

mer Dispatch
Listen at the way the Duluth Herald talks about the aldermen of that city.

Dutch Aldermen.
The aldermen will meet tonight. They meet twice a month. They might as well meet twice a year. It is the same thing. They will put their feet on their heads and their heads on their feet. Aldermen are always here. They make the people tired also. They will audit the books of the city. They will audit the books of the city. They will audit the books of the city.

How the Heart of a Miserly Merchant Was Won.
She landed at the hotel of our quiet village on a Saturday morning. The aldermen were waiting for her. They were waiting for her. They were waiting for her. They were waiting for her. They were waiting for her.

TELEPHONIC.
The Innocent Dog and the Miserly Shop Owner.
De Groep's Heavens! Just and How He Admired the Wife of His Dreams, and How She Gladly Accepted Him. With Miss A. G. Wolfe.

WHAT YOUR MOTHER SAID.

You, I know of your mother's... I have seen of small unsteady boys... And you know that her eyes are dimmed...

AT THE REVERENDS.

THEY SAID THE REVERENDS... "The best of the preacher's little child... I have seen of small unsteady boys... And you know that her eyes are dimmed..."

FORBES'S SMILES AND FROWNS.

Mrs. Briggs has made a mistake... She would as much rather... And a mistake must be very rare indeed...
