MYSTERY AND CRIME.

Other Crimes of a Like Mysterious Nature—Reports from Daily Press Sources.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A dispatch from Lincoln, Ill., says: Oct. 4, Carpenter is under arrest for the murder of Miss Zora Burns.

The evidence against Carpenter so far known is about as follows: There are strong grounds for believing that Carpenter was the father of Zora Burns' unborn child, his letters to her testified to by Mrs. Rebecca Carpenter indicating as much, also Mrs. Douglas of Lincoln, says Zora told her that Carpenter was the man. Carpenter was very friendly to Zora's married sister, Mrs. Dukes, when she lived in Lincoln, and Zora lived with her, furnishing her with money and helping her generally. Mrs. Douglas also says she is almost sure that she saw Carpenter and Zora in a buggy on the fatal night together. When Zora went to Lincoln the last time she saw Carpenter in Lincoln, and he told her that she was called upon, and he cannot account satisfactorily for his whereabouts on the night of the murder. With these facts in connection with the blood stains on the hatchet and which the officers believe they have a clear case almost against the prisoner. Mr. C. is one of the most prominent men in Lincoln and his reputation has hitherto been above reproach. He has a wife and two daughters, and owns a large amount of property.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The Times special from Lincoln, Ill., says: Every circumstance hitherto tending to create an impression that some one else beside Orrin A. Carpenter was the murderer of Zora Burns has been satisfactorily explained; that is, the others against whom suspicion pointed have succeeded in disclosing the public record of their guilt and almost fully established their innocence. Young Dukes has told his story in a straightforward manner and favorably impressed every one.

LINCOLN, Ill., Oct. 24.—The sitting of the coroner's jury resulted in no new developments in the Burns case. Several witnesses testified that they saw a light in Carpenter's office Saturday and Sunday nights. The boy, Fred Hudson, who cares for Carpenter's horse and cow, and who was reported as abducted, was examined, but threw no light upon the affair.

With reference to the dead on the reins, Prof. Wheeler, of Chicago, writes that there is the merest film, if anything is left of the blood which has been absorbed into the leather. The lines have doubtless been carefully washed, and that lengths of cord 8 inches in a critical matter to decide whether there is any blood there.

LINCOLN, Ill., Oct. 25.—The latest rumor in the Zora Burns case is to the effect that Kate Madden, a domestic, took a walk on the Saturday evening that Zora Burns left the hotel. Kate went by Carpenter's office. She saw in the darkness, and just ahead of her, the figure of a woman. Kate became very much interested in this flitting figure in the shadows of the evening. She stopped and watched it with a strange interest. The woman crossed over and went to the south side of Carpenter's elevator and disappeared behind the dump. That ended so much excitement as Kate's mind that she lingered on the corner waiting for the mysterious woman to reappear. She didn't reappear, and Kate's curiosity cooled down, and she walked away. The information is called important, because it is said to sustain the "theory" that Zora was held a prisoner in the elevator.

A vigorous search has been carried on to find the missing articles the girl had with her when murdered, but nothing has been discovered. Carpenter's farm has been thoroughly searched.

A visit to the house where the girl Kate Madden was employed discloses the fact that the girl had disappeared. The lady for whom she was working is very much distressed, and can not get over a clear idea of her whereabouts. She is a material witness in the case against Carpenter astonishing to any unacquaintedly connect him with the disappearance, Saturday night, of Zora Burns, and was supposed to appear before the coroner's inquest.

LINCOLN, Ill., Oct. 27.—The only new developments in the Zora Burns mystery are the finding of some hair pins in Carpenter's buggy, which the girl's father said were the same as some he bought his daughter just before her trip to Lincoln. The statement of Mrs. Rebecca Carpenter that she had been offered money to deny the truth of what she had heretofore testified to; the evidence of Miss Madden that she saw a woman near Carpenter's elevator on the Saturday evening before the murder, but could not say she was dressed like Zora was known to be dressed. The opinion is freely that the facts are not sufficient to hold Carpenter.

LINCOLN, Ill., Oct. 30.—States Attorney Purrell's absence to-day to the arrest of a man in Hampton, Iowa, who has confessed that he was hired to murder Zora Burns. If the prisoner will be brought back here, and the evidence will tend to explain matters more fully than anything which has yet occurred. The state depends very much on the results of his trip.

A new clew was obtained in the Zora Burns murder mystery. It is publicly announced that there is a person ready to go on the stand and tell the proper thing and give evidence which will surely fasten the guilt on somebody. What this personage is and what he tackles one will be a matter of conjecture.

The correspondent has labored diligently to obtain the name of this witness, but failed. A party visited a spot where a strange and mysterious man said he discovered traces of a struggle. It is two miles away from where the girl was found, and under a culvert. The footprints of a man and woman were found, and the scuffle was plainly visible. The place is on a road which heretofore has been supposed to be traveled by Carpenter. Mrs. Dukes, with whom she made her maiden name Blanche Gray, has been stabbing as the fatal day approached that is her duty to do in this city. She had been at the museum for two weeks past, and was taken sick a few days ago, but was not considered dangerously ill, and her death was a great surprise. She was 17 years old and weighed 104 pounds. She was born in Detroit. Her weight at birth was twenty-five pounds, and her mother's death occurred a few days after the event. When 12 years of age she weighed 80 pounds, and was fifty-six inches in height. She never increased in stature since that time, but expanded to enormous proportions. She was first exhibited in New York, where she was recently married. Her coffin was a curiosity, with what great difficulty she succeeds, even to the second story of the museum here, and having to exhibit her in Philadelphia in the fourth floor, had erected a derrick on the outside of the building with which she was to have been hoisted up and down each day. The undertaker says the coffin required is the largest that he has ever been called on to furnish. Its outside dimensions are: length, 6 feet 4 inches; depth, 3 feet 2 inches; width, 3 feet. Mrs. Moses was passing her honeymoon at the dime museum, in this city, but for the past two weeks had been much indisposed. In the morning the manager called to see her on business, entering her room found her dead. Cause of death is supposed to have been caused by fatty degeneration of the heart.

It was ascertained from Dr. McDevitt, who attended Mrs. Moses, that she was in an advanced stage of pregnancy, having been in ceinte for the past five months. This discovery excited much interest, and arouses suspicions as to the indirect cause of the woman's death.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 25.—The body of a lamenting woman, about 25 or 30 years of age was found lying in a small stream at Saugatuck. There was a deep gash in the forehead over the right eye. The body was identified as that of Mrs. Copeland, a milliner in South Norwalk. It is feared she is to get anything but the most superficial details of the tragedy, but there are good reasons for believing that a case of murder. Had the woman sought the river for the purpose of suicide, she would certainly not have been under water. As the case stands at this writing, it looks as if murder were the only key to the close on the heels of the Rev. Amblet case.

THE EARTHQUAKE BELT.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—There are renewals of the earthquake, as the eastern end of the Mediterranean, involving an extensive loss of life and property. Smyrna had been warned in time and the people were prepared to escape, so that the loss of life was small, but the loss of property is very heavy. The walls, which have stood since the Crusades, were thrown down, the ancient mosque was destroyed, and the mosques and churches ruined. The people are panic stricken, and the town is temporarily almost deserted. The inhabitants are camping on the frontiers. It is said that in spite of the smaller towns the loss of life has been very great. The Ægean sea was agitated in many places.

The shocks have been felt in Greece, and at Carpenitza alone 150 persons are reported to have been killed.

Railroad Accidents.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—A collision occurred at 5:45 o'clock Sunday morning at Joliet crossing between a passenger train on the Pan handle road and a freight train on the Michigan Central road, which resulted in the instant death of three men, the undoubted fatal injury of a fourth, and the serious and perhaps fatal injury of a fifth. This statement is terrible as the facts of it are, convey but no idea of the marvelous escape of the less unfortunate. The train was a special freight—came within a second's time of an awful death.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 30.—A few minutes after 9 o'clock Saturday night the westbound mail train on the Chicago & Alton road was derailed and badly wrecked one mile west of Glendale station and fifteen miles east of Kansas City. Strange to relate, no one was fatally injured. Frank Eldridge, cook in the dining-car, being the most seriously hurt, one foot being caught in a fallen timber in all were injured, but none seriously. The fire and all proceeded on their way as usual. At the time of the wreck the dining-car was nearly filled, and it was turned completely over, spilling passengers and supper in a heap.

Eight Men Found Guilty of Outrages Upon Negroes.

ATLANTA, Oct. 25.—In the Banks county Ku-Klux case, eight men were found guilty on every indictment. Sentence will be pronounced on Monday. Judge McCoy, in his charge was very severe in his condemnation of the so called Ku-Klux crimes. He said that it is strange that men should so forget their God and the laws of their country as to permit themselves to do such things on poor, helpless negroes. "This a disgrace to humanity and society, and I say, as a citizen of the United States and as an observer, nothing has tended so much to bring this southern country into disgrace, nothing has tended so much to public balance of the United States against us as this kind of outrage. They are mean, they are disgraceful, they are horrible, they are things which people out of this county cannot comprehend or understand."

Protection of Ocean Cables.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The conference for the protection of submarine cables is concluded. The most important feature of the conference was the English proposal to that in the event of war any power had liberty to withdraw, with the right of readmission when peace has been concluded. The conference adopted this principle. This means that in case of war any power may cut cables at its own risk and peril. Cables must take their chances, similar to other property at sea.

The conference unanimously signed the draft of the convention for the protection of telegraph cables. Cochery, the French minister of posts and telegraphs, has issued the hope that the convention would be ratified by treaties within three months. The right of interference in cables in time of war was reserved for diplomatic discussion.

The Czar Makes Important Concessions.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 25.—The Czar has determined, despite the objections of the nobility, to grant to the people reforms which will secure to them greater freedom and has directed Count Tolstoi, minister of the interior to draft a constitution to be submitted to him for approval. It will then be promulgated as the fundamental law of Russia. The objection urged against granting these concessions has been the fear that the Nihilists would construe the innovation into a concession to them.

The Ohio Election.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 29.—The official canvass of the vote at the recent election has been made. The final official result on the three amendments is as follows: Judicial amendment—Yes, 402,922; no, 344,638; majority for amendment, 29,307. Penitentiary amendment—Yes, 328,189; no, 240,075. The amendment therefore fails by 37,466 votes. Legislation amendment—Yes, 99,549; no, 192,117. The amendment fails by 267,568. The total vote cast in the state was 731,310.

Spiritualists in Convention.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 25.—The spiritualists of the south, after two weeks of daily lectures and seances, held a general convention and completed a permanent organization. Samuel Watson, D. D., of Memphis, was chosen president, and Chattanooga was made the southern headquarters. Special literature will be distributed through the mails from this city. Southern camp meetings of the association will be organized.

The Tonquin Difficulty.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The Radical Left decided to postpone the interpellation concerning the Tonquin question, not wishing to embarrass the government, pending negotiations. It is reported that Harmand, the French civil commissioner in Tonquin, has been recalled, owing to differences with Admiral Courbet.

Mr. Moody's Labor in Ireland.

CORK, Oct. 28.—The revival mission of Moody and Sankey at Cork is finished, and they are to begin a mission in Waterford. Their labors in Cork were very successful.

An American for Parliament.

John Bright not Coming.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—John Bright states that the report that he intended to visit America this winter is untrue, he has no intention of going to that country.

THE PENSION AGENTS.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 30.—The various pension frauds which are now coming to light are very much annoyed at the action of the interior department, and they will not be reassured by the language of Secretary Teller to Corkhill. He says, among other things: "This business must be broken up," and he pointed to a pile of circulars and posters destined to deceive those who are not familiar with pension laws and to appeals to soldiers. They were inclosed in letters to him which he is now receiving by the hundreds from deluded soldiers and soldiers' widows, who have paid fees for unallowed services. "I was in receipt of a number of complaints," said this chevalier attorney, "from illiterate, ignorant people about several pension attorneys in this city, setting forth that money had been sent by them to attorneys, and that they had never received their pension. I sent one day for a young gentleman in this city, who was about to be one of the prominent establishments in this city, to question him in regard to a special case which appealed strongly to my sympathy. The young man was very communicative, and inquired me frankly that the claim was good for nothing. That one of his promises of doing business, and that he depended for his profits upon the fees he exacted from those who have obtained pensions. By flooding the country with these circulars, fraudulent in their representations, pension attorneys have induced the filing of claims which they knew at the time of filing they were utterly worthless, for which they filed only for the purpose of extorting the $10 fee. In most cases the applicants are poor. In one instance I have on the table now the father of a deceased soldier borrowed a dollar at a time until he has sent the whole $10 abead. His claim was absolutely worthless, and the pension attorney must have known it, or else he was unfit to practice before the department."

Mr. Corkhill will immediately proceed before the grand jury with some of these cases.

Belva Lockwood, the female lawyer, who has been suspended by Secretary Teller for alleged irregularities in pension cases, went to the department and made it warm for Mr. Teller, who told her plainly and firmly that he could not discuss the matter with her, but she could apply for a hearing, prepare her evidence in favor of the charges, and be heard in the regular way. This did not suit her, and she left in high dudgeon, saying she would pillory Mr. Secretary among the presses she was furious, but the secretary witnessed the interview with the coolness of a veteran. Before leaving she left with the department a list of twenty-five cases of fraud, and it was turned completely over, pilling passengers and supper in a heap.

THE BUSINESS OF THE WEEK

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Specialties in the market for hog products after a decline advanced 5@10 points, which gain was well held during the week, except on one day, October 25, on Tuesday. The gain had the effect of bringing into market increased offerings of lard, nearly exceeding the demand, and, as had been predicted, the opinion was confirmed that any further rise in lard figures would greatly increase receipts and thus tend to tip prices over again. The demand for pork has been better on home account as the week advanced. For lard the call has been moderate.

Another poor week's business has to be chronicled for the dry goods and kindred trades. The cause is easily found in the Hebrew holidays of Monday and Tuesday, and the mild and rainy weather prevailing latterly. Commission merchants and jobbers alike have done but a poor and irregular business for the week. Business with retailers remains quiet and will undoubtedly continue so until there is a decided change in the weather.

There were 209 failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's during the past week, 29 more than the preceding week, 22 more than the corresponding week of 1882, and 92 more than the same week of 1881. Compared with the preceding week, the middle states had 58, an increase of 14; New England stated 24, a decrease of 1; southern states 26, an increase of 2; western states 56, a decrease of 12; Pacific states and territories 44, an increase of 30; Canada 30, a decrease of 1.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s mercantile agency report the business failures during the week throughout the United States and Canada as 218, against 245 last week.

Sunset Cox's Opinion.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 26.—Sunset Cox is published here as giving the opinion that the result of the October election in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and of saying this as to the speakership: "I think I shall be elected speaker. I am now of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, California, and several other states. I do not think Randall has more than forty votes all told. Carlisle is stronger than Randall, and I think I am stronger than both. I will never do to elect Randall. If he is elected, farewell to our chances for the next presidency. New York should have the speakership. She hasn't had it since 1834, when John A. Taylor was speaker; and, by the way, he was a cousin of my father."

As to the best man for the Democratic nominee for the presidency, Mr. Cox said: "Thurman, by all means. He is the strongest man before the people whom we could possibly nominate."

As to the tariff question Mr. Cox said: "I believe it will be one of the issues in congress this winter. I see Sherman has promised the people of Ohio to bring up the wool question, and it he brings in the hair we will bring in the whole body."

The Fat Woman Buried.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Moses, the fat woman who died here, was buried at Mount Olivet cemetery. The corpse was carried down stairs on a piece of canvas and placed in the coffin in the lower hall. Then it was carried to the hearse by twelve men, twelve pall-bearers, attaches of the Dime museum. The coffin was black walnut, six feet four inches long, three feet two inches deep and three feet wide. Rev. Mr. Pierce, of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

Cotton Crop.

HELENA, Ark., Oct. 25.—Cotton and corn in the territory south of this city are turning out better than was expected a month ago. Picking is going on rapidly, and the bulk of the crop will soon be out of the fields. Five in Quitman county, Mississippi, the heaviest crop of cotton was expected to be fully one-half short, it is doing much better, two-thirds of an average being the result of the picking as far as it has gone.

Organization of a Citizens' League at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—Several of the most prominent citizens of St. Louis, irrespective of party, met in secret council at the St. Louis club, and a Law and Order league was then organized on the plan of the Philadelphia Citizens' committee of one hundred.

Preparing for the Luther Festival.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The attention of north Germany is occupied with the preparations for the approaching Luther festival. This week the university town of Jena has been the centre of interest by reason of the performance of Otto Devrient's drama of "Luther," under the auspices of the Luther committee of that town.

There are now 318 convicts in the state penitentiary, eleven more than the institution ever before contained at one time.

We have not had any Indian summer yet, and about two weeks of that kind of weather would be acceptible to the average man.

Geo. Long, formerly of the Sauk Center Tribune, and F. B. Simmons of Little Falls are talking of starting a second paper at Long Prairie.

And now, following in the footsteps of the sheriff of Crow Wing county, chief of police Wood, of Fargo, has closed the gambling houses in that city.

There is trouble in the Little Falls graded school on account of regrading. Some of the scholars have left and others will follow suit if some changes are not made.

Emma Bond, the Illinois schoolteacher who was brutally outraged several months ago, is slowly recovering her health. Two hundred witnesses have been summoned for the trial.

A man named James Martin was run over at Hawley, Clay county, last evening, by freight train No. 24. The man is said to have been drunk and to have attempted to cross in front of the freight, which was running slow at the time.

President Villard, of the Northern Pacific, had business in his eye when he arranged the free excursion from St. Paul to the Pacific coast, as one of the results of it, he has sold tracks of land along his line to different persons in Europe, to the aggregate amount of 2,000,000 acres.

Of the 60,000 ladies in America who have taken the degree of Rebekah, Hon. Schuyler Colfax says not one of them have divulged any secret of the order. This statement should ever put to rest the story that a woman cannot keep a secret.

Great excitement prevails over the alleged discovery of gold in paying quantities, at Lisbon, D. T., 55 miles from Fargo. If half we hear is true it will cause the biggest kind of a rush to that country and the farmers of the valley will have to feed the crowd which means good prices for all they have to sell.

This is the season of the year when the Indian swears off on the cattle stealing, desists from murder, leaves the war path and washes the war paint from his face. He smokes the pipe of peace with the paleface, thinks a heap of the great white father, and asks for blankets and provisions. The reform usually lasts till the grass again becomes green.

The movement of the Wall street wreckers to prevent or delay by litigation the issuance of the second mortgage bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company was to have been expected. It will not succeed, but it may temporarily retard the return of the company's stocks to their legitimate place in the market quotations. The congressional charter of the Northern Pacific company authorizes the corporation to issue and secure by mortgage bonds to the extent of $50,000 per mile. Under the old organization there were issued about $30,000,000 in first mortgage bonds. These have all been surrendered and canceled. Under the new or present organization the company has issued some $44,000,000 in first mortgage bonds, at the rate of $25,000 per mile. So that even if the courts should rule that the company can not legally issue an aggregate of more than $50,000 per mile of road and that the redeemed issue of the old company must count in that aggregate, there is still ample margin and warrant for the issue of the proposed $20,000,000 of second mortgage bonds.

A man by the name of Terrance Carr, a United States pensioner, who resides at St. Cloud, has been found guilty of stealing divers articles including chickens, stove lids, lumber, mor ar, brick, etc. He is in jail.

In former years the Mormons were in the habit of pointing to the alleged fact that more girls than boys were born in Mormondom, as a sign of divine approval of polygamy. Late statistics, however, show that of the births in the church during the last six months, 1200 were male and 1100 female; and the last census shows that there were, in 1880, in the territory, 24,932 males under 10 years of age, and 23,762 females. According to Mormon logic these figures prove that, instead of the man having more wives than one, it is quite evident that the woman should have a plurality of husbands.

Trouble at Little Falls.

A small sized railway war cloud has burst upon Little Falls in the contest between the Northern Pacific road and the merchants of the place. It seems that A. J. Sawyer of Duluth, who controls the largest sized grain elevators, has secured the company's interest in his warehouse here and made early in the season an exclusive arrangement to contract all the grain shipped at this point through his elevator. J. H. Rhodes, an old dealer, when he was buying the season began to find himself shut out from the company's books and found the company had arranged to move only Mr. Sawyer's grain, beginning back as far as Oct. 5, demurred, and a red hot correspondence has been in progress between Mr. Rhodes and the general officers of the company. The crisis was reached two days ago in the flat refusal of the company, through both Freight Agent Haniford and Division Superintendent Odell to furnish Mr. Rhodes cars to move his grain. The refusal has created great excitement, as it was virtually an attempt to force the people to sell only to Mr. Sawyer's elevator. The language used by Haniford was that "Mr. Sawyer had large capital invested here and must be protected." This greatly inflamed Little Falls, and placards and bills brought the people together in a large meeting at the court house that evening. The evening was consumed in speeches, and a committee was appointed to draft resolutions to-night. A second meeting was held when the committee reported, amid great enthusiasm, a resolution highly condemdentory of the company's action. The acts of discrimination were condemned as revolutionary and destructive of popular rights. The resolutions were adopted with much spirit, and copies ordered sent with copies of the correspondence to President Villard, Governor Hubbard and Railroad Commissioner Baker.—Speeches were made pledging the business men to unite to prosecute the case to a just end, attorneys pledging their services free of expense. Money was also pledged to secure the best legal assistance.—Little Falls, Oct. 25.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 25.—The Supreme Temple of the Patriarchal Circle of Odd Fellows has at last taken a decisive stand on the matters in dispute between it and the sovereign grand lodge. The circle has used the regular Odd Fellows' uniform and made good standing encampment degrees, a membership qualification. The S. G. L. entered its protest at enlargement of degrees at present, and more especially disliked the Circle, which has grown up and flourished without the aid of the S. G. L. and being out of its jurisdiction. At the recent session of the S. G. L., the body was divided on the question, but finally passed a vote of condemnation, ordering that all Odd Fellows connected with it should withdraw by the 1st of January next. This spirited action, which was not contemplated, roused the Circles, and a special call was issued for a session of the Supreme Circle in this city, commencing yesterday. The avowed object of the meeting was "to take into consideration the propriety of removing the R. P. D. qualification for membership, and take such other action as the representatives and officers of the Supreme Temple may think best for the P. C. in the premises." Yesterday was spent in talking over the matter, but no decisive action was taken until this afternoon, when it was voted to divorce the Circle from Odd Fellowship by removing the R. P. D. Encampment degree as a qualification for membership, nor to use the uniform of that fraternity. This practically ends the matter, for the action taken removes any cause the Sovereign Grand Lodge may have against it. At one time during the meeting in this city it looked as though the Circle would tamely submit to the decree of the S. G. L., and thereby be squashed out of existence; but other counsels prevailed; and the Circle will now be an independent order.

"Old Nig."

The black horse, "Old Nig," that hauled the first and last loads in construction of the Northern Pacific railroad arrived here this morning in a special car from Helena, where he took part in the work of laying the last rail. After the work was accomplished, it will be remembered, the contractors leading him on the platform and presented him to President Villard, who accepted the present and decided to take him to New York and place him in his private stables, where he would be sure of good treatment during the remainder of his days. Nig is a very common looking horse of a medium size with dark gray body and a white line running down his forehead. On his right foreleg is branded with "IV," the stock mark of the late owners. He is quiet and kind, and since he became the property of Mr. Villard, has received the best of treatment and it seems to agree with the old fellow. He will be shipped from Duluth to Buffalo on the propeller China, the manager of the Transit Line giving him a pass. He is at present quartered in the Northern Pacific warehouse, where all who have any desire to see him can do so.—Duluth Times.

Thanksgiving Day.

By order of the President of the United States of America, a Proclamation: In furtherance of the custom of this people at the close of each year to engage upon a day set apart for that purpose in a special festival of praise to the Giver of all good, I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do hereby designate Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as a day of national thanksgiving. The year which is drawing to an end has been replete with evidences of divine goodness. The prevalence of health, the fullness of harvests, stability, peace and order, growth of fraternal feeling, the spread of intelligence and learning, the continued enjoyment of civil and religious liberty—all these and countless other blessings are cause for reverent rejoicing. I therefore recommend that on the day above appointed the people rest from their accustomed labors, and, meeting in their several places of worship, express their devout gratitude to God that he hath dealt so bountifully with this nation, and pray that his grace and favor abide with it forever.

(Signed) CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

The Todd County Murders.

WADENA, Special, Oct. 27.—Two murders committed within twenty-four hours of one another in Todd county, not more than nine miles apart, have occasioned the greatest excitement in both Todd and Wadena counties during the past three days. The first ended the career of one Nathan Gould, a pioneer settler of Todd county, an erratic bachelor farmer who had, during the years he had lived there, succeeded in making himself more than ordinarily obnoxious to nearly all with whom he came in contact. Born in Barnston, in the province of Quebec, about thirty-seven years ago he emigrated with his parents into Vermont, and in course of time, moved by a spirit of adventure, and possibly with a desire to better his attempted fortunes, he came West and took up a homestead eight years ago, nine miles north of Wadena. He was at times moody and miserable, given to brooding, as is generally the case with men living apart from their fellows. He cultivated his farm, built himself a comfortable home, and there passed his time, except when business or infrequent inclination took him into Wadena or some other neighboring town. With a more liberal education he would have made an admirable Judge Page. He lacked the intelligence to conceive the malicious enterprises against the neighboring peace that characterized Page. But, considering his advantages and opportunities he succeeded to the full in arousing the general hatred, fear or contempt of his neighbors. Standing near his remains yesterday, stretched as they were prone upon the highway, his late acquaintances spoke to the Pioneer Press reporter of him in similarly erratic and contradictory character.

"I have known Nate Gould for a number of years," said Peter Tripp, "and never knew him to do a wrong act. My dealings with him have always proved satisfactory."

And yet, in the same breath, apostrophizing a circling bird of prey, he remarked, "Ha, ha! You want a meal. Well, take it. I won't disturb ye." Farmer Hinman spoke in kindly terms of the dead, while Farmer Moody, who recently suffered from one of Gould's incursions, said about the same. A few feet away Gould was stretched across the road, at the entrance to a heavy body of timber, near his home. There were five bullet holes in his back and saddle or in the top of his head. A foot away was a plot of blood. On the ground near his right hand pocket were a key and a cent, and twenty feet away in the middle of the road was a box of paper collars. Gould lay on his face where he had lain since Thursday afternoon or early in the evening when he was shot. How he died is not, by whom and at what hour are mere surmises as yet. On Monday last, Gould was arrested on complaint of James Moody, on a charge of arson, he having recently shot a heifer belonging to the complainant, and taken three quarters of it to Wadena, where he sold it to Erik Magnes the town butcher. After he was arrested Constable Bowers took him over to Stowe Prairie, where, after an examination, he was held in $300 bail to await the action of the grand jury. Accompanied by the constable he went to Wadena in search of a bondsman, and it was until Thursday that he got the bond signed. He made it a practise to go armed, and when arrested his revolver and ammunition were taken from him, but his cartridge belt left upon his person. He entered into a stipulation with the constable to pay that function $4 per day for accompanying him, and he and Bowers watched him at night at $1.50 for every night his services were required. The bail bond having been submitted to Justice Hildreth and accepted, the prisoner asked Gould for a settlement, and jumped on his pony, and telling the constable he might go plum to hell, galloped off. The following day at 9 o'clock on Thursday last, and it is the last he was seen alive save by the person or persons who murdered him. On Friday afternoon School Superintendent Hinman, having occasion to pass over the road where Gould was lying, discovered the body and gave the alarm. What follows is purely surmise. Gould had recently had misunderstandings with Jim Moody, whose heifer he shot and sold to the Wadena butcher; with the constable, who was doubtless incensed at the treatment he received, and with two young men, brothers, named Reese, who rented of his farm last fall, plowed it and put in a crop. When the crop was nearly ripened he ran them off the farm with a revolver, and threatened to shoot them if they ever came on the premises again. They were advised to arm themselves and did so, preparatory to the deadly meeting for which they were continually on the look-out. Now, it was known that when Gould was arrested he was disarmed, and that Constable Bowers held his pistol as security for the $9 he owed him. It is probable that certain of his long-suffering victims took advantage of this circumstance, and lay in ambush for him in the timber where he was killed, and there dispatched him. The most probable theory is that it was slightly after nightfall when Gould emerged from the open country and entered the timber; that he was fired at, and his horse—a very spirited one—jumped, and he threw up his hands convulsively; and the collars, which he carried in one hand, were thrown twenty feet away. Falling from his horse he was shot in the head, and subsequently not less than a half a dozen times in the back. Excessive pain in the abdomen made him press his hand thereon, and so falling on his face, he died. And there he had lain for forty-eight hours when the reporter saw him. It was snowing hard, and fifty feet away was a fire, surrounded by half a dozen residents of the neighborhood, who had volunteered to watch over his remains until the coroner arrived. There were present M. L. Hinman, Daniel Tripp, James Moody, William Moody, T. Moody, R. A. Lepper, Perry Newell and Sexton Sheldon. Justice Kildreth arrived from Stowe Prairie at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and ordered the body removed to Gould's late residence pending the arrival of the coroner, who was expected during the day.

While Gould was not at all liked in the neighborhood, there were found some who were inclined to ascribe his conduct to incipient insanity. Mr. Hinman had known him to sit in his dooryard and practice with a pistol on a new pump. He had said: "Nate, I believe you're crazy. Gould replied: 'well, my head does feel very queer at times.' He had spells when he would revel in an ecstacy of rage. He would whistle and yell like a madman, and howl and prance around like one possessed. At other times, when not possessed of this demon of rage, he was quiet and agreeable. He had come, after constant brooding, to believe himself hated of everybody, and he nursed an artificial hatred in return.

"Not fifty feet from where we stand now," said Farmer Hinman, "Gould killed one of his neighbor's sheep, stuffed the pelt in an old log, and took the meat home."

This was characteristic of the misanthrope, who had come to believe in and practice a system of reprisals. He called it getting even. And whatever may have been his failings, or however obnoxious he may have been to his neighbors, in the manner of his taking off stamps it as a cold blooded and inexcusable murder, prompted by revenge alone. The worst act he ever committed in Todd county could have been punished by legal means. He seems to have been at his worst. A blustering misanthrope, yet he had so completely terrorized his neighbors that satisfaction was resorted to to rid the vicinity of his presence. The farm he owned is the best in that locality. It consists of 160 acres, and is valued at $3,200. It is mortgaged for upward of $1,500. If there be anything left after his estate is settled up, it will probably revert to a sister residing a few miles west of Wanena. There seems to be a general desire to let the tragedy pass without too strict a legal inquiry. But upon sober second thought the authorities of Todd county will probably recognize the fact that private malice cannot be permitted to usurp the functions of the law, and thus inspired they may press the investigation of the crime to the very bottom.—Pioneer Press.

Piles

are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. A moisture like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching piles yield at once to to Dr. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY which acts directly upon the parts affected, checking the ulcers, allaying the intense itching, and affecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. O. H. Hubbard & Co. are running their store on Fifth street in full blast now. Bargains for cash can be had at their place of business and no mistake.

Si Hall has been hauling saw dust and shavings onto the street near the post-office this week. We hope to see the day when Brainerd will have her streets paved.

Donellan & Harrison of the Brainerd Bottling Works have dissolved partnership, Mr. Harrison still continuing the business. Mr. Donellan will go to Pennsylvania.

The new way of collecting railroad fare by shooting a man, as was done by a lineman on the Northern Pacific last Tuesday, is not destined to become very popular.

The scientific entertainment given by Prof. Kerstetter in Hartley Hall, on Tuesday evening last, was very poorly attended, although the show merited a full house.

County auditor Thomsen and Frank Howard, of the car shops, started for Valley City Saturday night on a pleasure and business trip combined. They were to be absent five or six days.

During the hall storm of Monday a house about a mile out in the country was struck by lightning and four members of the family received quite a shock, but not resulting seriously.

Last Saturday night the passenger train coming from the west ran off the track west of Hawley and the tender and two cars were badly used up. The accident was caused by an open switch.

The water pipe 18 on the ground for Front and Laurel streets, which has been left until the last, in order that the ditches should not be kept open any longer than necessary on these streets.

John W. Moore and Chas. Renstrom, of Crow Wing county, were before United States Commissioner Cardozo of St. Paul last Thursday on the charge of cutting timber from government lands. They gave bail in the sum of $500 each for their appearance.

The Chautauqua Circle will meet next week Thursday evening at the Congregational Church, Rev. E. C. Evans hosting been elected president and J. C. Congdon secretary at the last meeting. The society bids fair to be a success.

According to a new Northern Pacific time table, which went into effect Sunday, all Duluth trains will connect with night trains from Brainerd, instead of day trains. Other changes have been made on the extreme western end of the road.

Ihaver Bros. have sold out their bakery business to Hills & Fairbanks. The last named gentlemen now have a monopoly of the business in Brainerd, and as they are straight forward business men, they will hold their customers in the future as in the past.

The meetings at the Baptist church this week opened with excellent interest. Already several have professed conversion. Mr. Arnold is a very interesting speaker and is evidently getting hold of the people. The meetings will be continued.

The engines have arrived for the Water Works and all the pipes are now here. The entire system will be completed in ten days, when the water will be turned on. Parties desiring service pipes should hand in their names as soon as possible.

The force of men at the railroad shops were somewhat reduced on Wednesday night. The cause for this is the trouble that has been occasioned in floating the bonds of Brainerd. This resolution will only be temporary and in a short time more men than ever will be at work.

J. Y. Waugh has had on exhibition at the Chicago Hat Store for a few days a fine seal-skin sacque which cost at wholesale $300. Mr. W. ordered the garment as a present for his sister, Miss Kate Waugh, who lives at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to which place it was sent the first of the week.

The new flouring mill will be ready to commence grinding in about three weeks. The machinery has nearly all been placed in position and work on the engine house is being completed. The building will be heated by steam, and when finished the mill will be one of the most complete north of Minneapolis.

Our people will be sorry to learn that Prof. and Mrs. Atcherson leave soon for Minneapolis. They have made many friends during their sojourn here. We know wherof we speak when we pronounce the Prof. one of the most accomplished masters of the terpsichorean art, and we can bespeak for the lovers of dancing that they have secured a teacher under whom they can and will perfect themselves in the graceful art. Mrs. A. is one of the finest musicians in the west. We all promise them our hearty support, should they see fit to again visit our city.

A. L. Heffman, one of our energetic young business men has established a feed store in Brainerd, and has just shipped 2,000 bushels of white Russian oats to that place which he will sell at retail. He purposes entering largely into the commission trade, and our merchants and others having grain or produce to ship for sale, will do well to correspond with Mr. Hoffman.—[Sauk Centre Tribune.

The city at the present time appears to be infested with a gang of crooks, both black and white. They appear upon the streets respectably dressed and apparently well fed, and yet have no visible means of support. They are evidently of that class of astronomers, who look around in the day time to see what they can pick up at night. A number of them are under the surveillance of the police, and the first break they make will find them with the penalty of thirty days to serve and a leg ornament of ball and chain.

The social party given by Prof. and Mrs. G. Atcherson at Hartley Hall on Friday evening was one of the events of the season. About one hundred couple were present, among whom were many of his scholars, and the ease and gracefulness with which they moved around the room showed that the Professor's efforts during the past few weeks had not been in vain. The party left the hall about 1 o'clock, all declaring that it had been one of the most pleasant occasions it had been their good luck to attend for many a day.

The police quited the gambling room located in the basement of the Brainerd postoffice on Saturday night, and succeeded in capturing six occupants, among whom was the colored man, Creighton, who had the foot race here a week or so ago. The parties, according to the statute, is for the dealer from $50 to $100, for parties betting from $5 to $20, and for the parties letting the room for such purpose from $75 to $100. They gave bail to appear before Judge Dondglass on Tuesday, but the case was adjourned until next Wednesday.

The art of tailoring, as carried on by H. A. Hay and his assistants on Sixth street, next door to the postoffice, has been reduced to an actual science for they are as successful in making the most ungainly man appear well dressed as those who are glasses of fashion and models of form. You can always find a large line of all kinds of overcoatings and suitings of the very latest patterns. It is a fact, proven beyond peradventure, that any man who delites to be perfectly dressed for any occasion, will be certain to obtain satisfaction if he will but leave the matter to Mr. Hay or his genial manager, J. Y. Waugh, as they are hard to beat in their line and make a close study of what is best suited to the styles of different men, and dresses his customers in good fashion without any foolish appearance. A trial given to this establishment will fully corroborate the facts as related in this article.

The alleged spiritualist, Miss Eva Fay, drew a full house at Hartly Hall last Thursday evening to see the spirits dance and capering around in full view of the stage, but the audience was somewhat disappointed in regard to the spirit manifestations although the slight of hand performance was passably good. In the center of the stage was placed a cabinet or tent, which seemed to contain nothing but a chair and a stanchion to which to fasten the medium. After the white canvas manager had explained the situation and generously allowed the audience to adopt either of the theories by which the performances are accounted for, a committee of citizens were invited on the stage, composed of T. P. White and W. Davis, and they examined the cabinet, the fastenings of the mediums and all the appurtenances. Then Miss Fay went into the tent, tied hands and feet and neck and by iron rings to the stanchion. The committee put on their glasses and made sure that the fastenings were all bona fide, when the curtain was drawn, and there was quite a musical hubbub inside, with instruments thrown out, when the curtain was pushed back and the medium appears not to have moved hand or foot and remains tied fast. There are two expert mediums besides Miss Fay, but the performances were all connected with the cabinet and of the same class as given by the regular professionals. They are difficult to account for except upon the easy theory of the parties themselves that invisible spirits are the agents operating in the cabinet. This explanation has value in that it provides a mission for the departed spirits of those who subserved no useful purpose in the flesh. Their docility and utility now in the hands of peripatetic exhibitors are remarkable. They certainly have learned much since they left their material tenements.

Improvement.

We have this week added a new and useful improvement in the art of color printing. It is called Capa' Patent Process. In this progressive age no art has made more rapid strides than that of printing. Printing mechanical appliances and devices have attained what appears to be almost absolute perfection, and one of the latest is this patent process for artistic printing in colors, rivaling in beauty engraving or lithographing. We can, by the use of this process accomplish results in printing not heretofore gained outside of lithographing establishments and are enabled to do work for the business men of this place as neatly and attractively as can be done by the engraver or lithographer and at much lower prices. We have purchased the exclusive right for its use in the city of Brainerd and Crow Wing, Wadena and Aitkin counties. Parties desiring colored work, either posters, commercial work or cards should call and examine our facilities and look over our samples and they will at once be convinced that it is the best method now in use.

Sold Boastfully.

On last Thursday night a big sale of Mrs. Burnstine was in attendance at the complimentary reception given by Prof. Atcherson, at Hartley Hall, their residence was ransacked and every thing of value that could be picked up was taken. On their return to their home at about 12 o'clock, they found the doors all unbolted and also saw, as soon as they entered the house, that every thing was not all right, from the things that lay scattered over the floor. Mr. Burnstine immediately called the domestics who had been left in charge and she seemed to be entirely ignorant of what had transpired. The neighbors were called in and things looked over but they failed to find any clue to the midnight marauders. Suspicion pointed very strongly toward the hired girl and it was decided to discover, if possible, where the goods were secreted and also to gain some clue as to whether there were other parties connected with the theft, accordingly the girl's room was searched and several articles were found in her possession, among which was a pocket book with some French coin and several keys belonging to Mrs. B. Later on the bulk of the stolen goods were found in the alley, secreted behind an ice box and in an old barrel. The girl stoutly declared her innocence, saying that the articles in her pocket were picked up by her on that morning in the hall and she forgot to give them back, and as to the goods in the shed it was as much a surprise to her as to her accusers. The goods found in the barrel and behind the box were valued at somewhere about $600 and were composed of the following articles: One onyx set of jewelry of three pieces valued at $60; one gold and cameo locket $45; gold ear rings $6; onyx locket $12; diamond ear rings $25; gold bracelets $25; cameo scarf pin $8; gold ring $8, onyx scarf pin $12; gold and cameo ring $6; gold and cameo locket $18; three scarf pins $3; velvet and silk dress $125; cashmere dress $75; silk shall $50; lace shawl $12; parasol $15; dress coat and vest $40, and a gold thimble $6. The jewelry was tied up in a handkerchief and the dresses and other articles were thrown in promiscuously, and were discovered by the sticking out of a piece of lace from the top of the barrel.

A Dispatch representative visited the girl in her cell at the county jail on Monday. She is a stout built, rather short of stature, with a pleasing appearance.—She told the reporter that her name was Emma Benson, and that she was a Norwegian by birth, coming to this country alone but four years ago, being 17 years of age at the present time. She says that she worked three years at the Fourth avenue hotel in Minneapolis previous to coming to Brainerd, and that when she was accused of stealing things was the first she knew of the matter and all that she could say was that she was innocent of the charge.

She was brought up before Judge Douglas on Tuesday for examination and was bound over to await trial at the next term of the district court, the bail being fixed at $750, in default of which she was taken to the county jail.

Later.—Since the above was in type the girl has made a confession of the whole thing, and story is as follows: It seems that she was acquainted with a fellow who come from Minneapolis, and that he had visited her twice before the burglary, unbeknown to Mr. Burstine's family and that he came on this night and finding the family absent he asked the girl to help him steal the articles and dig with him to Bismarck, where they would be married and would dress up with the stolen articles. The girl according to her story, refused at first, but was finally coaxed over and showed him where the keys to the various rooms were, and he proceeded to gather together the articles and when he got nearly through they heard footsteps and thinking the family were coming home, he hastily secreted the goods in the barrel and behind the ice box. He left after this, being afraid to take the goods for fear he was watched by the police, telling the girl he would come after them and also telling her that if she gave him away he would kill her. This threat is probably what made the girl so emphatic in her denial of knowing anything about the affair. She gave the fellows name, which is kept out of print by request, although it is supposed he has skipped the town for fresh fields.

East Brainerd.

Excitement prevails.

Will Thirkill is pushing the work on his new house, and hopes to have it ready for his family about Dec. 1st.

Jim says that we shall surely have an invitation, but he wouldn't have it made public yet. Poetry hereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. James Parker have returned from a happy visit with relatives in Michigan and Canada.

The new hospital drew a large number of people Sunday afternoon, and all pronounced it equal to the N. P. R. R.

Judging from the manner in which the second item in our last week's correspondence appeared in print we conclude that the "fill" as some other distinguished person in the editor's office must have been holding an interview with one of Miss Fay's "spooks" about the time that our letter arrived.

On Friday last a man whose name we are unable to learn was attacked by a gang of toughs on the north side of town, he had on his person changed hands rather suddenly. Some parties at a distance saw the robbery and telephoned for the police, but they did not arrive in time to capture the thief, who skipped to the woods and has not been seen since. The fact that this occurred near First avenue, in open day, is sufficient cause for all to keep a sharp lookout when in the presence of ruffianes appearing persons.

Later.—Since writing the above we learn that both parties were indulging in a free fight, and the least drunken was conquered in the best manner.

One of the most joyous social gatherings of the season was held at the residence of alderman Thos. Watts, one evening last week. The surprise was given by the Mary Mc'School, at whose house the guests assembled. Promptly at eight o'clock they marched to the residence of Mr. W. and demanded admission, which was cheerfully given, accompanied by a hearty invitation for all to use the rooms to the best possible advantage for their pleasure; the invitation was accepted and resulted in as much happiness as could well be had in one evening. The Tinkers' band furnished the music for the party.

S. C. M.

The Perham Bulletin has the following to say about the man in the thing.—Montgomery, who is beating the people through the country by he will only show up in Brainerd again he will be accommodated with free board for a while.

When a man undertakes to beat the people of this country, especially the printing fraternity, he is sure to be left when he least expects it. On Tuesday a good looking overgrown fellow stalked into our office and said he was desirous of having a lot of printing done, but a Brainerd Dispatch was before us, and we had just been reading how a man of same description had "pulled 'em" down there, we made made up our mind we had no use for outside job work at the present time. He then asked for a hotel and was told the name of both houses, choosing the Grand Pacific, he walked over, registered, and was soon carving away a cartload of the good things from the table down his throat. We soon found that the name also corresponded with that in the Dispatch. His jig was then up, Schroeder, the landlord was right after him and he demanded his pay; but he said he had not a cent, but was going to work in the Bulletin office and would go up and get some money when in our office the landlord demanded his pay again but he had nothing. The man's name is Joe Montgomery, is heavy set, and wears how glasses, and says he is working for Morton & Co., of Fargo. We advise the gulli drivers to watch for his coming. His descent down our back stairs was very sudden, and rather unexpected to him.

Prof. and Mrs. Atcherson and one or two other Brainerd musicians will go to Sauk Centre to-morrow, to furnish the music for a grand ball to be given at that place Friday evening.

David Snell met with a very serious accident last evening. It seems that he was getting ready to go to Mill Lacs lake hunting and had his Winchester rifle with him, and when in the post-office he dropped it, which exploded the cartridge, the ball striking him on the ankle and going clear through it and lodging in the partition. The man was taken to Dr. Howes office, where the wound was dressed and it was found that his ankle was very badly shattered. The postoffice was full of people at the time, but luckily no one else was injured.

Wanted.—A boy 15 or 16 years of age to learn book-keeping and office work. Apply at the Dispatch office.

A mammoth bankrupt stock of goods is being moved into C. M. Patek's old stand, on Sixth street, which will be sold at actul cost price. Unprecedented bargains in goods can be had by calling early. See advertisement.

MARRIED.

At the Baptist parsonage, Oct. 27th, by Elder W. W. Regan, Mr. C. L. Kemp ank Miss Eugeine Rahler, both of Gull River.

To the Voters of Crow Wing County.

Gentlemen:

I hereby withdraw my candidacy for the office of Sheriff in favor of Thos. H. O'Brien. My health is such that I feel I could not perform the duties of the office as it should be done, and as I am sure Mr. O'Brien will, if elected. With heartfelt thanks to my friends and in the hope that they will support Mr. O'Brien, I am, respectfully

T. C. Lower.

Political Announcement.

Owing to the deliberate misprepresentation to a number of delegates, before the convention met, in regard to my wanting the office of Judge of Probate, and on account of the urgent solicitation of a number of our leading citizens, I hereby announce to the voters of Crow Wing county that I am a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate at the ensuing election.

H. D. Follett.

For Superintendent of Schools.

Having been requested by a large number of voters to become a candidate for the office of county Superintendent of schools, I hereby announce myself a candidate for that office.

Very respectfully,

O. H. Hubbard.

Ordinance No. 28.

An Ordinance providing for numbering buildings in the city of Brainerd.

The Council of the city of Brainerd do ordain:

Section 1. That every building in said city used as a dwelling, shop or store shall be numbered and the number placed or marked in a place thereon conspicuous and plainly visible from the street, which figures shall be Roman letters; the number shall be not less than three (3) inches in height, and the thickness of stripes not less than one half (½) inch in breadth. Said buildings shall be so numbered by their owners within thirty days from the date of publication hereof, or within thirty days after said buildings shall be erected.

Sec. 2. One number shall be allowed on both sides of every street, for each twenty-five (25) lineal feet of street. The even numbers shall be on the east and south side of the streets, and the odd numbers on the west and north sides. Buildings situated on the corner of two streets shall be numbered on the street which they face. Numbers shall commence at Seventh street as the same now is or may hereafter be extended, and run east and west, and at the main track of the Northern Pacific railroad and run north and south. East and west streets which do not intersect 7th street, and are on the east side thereof, shall be numbered from their western terminus, and those on the west side thereof from their eastern terminus. North and south streets on the north side of said railroad which do not intersect the same shall be numbered from their southern terminus, and those on the south side from their northern terminus.

Sec. 3. Any person or persons who shall neglect or refuse to number his, her or their building in the manner before provided, within the time above specified, shall, upon conviction of such offence before a police justice of said city, be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and the costs of prosecution, and shall be imprisoned until such fine and costs are paid, not exceeding twenty (20) days.

Passed October , 1883.

Attest: James Dewar,
President of the Council.

B. G. Sparks,
City Clerk.

Approved October 31st, 1883.
