WANTED--A BURGLAR

THE STRANGE HISTORY OF A CURIOUS ADVERTISER.

BY J. W. BROWN.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Mr. Brown was missing. He had been seen at a party, but he had not been seen since. The search for him was a desperate one. He was believed to have fled to the city. The police were searching for him. He was believed to have fled to the city. The police were searching for him. He was believed to have fled to the city. The police were searching for him.

When Paul Duncan returned home, he found a note pinned to the door. It was from Mrs. Brown. She had just received a letter from the police. They were searching for a man named Brown. It was believed to be the same man who had been seen at the party.

Paul was puzzled. He had never heard of any man named Brown. He decided to go to the police station and see if he could find out more. He was told that the man was believed to be a burglar. He had been seen at the party and had fled to the city. The police were searching for him.

Paul went to the police station and saw the sergeant. He told him about the note and what he had heard. The sergeant said that he had never heard of any man named Brown. He said that the man was believed to be a burglar. He had been seen at the party and had fled to the city. The police were searching for him.

Paul was disappointed. He had hoped to find out more about the man named Brown. He decided to go home and think about it. He was still puzzled. He had never heard of any man named Brown. He decided to go to the police station and see if he could find out more.

CHAPTER III--A DISGUISED THIEF.

What a day for a pleasure trip that was when Mrs. Brown went on her journey to the city. She was in a hurry. She had to go to the city. She was in a hurry. She had to go to the city. She was in a hurry. She had to go to the city.

CHAPTER III--Continued.

When Mrs. Brown returned home, she found a note pinned to the door. It was from Paul. He had just received a letter from the police. They were searching for a man named Brown. It was believed to be the same man who had been seen at the party.
