NOTICE.
Owing to the high price of barley, the beer brewers have found it necessary to raise the price of beer two dollars per barrel; and the retail dealers find it unprofitable to sell beer at a less sum than ten cents per glass, and accordingly raise the price to ten cents per glass, to take effect on and after Monday, the 11th day of May, 1874.

A DIFFERENT FACE.

A week or so ago, there being a sort of hitch in our public school progress and prospects, we picked upon two or three persons we thought most likely to be able to give us correct information about the standing of our county and district as to resources present and prospective. After careful inquiry, we published an article embracing the exact sense of the information obtained, and, as will be remembered by our readers, it was a "blue" prospect, to say the very least of it. No money, no resources, and no liklihood of any. Of course, a gloom was cast over the community, at the poor prospect for education, and no one regretted the fact more than ourself—because of the scores of bright children in the city whose parents were illy able to send them to private schools. Our astonishment at the time, ("that the State Legislature of 1873 had passed a law doing away with the right of counties to levy a special tax to keep up schools, without making a provision in some other manner to replace the ability of counties, thus taken from them, to provide a school fund.") was very great, and has been ever since. But before we nave had time or opportunity to look up the law in reference to the whole matter for ourself, County Auditor Goulet has come to the relief and enlightenment of us all on this point, and from him we learn that there is now in the County Treasurer's hands, in cash, for school purposes—instead of nothing at all—something over eight hundred dollars. This fund arose principally from the regular two mill school tax, which the law allows each county to levy annually (under the present law, in lieu of the Legislature having done away with the special taxes which was in vogue previous to 1873) for the support of schools in the counties where levied. It seems under the old law, this two mill levy went bodily to the State. But since the law was changed, this fund has been turned over to the counties. Here is doubtless where our informants who dictated our first article made their mistake; they thought this regular two mill school tax still went to the State, doubtless, as it had always done before, and were ignorant of the fact that it had been given to the counties to take the place of the former mode of a special levy for the support of schools. Hence, after the law and facts have been looked up, we find our District in good shape for a school fund, and the School Board will doubtless bestir themselves accordingly. With well up to nine hundred dollars to start with, the Board will doubtless give our people two terms of school in quick succession, now, and possibly three terms—all of which will prove a great blessing. And we believe, with economical management, the Board can grant at least nine months of public school hereafter, which, with her private schools, will place Brainerd in the foremost rank in the line of all ordinary advantages for education.

CONGRESSIONAL CALENDAR.

John T. Averill: Last quarter; partial eclipse east of Chicago—total in the New Northwest; star sets in November.

William King: No eclipse visible as yet, and the best read political astronomers can't see that there will be any this year, after thorough investigation from the top of the highest tree. During November next his sun, it is supposed, will stand at meridian hight, shining successfuly from out a cloudless sky; first quarter—new moon—"dry."

Wm. R. Marshall: "Observations" made by himself; no sun, no moon, this year; cloudy from choice; the astronomer refuses to investigate outside of a total eclipse; moon full, and sun all right, but can't be observed through his horn, or telescope—'cause he won't take off the cap off.

C. H. Graves: Moon rises partially clear, but coming up out of the waters of the Lake, it is too thin; the goddess is short on the south side, and the other is too far north of the Congressional track; rain and fog most all the time this year; he is at the "Zenith" himself, but the political sun will remain much south of the zenith this season, we reckon, and will not be on it in time to be noted in this year's almanac.

C. B. Sleeper: Dark; observations very imperfect on account of the woods; little prospect of getting clearer than it is now; woods and too much north is the fault; only a partial eclipse in this section, but awfully total to the south half of the state—because of the northern position of the sun, and things; no star this year, or if so, will probably be too long under a cloud to be clawed out in time to shine for the almanac for 1874.

BEALE & PETERSON requests the scores of people hereabouts, who owes them little bills, to call at the Captain's office and settle, and then they will be able to liquidate any of their little debts.

"AMOOSING."—It is decidedly amoosin' to read the Audubon Journal, on "Ball" and then take up the Detroit Record and read it on the subject of "Wall"—these being the names, respectively, of the editors of those papers. We say it is pleasing; we mean for an issue or two only. They have got along to calling one another simpletons, lunatics, natural borns, thorough-bred fools, etc., and so far as this goes it is harmless; we hope no further degree of pesonal denunciation will develop itself—as is the case between certain other journals on the Line, much to their own discredit—and then all will be well enough, for a newspaper fight, and their squibs will only be classified under the head of "Funnygrams." Whatever may be their newspaper opinion of each other we would here state, for the information of the people at large, who may not be able to arrive at a conclusion by reading those two papers, that neither Ball nor Wall are fools, by a long shot—but quite the reverse—and that neither Wall nor Ball are crazy, or in any degree "luny;" further, Ball is a good fellow, socially and every other way, and ditto Wall; Wall runs a sharp, able, newsy paper, and so does Ball, and outside their unpleasant "remarks" one to the other through their columns, their papers are a great credit to the promising locality they each represent.

And why it is that Ball and Wall
Must everlastin'ly pull and haul,
(First Ball, then Wall, then Wall, next Ball.)
Is just what "knocks us," endwise,—all.

It beats a pig when under the fence—
Discounts a baby just a'rter a "fall"
Ball and Wall, then Wall and Ball—
Why, it scoops a first-class caterwaul.

ON coming into our sanctum the other day, we beheld an individual—a burly looking monster—seated at our table, very intently writing, and a scowl on his scraggy face that made his eyebrows overlap his nose; before him, and right at hand, lay two cocked revolvers, both loaded to the brim; so intent was he upon what he was trying to express in writing, that he did not notice cur entrance. After taking in the situation of things in our office, we quietly withdrew unnoticed, and put in the afternoon in upper town, ostensibly trying to get all the subscribers we possibly could, and thinking over the condition of the TRIBUNE office, as we last saw it, and wondering what such a looking crusader as that wanted with us. In the evening we entered the composing room through a back window and asked the boys if their health was good—if the evening wasn't very pleasant—if they thought we would have some more rain soon—and if anybody had been in during our absence to subscribe, or anything. They said a man had been in to see us, and left a note on the table for us. That note read as follows:

"MR. EDITOR.—I have taken the contract to kill off all the editors on the Northern Pacific Railroad who voted at their late convention in favor of paying off the old Railroad Bonds—and you bet I'm just the rooster as can do that same. I have gone west to "see" the others, and will be back in a few days—you old scumnullian."

Signed,
A GRANGER HI-MUCK-A-MUCK.

It is needless to add that we are "packing our trunk."

ANOTHER CHANGE.—As will be noticed by their new adventisement, Mr. McFadden, who has so long been the popular clerk at the postoffice and drug store, has bought an interest with Mr. Sherwood in the Brainerd Drug Store. Mr. McFadden is deservedly a very popular young gentleman, and a finished druggist; the firm of Sherwood & McFadden will certainly prove a strong one and a popular one.

A LONG JOURNEY.—Our fellow citizens, B. L. Perry, Esq., who holds the position in the Masonic fraternity of R. W. D. D. G. M., has gone, by order of the Grand Master, to Fort Buford—several hundred miles above Bismarck, on the Missouri River—to straighten out, or "square" the affairs of the lodge at that militay post, install its officers, etc. He will be gone a month.

SAD CATASTROPHE.—A reservoir near Haydenville, Mass., burst on Saturday last, inundating three villages, by which one hundred lives and a million of property were lost. Reservoirs ought to be "hooped tighter"—a big hill on all four sides is the least thing that ought to be trusted.

LATER AND WORSE.—Nearly 200 persons lost their lives, and 5,000 people are sufferers by losing their all. $1,000,000 worth of property has been swept away. Eighty of the survivors have become insane. The calamity is one of the most awful we ever read of. The minute details of this terrible disaster will be given in our next issue, by which time full particulars can be accurately arrived at.

THE "boys," that is the editorial brethren, who were here a few days ago, send us their papers teeming with praises of our citizens for attentions paid them while they were our city's guests; they every one have fallen in love with our beautiful little City of the Pines, and all talk of removing hither to live; from present indication they will all be here very soon, and then Brainerd can boast nine red-hot newspapers, to begin with. Wouldn't there be a sort of warmish time though in the way of newspaper jars? Guess not. We are sorry our limited space forbids our copying extensively from the generous articles of the editors on the subject of their visit to Brainerd.

THERE will be an important meeting of the Base Ball Club this evening at the Reading Room, at 8 1-2 o'clock sharp. The new uniform will be exhibited, and the day fixed for a return match with the Fort Ripley boys. It is desired that all the members should attend.

The ladies of Brainerd who are interested in the success of the Base Ball Club are respectfully requested to meet in the Reading Room at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, to listen to a committee from the Club, and take such action as the occasion requires. Whatever the ladies assist is an assured success.

It will be remembered, that in the winter the Forest and Stream Sporting Club was organized, with Col. R. M. Newport, President, Rev. E. S. Williams, Vice President, and Thos. P. Cantwell, Secretary and Treasurer. At a recent enthusiastic meeting of the members of this Club, funds were liberally subscribed to secure a suitable outfit for the purpose of organization, and every indication manifested to make the project an assured success. We shall have occasion to refer again to the progress and achievements of this excellent Association.

COL. STEVENS FOR CONGRESS.

A correspondent writing from Buffalo, Wright County, to the Pioneer, says:

"In answer to the paragraph in your issue of Wednesday, copied from the Brainerd Tribune, in relation to several of the papers in this Congressional district, forcing Col. Stevens, of Minneapolis, to be a candidate for Congress this fall, I wish to say that the farmers through this and adjoining counties are unanimously for him in preference to any other man. He has always been their best and truest friend, and now if he wants our votes for any public office, we will give them to him. I am and always have been a republican, but when such men as Col. Stevens are up for office, it is my duty and my privilege to support them."

Now, we say again: Col. Stevens is too useful a man in other "fields," and too good a friend of ours, personally, to have him slaughtered on the losing side for Congress. Besides, he assured us the other day, in our own office, that he would not accept of a nomination for Congress under any consideration, as he had too many things else, of more importance, to look after, for the present. If the Grangers must run Col. Stevens for some office, let them wait patiently, and put him on the track for next Governor. The Colonel would make a much better Governor than he would Congressman.

APPOINTED.—Mr. Eber H. Bly having resinged the County Treasurership, the County Commissioners at their last meeting appointed Mr. F. M. Roser to the vacancy. This is an excellent appointment, and one that we believe gives universal satisfaction. Mr. Roser will, for the present at least, have his office at Mr. A. A. White's wood and lumber office, Front street, east of Bly's Store.

SOMEBODY has stolen the pole, or tongue, of Rev. E. S. Williams' buggy, as it appears. Well, well! any man who would steal a buggy-tongue—a minister's tongue at that—would lay in the fence-corner and rob school children of their dinner. Put 'im out!

The man was seen by several, carrying that buggy-pole along the street. So, he had better tote it right back again, or there'll be a row, sure.

THE Moorhead Star has been enlarged to a seven-column paper, and presents a fine, business appearance. When the Star gets to be a quarto weekly, and a bright daily, by means of its merited success, it Will Be Nice, Most Surely.

WE propose to "improve" on running a hand car—when you have twenty miles to go on one—by staying at home till some time after the thing has gone.

THE children of St. Paul's Parish and their parents and friends, are cordially invited to meet at the Parish School House, on Tuesday, May 26th, at 10 o'clock, for a basket picnic.

THE series of union meetings held at Bly's Hall every evening this week, under the leadership of Rev. Cadwallader, assisted by Revs. John Squire, E. S. Williams, and H. J. Crist, have been largely and enthusiastically attended, and several converts to Christianity have been secured.

"Knock and it shall be opened."
"Seek and ye shall find."
"Seek first the Kingdom of God and its righteousness, and all things shall be added unto you."
"Now is the accepted time; now is the day of salvation."

WHERE IS IT?—We hear a great complaint that there is no regulation whereby, if any one dies in this community, the remains may be interred in our cemetary without a deal of trouble to find any one who knows anything about how or where in the cemetary to go about it. An Association was formed a year ago, Mr. Canfield deeded them the ground, it has since been fenced up and surveyed off, we understand, by Mr. Canfield or his agent, but yet the Association seems to be a dead institution. We hope they will wake up, and have some regulation about this cemetary business. Their indolence heretofore may be partially excused, however, because of the very few deaths which occur in this section. But still, we hope the Cemetary Association will wake up!

P. S.—It is barely possible we, ourself, may be a member of the above Association; if so, we take back any seemingly harsh words in the above item.

To persons about to marry, the following stanza upon the signification of the days of the week may prove of service:

Monday for wealth,
Tuesday for health,
Wednesday the best day of all!
Thursday for crosses,
Friday for losses,
Saturday no luck at all.

THEY say Mrs. General Sickles is the most beautiful woman now sojourning in Paris. It must be that she "washes well," and "don't fade"—we have heard of her in the same sense for the past thirty years, or less.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—Rev. Mr. Cadwallader will preach in Bly's Hall, on Sunday morning at 10 1-2 o'clock, and in the evening at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited. The Sunday schools will meet at the usual hours and places.

IF some of the editors on this Line don't quit their everlasting goin' for one another, the next time we get them together we shall "buck" them across a salt barrel and try what virtue there is in a four-foot clapboard, and things. Why, after so pleasant a reunion as we had a few days ago, and then the moment they get out from under our paternal care, to go to raising the devil so with each other's ducks, is ridiculous—the thing is absolutely preposterous!

CEDAR.—We were talking with our good friend, F. X. Goulet, Esq., the the other day about how long red cedar timber would last. Our most remarkable observations in regard to cedar were sadly outdone by Mr. G. stating that on his father's old farm home near Quebec, Canada, there were cedar rails yet in the fences, in a tolerable state of preservation—though worn down to one-third their original size by the elements—that his great grand father put into the fence ninety-seven years ago.

REMOVED.—J. L. Starcher has got home once more and has again opened out his Family Grocery store at his old stand on Laurel street. He has an A No. 1 stock, and invites all his former friends and customers to call and see him at his old quarters. Groceries, produce, vegetables, fruits, and fine old wines and liquors.

GOING AWAY.—We are sorry to learn of the intended departure of W. A. Peterson, Esq., from our midst, to go to Winnepeg, Manitoba, to locate. "Swede Pete," as he, is familiarly known, is one of our most useful citizens. He and Mr. Beale have kept a gun shop and general repair headquarters on Fifth street for the past year or so. Pete can make or repair anything from the Great Eastern down to the point of a streak of daylight, in the way of mechanics, and can paint, hang paper, do any piece of wood work, from the side of a house to a gimlet handle—his inventive and mechanical genius is almost wonderful; and we had hoped to always number friend Peterson as one of us—and hope yet he may some time return, when times brighten up a little more here. Everything hereafter that has any friction in Brainerd, will become a total wreck, we fear, just because Pete will not be here to fix the tarnal thing—Everything will wear clean out, and bust up entirely. Success to him, however whe'er he goes.

THE EDITORIAL VISIT.

As a fair specimen of the very many grand things our recent visitors, the editors, have said about Brainerd and her citizens since that event, we give the following, from the Duluth Tribune—which is not so long but that it will come into our space. The Tribune says:

"The meeting of the N. P. editors at Brainerd last Thursday was an exceedingly pleasant affair. All the editors in Duluth and all those along the line of the N. P. Road were present, except Col. Lounsberry, of the Bismarck Tribune, who did not arrive until Friday morning. A full report of the proceedings of the convention will be found in our supplement, which has been furnished us by that prince of good fellows, the editor of the Brainerd Tribune, and hence it is not necessary for us to speak in detail of the convention itself.

We desire to say, however, that all the editors were delighted with their visit to the beautiful little city of Brainerd, and that they will long and pleasantly remember the large-hearted hospitality of her people. When we went to Brainerd, we supposed that we would simply meet our brother editors there in an informal sort of a way, exchange jokes with them, and have a quiet sort of a "loaf" 'round town for a day of so; but instead of that, we found, when arriving there, that the most extensive preparations had been made, and a lengthy programme laid out, both by the railroad officials and the citizens generally, for our entertainment. A heavy rain prevented some portions of the programme from being carried out, but still our brethren of the press were given the freedom of the city, and invited here and there, and a fine and elegant supper and ball were gotten up for them at Bly's Hall on Thursday evening.

The people of Brainerd are an intelligent, wide-awake and whole-souled sort of people, and, in return for their pains-taking efforts to make the recent visit of the editors there, a pleasant one, if, in the future, they want anything from the editors along the line of the N. P Road, all they will have to do, will be to draw on us, at sight, and their drafts will be duly honored."

PERSONAL.—Serg't F. W. Bryant, of Fort Ripley, made us a pleasant call this morning. He is a pleasant, accomplished gentleman; an old soldier, and a chat with him touching upon various subjects, proved most agreeable and profitable. This is the first "military call" we have had in fifteen years of editorial life—excepting the one we received in 1861, for "three years or during the war"—and so long as they are made in the same spirit as that of Serg't Bryant, and not as Col. Bates made his "military call" on Nickles, of the Moorhead Star, why, they will be most enjoyable, to say the least.

CRANBERRY CULTURE AT WADENA.

WADENA, MINN., May 20th, 1874.

Editor Brainerd Tribune:

SIR—It gives me much pleasure to be able to record the fact that this most lucrative branch of industry is about to be opened up under good auspices here.

Some three weeks ago a number of the most influential citizens of our town met together to hear what encouragement the Rev. J. E. Wood, of Detroit, could give them on the subject of starting a cranberry marsh in the neighborhood. Mr. Wood's name is so well known in connection with raising this fruit, that it is quite unnecessary for me to give him an introduction to your readers. Suffice it to say, that after listening to that gentleman's information and observations on the practicability of the scheme, and a thorough ventilation of the subject, the meeting came to the conclusion to organize a corporation for the purpose of raising cranberries. A piece of bottom land was secured within a mile of town, and, from its natural advantages, and Mr. Wood's experience, (he having consented to take the management of the bog,) a great success is confidently expected. Mr. C. B. Jordan occupies the Presidential chair of the Board of Directors, and it is felt that his practical common sense and energy will benefit the company not a little.

The Association commences with a capital stock of $20,000, in 400 shares of $50 each, a large number of which were subscribed for on the night of formation, and a limited number are to be placed on the St. Paul market.

Bearing in mind the various productions of Mr. Wood's pen on this subject that appeared in the papers during the past winter, it seems superfluous on my part to say anything on the mode of successfully running a cranberry bog, but I may state that Mr. Wood has been engaged in several enterprises of this kind, and in every instance they turned out most remunerative, in one instance, at least, realizing five or six hundred per cent. Perhaps there is no place in the United States where better (and in very few instances as good) facilities for establishing a bog are offered, than in the vicinity of Wadena, and the site selected by this company is one of the choicest spots on the various surrounding bottoms. It is situated on a branch of Union Creek, the course of the stream, and position of one or two beaver dams, rendering the construction of artificial dams, &c., comparatively inexpensive.

This enterprise manifests considerable business pluck and spirit in Wadena, and it is with the utmost confidence a most prosperous future is looked for, for the "Minnesota Cranberry Association."

Truly yours. GO AHEAD.

CAMO has one cow less. She was kicked to death by pretty little Mrs. Starks.

THE NEWS.

The Financial Veto.

The following tables are given as indicating public opinion in the west, as reflected by the press, of the President's veto of the financial bill:

	Sustain the veto.	Oppose the veto.	Neutral
Illinois	129	117	9
Indiana	47	77	..
Michigan	82	25	..
Wisconsin	79	26	1
Minnesota	42	7	..
Iowa	80	64	..
Missouri	26	58	..
Kansas	20	26	..
Nebraska	9	8	1
Total	514	408	11

A further classification by politics shows that parties are divided in about equal ratio, thus:

	Sustain the veto.	Oppose the veto.
Republican	295	234
Democratic	128	112
Independent	91	62
Total	514	408

The Flood.

The following as a summary of the situation in the overflowed districts of the South: At present it is impossible to definitely assess the damage resulting from the inundation, but it is said that $30,000,000 will not be an extravagant estimate. This includes crops chattels, and all losses. It may be reduced should the waters recede in time for a cotton crop, but the chances for sugar and rice are slim. The Teche country, rich in sugar, gives no hope, for there is no prospect for an abatement within a month. Louisiana gives but little promise of anything but cotton, upon which there will be a loss of 250,000 bales, but this will not so affect the planter as the consumer, who will be compelled to pay higher prices. Details of human suffering show that people are living in their garrets and are subsisting on drowned and starved stock. In some instances people are living thirty miles from dry land The water is falling slowly, but until it has gone down, and a feeling of safety induce correspondents to find out, no definite estimate of the loss of life can be made.

Crimes and Accidents.

The French National Assembly met at Versailles, May 12.

McArthur's four story brick block on Main street, above Eagle, in Buffalo, fell recently, crushing in an adjoining two story block. A daughter of the janitor, Frank Nagle, 5 years old, was instantly killed; also a son of Prof. Bucham, Professor of the State Normal School, 14 years of age. Mrs. Buckham had a leg broken, and was severely bruised. Emma G. Morse, 14 years old, had her left arm torn off and her skull fractured. There were many narrow escapes, some thirty persons being in the building when it fell. Loss estimated at $50,000.

The Standard office at Schuylerville, N. Y., was recently entered in the night and completely wrecked, by persons not liking its course in opposition to the liquor trafic.

Of the six Danish convicts who arrived in this country recently, five were returned in the ship which brought them, and the sixth escaped.

The East.

The Lourdes pilgrims departed by steamer from New York, May 16.

Fire has been raging through the woods on Long Island. It is estimated that from 10,000 to 15,000 acres of timber land have been burned over, consuming large quantities of cut wood, several buildings and miles of fences. Total loss thus far is roughly estimated at $200,000.

The estate of Oakes Ames proves to be insolvent. But it is believed that with sufficient time to realize from investments, the estate will be able to pay nearly or quite in full.

The Massachusetts legislature has taken no definite action on the woman's suffrage and license laws, and they go ever till next session.

Dr. Brown-Sequard delivered a lecture in Boston recently on the disease of Sumner. The Doctor finds the origin of the Senator's death in the assault committed by Brooks.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that the Grand Duke Nicholas, brother of the Czar, has been arrested, but on what charge is not made known. His house was searched by the police. There is great excitement in consequence of the arrest.

Twilight Dreams.

They come in the quiet twilight hour,
When the weary day is done,
And the quick light leaps from the glowing heaps
Of wood on the warm hearth-stone.

When the household sounds have died away
And the rooms are silent all,
Save the clock's brief tick and the sudden click
Of the embers as they fall;

They come—those dreams of the twilight hour—
To me, with their noiseless tread,
A tearful band, by the guiding hand
Of a graveyard spirit led.

There is no voice within the hall,
No footstep on the floor,
The children's laughter is hushed, there is
No hand at the parlor door,

Like fingers tapping eagerly
Against the shuttered frame,
Where the trailing rose its long branch throws,
Beat the great drops of rain.

But my heart heeds not the rustling leaves,
Nor the rain-fall's fitful beat,
Nor the wind's low sigh, as it hurries by
On its pauseless path and fleet;

For now in the dusk, they gather round,
The visions of the past,
Arising slow, in the dim red glow,
By the burning pine brands cast.

My brow is calmed, as with the touch
Of an angel's passing wing;
They breathe no word, yet my soul is stirred
By the messages they bring.

Some in their grasp impalpable
Bear Eden-cultured flowers,
That sprang in gloom from the tear-bathed tomb
Of hope's long buried hours.

Some from the fount of memory,
Lasting, and pure, and deep,
Bring waters clear, though many a year
Hath saddened their first fresh sweep;

And some in their hands of shadow bear,
From the shrine of prayerful thought,
A fragrance blest to the stricken breast,
With balm and healing fraught.

The night wears on, the hearth burns low,
The dreams have passed away;
But heart and brow are strengthened now
For the toil of coming day.

JOHN'S CHOICE.

Peter Jansen was a wealthy and eccentric New England farmer, the owner in fee simple of many broad and fertile acres of available land, and the proud parent of a promising son, now near grown, who in his infancy had been designated by the not altogether unheard of name of John.

Now, John Jansen had been brought up in a very careful and proper manner, and it was therefore not to be wondered at that as he grew more mature, he was regarded as a very exemplary young man by those who knew him intimately. He was sober and industrious in his habits, cultivated and refined in his tastes, with a disposition to get along and prosper in the world, as his father had done before him.

But the time came when he was one and twenty. This is a remarkable episode in the lives of most young men, when fully freed from parental restraint by the construction of the law, they think they know so much, and subsequently learn that they really know so little.

Now, possibly, Peter regarded this event in his son's life with as great concern as did John, for certain it is, that shortly thereafter he summoned the young man into his presence for private conversation.

"Well, John," he said, "how does it seem to be twenty-one?"

"Seem! why I can't see as it seems any different from any other time."

"Can't eh? Oh well, you'll see quick enough, I guess. I suppose the next thing you'll be thinking of will be getting married."

"Oh, I hadn't thought of such a thing yet in earnest."

"Hadn't, eh? Well, you'd better be thinking; getting married is about as important a thing as'll ever happen to you."

"Yes, I suppose so."

"Suppose so? suppose so? you'll know so by and by. Well, John, you are old enough to begin to think seriously about this matter. I ain't going to have you running around unsettled and unsteady in your habits and character. Now, the quicker you pick out a wife and settle down the better. Mind you, my boy, this wasting three or four of the best years of your life in sowing your wild oats, is a very foolish principle for a young man to adhere to. Now, I don't propose to have you do anything of the kind, and if you avoid it you won't have a harvest of briars and thistles to gather in afterward. Now, just as soon as you will pick yourself out a good, prudent and industrious little wife, I've a good farm to give you, and enough to set you up in reasonable style."

"Yes, sir."

"But not an acre or a penny of mine shall you possess until you have complied with my wishes."

"But, father——"

"I mean what I say, exactly, and no more; make this matter your first business, and when you have performed your part of the contract, I will attend to mine."

"But this is rather sudden."

"That makes no difference; if you are not satisfied with my terms, the world is wide enough for both of us; you are big enough and bright enough to earn your own living; if you can do better by yourself than I can do by you, why, start right out in the world, for you are of age. I have stated my terms, and do not propose to alter them."

"But who shall I marry?"

"There's Israel Ive's five daughters, and I'm certain you can have your pick out of the lot. They've all been well brought up, and any one of them is good enough for you, so go ahead, and as soon as you report favorably the farm is yours."

"But which one shall I take, father?"

"Which one shall you take?" repeated Peter Jansen; "It must be a bright man, surely, that cannot decide at sight what woman to pick out of a dozen, and a singular youth you are not to have your eye on one already. However, make your own choice, and you'll be happier, live longer, and prosper better in your domestic affairs generally."

With these concluding remarks the fond father turned away, and John was left alone to his reflections.

Now, John Jansen was not a verdant young man; he had seen considerable of the world for a person of his age and circumstances, but he was very diffident and bashful. It was this quality of his disposition that made him so adverse to ladies' society, and had occasioned no little anxiety to old Peter, who had already begun to fear that John would be a confirmed bachelor, hence his desire to kindly assist John's matrimonial matters along.

For some moments after his father's exit, John sat profoundly thinking; he believed he did have an inexpressible sort of tenderness for the youngest daughter of Israel Ives. If not strictly beautiful, she was at least a very sensible girl, and would make a practical housekeeper. John had but little sentiment in his composition; his tastes were more matter-of-fact. The more John thought of matrimony, the more fixed became his determination of committing himself as soon as possible.

A night or so subsequent to the conversation with his father, it was noticed that he attired himself with unusual care before going out, as he insisted, to attend the "debating society." His father and mother regarded each other significantly, as if they well understood what was uppermost in John's mind, but they gave the young man no intimation that they suspected his intentions.

After a last lingering glance at the looking-glass, John started forth into the darkness, taking the shortest road possible to the residence of Israel Ives.

He soon came to the place he intended visiting. A bright light gleamed out through the front windows, with welcoming beams, and he fancied he could see smiling faces there; yet his heart thumped so very singularly under his satan shining vest that it was several minutes before he could make up his mind to knock at the door; he walked up and down the road past the place several times, to calm himself, and to think over the words he proposed saying when in the presence of Miss Ives.

At last he turned in at the gate, and walking boldly up to the front door, he made his presence suddenly known to the Ives family by means of the friendly assistance of the heavy brass knocker.

Israel Ives came to the door with a flaring candle in his hand; he gave a sudden little start of surprise upon recognizing his visitor.

"Why, John," he said, "is this you?"

"Is Miss Ives at home?" said John, nervously, forgetting in his sudden embarrassment to designate the particular Miss Ives he wished to see.

"Certainly, certainly," replied Israel, smiling mischievously; "walk right into the parlor and sit down and she will come in presently."

Leaving his hat upon the rack in the hall, John did as he was bid; he sat down upon the outer edge of the chair and awaited the young lady's coming. He heard several suppressed giggles in the adjoining room, and a subdued suggestion upon the part of Israel that hey had best not act silly and foolish. Then the door opened and in sailed Miss Sophrony Ives, followed by Patience, Malvina, and Lucy Ives, each simultaneously smiling and trying to look as sweet and pretty as possible. They advanced one by one and gave John a greeting, after which they arranged themselves in a graceful group about him; then began the liveliest conversation John had ever listened to. He began to grow uneasy and lose his self-possession. This was rather more Miss Ives than he had anticipated meeting.

At last a sudden ide a occurred to him.

"Girls," he said, "do any of you play blind man's buff?"

The young ladies all suddenly giggled.

"Sometimes," said Miss Sophrony, with a sly glance at her sisters.

"Suppose we have a game, then," said John, earnestly.

Several handkerchiefs were simultaneously produced, and before John was aware he was in midnight darkness.

"But you must be blinded, too, Lucy," said Miss Malvina; "it always makes it livelier to have two, you know."

So Miss Lucy's sight was temporarily obscured in the same manner that John's had been.

Then the word "ready" was given, and without a word of warning, Sophrony, Patience, Priscilla, and Malvina noiselessly glided from the room.

For awhile John and Lucy groped innocently about them, each failing to find the objects they sought. At last John spoke:

"I say, where are you all?" he said, helplessly.

No answer came to his question from those he was seeking.

"John," said Lucy, "I believe they're all hiding."

Just at that moment the two approached each other with their hands extended, and they were each suddenly clasped in each other's arms. This was a sensation so new to John that it almost deprived him of articulation.

"Oh, is it you, John?" said Lucy; "I do believe they're fooling us."

She suddenly removed the bandage from her eyes, and the next moment John felt her deft little fingers untying the knot in the handkerchief that was bound about his head.

"Look a here, John," she said, in a half-provoked sort of way; "just see what a trick they've played upon us. I might have known what they were up to. Never mind, we'll have a real pleasant visit now."

They sat down side by side on the high-backed sofa, and Lucy talked so pleasantly and encouragingly to John that he soon felt perfectly at home. He was almost astonished at his self-possession. The minutes lengthened into hours, and—well, he never could fully explain how it was afterward, but the fact was, that Lucy promised him that she would be Mrs. John Jansen whenever he was ready to claim her as his own, and John went home that night very proud and happy, and on the following morning he informed his astonished father that any time that farm is ready, he would be ready to go to housekeeping.

Peter Jansen kept his word, and John was often subsequently heard to say that if it hadn't been for that friendly game of blind man's buff, he would hardly have known how to have made a choice.

The Magnetization of Glass.

An interesting paper in Poggendorf's Annalen, by Prof. Villari, treats of the time that flint glass takes to be magnetized, demagnetized, and to turn the plane of polarization. He rotated a glass cylinder between the poles of an electro-magnet, where it acted like a cylindrical lens with polarized light passing through the poles. When not magnetized, the cylinder, whether in motion or at rest, was neutral to the light; but when magnetized, its plane rotating power diminished considerably, with increasing velocity of rotation; the reason being that, in such quick revolution, each diameter remained too short a time in the axial direction to acquire all the magnetism it would otherwise have. To give flint glass such dis-magnetic intensity as became observable by rotation of the plane, required at least 1-800 of a second of time, while to give it all the dis-magnetism it is capable of taking under a strong magnet, at least 1-400 of a second was needed.

AWFUL DISASTER.

Four Massachusetts Villages Inundated by the Bursting of a Reservoir.

Two Hundred Persons Perish.

Great Destruction of Property.

Boston, May 16.—Three great water reservoirs, situated in Hampshire County, Western Massachusetts, along the line of the New Haven and Northampton Railroad, burst this morning, completely sweeping away the three manufacturing villages of Leeds, Haydenville and Williamsburg. Scarcely a building is left standing.

WHERE IT TOOK EFFECT.

The villages affected by the disaster are Williamsburg, Haydenville, Leeds and Florence, located on Mill River, a tributary to the Connecticut, running into the latter at Northampton.

The mills on the streams have all been carried away, and included brass-works, button-hole factories, silk and cotton mills, brush factories, agricultural implements and basket factories, etc.; besides, saw and grist mills.

THE GREAT RESERVOIR.

The great reservoir covered 150 acres of ground and had an average depth of thirty feet. It was drawn upon in dry time to supply the mills at Williamsburg, Haydenville and Florence.

ESTIMATES OF CAPITAL.

The manufacturing capital invested along the river, affected by this disaster, placing it at the lowest estimate, must be $5,000,000, and the immediate population suffering about 5,000. The population is almost wholly a manufacturing one, which has grown up around the dams.

At Skinnerville, the store of Hayden, Moore & Co., and Haydenville savings bank building, with the safe, were swept away. The safe contained $85,000 in money. E. M. Graves' store, E. Ames' store and several houses, Loomis Hotel, Hayden & Co.'s tobacco factory and two iron bridges were also swept away.

The total pecuniary loss by the disaster is estimated at nearly $2,000,000.

The following is a general estimate of losses by places: In Williamsburg—W. H. Avoness, flouring-mill swept away, $10,000; H. L. James, mill damaged and left without water-power, $20,000; houses, barns, etc., gone, $40,000.

At Skinnerville—Wm. Skinner's silk-factory and twelve tenement houses, destroyed, $30,000. Other houses and barns, $13,000.

At Haydenville—Hayden, Geer & Co.'s brass-works, savings bank buildings, and tenements swept away, $250,000. The Hayden Tobacco Company's mill carried off, $7,000. The Hayden foundry and machine works, damaged, $5,000. Other houses and stores, $30,000. Gasworks, $8,000.

At Leeds—Nantuck Silk Company dam broken and several buildings and houses carried away, $25,000. George P. Warner's button factory destroyed and three tenements, $100,000. Other houses, barns, etc., $20,000.

At Northampton—Emery Wheel Company, damage, $2,000.

At Florence the Florence Manufacturing Company's brush factory and damage to stock, $3,000; Wontuck Silk Company's mill partially torn away and stock damaged $8,000.

The latest figures of the loss of life by the calamity make the total 144, divided as follows among the three places: Williamsburg 70; Leeds 49; Haydenville 35. These figures only represent persons whose loss is positively known, though the bodies of all are not yet recovered.

Bodies are constantly being found, and in some cases those of persons who were not supposed to be lost, so that it seems perfectly safe to say that the total loss of life will exceed 120, if indeed it does not more nearly approach 200.

The gatekeeper of the reservoir says he has lived in constant expectation of a break, and has often called the attention of his superiors to its unsafe condition. The accident has caused great apprehension among the residents along the west branch of Mill River, of which the Goshen Reservoir is the head, and which joins the east branch at Williamsburg. It is in all respects similar to the Williamsburg Reservoir The most intense excitement prevails in the vicinity of the disaster.

FINDING THE DEAD.

At Skinnerville the first bodies were picked up, dug out from the mud; or taken with difficulty from the overloaded ruins. All through the afternoon the work went on, till night, and then men with lanterns, seeking their dead, stood guard. At Haydenville forty bodies were gathered by night. At Leeds five. There had been, in the afternoon, gangs of plunderers promptly turned to workers by no stinted threats. The people were ready to brain them with stones. There were fewer dead at Florence and Northampton; 140 in all, and many more are certainly buried in the mud and rubbish that fill the valley with black heaps from Williamsburg to Northampton.

Just below the village of Leeds on what was a pretty lawn, called Warner's Flats, a vast amount of debris was collected. A hundred men with ox teams and horses to move the timbers began work early in the forenoon. In the first half hour five bodies were found, and before noon twenty were unburied from that spot.

PAINFUL RECOGNITIONS.

The operatives from Williamsburg whose lost ones had not been recovered crowded the little carpenter shop into which the bodies were carried and all were recognized, although some were disfigured almost past recognition. In the string of vehicles every few rods were wagons containing one, two and sometimes four coffined bodies en route for the cemetery, for in the universal bereavement interment followed swiftly on the recovery of the bodies, and funeral services, excepting in a few instances, were dispensed with.

At Haydenville the bodies were laid out in the congregational church. Lying side by side were a mother and her two children, near them a mother, her married daughter and her two infant children. The dead of those whom the flood had left destitute were buried at the expense of the town.

At Williamsburg, the town hall was thick with uncoffined bodies, principally of women and children. Churches were closed, and pastors and people devoted the whole time to the care of the dead, which were removed to the receiving vault of the cemetery as rapidly as the burial facilities permitted. One poor fellow worked alone for an hour around the wreck of his own house, which was carried away half a mile from its place. He lifted up boards very carefully, peering under them so anxiously that a crowd soon assembled around to watch his movements. "I'm hunting for my wife," he said when questioned. "She was in the house when the flood came, and she must be near it now." Those who tried to help him were scarcely able to do so, because he would have each board lifted as carefully as though the body lay below. He wrought late into the afternoon before he learned that the body was among those found on Warner's Flats.

Congressional Summary.

Senate.

Tuesday, May 12.—The committee on finance reported an amendment to the finance bill.——The civil rights bill came up, but was laid over after some debate.——The bill to protect frontier settlers against Indians was reported on favorably, and placed on the calendar.——A bill relating to jurisdiction of courts-martial, was reported and placed on the calendar.——The Bulwer Street bill was then taken up and passed, after several amendments.——Resolutions and petitions in relation to Arkansas affairs were presented and ordered printed.——The Senate then adjourned.

House.

The committee on elections reported on the Utah contested election case, declaring Cannon entitled to a seat, whereupon a resolution was adopted charging Cannon with the misdemeanor and disgraceful practice of polygamy, and instructing the committee on elections to inquire into the charge, and recommend such action on the part of the House as should seem meet.——A resolution relating to affairs in Arkansas, was offered by Mr. Poland, but objected to, and was not received.——The bill for the relief of certain Indian contractors was returned with the President's message vetoing the same.——The House adjourned.

Senate.

Wednesday, May 13.—Bills were introduced: for the better protection of immigrants. Referred; to regulate commerce among the several states with foreign nations. Referred.——The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the finance bill.——The following amendment, which was reported by the finance committee yesterday, was lost by a vote of 16 ayes to 37 nays: "And each of said associations shall keep and maintain as part of its lawful money, a reserve of one-third of the coin received by it as interest on bonds of the United States deposited as security for circulating notes or government deposits, unless such association shall elect to exchange such proportion of coin for bonds of the United States of the character herein provided for, which shall thereafter, until the first day of January, 1879, be delivered to them by the Secretary of the Treasury, and which may afterward be held by such association and considered as part of the reserve, three per cent. only of the interest upon which bonds shall be paid to such association, or to any holder thereof, and the remaining two per cent. shall be retained by the Secretary of the Treasury, and the whole amount of gold thus received shall be applied by him exclusively to the payment of 5 per cent. 5-20 bonds of the United States."——The House homestead bill was placed on the calendar, and the Indian appropriation bill referred.——Adjourned.

House.

The House went into committee of the whole on the bill to amend the law of February 28, 1871, for the better security of life on boats and steam vessels. After amending the title of the bill, it passed.——The deficiency bill was then considered in committee of the whole; and after some progress thereon, the Senate Geneva award bill was taken from the table and referred.——The House then adjourned.

Senate.

Thursday, May 14.—The petitions of soldiers of the war of 1812 were reported on adversely, as the House bill which will be reported favorably, covers the ground.——The morning hour having expired, the Senate resumed the consideration of the finance bill, the pending question being the amendment of Mr. Wright to strike out 50 per cent. as the proportion of legal tenders to be retired, as more national bank notes are issued, and insert in lieu thereof twenty-five. Agreed to—ayes 22, nays 24. A motion to lay on the table was lost—ayes 19, nays 26.——The sixth line of the eighth section was amended so as to read—and within thirty days after circulating notes to the amount of $1,000,000 shall from time to time be issued to national banking associations, under this act, in excess of the highest outstanding volume thereof, at any time prior to such issue, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to retire an amount of United States notes equal to 25 per centum of the circulating notes so issued, etc. The bill was then amended by striking out five per cent. as the rate of interest which the bonds issued to redeem the present United States notes, after January, 1877, should bear, and insert in lieu thereof four and one-half per cent.; striking out fifteen years as the time when such bonds should be redeemed in coin, and insert in lieu thereof ten years; and by striking out January 1st, 1877, as the time when United States notes may be redeemed, in the bonds above mentioned, and insert in lieu thereof July 1st, 1878. After some further unimportant amendments were rejected, the bill passed—yeas 25, nays 19.——Adjourned.

House.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the deficiency bill.——The item of $18,396 to reimburse the fund of the reform school in the District of Columbia, and which had been in the hands of Henry D. Cooke, as treasurer, at the time of the bankruptcy of Jay Cooke & Co., was agreed to. The bill was laid aside, and the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was taken up and passed. Adjourned.

Senate.

Friday, May 15.—Memorials were presented praying government to take charge of Mississippi levees, and to extend Chesapeak and Ohio Canal.——The resolution asking the President for Arkansas correspondence passed.——The bill relating to the consular and diplomatic service was recommitted to the committee on commerce.——A favorable report was made on the House joint resolution providing that in all cases under the civil service examinations for positions under government, when a disabled United States soldier, his wife, or the widow of a deceased soldier, dying of wounds or disease contracted in the line of duty, or his orphan children shall pass such examination at the standard fixed by the rules, such person shall have precedence for appointment to any existing vacancy. Placed on the calendar.——The joint resolution relating to Southern claims was recommitted.——Mr. Windom introduced a bill to establish a bureau of internal commerce, to be attached to the treasury department, and be under the direction of the commissioner of internal commerce, who shall be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The duties of the bureau shall be to gather, collate and annually report to Congress, statistics and facts relating to commerce among the states and especially as to railroads and their changes and management.——After the transaction of some unimportant business, the Senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

House.

The committee on printing reported back with amendment the Senate joint resolution prohibiting publication in the congressional record of speeches or parts of speeches not actually delivered. A lively debate ensued on the resolution, which was finally tabled.——A bill was passed authorizing an application by Norman Wiard for a patent for safety attachment to steam boilers. After passing a number of private bills, the House adjourned.

Senate.

Saturday, May 16.—The Senate was not in session.

House.

The House went into committee of the whole on the consular appropriation bill. A motion was rejected to strike out the item of $10,000 for the minister resident of Uruguay, who is also accredited to Paraguay. Amendments were adopted making the salary of consular clerks five years continuously in the service, $1,200, instead of $1,000, and for repaying to the government of Brazil, money erroneously claimed and paid to the United States, $27,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary. The bill was then laid aside, and the post office appropriation bill was taken up. This bill appropriates $36,452,201, of which $6,634,862 is to meet the difference between the revenue and expenses of the department. Without making progress on the bill, the committee rose, and reported back the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, which was passed. A bill to repeal modoc was reported, when the House adjourned.

Senate.

Monday, May 18.—A resolution for adjournment, June 22, was laid over.——Bills were introduced: To promote telegraphic communication between the United States and Asia; for the appointment of a commission to examine and report on the reclamation of the alluvial basin of the Mississippi. Referred.——After the introduction of some unimportant resolutions, the legislative appropriation bill was taken up and several amendments adopted, when it was laid aside.——A bill was passed amending the act regulating the consular and diplomatic service; also a bill to relieve vessels from compulsory fees in certain cases.——The Senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

House.

Bills were introduced: For improvement of the Mississippi; in relation to banks of directors of stock companies; in relation to disposition of the Geneva award; for iron steamship service between the United States and England.——Considerable unimportant business was then transacted, when the House adjourned.

A Driver's Story.

From the San Antonio (Tex.) News.

Mr. Milbach, a commercial traveler, en route from Goliad to Beeville in an ambulance, accompanied by a negro driver, was attacked by three bandits. One tied Milbach, while the others were searching for money and valuables. Milbach succeeded in getting one arm loose, and, drawing a pistol concealed under his coat, killed two of the highwaymen, but was himself killed by the third. The negro managed to escape with the money and valuables, amounting to several thousand dollars.

North Carolina claims to be the only State in the Union which produces every article enumerated in the canons of force.

THE ARKANSAS TROUBLES.

The Questions Settled by the President.

He Recognizes Baxter as Governor—Brooks Ordered to Disperse.

The Arkansas gubernatorial imbroglio has at last been settled, so far as to who is the recognized Governor. President Grant has issued a proclamation recognizing Elisha Brooks as the legally elected Governor, and orders that the aspirant, Joseph Brooks, and his adherents, disperse. The following is the proclamation:

A PROCLAMATION.

By the President of the United States of America:

Whereas, Certain turbulent and disorderly persons, pretending that E. Baxter, the present Executive of Arkansas, was not elected, have combined together with force and arms to resist his authority as such Executive, and other authorities of the state, and

Whereas, Said Baxter has been declared duly elected by the General Assembly of that State, as provided in the Constitution thereof and has for a long period been exercising the functions of said office, into which he was inducted according to the Constitution and laws of said State, and ought by its citizens to be considered the lawful Executive thereof; and

Whereas, It is provided in the Constitution of the United States that the United States shall protect the States in the Union on application of the legislature; or the Executive, when the legislature cannot convene, against domestic violence; and

Whereas, Said Elisha Baxter, under section 4 of article 4 of the Constitution of the United States and laws passed in pursuance thereof, has heretofore made application to me to protect the said State and the citizens thereof against domestic violence; and

Whereas, The General Assembly of said State, convened in extra session at the Capitol thereof, on the 11th inst., pursuant to a call made by the said Elisha Baxter, both houses thereof have passed a joint resolution applying to me to protect the State against domestic violence; and whereas it is provided in the laws of the United States that in all cases of insurrection against the laws thereof it shall be lawful for the President, upon application of the Legislature of such State or of the executive when the Legislature cannot be convened, to employ such part of the land and naval forces as shall be judged necessary for the purpose of the suppression of such insurrection, or causing laws to be duly executed; and

Whereas, It is required that whenever it may be necessary, in the judgment of the President to use military force for the purpose aforesaid, he shall forthwith, by proclamation, command such insurgents to disperse and retire peaceably to their homes within a limited time.

Now, therefore, I, U. S. Grant, President of the United States, do hereby make proclamation and command all turbulent and disorderly persons to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes within two days from this date, and hereafter submit themselves to the law, authority of said executive, and other constituted authorities of said State, and I invoke the aid and co-operation of all good citizens to uphold the law and preserve the public peace.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this 15th day of May, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and seventy-four, and of the independence of the United States ninety-eight.

(Signed,) U. S. Grant.

Instability.

O the dew-drops on the grass,
How they pass—how they pass!
They are but dew, alas!
Though dew is sweet.
O the splendor of the morning,
Its vanquished shadows scorning,
'Tis gone with scarce a warning—
Gone far and fleet.

So on beauty feed thy gaze
The while it briefly stays;
'Twill strike thee with amaze
To find it past!
So with the birds in the young spring
Make no delay to sing,
For youth and song take wing
And fly—how fast!

For the mountains steeped in light,
Intolerably bright,
How changed they are at night—
How dull and gray!
For the roses blown in June,
Like snatches of a tune,
How swiftly and how soon
They die away!

And if youth and song be dear,
And bird-notes trilling clear,
And spring-time of the year,
And glad sunshine,
And the careless, bright June rose,
And the mountain's fair repose:
O dearer far than those
Is love divine!

Yet the splendor of the morning
Its vanquished shadows scorning,
And gone with scarce a warning
Is now more fleet;
Like the dew-drops on the grass
It doth pass—it doth pass!
It is but love, alas!
Yet love is sweet.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Quinsy in Pigs.

Treatment:—First, a clean, dry, warm, airy, comfortable place. Rub the throat with oil 6 ounces; 4 ffs. ammonia 2 ounces; ether 2 ounces; mix. Keep well corked, shake, and rub swelling twice a day. If bowels are constipated, give the young ones, three weeks old, ½ ounce of epsom salts; the old sow, 2 ounces. Let them have all the anthracite (hard coal) screenings they will eat. Wash out the mouths with Tilden & Co.'s bromo chloralum one to eight of water. Let them have exercise—fresh air they must have or die, also general cleanliness.

Inducing Fruit Trees to Bear.

A correspondent of an agricultural paper writes:

"My friend T. had an apple tree which bore abundantly, but every alternate year. He chanced in early spring to lay some heavy poles on some of the lower limbs. This was not its year to bear. The limbs on which the poles rested bloomed and bore abundantly, while the other parts of the tree had neither bloom nor apple. Did the weight on the limbs, by checking the circulation of sap, and consequently the growth of wood, develop fruit-bearing buds? If so, may we not learn a practical lesson from this incident?"

In this country we see but few of what may be called the refinements of horticulture. Trees are the most part planted and allowed to take their chances. If they survive they struggle for existence, and after many years come into indifferent bearing, the fruit is welcome. If the trees are choked by grass and weeds, and starved by other crops, either the nurserymen is blamed, or it is concluded that "trees don't do as well as they used to." Our correspondent has rightly accounted for the phenomenon, but the "practical lesson" has been learned long ago, and in one form and another has been practiced. The pruning and training of trees to induce fruitfulness is well understood, but the great trouble is that in our rude horticulture it does not pay. Our people have in part learned that in order to grow grapes they must treat their vines properly, and after a while they will find that trees will repay tasteful care and attention.

Strawberry Culture.

No farmer should be without a strawberry patch. Everybody loves this delicious fruit, and it is so easily cultivated that it is rank injustice to his family for any one having a patch of land or a garden to fail in raising strawberries for their participation.—Almost any kind of land, which is dry or is drained, will grow this fruit if supplied with vegetable manures, which, by the by, can be said, we believe, of almost all other kinds of small fruits. The lighter the soil, the easier and more economical is the cultivation; and upon such soils the produce is earlier and better flavored, while the heavier soils will produce later and heavier fruit. Elevated soils are less liable to be affected by spring frosts, hence should be selected for the earliest spring fruit—the strawberry, especially the earliest sorts. South and southeast side hills should be chosen to produce early fruit, and north side hills, late fruit. Thus the season may be extended. If the ground is sufficiently rich to grow good potatoes or corn, it will grow as comparatively good strawberries. If not in good order, manure thoroughly with any rotted compost. New coarse manures are very risky, especially for light soils, for if the spring should prove dry, the plants dry out badly. Plough or spade deep when the ground is in a dry condition, for if too wet and soggy it leaves the surface stiff and bakey. If convenient, scatter a liberal supply of well rotted compost over the surface, which not only enriches the soil, but acts as a mulch to keep the surface moist and prevent it from "baking."

Remedy for Cut-Worms.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman gives the following as his means for preventing the ravages of cut-worms: I pulverized two pounds copperas at night, and the next morning put in soak, and I put 1½ bushels of corn in soak in a separate vessel at night. After soaking twelve hours, I poured off the water from the corn into a tub; I then added as much water as will cover the corn, and add to it the copperas water, and thoroughly mix and pour over the corn, and let it remain in copperas water twelve hours; I then poured off the copperas water from the corn and rolled the seed corn in J. J. T——'s excelsior or plaster, and if early for planting, I open deep furrows, say four or five inches, and cover light with corn coverer; but if late, I cover deeper. I tried this experiment on a sod field of three years' standing, plowed it in March and April of 1873. I plowed with a three-horse plow, 7 inches deep on the average; the ground was nicely pulverized. Planted on the 1st of May, 3½ by 3½ each way. Two days planting (10 acres). I dampened the corn and rolled it in the plaster. The third day I had the corn prepared with copperas and ready to plant. I planted the corn across a 44-acre field, by the side of the second day's planting, and there was between two and four days' planting; all treated alike, except the application of copperas on the two bushels seed corn. To the surprise and satisfaction of myself and hands, it came up regular, green and vigorous, and grew rapidly. I soon found it necessary to replant. I found, on examination, not a hill cut nor a worm to be found where copperas was used, and the entire field, except the two bushels of seed thus treated, was cut from two to three hills out of five, and I often found from one to fifteen cut-worms in a hill. I was so worried I could not determine which plan was the best—replant, plow and plant over, or check off between rows. I have heard of such being done, but never tried it. I have ordered 150 pounds, and I am urging all my friends to give it a trial. One bushel of corn will plant five acres, and 1½ pounds of copperas will prepare the bushel of corn. Copperas can be bought in quantities to suit farmers at six or seven cents per pound. It would cost one-half of a cent per acre. It is cheap, simple and certain with myself and others who tried it last year, and I regard this a valuable preventive.

Keeping Hens.

Each farm has its poultry, so every family having out-buildings ought to keep hens. They can be kept as profitably as with the farmers. On the farm, hens are often a greater damage than profit, making forays in the grain fields and garden, and fouling the walks about the buildings, for farmers generally do not shut up their hens.

There is a general improvement throughout the country in hen-husbandry; the breeds are disseminated and crossed, and the increase of eggs is in proportion. There is, however, one great drawback, which needs correcting, it is the breeding from crossed stock. A cross from the original pure blood is what is wanted, and not propagation from crosses; this last will surely run out the properties for which the original is valued. Get, therefore, a cock of pure blood for your hens, whether your hens are a cross, native, or also pure blood, the latter on the whole the best. And there is no difficulty to obtain pure blood as a reasonable price of almost any breed, the breeds are so well disseminated. The Brahma, if not the best, is among the best, and can be obtained anywhere. It unites excellently with the black Spanish and other breeds, affording large eggs and an abundance of them, being eminently a winter layer. Its flesh also is good, its chickens coming quick to maturity. It is very docile and quiet; can be kept almost anywhere, and more confined than most breeds. You need no extra care to have success with this breed; a barn, a shed, any out-house will do. Among the best examples that we know are of the black Spanish and Brahma cross kept in a small building used as a wood shed and pig pen. It needs for a small family but eight or ten hens, which will afford the eggs needed the year round. A miscellaneous feed is perhaps as good as any, scraps from the table, particularly buckwheat cake, and the different grains. To feed corn alone is not good. A fat hen will not lay so well, and is subject to appoplexy, often dropping down dead. A mixture of corn and buckwheat, equal parts, is a good feed.

A great point in hen-raising, where eggs are the main thing, is to have young stock. Hatch early, and keep growing steadily all along, so as to get early maturity, and hence early laying. Eggs can thus be obtained in four to five months, and we have known it to be done sooner. Let them lay a year or some more for you, and then displace them by a new brood. Their flesh, being still young, will be tender, and the new hatch will continue to supply the eggs. Always remember a hen is of a domestic nature, and will lay better for being well treated.

Useful Household Receipts.

POP CORN PUDDING.—Soak two quarts of freshly popped corn in three pints of sweet milk, over night. When ready to bake, add three well-beaten eggs, a little salt, and sugar to taste. Bake like a custard pudding.

LEMON JELLY.—Two cups of sugar, yolks of three eggs, juice of two lemons. Cook till thickened by setting in boiling water, then add the well-beaten whites of three eggs; spread between the layers of the cake, and trim off the rough edges.

WAFFLES.—One quart of flour, one pint of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, four eggs, a piece of butter the size of a large egg, and a little salt. Bake in waffle-irons. Sour cream and less butter improve them.

FRENCH CAKE.—Three eggs, one and a half cups of flour, one cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of cold water; bake in two pie-pans, split while hot, and spread between the following custard: One-third pint sweet milk, one tablespoonful of corn starch dissolved in a bit of the milk, one egg well beaten; when it comes to a boil add half a cup of sugar, one-fourth cup of butter. Lemon to suit the taste.

SALT PORK PUDDING.—Chop very fine one large cupful of salt pork which has soaked in milk over night. Add to it one cup of molasses, with a teaspoonful of saleratus stirred into it. Three-fourths of a cup of sweet milk; one cup of stoned raisins or currants; one teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon, cloves, and nutmeg. Add flour enough to make as stiff as a berry pudding. Steam in a cloth or boil for four hours. For a sauce, take one cup of white sugar and pour over it the same quantity of boiling water; when melted, stir in two well-beaten eggs. Flavor with vanilla or lemon.

TO COOK RICE.—The following is the method recommended by the French Academy for cooking rice during the siege of Paris: Take one cup of rice and one-fourth of a cup of water in a saucepan, cover, and place over a good fire; after an hour the water will be evaporated, and the rice cooked tender, but dry, with grains distinct, not in paste. Sufficient salt should be added, in the first place, and care should be taken not to disturb the rice while cooking. By adding a little butter, and allowing the rice to dry a little more over a gentle fire, a more delicate dish is prepared. The Boston Medical Journal says that rice cooked in this manner, which is the same as that employed in the East Indies, bears the same relation to the indigestible paste of the New England kitchen as does bread to boiled flour.

THE lawyers of Indianapolis are torturing their brains over an extraordinary problem. Some years ago a lady of that city was married, and four months thereafter separated from her husband, was divorced and remarried in a month, and four months thereafter gave birth to a child by her first husband. Quite recently the second husband procured a divorce and the custody of the child was awarded to him. Now comes the first husband and claims the child. Who is entitled to its possession? Where is King Solomon?

A Retrospect.

Swathed in deep bloom upon the lea,
One radiant summer came and went;
One summer's radiant hours we spent
Together on the bank of Dee.

Our perfect love for banished strife,
And joy and beauty filled the land—
I little thought of golden sand
Fast dropping from her glass of life.

We walked among the sheltering firs,
And saw the hills of purple heath—
I did not see the hue of death
Slow stealing o'er the smile of her's.

I only dreamt of wealth of life,
In one bright round of happy love;
And age that should at last remove
In calm an old man and his wife.

Alas! it is not as I dreamed!
My waking soul laments the change;
And all the happy past is strange,
And seems as if it only seemed.

One sweet, short summer come and gone—
A few bright hours of sunny light
A joyous heart-bloom—then the night;
And in the night I am alone!

THE Princess of Wales was very pretty when she was first married; she is beautiful now, she will be handsome ten years hence, and she can never be otherwise than refined and distinguished in appearance if she lives to no matter what age. The Duchess of Edinburgh, on the other hand, is not only without beauty—she is almost without features. She has (if I may venture to describe her in the plain language of the passport office) a round head, flat face, small eyes and a nose so insignificant that one may almost describe it as conspicuous by its absence.—London Correspondence New York Times.

"WHILE journeying by rail," says a traveler, "I witnessed the following incident: One night, just after I had scrambled into my sleeping berth, I heard loud and angry voices proceeding from the rear end of the car. 'I tell you this is a sleeping car, and you can't come in here without a ticket.' 'Begorra, I had a ticket.' 'Well where is it?' 'Begorra I've lost it.' 'If you really had the misfortune to lose your ticket, perhaps you can remember your berth?' There was an interval of silence, Paddy evidently employing his thinking powers. 'Och, be jabers!' he at length exclaimed, 'I was born on the 26th day of October, 1828.'"

A Curious Decision.

The following story comes from Ireland: Two men had a quarrel in a liquor shop. They adjourned outside to settle the dispute. The first man, being from Connaught, immediately seized a lump of stone and let it fly at the head of his opponent, who dipped his head and missed the stone, which went through an expensive plate glass window, and did much damage. A magistrate was called upon next morning to determine which of the two should pay the cost. The evidence clearly showed that the aim was a good one, and that if the second man had not dipped his head he would have been struck. "Therefore," said the magistrate, "he must pay the damages, as it is certain the first man didn't intend to injure the window, and the window would not have been injured if it had not been for the act of the second man dodging."

THERE is a bush story of a negro who, for a bottle of rum, agreed to strip to the waist and lie on his face, to be bitten for a quarter of an hour by mosquitos, at the Joggins of New Brunswick. He endured his pests manfully, and had nearly won his prize, when one of the lumbermen who stood near by laid on him a piece of live charcoal, when the negro wiggled and twisted about frightfully; at last, unable to hold out any longer, he jumped up, calling out, "Wooh! not bargain for dat; dat is a dragon fly!" Lumbermen play sad tricks on the negroes sometimes. At a tea-drinking a lumberman slipped a plug of tobacco into the kettle, when an old negress who presided called out, "Mo' water! mo' water? too 'trong for misus stomach."

ALMOST all the soldiers in the armies of Frederic the Great and Maria Theresa, were serfs.

Liver and Blood Diseases.

A healthy liver secretes each day about two and a half pounds of bile, which constitutes a great amount of waste material taken from the blood. When the liver becomes torpid or congested, it fails to discharge this vast amount of noxious secretion, which, therefore remains to poison the blood, and be conveyed to every part of the system. When once in the circulation of the blood, bile is irritating and rankling each day two and a half pounds of poison! Nature tries to work off this poison through other channels and organs—the kidneys, lungs, skin, etc., but these organs become overtaxed in performing this labor in addition to their natural functions, and cannot long withstand this pressure, but become seriously diseased.

The brain, which is the great electrical center of all vitality, is unduly stimulated by the unhealthy blood, which passes to it from the heart and it fails to perform its office healthfully. Hence the symptoms of bile poisoning, which are dullness, headache and incapacity to keep the mind on any subject, impairment of memory, dizzy, sleepy, or nervous feelings, gloomy forebodings, and irritability of temper. The blood itself being diseased, as it forms the sweat upon the surface of the skin, it is so irritating and poisonous that it produces discolored brown spots, pimples, blotches, and other eruptions, sores, boils, carbuncles and scrofulous tumors. The stomach, bowels, and other organs cannot escape becoming affected, sooner or later, and we have as the result, costiveness, piles, dropsy, dyspepsia, diarrhœa. Other symptoms are common, as bitter or bad taste in mouth, internal heat, palpitation, teasing cough, uneteady appetite, choking sensation in throat, blooting of stomach, pain in sides or about shoulders and back, coldness o extremities, etc., etc. Only a few of the above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time. The liver being the great depurating or blood cleansing organ of the system—set this great "Housekeeper of our health" at work, and the foul corruptions, which gender in the blood, and rot out, as it were, the machinery of life, are gradually expelled from the system. For this purpose my Golden Medical Discovery with very small doses daily of my Pleasant Purgative Pellets are pre-eminently the articles needed. They cure every kind of humor from the worst scrofula to the common pimple, blotch or eruption. Great eating ulcers kindly heal under their mighty curative influence. Virulent blood poisons that lurk in the system are by them robbed of their terrors, and by their persevering and somewhat protracted use the most tainted systems may be completely renovated and built up anew. Enlarged glands, tumors and swellings dwindle away and disappear under the influence of these great resolvents.—Com.

THE NEW PANACEA.—Modern science having demonstrated that alcohol is "neither food nor physic," but, on the contrary, a species of poison, the introduction of a potent tonic which is entirely free from it is certainly a subject for congratulation. DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS is a medicine which may be fairly characterized as an unobjectionable specific for many distressing and dangerous diseases.

Temperance organizations, heretofore in favor of permitting the sale of alcohol for medical purposes, are of opinion that VINEGAR BITTERS possesses all the efficacy as an invigorant that has ever been even claimed for spirituous stimulants, and on this account as well as because of the singular success which has attended its use in dyspepsia, liver complaint, disorders of the bowels, nervous diseases, general debility, and all maladies growing out of intemperance, they warmly recommend it as a restorative and alterative of surpassing excellence.—Com.

THE all-gone feeling which people sometimes speak of, is caused by want of proper action of the liver and heart. These may be assisted, and the bowels regulated by Parsons' Purgative Pills in small doses.

CORN and flour are staple articles; but not more so than Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, where known. It is good for children or adults, for any internal soreness of the chest or bowels, and the best Liniment prepared, under whatever name.—Com.

Southern Phraseology.

A correspondent from the south says: "Many of the whites speak a language strange to northern ears. It is quite a common practice among the first families to give their domestics names which everywhere else belong to the masculine sex. I know three young ladies here who were christened 'Charlie,' 'Willie,' and 'Bobbie.' 'Babie' is common, both as a Christian and a nickname. Among surnames there is a Mr. 'Turnipseed' and a Widow 'Snipe.' The whites have borrowed from the negroes the following expressions: 'Low down,' meaning degraded; 'done gone,' meaning gone; 'howdy,' meaning how do you do. Intelligent people say, 'Now, you've done gone and done it,' meaning you've done it. A lady threatening punishment to her child says, 'I'll snatch you baldheaded.' In describing a scene in church where the audience was affected to tears, a lady told me that 'Every one in church looked glass eyed.'"

HOUSEHOLD PANACEA AND FAMILY LINIMENT.

HOUSEHOLD PANACEA AND FAMILY LINIMENT.

WAUKESHA WATER,
MINERAL ROCK SPRING,
CURES
Dropsy, Diabetes,
Gravel, Dyspepsia,
Constipation, Jaundice,
Bright's Disease,

and all diseases of the liver and kidneys. This water is now known and sold as a remedy for the above diseases, in all parts of the world. It is truly wonderful what effect it has upon the human system. It is now being shipped at the following prices:

Barrel, 40 gal., $12; half do, $7; demijohn and jugs, 50 cents per gal.; package extra; bottles (qts.) $2.50 per doz. Money must accompany the order, except to our regular authorized agent. Inquire of your druggist for Waukesha Mineral Rock Spring Water. Address C. C. Olin & Co., Waukesha, Wis., for orders for the water or for circulars.

CINCINNATI, June 11, 1873.

C. C. OLIN & CO., Waukesha, Wis.: Having used your water from the Mineral Rock Spring, Waukesha, Wis., for my diseased kidneys, I find great relief from the use of the same. Before I commenced using this water, my physician reported to me the specific gravity of my urine was 35, and after using it for twenty days the specific gravity of the urine was reduced to 21, showing a great improvement, and finding great relief in not being compelled to urinate so frequently, I had other waters, but give it as my opinion that the Mineral Rock Spring is preferable. And I do earnestly recommend it to all who are afflicted with the disease commonly known as Diabetes.

Respectfully yours, ALFRED WILSON,
Dept. Coll. Int. Rev., No. 8 W. Third Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

HUDSON, WIS., Jan. 5, 1873.

MESSRS. C. C. OLIN & CO.—Dear Sirs: I am astonished at the immediate benefit received from the use of your healing water. I commenced using the water as directed and in a few hours obtained relief, reducing specific gravity of urine 12° down to 30° in three days, producing a moist skin and a direct purification, making an entire change for the better in my digestion. I also find it beneficial to the liver. Since drinking the water I rest much better at night, and without being disturbed, as I usually was before, from two to three times during every night. Thinking of visiting your spring in the summer, believing the water to do all that you claim, and knowing the favorable results in my own case, you will please express the forty gallons immediately, as I am satisfied that it does not lose any of its healing properties by shipping. I think your price very reasonable, and will advertise your spring all I can, for the benefit of invalids suffering with those incurable diseases of Bright's Disease and Saccharine Diabetes, as I know they can be immediately relieved by drinking Mineral Rock Spring Water.

With kindest regards, yours truly,
GEO. JONES.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY CURE OF
Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Marsh Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

℞ Has been widely used, during the last twenty-five years, in the treatment of the disease which it cures, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the confidence of the public, and the regard of the medical profession. The demand for a reliable remedy has induced the manufacturer to spare no labor nor pains to make it perfect, and to spare no expense in making its merits known wherever there are people who need such a remedy, and the medical profession who know how to prescribe it. This has made the Ague Cure a household word in the ague districts of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayer's Ague Cure eradicates the poisonous product from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Debility follows the use, as is too common with other medicines. Cases have occurred from Miasmatic Poison, it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria, it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Intermittent and Remittent Fevers in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to follow those long continued exposures to Malaria and Miasm has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints it is an excellent remedy.

CHEAPEST AND BEST
Advertising Medium in the World!

Advertisers throughout the country are requested to note this fact, that they can have an advertisement inserted in 1400 newspapers "for less than the actual cost of setting the type 1400 times." For instance, there is an advertisement of two lines:

IF YOU wish to advertise in any paper besides this, write A. J. AIKENS, Chicago.

The cost of inserting this two-line advertisement in the 1400 newspapers would be but $28, or two cents for each newspaper in which it is inserted. Besides this great cheapness in price, you also save the considerable time and expense involved in corresponding with 1400 newspapers, if you should send your order direct to each newspaper—being $15 less than the postage. These facts prove the unparalleled cheapness of my plan of advertising.

The newspapers of these lists are weeklies, and they circulate in all of the States of the Union. All the leading and shrewdest advertisers in the country are regular advertisers in these papers, and have tested and proved their value and cheapness as advertising mediums. Such as—

A. T. Stewart & Co., J. & P. Coats,
J. C. Ayer & Co., Mason & Hamlin,
Wheeler & Wilson, Curtis & Perkins,
And hundreds of others.

If an advertiser does not wish to advertise in as many as 1400 newspapers, he can use one of six

Sub-Divisions of the List

At nearly proportionate rates.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

The Human Locomotive should be carefully engineered; otherwise it may run off the track of life at any moment. To keep its delicate internal machinery in perfect trim, or to put it in good working condition when out of order, is the peculiar province of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient.

The thoroughness with which it cleanses, without irritating the bowels; the tone and vigor which it imparts to the stomach; its appetizing effects; its cooling, refreshing operation in fever; the relief it affords in headache; its antibilious properties, and its superior merits as a general corrective, justify the assertion that it is beyond all comparison, the most valuable family medicine of the age. Sold by all druggists.

CONSUMPTION
And Its Cure.
WILLSON'S
Carbolated Cod Liver Oil

is a scientific combination of two well-known medicines. Its theory is first to arrest the decay, then build up the system. Physicians find the doctrine correct. The really startling cures performed by Willson's Oil are proof.

Carbolic Acid positively arrests Decay. It is the most powerful antiseptic in the known world. Entering into the circulation, it at once grapples with corruption, and decay ceases. It purifies the sources of disease.

Cod Liver Oil is Nature's best assistant in resisting Consumption.

COL. W. S. KING's sale of his famous Lyndale herd at Dexter Park Thursday, was a wonderful success. The prices obtained for his blooded bulls were the highest on the average ever obtained at any sale in the country, and as the net results of his sale he realizes the modest little sum of $128,500. This is $28,500 better than his most sanguine hopes.

ORDINANCE NO. 11—An ordinance to compel the owners of dogs to procure a license, and to prohibit dogs from running at large in the City of Brainerd until their owners have procured said license and had such dogs registered and numbered.

The Common Council of the City of Brainerd do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. The owner or owners of every dog and slut which now is or may hereafter be found within the limits of the City of Brainerd, shall procure a license from the Recorder of said city to keep said dog or slut, and to permit the same to run at large in the City of Brainerd, which license shall be granted to any applicant therefor, upon his paying to the City Treasurer the sum of one dollar for each dog, and two dollars for each slut to be owned and kept by such applicant, and filing with the City Recorder his receipt therefor, and paying to said Recorder the further sum of twenty-five cents as his fees in full for registering and numbering each of said animals and issuing said license.

SECTION 2. Before the owner of any dog or slut shall permit the same to run at large in said city, he shall, in addition to procuring said license, put a collar on said dog or slut, on which shall be placed, in legible figures, the number of said animal as registered and licensed by the Recorder.

SECTION 3. It shall be the duty of all police officers of said city to shoot or otherwise destroy every dog or slut which he may find running at large on the streets, alleys or commons of said city without having on its neck said numbered collar mentioned in the preceding Section, and to remove the bodies of all animals so killed as aforesaid, to some place without the limits of the city, or to bury the same, and for said services the police officer shall receive the sum of twenty-five cents for each dog or bitch he may so destroy and bury or dispose of, to be paid by the city.

SECTION 4. This ordinance shall take effect from and after its publication.

Passed April 27th, 1874.

JOSEPH E. TURNER,
President of Common Council.
Attest: F. X. GOULET,
City Recorder.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and thirty-five dollars, which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, on a certain mortgage of date Jan. 6, A. D. 1873, wherein John Bishop and Matilda Bishop his wife, are Mortgagors, and John Martin is Mortgagee, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Crow Wing, in the State of Minnesota, on January 6, A. D. 1873, at 5 o'clock P. M., in Book "A" of Mortgages, on pages 406, 407, and 408, and which said mortgage was, on the 23d day of said January, duly assigned in writing by said Mortgagee to D. M. G. Murphy and Henri T. Daendels, which written assignment was duly recorded in said Register of Deeds office, in the aforesaid Book of Mortgages, on said pages 406, 407, and 408, on January 23, A. D. 1873, at 12 o'clock M.; and no action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof. Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Lot No. 10 (10), in Block No. forty-seven (47), in the townsite of Brainerd, according to the recorded plat of said townsite, in crow Wing county, State of Minnesota, will be sold at public vendue, at the front door of the County Jail, in the City of Brainerd, in said Crow Wing county, on the 26th day of May, A. D. 1874, at 2 o'clock P. M., to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, all costs of foreclosure, and the sum of fifty dollars stipulated upon therein as an Attorney's fee in case of its foreclosure.

Dated April 9, 1874.

SHERIFF'S EXECUTION SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA—COUNTY OF CROW WING—SS.

Notice is hereby given, that under and by virtue of an execution duly issued out of and under the seal of the District Court, in and for the County of Crow Wing, on the twelfth (12th) day of January, A. D. 1874, upon a judgment docketed in said Court, wherein John Becker is judgment debtor, and J. A. Owens is judgment creditor, to me directed. I have levied upon the following real estate as the property of the said John Becker, judgment debtor, to-wit: all his right, title and interest in lot four (4) in block one hundred and twenty-five (125), in the town (now city) of Brainerd, State and County aforesaid; and further, that I will sel all his right, title and interest in aforesaid real estate, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday the 1st day of June, A. D. 1874, at the hour of ten in the forenoon of said day, at the front door of the County Jail, in the City of Brainerd, County and State aforesaid, to satisfy the sum of thirty-seven and thirty-two one hundredth dollars ($37,32-100), now due upon said execution, together with any proper costs, fees and disbursements.

Dated this 3d day of March, 1874.
