VOLUME IV BRAINERD, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1885. NUMBER 10.

SUMMARY OF NEWS OF THE WEEK.

General Gordon Surely Dead.

A telegram was received at the British war office in London, from Gen. Wolseley, dispatching an account of the fall of Khartoum as given by a native eye witness to the entrance of the rebels into the town at Khartoum. This informer says the city was entered by El Mahdi's forces at daybreak on the morning of Jan. 26 Gen. Gordon was killed by a volley from rebel skirmishers as he had friends who had been brewing two years.

In the Swain court material recently, testimony was given which goes to show that the name of Swain's forage was delivered was a cloth stable, where a number of gentlemen, including Baring Brothers, Drexel, Morgan & Co., Bateman, the banker, kept their horses, and the Hamilton stables were also there.

Sentence was pronounced at London, Canada, upon Rev. Timothy O'Connel, found guilty by the jury of trial of Masonic lodge disorderly conduct in becoming intoxicated. The bishop withdrew his license and removed him from the position of assistant minister of the cathedral of the Holy Trinity.

The president has, by executive order, opened to public settlement after May 15, 1885, all the lands within the Devil's Lake Sioux Indian reservation in Nebraska remaining unallotted to the Indians after the allotments, such as are occupied for agency, school and mission purposes.

The Prussian minister of agriculture has issued a report on the agricultural status of Prussia for the past three years. He states that the harvest of 1884 was a failure in the line of corn, but was not when the scope of its production is taken into view, and he relies upon it by producing cheese, butter and eggs.

The following is a list of officers of the membership of the senate may be formed from the fact that while 26 senatorial elections were held to fill terms had expired, and 25 of the 26 to the new members were chosen, so that of the 67 senators of the present senate, 62 of them are old members; the election in Illinois and Oregon not having taken place.

A delegation of Chippewa Indians from the Turtle Mountain reservation, Dak., called upon the commissioner of Indian affairs recently, and urged him to enlarge the boundries of their reservation. The commissioner replied they had no excuse to offer, but that all the land in the child of their tribe, and which was as much as they could use, and he could not accede to their request.

During to the recent episode at Webster's which Rudolph Mahone, the senator's son, and his pistol were prominent; the senator who had apartments there, has removed to the Ebbitt. The occupants of the last part of the row are led to a disagreement with the proprietor, and thereby the senator's name was dragged in. The holes in the woodwork above the door of the room in which young Mahone's pistol are still pointed out to visitors.

The reception tendered to Senator-Isbell Wilson, Democratic member of the Ohio League club of New York, of which he is president, was one of the most brilliant affairs of the kind which New York has ever seen. In spite of the driving snow storm which blocked the streets and made the brilliantly illuminated club house look like a fortress, a large number of persons present seemed only limited by the capacity of the building.

Judge Wylie, of the Indiana state court of New York, rendered a decision holding that the assignment of Mayor A. Co., is null and void, and that the firm of A. Co. is a wholesale business in White street, was composed of Matthew and Benjamin Mayer, Mayer, the eldest son. The firm failed Sept. 25, 1883, for over $1,000,000. Both members of the firm have been indicted for perjury and are now out on bail.

The bill passed by the house to regulate the letting of mail contracts provides in case a bidder fails to perform service according to his contract, he will be required to pay all liable for the amount of his bond as liquidated damages, and he will be liable for the bond. It also provides that no subletting or transfer of any mail contract shall be made under the contract for service shall cease by the postmaster general, without the consent in writing of the postmaster general.

The bill introduced by John H. Stenger, the president of the Washington colony, at Wahcoma, Wash. Ter., was blown to atoms by dynamite, and Stenger's wife and child were killed. The cause cannot be learned, but it is supposed to be the outcome of the land-brawls which has been brewing two years.

Representative Dorsheimer has introduced a bill relative to the coinage of silver. It fixes the standard of weight at 480 grains, and provides for the issuance of treasury notes, redeemable in such coin or in silver bars in proportion. Foreign silver is to be taxed at the highest rate of duty imposed on manufactured silver, and its coinage at any United States mint is prohibited. The bill also leaves the amount of coinage optional with the secretary of the treasury, and invests the certificates with legal tender qualities, except when otherwise expressly stipulated.

Cause of the Egyptian War.

The main reasons which actuate England in waging war against the Mahdi in Egypt are about as follows. She has a large pecuniary interest in the Suez canal, Beaconsfield having purchased one-third of the stock for $20,000,000, which is now considerably enhanced in value, and England has claims, for loans made by Englishmen to the Egyptian government to the amount of $200,000,000. In 1876, at the request of Ismail, the former khedive of Egypt, France and England each sent an agent to look after their claims, who arranged what is known as the "joint control," to supervise the entire revenues of Egypt. This management exempted the Europeans from taxation, and cost the Egyptian government $9,000,000 a year. Ismail wearied of this and kicked the "control" out of office, which act led to his deposition in 1879 by England and France, through Turkey, and the "control" was re-established. It reduced expenses and the army, and its acts produced the rebellion, under Arabi Bey, in 1882. France here deserted England, leaving her alone to subdue Arabi Bey, which she did after a vast expenditure of money and loss of men. This obliged England to garrison Egypt and manage its revenues, in order to maintain her control of it. Such was the state of affairs in 1883, when Mohammed Achmet, the Mahdi, appeared as the champion of Islam and slavery and the overtaxed Egyptians, and massacred Yussef Pasha and his 6000 Egyptian followers. Thus England was compelled to meet the new danger, and defend Egypt.

Its No Use:

We understand the appointment of a new agent at White Earth causes considerable excitement among the Indians as the present incumbent is will liked and personally gave good satisfaction and was expected to complete his full term. The Beaulieu faction is very jubilant and imagine themselves already as the "power behind the throne," in the coming administration, as in "re olden time," but it is safe to say that their past record, which is on file in the department will debar them from any voice in the management of affairs at White Earth in the future.—Detroit Record.

England's Fighters.

St. Paul Dispatch:]

Ireland, as usual, is fighting England's battles on the hot plains of Africa. This is a significant fact, in connection with the recent dynamite outrages. Much attention is called to the anomalous feature suggested by the recent marvelous march on foot of an Irish regiment across the burning sands of the Bayuda desert. The best of discipline and the highest soldierly honor fail to silence murmurs of complaint from even patriots. But here were men who, stripped of their uniform, were virtually aliens And yet they performed the terrible march as uncomplainingly as if on dress parade, and put to shame the loyalty of many who boasted of English birth. There is something here far beyond the short sightedness of the politician, beyond the distorted vision of the agitator, beyond, alas, too often, the keenest vision of those who lead the world's statesmen.

British Dynamite Lobbying.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The decision of the house committee day before yesterday on foreign relations, that it would be unbecoming to the dignity of the house to consider resolutions condemning the actions of the Irish dynamiters, is not apparently just what the English government expected. The British government has begun to lobby for some expression from the house favorable to English interests. To-day, for an hour or more, Edward Pierrepont, British consul, sat in one of the lobby leading into the main door of the house, calling out, one after another, of the foreign relations committee, to whom he showed various letters and papers in relation to the dynamite question. His chief request was that the committee should reconsider its determination and bring the matter before the house that a vote might be taken, if the house so desired. Congressmen Hewitt and ex-Senator Eaton were kept in conference longer than the rest of the committee, in the effort to secure their co-operation. This failed, however, and various members of the committee to-night say they shall not reverse their decision, although they may allow it a reconsideration. Congressman Piercy, when he learned of Mr. Pierrepont's action, remarked that it was a superlative piece of impertinence on the part of the British official, but characteristic, all the same.

Rise of the Swedish Coast.

An examination of a series of tide marks, set in 1750, all around the Swedish coast, from the mouth of the Tornea to the Naze, in order to settle a dispute between the Swedish astronomer, Celsius, and some Germans, as to whether the level of the Baltic had been rising or sinking, shows that both parties were right. The gauges were renewed in 1851, and again this year and have been inspected regularly at short intervals, the observations being carefully recorded. It appears, says Nature, that the Swedish coast has been steadily rising, while on the southern fringe of the Baltic has been as steadily falling. The dividing line, along which no change is perceptible, passes from Sweden to the Schleswig Holstein coast, over Bornholm and Laland. The results have lately been published by the Swedish academy of sciences, and it appears from them that while during this period of 134 years the Germans, as the part of Sweden

The book will be substituted on the list for future supplies. The professor highly recommends the book to the superintendents.

There are certain alleged newspapers in this section, which are still running the Victor Well Auger Co.'s "ad." We desire to warn farmers and others that this company is the worst fraud in the United States and that if money is sent them, the sender is out of pocket. A fraud is one of the evils which should be shown up, and there are grave doubts in our mind as to whether any newspaper which permits this class of "gulls" to use his space to defraud the public, is any better than the one man who pretends to be the Victor Well Auger Company.

That peripatetic disciple of the tripod and magnetic needle, who is known by the sobriquet of county surveyor, has again submitted to the unreliable. This time in spite of his charge against the DISPATCH of misrepresentation of his acts, and his asserted defiance of the county commissioners, he delivered that map to the county for twenty-five dollars, the price agreed upon before the job was undertaken, although Relf wanted to claim fifty dollars after he had completed it. This is no voluntary relinquishment of Relf's extortionate claim for the drawing, but was brought about by the commissioners requiring Mr. Relf to adhere to his originally agreed price or else suffer a contraction of some certain free privileges he now enjoys at the county's expense. We say read somewhere in the good book, "By their fruits ye shall know them,"

To the Voters.

The change of the boundaries of the different wards makes it necessary that parties who have voted in the wards, as previously bounded, should register in the ward in which they now live. The change makes the First ward comprise that part of the city which lies south of the N. P. track and west of the St. Paul track. The Second ward takes in the part lying north of the track and west of the ravine. The Third ward comprises that part of the city lying east of the ravine on the north side and east of the St. Paul track, on the south side.

Voters should govern themselves accordingly. You can register not later than Saturday evening, February 21, at 9 p. m.

St. Patrick's Dance.

There will be a dance given at the roller rink in this city on St. Patrick's day, March 17. The committee, who have the matter in hand, are making all due preparations for the occasion, and it undoubtedly will be a very enjoyable time. Before the dance takes place the beautiful fawn, that is now on exhibition at the Wells, Fargo & Express office, on Sixth street, will be voted to the most prominent housekeeper in the city, the names of whom will be given in next week's DISPATCH. The committee on arrangements are; Jack McGivern, James Cullen and Johnny Burns; and the floor managers are; Pat Murphy, Wm. Barnes and John Hughes. Further particulars next week.

The Lecture.

Mr. McClary's lecture last Wednesday night on "Sunshine and Labor," was a brilliant and truly eloquent affair. He kept his audience deeply interested to the close, and at no time did their attention flag. Great laughter was very frequent all through. The audience was delighted and all deeply regretted that the entire city did not hear the lecture. Many requested that the lecture be repeated, that those who heard not might hear. One of our prominent democratists said Mr. McClary was born an orator. He is perfectly at home on the stage. All who have heard him are anxious to hear him again. On account of the very earnest solicitation of many who have heard him, to repeat the lecture next Thursday evening he will lecture on "The struggle for a Home." This lecture will equal, if not surpass, the other in every respect. Mr. McClary's ten-year-old daughter, who possesses dramatic talents to a degree astonishing, for a child of her age, will take part in the entertainment. A very enjoyable and profitable time is looked forward to with great interest.

THEY DON'T WANT HIM.

EDITORS DISPATCH:—The Journal of last week says that the opposition to Dr. Howes have no line of public policy to advocate, that they could claim their own. Now, I wish to say for one, and I think that others will echo the same, that if we have no line of policy, there will be found men enough, of principle, who will not vote for a man who is all policy and no principle. If we intend to uphold the respect for our city government, we must put a man of a sound, honest principle at the head, and not some scheming horse jockey. When a representative tells the people he have elected him, that if they want him to do anything for them, they should place money at his disposal, that he might be enabled to treat the members of the state legislature to wine, whisky and cigars; or, in other words, that he might buy their influence, it looks to me as though he went there with the intention of setting his little nite up for the highest bidder, and supposed that every one had done so, that had preceded him. Now, I would like to ask any and every man, of sound common sense, which of these two qualities should exist in a man to represent Crow Wing county, made this statement to some of the leading men of this city, that if they would him to do anything for them, they should place four or five hundred dollars at his disposal, that he might treat the members of the legislature, for once heard this same man say that he would rather be a full grown frog here at Brainerd than a polywog at St. Paul or Minneapolis. I suppose he thought that if the people of this city would only give him the money he would try to cast off the caudal appendage and become a full grown frog abroad. I think he rightfully estimated his influence when he said, that if they would place them at the polls, how much they think of him, by electing him to travel on his passes next summer, I believe he has already expressed his intention of doing. I wish to echo the words of a former writer to the DISPATCH, "No, Mr. Journal man, we don't want Dr. Howes for mayor.

Third Annual Ball.

The ball given by the Brainerd city band, on Tuesday evening, at the rink, was one of the most successful dancing parties ever given in this city. The occasion was the third anniversary of the band, and of course, the boys were all interested in making it a pleasant occasion—and they succeeded. The spacious floor of the rink was well filled with dancers, who seemed to enjoy themselves hugely. The galleries, too, were well filled with spectators. The music, as furnished by Dreskell's orchestra, was superb, such as one can only hear from first-class musicians, and the members of the orchestra received many compliments. The prizes offered for dancing were as follows:

To the couple who danced "Sallie Waters" the best, an elegant silver and gold card receiver. This prize was carried off by Miss Hattie Hodgedon and Mr. A. H. Bennett, who were declared to be the winners.

The first prize for waltzing was given to Miss Mamie Campbell and F. J. Pearson, it being a gold ring.

The second prize was an elegant silver and glass vase, and was awarded to Mrs. J. B. Douglas and S. F. Alderman.

The prize for the best dancers of "Monnie Musk" was a pair of silver and glass vases to the lady and a pair of calf button boots to the gent, and was given to Mrs. J. N. Lowe and T. C. Bivens.

Supper was furnished the dancers at the Willard and at Chesterman's restaurant. The band boys report some $220 taken in at the door, which, after the expenses are paid, will leave them a nice little sum.

The People's Choice.

By referring to another column the readers of the DISPATCH will see that James S. Gardner has announced himself as a candidate for re-election to the office of mayor of the city of Brainerd. One year ago this paper made the same announcement and endorsed his candidacy, and we most heartily do so again. In running a candidate for mayor who shall represent the people, a citizen must be chosen whose character and reputation will furnish a sufficient guarantee that if he is elected to fill the responsible position he will fearlessly and persistently use all the powers of his office to enforce the laws and to no-one or to strengthen them if need be. Mr. Gardner's past career and record as mayor of our thriving and industrious city is such that no word of reproach can be uttered against him. He is a man who has lived in this city for years and has staged here through its reverses and enjoyed with others its prosperity. His interests are all here, and we can safely say that if he is elected he will do no act that will not tend to the advancement and prosperity of Brainerd. Mr. Gardner is a candidate of no clique or ring, but a candidate of the people and for the people, and on that issue will be elected.

While we do not wish to be understood that there are no other men as fully qualified to assume the responsible position, we are satisfied that Mr. Gardner will fill the office to the satisfaction of all, and as there is at this writing no other candidate in opposition to Dr. Howes, we feel confident that Mr. Gardner will be elected by a rousing majority.

A Bad Muss.

On Thursday, John Nixon, of Gull River, was brought before "Squire" Judge Douglas, charged with assault with dangerous weapons upon one P. P. Hardy, of the same place. The case was continued until Saturday. As near as we can get at the facts the fracas is the outcome of a family row which has been brought about by too much alleged influence on the part of Nixon with Hardy's wife. Hardy has been in the woods all winter, and hearing faint rumors he straightway proceeded homeward, and immediately commenced to make Rome howl, by dragging his wife around by the hair of the head and performing other loving antics, that is if the neighbors tell the truth. The next night he got full and went to Nixon's saloon, and there he received a very dark colored eye, and now he wants the law to deal with Nixon. Hardy has five small children.

Later—Nixon was this, Saturday morning, discharged, the complainant not appearing.

Third Ward Caucus.

The legal voters of the Third ward, of the city of Brainerd, are requested to meet at the East Brainerd hose house, on Tuesday evening, February 25th, at 7,30 o'clock, for the purpose of putting in nomination a candidate for alderman.

THOS. WATTS,
THOS. C. FITZWATER,
E. F. PARKER,
W. W. HARKENS,
ED. CULLEN,
M. J. REILLY.

NOTE—The change of the ward boundaries leaves two members of the ward committee, Messrs. Carny and Willis in the First ward, consequently Mr. Watts, the only remaining member of the committee, unites with the above named voters in issuing this call for the caucus.

Relief Society.

A meeting of the Relief Society for aiding the poor of the city of Brainerd will be held next Tuesday afternoon at the residence of the president Mrs. C. J. Merritt. All members of the society as well as those interested, will please be present as all moneys expended will be discussed. For the benefit of those who may not be able to attend and yet are interested we would like to say: There are now seventeen cases of poverty that have been, and are now being kept by the relief fund money. The committee thoroughly investigated before expending money for these and that they were very carefully purchased the necessities, as no money is given out by the society. Persons living in the city would confer a favor upon it possible that cases of such abject poverty could exist. Homes have been visited where the husband was found to be an invalid and a cripple, the mother and five children huddled together in what could well be termed a hovel, and for the children not clothing enough to keep them warm and nothing in the house in the way of comfort or food. Another case: Husband and wife sick, and not a particle of food in the house. They had sold off everything that pertained to comfort until there was nothing left. Hearing of the case, two ladies of the committee called in the evening and found the sick man and his wife and four children lying on the floor with not sufficient to keep them warm. On inquiry the committee found that the children had no shoes to cover their feet being covered with thin cloth moccasins, or, as you might say, done up in rags. Clothing was procured, and willing hands made the garments. Shoes were purchased, and if those who gave to either or both of the charitable entertainments could have seen the look of joy, that cannot be portrayed by writing, they would feel repaid for what they had done. The society organized, and that they had contributed towards it. We have only described two out of the many cases, but all those who are being helped from this fund are in as piteable condition. To those who so unselfishly acquitted themselves, or inanny, who took part in the dramatic entertainment, and all the citizens who patronized the same, are extend you many heartfelt thanks. After all expenses were settled, the sum of eighty-five dollars was placed in the First National bank, and that amount, with what was left from the charity ball, will be the means of doing much good.

Burned the House

On Monday night the residence of Frank Hathaway, of Crow Wing was burned to the ground. It seems that during the evening a lamp exploded, and the oil was scattered around the room, and in less time than it takes to tell it, the whole house was on fire. Everything in the house, including provisions, clothing, etc., was consumed, leaving the family penniless, if not quite destitute. As Mr. Hathaway is a poor man the blow comes with redoubled force, being in the middle of the winter. Parties were soliciting aid in Brainerd for the family on Wednesday.

For City Clerk,

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of city clerk.

FORREST E. PARSONS.

Peter's Conversion.

Peter has been converted as well as Paul. He has seen a great light from Heaven and in the midst of it the angelic form of the judge, in all his judicial purity, appears, and a voice cries: "Peter, why persecutest thou me?" Whereupon Peter refused to come into the office of this court? Why have you proclaimed upon the street my unfitness for my office? And Peter fell upon the ground and worshipped him.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas, William Murphy, mortgagor, did duly execute and deliver to Sarah Jane Hill, mortgagee, a certain indenture of mortgage, bearing date, the 5th day of March, 1875, whereby said mortgagor did grant, bargain, sell and convey to said mortgagee, her heirs and assigns, the following described piece or parcel of land, lying and being in the county of Crow Wing and state of Minnesota, to wit: Lot twenty-one (21), in block forty-three (43), (town) now city of Brainerd, according to the recorded plat thereof, on file in the office of the register of deeds of said Crow Wing county, to secure the payment of the sum of $1000 and interest thereon, at the rate of seven per cent per annum, according to the conditions of a certain promissory note, therein described, which said indenture of mortgage was on the 8th day of March, 1875 at 2 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county of Crow Wing, in book "B," of bonds, pages 234 and 235. And whereas said mortgagor did covenant and agree in said mortgage, in case of a foreclosure thereof, to pay said mortgagee, her heirs or assigns, the sum of twenty five dollars, attorney's fee; and whereas default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage by which the power therein to sell has become operative; and there is now due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, the sum of $1699 41 and $25 attorney's fee, as aforesaid, and no action or proceeding at law, or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that pursuant to the power of sale in said mortgage contained and the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises aforesaid, together with the appurtenances thereto belonging, or in any wise appertaining, which sale will be made at public vendue to the highest bidder, by the sheriff of said Crow Wing county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Brainerd, in said county of Crow Wing, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, on the

to satisfy the amount then due upon said mortgage and all legal expenses.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—The day was mostly devoted to the Indian appropriation bill. The provision for the payment of claims for Indian depredations was struck out.

The nomination of R. A. Ketcheson to be marshal of Montana, was taken up, and, at the request of Senator Cameron of Wisconsin, was laid over till Monday.

The house passed the postoffice appropriation bill by 160 to 74. The advocates of the steamship subsidy clause made the most determined efforts to secure the adoption by a vote of yesterday in committee of the whole, but their efforts were unavailing. The principal objection to the clause was that it was little amount of the appropriation—$200,000 —would be absorbed by the Pacific Mail Steamship company, in whose special interest it was charged the clause was drawn. This allegation was given color by the fact that Mr. Louderback, a prominent director of the company, has been here confirmed in the winter sensing this scheme, and it was given further confirmation to-day by his presence in the senate committee, accompanied by professional lobbyists and notorious strikers, all of whom were actively engaged in the interest of the road under Louderback's orders. Considering the persistent and bare-faced operations of this Pacific Mail lobby it is creditable to the house that the action of yesterday in eliminating the steamship clause was confirmed to a increased vote to-day. Many of those who voted against this clause are favorable to granting proper aid in the form of mail pay compensation for carrying the United States mails, but in the case under review no benefit which would be derived by the commerce of the country, and no additional facilities would be afforded, to counterbalance the outlay.

The paragraph of the bill which provides for the reduction of postage on matter as passed by the house, reads as follows:

Upon all publications of the second class, except as provided in section 25 of the act as said, when sent by the publishers thereof and from the office of publication to actual subscribers thereto or when sent from a news agency to actual subscribers thereto or to other news agencies, and on and after July 1, 1885, be entitled to transmission through the mails at one cent per pound or fraction thereof; postage to be prepaid as now provided by law. Provided, That on and after July 1, 1885, all such publications may mail sample copies of such publications at the rate of one cent for each four ounces or fraction thereof, to be prepaid by ordinary stamps affixed thereto; and that no, so far as they are different rate of postage than herein provided upon such first and second class matter, to that extent repealed on and after July 1, 1885; and all such articles of form in any newspaper or other publication may be marked for observation, also extracts, written or printed words, without increase of postage.

SENATE.—The Indian appropriation bill, after protracted consideration, was passed. Mr. Hoar introduced a bill making Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., ports of delivery.

An amendment was yesterday proposed by Senator Morgan, to the sundry civil appropriation bill. It strikes out the present provision for the suspension, at the discretion of the secretary, and authorizes the president, on and after April 1, 1885, to suspend, in whole or in part, the coinage of silver dollars, and authorizes the secretary of the treasury to suspend, in whole or in part, the purchase of silver bullion for the coinage of standard dollars.

HOUSE.—The senate amendments to the army bill were concurred in. The bill to amend the statutes relative to the transportation of dutiable merchandise, etc., was passed. It amended to suspend the rules and pass the bill placing the name of General Grant on the retired list, but now—108 to 103—the necessary two-thirds to be affirmative of the vote regulating the letting of mail contracts passed.

The bill passed last winter by the senate to place Gen. Grant on the army retired list of the army was defeated by a vote of 138 to 94—two-thirds having failed to vote for the motion to suspend the rules and the bill was brought up by direction of the committee on military affairs, to which motion Gen. Logan objected. It was originally passed by the senate and reported favorably to the house prior to the veto of the Pitz Grant pension bill, and in order to overcome the constitutional objection to the latter measure the senate passed a second bill, which was framed by Senator Edmunds, in which the name of Gen. Grant was not mentioned. The bill is now on the speaker's table awaiting the action of the house. A number of the speeches were to-day against the defeated bill came from those who favor the pleading of Gen. Grant on the list of retired list, but who were not inclined to send to the president a measure which in such language as would require him, in view of his negative action on the Porter bill, to withhold his approval. The opposition to those gentlemen was to the form and not to the object of the measure.

SENATE.—The bill authorizing the sale of part of the Winnebago reservation in Nebraska passed. The bill prohibiting the importation of foreign contract labor was considered at great length.

A vote was then taken on the motion of Mr. Bayard to strike out sec. 3, which proves for a penalty of $1,000 for violation of the act, and the motion was not agreed to—yeas 24, nays 34. Those voting in the affirmative were Messrs. Butler, Coke, Colquitt, Garland, Groome, Hampton, Harris, Harvey, Morgan, Saulsbury, Slater and Williams. Those voting with Mr. Hoar in the effort to retain penalty were Messrs. Brown, Call, Camden, Farley, George, Gibson, Hale, Pearson, Pugh, Sanborn and Vest.

Mr. Morgan moved an amendment that the bill should not apply to any agent of a state acting under authority of law; nor to any laborer immigrating, nor to any person who in good faith should assist the families to come to the United States.

HOUSE.—The senate amendments to the Indian appropriation were concurred in. A bill was introduced regulating the cottage and promoting the circulation of gold and silver coin. A bill for legislative, executive and judicial bill passed, having been so amended as to make Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., ports of delivery.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The joint resolution providing for an absolutely free coinage commission, which was to-day reported back adversely by the committee on coinage, with the matter in charge, is accompanied by a report in which the committee says:

The present is a peculiar crisis. Paper rises from the foundation of the Union been reserved as the sacred privilege of the states under the general government. Attempts have been made from time to time to extend the issue of manufactured paper money, but all of these failures, but with little apparent success; and the history of the world proves that whenever it must to be desired, would seem to demand wise and strenuous opposition. The constitution safeguards in connection with. Honor traffic called "legitimate," and the "illegitimate" is prohibition. To the several states of the Union properly belongs the power to regulate by prohibition resolutions as will throw every proper safeguard around the business of banking, with the purpose that the people may receive the best uniform police regulations enacted by congress, particularly in regard to the issue, waste and requirements of the people of all the various kinds of money, to differ from each other more difficult in exact. Any attempt to control the personal liberty of the citizen, or that of the individual should be opposed so long as he does not interfere with the general rights of others or the peace and order of society in general. As to the power of congress to prohibit, congress has a right to prohibit the liquor traffic in the several states, but it is not the duty of congress to be so to exercise or to grant authority for the passage of this bill, your committee holds it is not advised that it should be granted such powers, which appear most properly to belong to the states themselves.

SENATE.—The consideration of the bill prohibiting the importation of foreign contract labor was concluded, and the bill passed by a vote of 29 to 9.

Mr. Lapham offered an amendment providing that the whole penalty recovered shall be paid into the United States treasury instead of as in the bill, permitting one-half the penalty to go to the person who may first bring the suit. The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Hoar offered an amendment making it the duty of the United States district attorney of the district in which any alien arrives in the port of the United States every case of violation of the act. Agreed to—yeas 32, nays 22.

The nays were:

Butler,	Hawley,	Saulsbury,
Groome,	Hoar,	Sherman,
Hampton,	Morgan,	Williams.

The nominations of Henry Speer to be United States district judge of Georgia, lost the senate by a strictly party vote by two votes and a half vote was taken, and Mr. Speer was confirmed by 27 yeas to 26 nays, Brown being absent. Democrats voted for the nomination and Republicans against the nomination. Brown and Colquitt will not attend to the matter to-day. Speer will die with the winter.

HOUSE.—In the Indian appropriation bill the senate amendment (Stewart) the committee reported against, but in favor of the latter, the sitting member. Nearly the whole day was passed on the river and harbor bill. On motion of Mr. Price, the appropriation for the harbor at Superior, Wis., was increased from $125,000 to $250,000.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Representative Mitchell, of the committee on reform on the civil service, executive, a minority report signed by the Republican members of the committee in favor of Representative Taylor's bill to prohibit the solicitation of money for political purposes of officers or employes of the United States or in the civil service of the United States except for cause. The report declares that the system of government employes have claims upon the gratitude of the nation that cannot easily be compensated. They saved the country from dismemberment and dishonor. We cannot do less than the proper recognition of their claims that they should be retained in the government's service so long as they can faithfully and efficiently perform the duties required. The bill in charge of Representative Taylor, which was passed with the following amendment: "It shall not be the duty of any officer to discharge any subordinate because of office, passed March 3, 1867, and amended April 5, 1869."

A BABY MARTYR.

The stage was descending a sloping hillside on the road between Santa Barbara and the Ojai, the horses walking with painful exactness in the middle of the ruts and gleaning with occasional nervous distrust at the border of rank-looking grass on either side of the way. The constant rain, alternating with fierce suns, had rendered the whole scene a sogginess, gruffy, spongy mass, and more than once the driver had cursed by the decaying, half-sunken carcasses of stock mired within easy reach of the driver's whip.

As the stage bore on extra heavy rut a faint whimper from a bundle carried by a woman on the back seat reminded the passengers of the presence of a baby.

"That puts me in mind," said an erect, gray-whiskered man in the front seat, "of a queer experience a lot of us never fellows had with a baby way back in—in—

"In '54, major," put in a handsome young lady at the side of the man addressed as the major, and who had received the undivided attention of a couple of drummers on the back seat, who were evidently taking her for the old gentleman's daughter.

"Won't you tell us about it, sir?" said one of the pair, ingratiatingly, all the baby passengers, married and single, indorsing the proposition.

"Well," said the major, with a retrospective smile, "you see I was stationed at Fort Laramie at the time, and was sent with a detachment of twenty-five men to escort Gen. Whipple, who was visiting the fort, and his staff to another post about 4,000 miles farther north. The country was full of Indians on the war path, but we didn't mind them so much as the weather, which was simply fearful. The second day out we had a pelting norther blowing that would cut the eyes out of you. We struggled along somehow for some days, the snow driving the snow began to fall again and we lost the trail. The whole party was just on the point of giving up, when I, who was one of the scouts came in the report that he had found two miles farther on a certain log house where we could lie up and we had been aiming for. Of course we had braced us up once more, and we soon reached it. We found it a log cabin, a roaring fire, you may suppose. As the men were bringing in their last armfuls of wood they heard a faint cry for help on the wind.

A forlorn hope was instantly sent out and sent on what was the matter, and, pretty soon they brought in an emigrant family whose wagon had got upset in it, and who had just about laid down to die, some half mile from the house. There was the father, three boys, and a little girl and crying a kitten, and the mother with the small baby wrapped in a dozen shawls.

"Dear, dear me!" exclaimed the lady passengers in chorus.

The log house had a small room in one corner, which was given over to the poor family, and made them comfortable. That night it blew a gale, and the next several days. The storm kept the emigrants decided to push on south. Our party concluded to wait another day for the storm to abate, but it was not enough it was as the snow began again. Sometime during the next evening, one of the officers happened to go into the room that had been occupied by the emigrant family, and found the baby sick of low cry, and, going toward a bunk, saw something move inside a bundle by the three, wrapped up in an old red shawl."

"A blue shawl, major," interrupted the young lady.

"So it was," said the old officer, glancing fondly at his companion. "He was a heavy little fellow, and I thought I'd run out to see his pale as death. 'Gentlemen,' said he, 'in the excitement of getting away those people have left their tiny baby.'"

"You never saw such a scared lot of men in your life. There we were, all dressed in, 300 miles from civilization, with a baby! A grizzly bear would have been more welcome.

"Oh, you horrid thing!" sniffed the matron on the back seat.

"You don't want to grapple with the proposition, ma'am," explained the major. "Of course, getting the matter was found that there wasn't but one married man in the whole command, and he, as we would have it, had never seen a baby. We didn't have any more idea how to take care of a baby than the man in the moon. So, after a short council and the major wiped the perspiration from his face at the mere recollection.

"And the poor little creature suffering all the time," continued the mother, wiping a tear off her nose.

"The result was that we agreed to make an impromptu nurse of all those things on the theory that if one missed the baby the other sort of countered it, as it were. So we made a set of it, stood down the street together. In a few minutes the girl came back, peeped in and said I deserved to be shot, and kissed me again, right out in the street." She amused man of justice said: "Well, I can't do it." The girl said: "Judge, had to do to marry him, and that'll cure him." And the couple stepped into the courtroom and the judge married them and there. It was a case of kissing to conquer.

Costly Furs.

"The fur of the Shetland seal is the most valuable known," said a furrier to a fur dealer. "This seal is indigenous to the South seas, is very rare, not more than 200 have been killed in a year. It has a gloss peculiarly its own, and the delicacy of its fiber surpasses anything in the fur line."

"What is the relative value of furs compared with a few years ago?"

"The increase in prices has been remarkable. The promoters of the fashion in ladies' fancy furs little dreamed how extensive the fashion was going to become. The advance in price has been from 25 to 50 per cent, according to the nature and quality of the skins.

"Where do you obtain your furs?"

"Largely from London. The London Bay Company has an almost exclusive monopoly of the business. They catch most of their fur-bearing animals in January and February, and the skins do not reach London until the following December. The great London fur sales occur in January, March and June, the large American houses, through their foreign representatives, securing their stock at those sales. At the last London sales the price increased 90 per cent. for beavers, the advance being somewhat unexampled in the history of the trade. Nearly all the fur-bearing animals show any diminution in the yield since the fashion of wearing furs has become so general."

"No, indeed. The supply seems inexhaustible, and the possibilities of extermination are very remote."

INTO THE JAWS OF DEATH.

A Charge that Amazed the World Just Thirty Years Ago.

Pittsburg Cor. New York Sun.

It was thirty years ago to-day that the Earl of Cardigan's light brigade made its famous charge at Balaklava, near Sebastopol. A gentleman who was on the staff of an English General, and who witnessed the charge, gives the Dispatch this description of it:

On October 25, 1754, our eyes turned to the heights of Balaklava, on the possession of which depended the very existence of the allied forces. On that day the Russians made a desperate attack on our lines, to be as desperately repulsed. The fight was sent to headquarters that the enemy, under cover of a heavy fire from the forts, had left Sebastopol in force and was coming from the rear to attack us on the left were advanced, with the artillery in the center, forming a gigantic square. Meanwhile the Russian battery was ostentatiously moved forward; the order to proceed guns was promised to be embarrassing.

"Lord Raglan, who did not know the full strength of the foe, saw that only obstacle must be removed; but whether or not he also foresaw the necessity of the following before the long line must be forever a mystery. The commanders of the cavalry brigades, Lords Lucan and Cardigan, were brothers-in-law, between whom no love was lost, were waiting the word to engage. Lord Lucan, being senior officer. To them sped Captain Nolan, aid-de-camp to Raglan, bearing the General, he said he bore an order—the order—from Lord Raglan that the battery in the valley must be at once taken. The groom was dressed in garments of the ancient Spanish knights, with gauntlets, stockings and slippers, and his head was encircled by glittering jewels in conformity with the dress.

"The officiating priest was clad in black and wore on his head a white turban. His face was gaudy and he was provided with an unnatural luster. On the conclusion of the ceremony he gave the bridal party their blessings as they went away. The bride was attended by two bride maids, and sacked her mother when they returned from the altar. She was named Grace, Aquilla, Euphrosyne and Thalia?". The queen mother of the groom and Empress Eugenie of Galadonne were among the distinguished spirit guests, while Dr. Adams, P. H. Jackson, James Platt, Jr., Mrs. Platt, Mr. and Mrs. William Hay, Mrs. Leonard and many others were present in the flesh. A bridal supper followed the wedding. Mrs. Sleeper was seated at the head of the table, the table, bearing light refreshments, such as cake, fruit, etc., with the queen mother to her right and Dr. Adams to her left. The remaining guests also seated themselves around the table, a spirit rapping being heard in the room. After these had been served the bride and groom complained that they were hungry. Then there was a rapping around the table raised the wine-glasses and touched to their lips. They then, following the bride and groom into the cabinet, the curtain of which fell and concealed them from view. The lights were turned on, and the wine glasses and decanter on the table continued about all that remained in evidence of the spiritual supper and wedding, the material guests alone being left to tell the tale.

Mrs. Sleeper was interviewed recently and said: "My daughter was about six years old when she died in 1870. She appears to me almost every night in a materialized shape. I've talked with her, have walked out with her and she has lain with me in my bed. Her voice has changed somewhat, but she is more intelligent and stronger since her death. A few weeks ago she appeared, told me of her intended marriage to Prince Wittie, who is also an inhabitant of the spirit world, asked and obtained my consent."

A Cure for Endearments.

A girl who works in a paper-box factory in Delaware became engaged to marry a young workman in the same factory. Both were young and rosy—she luscious nineteen and very pretty with abundant golden hair. For some reason that doesn't matter she broke off the engagement and told him to go his way and let her go hers. Then she had him arrested and taken before a justice, charged with annoying her. She told the judge her grievance was that whenever the young man met her he put his arms around her, although she kept telling him that it was all over between them now and asked him to take his kisses any more. The young man said it was true that he had kissed her a thousand times a day for two or three years, and that he had got in such a habit of it that he couldn't break it. He had tried to restrain himself, but he couldn't. The judge said: "Young man, you must stop kissing this girl." "I can't judge. I would if I could. I'll try again." The kindly judge, full of love-making, put many pale cases in his humanity, discharged the likely-looking young man from custody, and the pretty girl with the golden hair left the court and strolled down the street together. In a few minutes the girl came back, peeped in and said I deserved to be shot, and kissed me again, right out in the street." She amused man of justice said: "Well, I can't do it." The girl said: "Judge, had to do to marry him, and that'll cure him." And the couple stepped into the courtroom and the judge married them and there. It was a case of kissing to conquer.

The Way England Conquers New Worlds.

The London Times of Oct. 11th gives this brief history of the way in which one of England's Australian colonies was "annexed" the great island of New Guinea. It will be remembered that the Queensland Government rather suddenly realized the possibility that some other European nation might take possession of New Guinea, and thus, besides commanding the navigation of a route straight of vital importance to the commerce of the colony, might become a neighbor socially no less than politically objectionable. No sooner was this unpleasant possibility brought home to Queenslanders than they proceeded to avert the danger by taking possession of the New Guinea coast on their own account. Their action was marked by an almost sublime simplicity. The Colonial Secretary of Thursday Island was ordered to go to New Guinea and declare it annexed. He did so and a colony was founded. Unfortunately it will only make a third-rate English town, because the owner of territory beyond can use the artillery in the centre of the colony. The colonial office was asked to recognize this addition to the British Empire, and they have ordered gun which considerably upset by the request. Had Queensland stood alone we do not know what might have been Lord Derby's reply; but it very speedily became clear that the question was one on which the whole of Australia was profoundly felt strongly. The action of Queensland was received with enthusiasm by the other colonies, which did not hesitate from sharing the moral and financial responsibility. Lord Derby suggested that before adding in this way to the area of the empire they ought Parliament's sanction, but gently defray at least a portion of the expense. The challenge was instantly taken up, and £15,000 a year estimated to be required for the Australian portion of the enterprise was promptly placed at his disposal. It would be seen forthcoming, and such was the temper of the Colonies, had it been many times as much. The annexation of this isolated question has started a general movement for confederation. There are difficulties to be overcome, not the least of which is the jealousy subsisting between Victoria and New South Wales and the reluctance of the former to allow the latter to pass the Federation Bill which has been agreed to by all the other Colonies and Legislatures but the latter. It is a fruitful one, and every advance made by the colonies will be held to the import. The confederation, as the first step for purposes of external defense. At the end of last year Sir Alfred Stephen was pressed to introduce a short bill simply enabling the colonies, or any two of them, to federate if they so proposed. He declined to do so unless assured that the Conservatives would not oppose it, and the assurance was given. It was too late to introduce new content into matter, while to introduce and then withdraw a bill of the kind would be disrespectful to the Australians. The Conservatives refused to promise their bill, and the session closed without it. The Victorian Government expostulated with Sir Stafford Northcote on the subject, but the deed was done and as the franchise is likely to occupy the whole of the autumn session, the colonies will have to wait for the next year for permission to do what this country has given them no opportunity of encouraging them to effect.

Leaves From a Western House-Keeper's Journal.

Rural New Yorker.

"There is nothing in the house but salt pork," I heard the cook say to Aunt Dorcas. "Oh, that is all right, and she gave a jolly little laugh, and said, "I've lived too long away from markets and fresh meat not to know how to make a meal, or a dozen, out of salt pork. Once on a time I cut it in slices and fried it, and I'll do it now. I reserve over a hot fire after parboiling," but now I cut it on thin as possible, take off the rind, and steep it first in clean, soft water, about milk-warm. It requires rather more cooking, when done, can be set in the oven to keep warm." And all this time Aunt Dorcas was working away at the table and preparing, a gravy of milk and flour and some of the grease from the meat, in a clean frying pan, then added some stale bread, and dipped it in the gravy, using it as a garnish for the meat, fry in a few more slices, lay between, "In this way a little pork goes a long way," said she. "Children like it, and I find good gravy to the meat." Then she cut up some apples and fried them as we do Saratoga potatoes, and served them with the meat, and would do the same again to any one who was troubled with a disease of the kidneys and bladder.
