WAKE UP!

time flies, and they who are always dozing over time are apt to be left. We are offering a stock of alarm clocks that are striking examples in this line. Mark time—march! They'll do both—mark good common time, march out at the double-quick, just as soon as you. Our public get the facts of qualities and prices. The movements of all our clocks are so good that we guarantee them as accurate time keepers, and their appearance so artistic that they are not less ornamental than useful. Our entire stock of clocks is going at very reasonable figures.

DO FISH SLEEP?

An Interesting Question Decided in the Affirmative.

"Never seen a fish asleep, eh?" said Cornelius Hinman, who is located at the Lindell. "Well, I have. I've seen them sleep sound and much to their sorrow, especially catfish. There is nothing more wary than a fish. You know, that you cannot creep up on them nor drop a pebble anywhere within 50 feet of them but what they will dodge away; that is when they are not asleep. How I came to discover so much of this is that I caught them without their when they were asleep. although I did not use a hook and line. The first one that I ever caught in this way was a large catfish that I observed daily to be in one particular spot—the end of a wooden pile that supported an ice house chute that let out there the water. A kind of nest was there, depressed in the soft mud, and here that catfish was to be found every day about 2 p. m. It would lie for hours in the rays of the afternoon sun and never move. I decided to catch it. First I fished around there day after day, but to no purpose. Bait of any kind wasn't an inducement to that catfish. I concluded that it must be asleep, when it would allow a fat minnow to swim by and never touch it. I got a sharp, plain hook, which I properly weighted, so that it would act direct. I lowered it and moved it slowly up to the side of the fish. Then I turned the line so that the hook was directly under it. Then I gave a quick jerk; the catfish darted away, but not very far. I had him fast, and all because he was sleeping. I have caught pike and sunfish the same way at least a dozen different times."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

TALK OF AN EXTRA SESSION

The Sundry Civil and Indian Bills To Be Defeated — Business Considered as a Coercive Measure by Southern Blood.

What Will We Do With It?

Washington, Feb. 22.—Matters are getting fully as much interest as the closing days of the session. In addition to the fight that is to be made to defeat the sundry civil bill, which will be made against the Indian appropriation bill, there is a fight coming against this bill in committee and will be recognized to oppose it on the floor. The features of the bill which excite opposition are a provision for the payment of accrued interest on bonds to Indians, claims and provisions for Indian boarding schools. The latter is the result of an education established by Commissioner Morgan in the Carlisle school. It is understood that some of the strongest men in the Republican committee, including Holman and Sayers, are going to join in the fight against the measure. The silver men in the house claim that they will have enough votes to prevent the passage of the sundry civil bill under any circumstances. Cloture may be adopted to get it through. They will not, however, be able to get it through the Sherman amendment out of the bill, and that they will propose at the last chances, but will defeat the whole bill. They say that they have the votes for this and that the force of the filibusters against the bill will be so great as to compel the abandonment of the rules to get signatures enough to the conference report. They claim to be certain that they will defeat the bill. Of course, they will make an extra session absolutely necessary.

The bottom of the sternpost and the actual stern of the vessel are not connected in any way. The vessel is a twin screw and the propellers will work through a small aperture with nothing between them and the water beneath. They will therefore always be in unbroken water.—Boston Journal.

THE STORY WRITER

Unknown to anyone Pilcher, his conscience accusing him of being responsible for anything his weak-minded friend may have deemed himself driven to, had advertised for three consecutive mornings in the Times and Telegraph an intimation from "Pilcher" to "Widge," that at Regent's Park tragedy was all a silly hoax, for which "Pilcher" was very sorry, and begged of "Widge" to return that h'friend might make every reparation in his power.

Not a word about the marriage, thought Mr. Pilcher was aware how sensitive his friend Widgery was on that point, and it was not impossible if he was in hiding anywhere, he'd learnt that Miss Dimpleton was indeed lost to him forever, he might readily put an end to his miserable existence without further reflection. Mr. Pilcher was eagerly scanning the newspapers mentioned, one morning at breakfast hoping to find some reply from the absent one, when he ejaculated, "God bless my soul!" in such startling tones that his pretty wife in alarm sprang to her husband's side in the act of handing to him.

"Good heavens, Joe, dear! What's the matter?"

"Well, my love, the most amazing news in the way of a coincidence that this precious paragraph concerns our friend. I most sincerely hope that it is not the same, but there it is, and an uncommon one, you see!"

"What name is uncommon!"

"Why, Widgery."

"Gracious' goodness! And in the message you're reading Mrs. Pilcher went as white as the tablecloth. "You never mean to say, Joseph, that trouble, dire trouble has ensued?"

"Burglary! Somebody of the name of Widgery has attempted to do so anyhow. Listen to this my love. Singular attempted hotel robbery at Heybridge! On Tuesday morning, at an early hour, the proprietor of the Crown and Dolphin was aroused from his slumber by hearing within his premises a cry of thieves, immediately followed by the discharge of fire arms. Hurrying to the spot it was found that a gentleman staying at the hotel had been awakened by finding a man in the room, and in the act of endeavoring to abstract a pocket book containing a large sum of money from beneath the pillow of the owner. The latter fired a pistol at the robber, who thereon flung open the bedroom window and leapt out into the garden below, and so escaped. The most singular feature of the affair is that an adjoining bedchamber was occupied by a gentleman, the friend of the guest at the Crown and Dolphin, with whom the other guest had been on friendly terms the evening previous. They both retired at the same time, and judging from the subsequent fact that the only other guest at the hotel had not occupied his bed, and that when the alarm was given, and was discovered that he had disappeared, there can be little doubt that he and the would-be robber are identical. The latter left behind him an umbrella, and in the hall of the hotel, and he

On Monday afternoon Mr. Lucius C. Carlton, of Brainerd, and Miss Belle M. Graham, of this city, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents on Sixth street south, the Rev. J. A. They left the following morning for Duluth where they will make their home. Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in this city. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Improving the Electric Light Plant.

The city council is devising ways and means to improve the electric light plant so as to have ample lights to accommodate those who desire them. We understand an eastern electric light supply house has offered to exchange a 2,000 candle power dynamo for the one now in use and to furnish a new wheel and all other necessary supplies for the change, the sum to be paid for out of the proceeds of the additional lights as it is collected by the city, or else to rent the above additional machinery to the city until such time as the city desires to purchase it, and then the rental to apply on the purchase price. Either of these offers are eminently fair and one will no doubt be accepted by the city, and better and increased service will be given, which will be hailed with delight by those now using the incandescent light.

A Former Brainerdite in Trouble.

The following is taken from Monday's Minneapolis Time:

C. H. Closterman, from Montana, whose wife was in police court Saturday on a charge of vagrancy, and convicted, was seen by a Times reporter last evening in regard to the allegations made by her on the stand.

"The whole story is false from beginning to end," said Mr. Closterman, "except that she is my wife, and her father's name is A. C. Hodges. I was married to the woman two years ago, and lived happily with her in my home at Anaconda, Montana, until some mining stock I held necessitated my coming to Minneapolis. I brought my wife with me and she went to the Crescent house on Third street north to board while I was detained away from the city for a couple of days. Her birthday occured on the 5th of January. That was a fatal day to my happiness. I made her a present of some money on her birthday and the money given her as a testimonial of my affect on was expended on a lover. She left home in the evening stating that she would be absent but a few minutes. She did not return and the next day I instituted a search for her, fearing some ill had befallen her.

"You may imagine my surprise," said he, "even if you may never know how my heart was torn when I found her in Dengerfield's saloon, on washington avenue, drinking in one of the private rooms with William Keeblat, alias "Dateby," whose reputation is unsavory with the police.

"The idol of my heart dashed suddenly from me, was a fe sarful blow. The woman I adored as pure and loving metamorphosed into a lewd character almost made me mad, yet I restrained from doing bodily injury to the man that ruined my life. I endeavored to have her return home, but she preferred the life she was living. I found her in a concert garden drinking with a man Saturday night. When she observed me she tried to get away and her companion aided her by placing himself between us. I passed him, however, and reached my wife on the sidewalk. They both called the police to have me arrested, but when I explained the case the woman was incarcerated and I was permitted to go free. He statement about my having another wife was unfounded."

For the balance of Febrnary the Big 9 will offer at cost the entire stock of Boots and Shoes.

A Horse and a Hobby.

"The difference between a horse and a hobby," said an old gentleman of much worldly experience, "is that you can get off a horse, but you cannot get off a hobby." It is said by some naturalists, we do not know with how much truth, that the horse was once a five-toed animal of great size and terrifying appearance. In the progress of evolution the toes of each foot have disappeared, or rather been consolidated into one. But that was certainly a long time ago, as for some thousands of years the horse has been what he is now, the most useful and handsomest of man's animal servants. He has his place in art, song and history, and the animal of war and the chase would be incomplete without him. The hobby is probably not so ancient as the horse in its origin and yet it is almost, if not quite, contemporary with the race of man. A distinguished alienist has said that there are no absolutely sane people—that every one is a little "off" on some respects. We would not slander our fellow-citizens by putting insanity to them, but certainly every one has his hobby, and delights to mount it. The disagreeable feature of it is sometimes that the hobby and the rider are alike tireless, and you can't stop them. A partial remedy is to select a pleasing hobby, not a roaring, rampageous one. The Burlington Route reserved hobbies, fast time, courteous employes luxurious accomodations, and safety. A great many people like to ride these hobbies, and any who wish to try it can get tickets from almost any railroad agent, or by addressing W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Sorensen from Fergus Falls to Staples, with authority over the main line from Staples to Fargo, and also the Black Hills Branch.

Those taking part are: Mrs. Elsie Kaye, Clinton A. Robbins and Ellsworth Wharton of the theatre company, and Mrs. G. W. Alexander, Misses Nettie Nellson and Maybelle and Maud Davis and C. D. Johnson of this city. The side splitting farce "Sixes and Sevens" will be produced, besides songs and recitations by members of the company. An admission of 25 cents will be charged.

Cubeb Cough Cure is the only preparation which will not retard digestion; it will not nauseate like so many cough mixtures. The druggists and the public in general are fast appreciating the fact that a cough remedy like Cubeb Cough Cure—that will give instant relief and a sure cure—is the great desideratum of this age, and not a cough remedy that requires twenty-four to forty-eight hours to give relief to a severe cold which by that time in a great many cases, has developed into a fatal attack of Pneumonia.

Cubeb Cough Cure goes directly to the seat of the trouble, is prompt and its action, gives instant relief, and prevents that delay which is often dangerous.

THE GENUINE KEELEY TREATMENT

Authorized and under the direction of of the LESLEY E. KEELEY CO., Dwight, Ill., for cure of

Liquor, Opium —AND— Tobacco Habits

BY THE USE OF DR. LESLIE E. KEELEY'S DOUBLE CHLORIDE OF GOLD REMEDIES.

Indorsed by progressive physicians, philanthropists and divines, including Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, who recently visited Dwight and addressed the 700 patients in line. The United States government has adopted these remedies for use in all States and National Soldiers' Homes. Carefully kept records prove 95 per cent. permanent cures; 46,000 homes already made happy. The objectionable features of Sanitarium treatment removed. No hospital; no restriction. All necessary liquors supplied during treatment. Patients are simply confined like ourselves. Terms $35 per week; board extra, $7 to $15 per week, to suit purse and inclinations. Good accommodations, including baths, at the Institute.

NOTE OF WARNING.

To the Public:

As a matter of justice to ourselves and to the reputation of Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's Double Chloride of Gold Remedies for the cure of the Liquor, Opium, Morphine and Tobacco Diseases, and Neurasthenia, we warn the public that these remedies are used by no institutions or sanitariums in the United States, except those established by our company under the uniform name of "The Keeley Institute."

All others claiming to use our remedies are frauds and impostors.

We have now sixty Keeley Institutes established in various parts of the United States, where the Keeley Treatment is administered, and the Keeley remedies sold. We, however, caution all to examine well and know that they are dealing with GENUINE ESTABLISHMENTS, authorized by us, before taking treatment or purchasing remedies.

The misleading establishments use the name of "Richrdine of Gold" or similar titles. The newspapers often fail to discriminate sufficiently to know that they are imitators. This is a matter of public welfare, and hence this warning.

We desire inspection of our Institution and invite correspondence, which is strictly confidential.

Respectfully Yours,
