Burglars Abscond.

The citizens were relieved with a gang of burglars, and numerous cases of homebreaking and theft have been reported during the past week. On Sunday night the residence of F. W. Wieland, at the corner of 5th and Walnut streets, was broken into and a watch worth a few dollars in value secured. The same evening the residence of Mrs. Mollard was entered with the same intention, and the watch and other valuables were carried off. The burglars were seen by the watchman, and a revolver and watch were found upon the same man, who was arrested the following day. He got drunk on the night he was secured, and in this condition was foolish enough to show the watch to Bertendorf Voller at Strasson & Pearson's saloon, who had taken care of the number of the watch by the police and who was on the lookout for the man. The man was arraigned on a municipal court on Wednesday morning, after he gave the names of John Vorre and others as his associates, and was later released to the grand jury in default of bail.

Local News Notes.

The residence of P. M. Lagerstrom was also broken into on Wednesday morning, and Campbell & Smith's store, but nothing of much value was taken. The police should make extra effort to rid the city of these marauders, and all suspicious looking persons should be reported to them.
