the sake of stock now assume the real feeling of alarm for the safety of the poor people who winter with their pets for food or provisions. Great fears are felt for the safety of Elliott, as he should have been been any such progress as between 1880 and 1890. The three sections of the country which will show the most remarkable developments are the South, the West and the Pacific Coast.

The Chicago auditorium building, work on which has been commenced, will be one of the finest edifices in the country, and will stand a monument to the progressiveness of the capital, lists of that great city. The structure will occupy the block which extends from Michigan avenue to Wabash avenue on Congress street, and has a depth of 200 feet. The company has a capital of $1,500,000, and of this over $1,000,000 in cash has already been subscribed, leaving $500,000 available stock at Milan. It is expected the great building will be so far toward completion as to allow the national convention of 1888 to be held in the great hall.

Lorenzo S. Snow, a Utah Mormon was tried and found guilty of polygamy upon three indictments, which were all alike, except that they covered different periods of time. The court sentenced him to pay a fine of $800 and six months' imprisonment upon each indictment, the terms of imprisonment to follow each other. The prisoner after serving out the first term filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus and discharge from prison on the ground that he could not be legally sentenced to three terms of imprisonment for one continuous offense. The Utah court denied his application, and he appealed to the supreme court of the United States, which has just decided that the offense of cohabitation in the sense of the statutes is inherently continuous one having duration, and not an offense consisting of an isolated act. There was therefore only a single offense committed prior to the time the indictments were found, and the Utah court must revise its decision in accordance therewith.

Mr. Parnell denies that he is going to the south of Ireland. He says his physician is well satisfied with his progress. The Parnell time will oppose in parliament all projects relating to the Irish Land Purchase bill on the ground that the question should be referred for an Irish parliament. Parnell and Kennedy of Dublin has been elected by the Nationalists of South Dublin, and the opposition to the common to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sir Arthur Guinness, son of Sir Benjamin, and Mr. Holmes objected. After a long discussion the house adjourned without action on appropriations. The agreement between the opposition and the ministry for the manufacture of ordnance for the navy, and for the fortifications of coasts for defense. This was likely to lead to the passage of the appropriations. Eulogies were pronounced upon the late Senator Wm. Pitt Fessenden.

The first section of the bill provides that any person who served in the army or navy during the war of the rebellion and who served ninety days or more, and who is now or may hereafter be found to be suffering from a disability not the result of his own vicious habits or gross carelessness, which incapacitates him from the performance of his usual labor, shall be entitled to a pension, the amount of which is graded according to the extent of his disability, and the second section provides that the widow, minor children and dependent parents of such soldier, sailor or marine, who may be found to be in the state of dependence described in the first section, shall be entitled to a pension.

Trains on the Northern Pacific railroad were recently detained between Willows and Aikalt, Ore., by a sandstorm. The wind blew so hard that the locomotive headlight and lights in lanterns carried by the train hands were extinguished, and sand drifted upon the tracks faster than it could be shoveled off. The only way the trains were got through was by shoveling the sand from the track and pushing ahead foot by foot, the sand closing in behind the cars as fast as they were moved on.

Announcement.

To the Citizens of Brainerd.

As many of my friends have inquired of me if I were a candidate for re-election to the office of Municipal Judge at the coming election, I feel called upon to make this statement:

The compensation of the municipal judge has recently been reduced to one thousand dollars a year. This sum is not consider sufficient compensation for the performance of the duties of the office as they should be performed. During the past four years I have been the police magistrate of this city, and during that time I have carefully refrained from engaging in any business which might conflict with the duties of my position, and especially have I abstained from practicing law, for I believe it to be improper for a person to hold a judicial office and at the same time practice law. I have made my living solely out of my office, to which I have given all of my time. I could not afford to do this at the salary as now prescribed. I therefore announce that I am not a candidate for re-election this spring, but shall resume the practice of my profession at the expiration of my present term of office. J. D. Douglas.

A Pleasant Affair.

The annual reunion of the Brainerd City Band was a very pleasant affair taking place at Mr. Wm. Dressell's Tuesday evening. The guests present were Mrs. J. A. Davis, Mrs. F. L. Matteson, Mrs. L. D. Matteson, Mrs. O. H. Reynolds, Mrs. A. L. Nutting and Miss Jackson. The members of the band present were J. A. Davis, F. L. Matteson, L. D. Matteson, O. H. Reynolds, A. L. Nutting, C. B. Thompson, G. D. La Barr, S. S. Huntley, J. W. Porter, Joseph Kiebler, Jule Kiebler, P. Doty, P. Mertz, John Ostrem, Wm. Bartsch, W. A. Nichols and Julius Dewar. An elegant present in the shape of a silver water pitcher and drinking cup, appropriately engraved, had been procured by the band members for their leader, Mr. Dressell, and was presented to him in the course of the evening. Dancing and game were indulged in, and everyone went home feeling the better for having "been there." The following speech was delivered by J. W. Porter on behalf of the band boys:

"I am instructed to address you on behalf of the Band this evening. As this address is entirely unexpected on my part, I hope you will pardon my omissions, and accept the will for the deed. Looking back over the four years of your association with this Band, as its leader, we realize that we have experienced the usual vicissitudes of band life. We have basked in the sunshine of prosperity, and have felt a few blasts from the chill winds of adversity. But all this time our Band has been going steadily onward and upward, until it now occupies a place second to none in the state of Minnesota. It is very gratifying to us to reflect that during all this time our association and intercourse has been characterized by the most perfect good will and harmony between our members and our leader. It cannot be denied that this has been contributed to and promoted by your own individual efforts, to a great extent. We have found in you everything that could be desired as a teacher, a gentleman in every respect and a kind friend. It is unnecessary for us to indulge in any verbose eulogiums, but we desire to give a more tangible expression to our sentiments. The band extend to you and to Mrs. Dressell its sincerest wishes for a long life of happiness and prosperity, and in token thereof they ask that you accept from them this as a mark of their esteem."

Mrs. Hallet returned home from Maine last week.

There is a sort of an epizootic prevailing among the people of this vicinity.

Mr. Mackay's house burned down last Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Mackay were both absent at the time the fire originated and the only occupants were four children, the oldest being ten years of age. The blaze originated from a stove pipe up stairs and when discovered the whole upper part of the house was in flames and nothing was saved except an organ and a few small articles. The provisions that were in the cellar and everything up stairs was consumed. A little girl two years old was frozen quite badly while being carried to one of the neighbors and it is thought the little thing will have to suffer the amputation of both hands at the wrist. A subscription was immediately started by W. H. Benson and we are informed that the citizens are responding warmly. MAX.

Three Traditions.

The custom of observing Feb. 14 as St. Valentine's day has its derivation from three traditions. Wheatley says that St. Valentine was a man of most admirable parts, and so famous for his love and charity, that the custom of choosing valentines upon his festival took its rise from thence. Others derive the custom from lots being supposed to select their mates on that day; others from a practice prevalent in ancient Rome at the festival of the Especatia, during the month of February, when among other ceremonies the names of young women were placed in a box from which they were taken by young men as chance directed. The pastors of the early churches, finding it impossible to extirpate this pagan ceremony changed its form. It was the custom in the eve of February 14, St. Valentine's day to have the names of a select number of one sex put in the same vessel by an equal number and thereupon everyone draw a name, which for the ensuing year was called his or her Valentine. The custom of choosing valentines existed very early. Presents of gloves, garters and jewelry were common as valentines.

The Cass County Slice.

Globe: Senate File No. 211—a bill for an act to detach territory from Cass county and attach the same to Crow Wing county, was read in the house. Mr. Lum moved for a suspension of the rules and that it be put on its passage. Mr. Baker objected, and stated that he had just received a telegram from citizens of Cass county protesting against the passage of the proposed bill. They did not want to be attached to Crow Wing county. Mr. Lum contended that he had consulted the leading and representative citizens of Crow Wing of the territory affected and they were anxious for the change. Mr. Baker insisted that the telegram he had received proved to the contrary, and he asked the house not to pass the bill. Some member asked that the representative of Cass county explain the matter, but Mr. Knox was out of his seat and did not appear until after the matter had been settled. The roll was called on a suspension of the rules and Mr. Lum made an active canvass among the members to secure their votes, but the motion failed to get the requisite two vote standing 45 to 15. A number of members asked to be excused from voting. The bill was afterwards committed to the committee on towns and counties for further consideration.

A Pleasant Affair.

A number of the young men of the city have for some time been considering the advisability of organizing a Young Men's Christian Association. The pastors of the churches are in full sympathy with the movement. A correspondence was commenced with Mr. Williams secretary of the association last summer, but the State secretary was unable, owing to the pressure of work to visit the city at that time. Mr. H. F. Williams, state secretary of the association in Minnesota and Dakota, was in the city Wednesday and met with a number of the young men in the evening. After thorough consideration a temporary organization with Mr. C. H. Craig as chairman, was perfected. If sufficient encouragement is given, the association will open pleasant rooms, consisting of a first-class reading room, social parlor, etc. The rooms will be centrally located. In connection with the work there will be lectures, socials, receptions, and informal religious services. Any young man of good moral character may become a member. Mr. Williams reports the cause as very prosperous in St. Paul. St. Paul and Minneapolis are each raising $100,000 for fine buildings. Fargo has a building and is doing good work. There are about 1,200 associations in the United States and Canada. The railway department is very strongly endorsed by such men as Messrs. Harris, Dr. Paw, Cornelius Vanderbilt and others. Brainerd should have a well sustained association, and the young men are to be congratulated on the beginning of a work which will be a credit to our city.

The Minneapolis Tribune says that the time and money spent and expended in part of last evening in hearing arguments concerning an extension which is asked by the Duluth & Winnipeg Railroad Company, of time in which to build their line. The grant reverts to the St. Paul, Brainerd & Crookston line under an act passed two years ago, if the line is not built by July next. The Duluth and Winnipeg people want a couple of years more in which to build their line. No conclusion was reached. The morbid crisible fight of two years ago promises to be repeated.

The county officials of Aitkin county, consisting of Auditor Luther, Treasurer Graves, Register Williams and R. L. Lowell, chairman of the board of commissioners, were in Brainerd Tuesday gathering the records of Itasca county together to take to Aitkin, Itasca county having been attached to their county for judicial purposes.

Everything is Lovely.

The order of Judge Mills dissolving the injunction which had been placed on the $50,000 warrants issued by the Attorney Fernald last Friday afternoon after the DISPATCH had gone to press, was very pleasant news to the people of this city. The following memorials which accompanied the order will be of interests to our readers:

It is conceded that the bonds were properly issued, and I can find nothing irregular in their sale, much less any conspiracy. It is quite common in issuing county and city bonds in this part of the state to have a purchaser in view before the same are issued, and there is nothing unusual in competing the sale on the day of the issue of the bonds, and six per cent bonds of northern counties sold at par are generally considered well sold. The act of 1885 authorized the bonding of her county, and fixed the location of the bridge, and the amendatory act of 1887 allows the change of the location and specifies and confirms the proceedings already had. I can see no constitutional objection to the amendatory act. The title shows just what act it intended to amend, and there can be no doubt of the authority of the legislature to amend it so as to change the location of this bridge, and the insertion of a provision legalizing the proceedings had under the former act is not objectionable. They were already legal, and under the law as it stood the commissioners undoubtedly had a right to contract for building a bridge, and had so contracted with the defendant, the Mississippi Water Power and Boom company, a corporation organized under the general laws of this state. But it is urged that this corporation had no right to enter into this contract, and the contract on its part was ultra vires. This contract had been made and fully completed so far as the county of Crow Wing is concerned, and this corporation has received the benefit thereof, and where a private corporation has entered into a contract with a third party, which has been fully performed by the third party, and the corporation has received the benefits thereof, the corporation will be held bound by its contract, even if in the first instance it was ultra vires.

State Board of Agriculture vs. Citizens' Street Railway Co., 47 Ind. 407; San Francisco Gas Co. vs. San Francisco, 9 Cal. 453.

The question of ultra vires is generally raised by corporations in the defense of actions in contracts, or in a direct action by the corporation to annul the contract. In the latter case, where the corporation has received money or property as a result of the contract, the courts have uniformly required an accounting before relieving the corporation from the contract. But this action is not brought to annul this contract. Even if the plaintiff should succeed, it would leave the contract in full force. From a careful examination of the contract and answer, I find that all the equities alleged in the complaint are fully met and denied in the answer, and in such case the general rule is the injunction should be dissolved, and there is nothing in the case why an exception should be made to the rule.
