Cotton has not been so cheap at Liverpool as it is now for forty-six years.

The native home of wheat is supposed to be the mountain regions of Armenia.

A fair article of molasses can be made from the stalks of the common maize.

China raises and consumes more ducks than any other country in the world.

The Pacific ocean covers 67,000,000 of the 188,000,000 square miles comprising the earth's surface, and the Atlantic rolls over 31,000,000 more. When Mr. Bull annexes all the remaining odds and ends of dry land he will go into extensive pumping operations.

Within eighteen months Uncle Sam will have a navy of forty-nine steel vessels, of which six will be battleships and six for coast defense. The real puzzle for the navy is to find the trained men to man the ships in case of war, and the department would be wise to give more attention to this point.

When a member of the Belgian parliament makes a long speech brandy and water is supplied him at government expense. In this country we look at the huge "Congressional Record" is enough to prove that the government would be justified in furnishing free anæsthetics.

The population of France has increased since 1881 only about 25,000 a year. The fact that Paris does not grow faster than this shows that the provinces are declining in population. In thirty years 7 per cent of the rural inhabitants of France has moved to the cities. This is the tendency in all civilized countries, and the question is where it will stop.

The present area of New York City—thirty nine square miles—will be increased under the plan of consolidation adopted at the recent election to 317 square miles, embracing a population of 3,000,000. Thus New York will become second to the list of the great cities of the world being outranked only by London, which has a population of 4,238,811 once the limit of three miles.

Behind the Czar of Russia is one of the most corrupt and immoral bureaucracies of the world. If the Czar makes any really serious attempt to establish a parliamentary government calculated to limit the power of these bureaucrats he will be assassinated or dethroned. But it is altogether probable that he will not be able to advance against the resistance of the barbaric Tories who surround him.

The difficulty of building a town to order is shown by the collapse of Middlesboro, Ky., founded by English capitalists in the famous Cumberland Gap. It was through this natural opening that the earliest settlers came west, and they also used it on return visits to the east. The site for a town is beautiful materials for the manufacture of iron are abundant, the timber is unsurpassed, and railroad and other facilities have been provided, but all in vain. The town insists on being somewhere else, as has happened to many other localities.

The decline in immigration to the United States during the last fiscal year to 388,078 against 560,917 in 1891 is not due alone to the business depression in this country. There are increased attractions for immigrants in South America, Africa, and Australia, and the tide that has been running so strongly in this direction has been partially diverted. In addition, British emigration has been falling off steadily for ten years. These facts are not acceptable to the American people, who have looked on the foreign tidal wave of the last dozen years with no little apprehension.

The Christmas season is here, sure enough. The streets tell it, the stores tell it—the word "stores" is utterly undickensish and not good form for Christmas—the old folks have told the young folks about it, and the latter have caught the idea, and will not let it go until the Santa Claus of 1894 is a person of the past. Evidently this is to be a big booming Christmas, in which the plea of hard times will be of no avail. Everybody expects to give and to get, and may expect to enjoy the giving as well as the getting. The increased blessing of giving over receiving applies especially to the season which is upon us.

A citizen of New Britain, Conn., has in his possession a pair of queer, wrinkled, old-time saddle-bags, and there is an abundant reason to believe that they belonged to Captain Nathan Hale, the martyr spy. The present owner does not wish his name published in connection with them until he is able to recover certain papers proving the genuineness of the relics, which have been obtained. The saddle-bags are heirlooms and came to him indirectly through an ex-governor of Massachusetts. The owner of the bags says: I have had the papers that go with the bags, and am satisfied there is no doubt that they belonged to and were carried by Nathan Hale."

Impoverished land is now "vaccinated" on the continent of Europe. It is generally known that land is enriched by planting it occasionally with a leguminous crop like clover or lucerne, the roots of which absorb more nitrogen than they take from the ground. Where the nitrogen came from was the problem. Messrs. Hellriegel and Wilfarth have discovered that the absorption is due to minute organism, a sort of disease in the roots, which, when the supply of nitrogen from the soil is gone, will appear as an excrescence, draw nitrogen from the air and so enrich the soil again. Experiments have been made in France and Germany to hasten the growth of the disease by sprinkling the fields with soil in which tubercles from roots have been grown or with water in which they have been steeped. In Prussia a field was sown with lupine, one part of it was then treated to the sprinkling way, the other inoculated from an old lupin crop; the yield in the latter part was five and a half times as great as in the other.

Washington.

President Cleveland has issued a proclamation announcing the putting in effect of the new Chinese immigration treaty.

Farm prices of wheat and cotton for October 1 were the lowest in years, being due to an agricultural department report.

From returns to the agricultural department the condition of winter wheat December 1 is placed at 80, against 81.1 last year.

The secretary of agriculture denies that the quarantine inspection is inadequate and that Germany has any grounds for complaint in this regard.

Senator Mitchell of Oregon has introduced a bill providing for the abolishment of the mint bureau in the treasury and the coinage of all gold, silver and minor coin at the places where the United States has exclusive jurisdiction, except in cases of murder, rape, desertion to the enemy in time of war and aggravated assault.

The recent seizures of the nets of the United States fishermen in Canadian waters by the law by the government cruiser Petrel are not likely to lead to any international complications. It is said that the Washington government tacitly approves of what the Ottawa authorities are doing in the direction of protecting the fishermen.

Personal Mention.

Edgar E. Slocum, an old resident of Lost Iroquois county, Ill., is dead. He leaves an estate of $125,000.

Millionaire James Taylor, who went to Oregon by ox team in 1845, died at Oakland, Cal.

Judge Goodwin, the first justice of the peace in Kansas City, Kansas, died at Ottawa, Kansas aged seventy years.

Dr. Edward S. Holden of the Lick observatory, has been decorated as a member of the Saxe-Ernestine order.

Mrs. Lucy Edwards, colored, who is said to be 120 years old, died in Jackson, Ky., in 1770, died at Springfield, Ill.

Rev. Mr. Robjent of Saginaw, Mich., says he does not consider games in which but 5 cents is at stake gambling.

Judge Lambert, the first settler of the peace in Kansas territory died at Ottawa, Kas., aged 70.

Heyward Hampton was on a tour around the world, is believed to have been killed by brigands in Asiatic Turkey.

Capt. Felix Shumate is dead at Lebanon, Ind. He was a captain in the Tenth Indiana during the war and served two terms in the legislature.

Miss Louise Burdett Clarke, the niece of George W. Cable, the author, was married at "Tarry-a-while," the family residence in Massachusetts, to Count Alfred Chard of New York.

J. H. White, father of Capt. James White, superintendent of the United States mail service, died at Vinton, Ia., aged 75. He was a member of the city council and a leading citizen.

President Cleveland's health is now said to be excellent. "He has recovered from the rheumatic gout and is not responsible for the talk in the country. he weighs less than he did two months ago. He takes ordinary exercise. His head is clear as a bell, and since he got his annual message off his brain has been unusually bright and cheerful."

Unfortunate Events.

The Grand Trunk elevator and warehouse at Valparaiso, Ind., burned with 10,000 bushels of wheat.

Heavy rains have caused a flood and some loss of life in the department of Magdalena, Panama.

The schooner Mary Amelia, which left Port Huron on Nov. 27, has not been heard from, and she is probably lost with her crew and cargo.

The building of the Consolidated coffee company at Omaha was destroyed by fire entailing a loss of about $100,000 on stock and furniture.

A seven year old daughter of George Hinges, of Two Rivers, held a dynamite cap in the fire yesterday. A explosion took off two fingers and a thumb of her left hand and lacerated the palm of her hand badly.

Edward J. Lester, an Anderson, Ind., elocutionist, was overtaken by a passenger train while crossing the Panhandle trestle bridge. He tried to escape by lying down at the end of the ties, but his head was hit by a loose rod and he was killed.

The presence of mind of James Lee, an office boy, saved a score of lives at Louisville, Ky., by his discovering fire on fire and by cutting a telegraph wire and lowering a ladder to imprisoned inmates, he effected a rescue which firemen had been unable to make.

Criminal Doings.

Edward W. Porter, bailiff of Athens, Ga., blew his brains out in the street.

John Hayes, a wealthy Galesburg, Ala., planter, hanged himself.

Isaac Stein, living near Bowling Green, Ohio, was held up while on the way from town, and robbed of $7,125.

Thomas Johnson, who assaulted Chris Enos at La Crosse some months ago, was fined $100 on pleading guilty.

Jack Hall and ex-City Clerk Charles J. Fay of Spring Valley, Ill., have been indicted for malfeasance on office.

Mrs John A. Williams of New Britain, Conn., left a baby with the name published in connection with them until he is able to recover certain papers proving the genuineness of the relics, which have been obtained. The saddle-bags are heirlooms and came to him indirectly through an ex-governor of Massachusetts. The owner of the bags says: I have had the papers that go with the bags, and am satisfied there is no doubt that they belonged to and were carried by Nathan Hale."

J. B. Hammebagh of Cleveland, the young bridegroom whose honeymoon was eclipsed by his arrest at Alliance, Ohio, on a charge of forgery, would have escaped from jail, but for the fact that the saw, which his bride had smuggled in to him, broke after he had sawed the first of the bars.

Under the guise of the violation of the law by working on Sunday, the police and health officers raided a number of sweat-shops in Baltimore and arrested twenty-three men and eighteen women and girls. The prisoners are Russian Jews, who claim that they observe Saturday and not Sunday as the day of rest.

An attempt was made at Bowling Green, Ky., by Sylvester Anthony, colored, aged 15, to assault Mrs. Matilda Adams, a lady over 80 years old. Failing in his purpose, he piled the bed pillows on the floor, put the kerosene lamp over them and set them on fire. A neighbor liberated the woman and arrested the boy.

Foreign Gossip.

The best sugar quality of the steamer Reuns from Germany was damaged $100,000 worth by heavy seas.

Shrewsbury on Saturday—matters with England and there will be no more trouble at Blenfelds—for the present.

Emperor William says he thinks the Socialist movement which the Berlin meeting was directed against the constitution and was not a personal attack.

America's wealthiest man established in London on the prospect of the passage of the pooling bill by congress.

British Consul-General Hawes is said to have prepared the latest Hawaiian plot for the restoration of the queen.

Before considering any peace proposals with China, Japan insists upon the surrender of Port Arthur and all the Chinese officials who have been offered money rewards for Japanese heads.

Mr. Gladstone has received the traditional "sending coats to Newcastle" in the exportation of iron and steel products from Germany to Great Britain and yet this is just what is going on, according to a report to the state department from United States Consul Mason at Frankfort, Germany.

Otherwise.

The Commercial bank at St. Joseph, Mo., has failed for $270,000.

The story is told that Standard Oil people have practically bought control of sugar stock.

P. D. Pollock has declined the office of state labor commissioner of Kansas to which he was recently nominated.

Laporte, Ind., has a juvenile Sandow, although but 12 years old, he did carry his father, weighing 175 pounds, across the room.

Attorney General Moloney of Illinois has decided that only members of the bar are eligible to the office of city attorney.

Trinity church, New York, is shown to be the richest corporation given to lecture room or parlor, and may or may not accompany gift making. They tell of sermons and costumes suitable for any winter night, but can be presented with best effect between the middle of December and the middle of January. They can, moreover, be used wholly or in part. If the lecture does not wish the trouble of preparing tableaux, she may utilize the hints in costuming to get up a character party or with or without masks. These costumes will suggest others. Some of the costume and tableaux descriptions may be employed in giving a children's Christmas or New Year party.

In all these tableaux the only thing necessary besides costumes is a curtain or sliding screen. This will reduce to a minimum the work of getting them up in a private house. In the same time as many stage accessories as desired can be employed, and may be presented in a public place. Costumes should be kept on after the tableaux are over, lending a brilliant and fancy appearance to the rooms full of guests in the social hour that follows.

The Genius of Dreams is presented as suggested might, and the part should be taken by a slender lady of at least medium height, with dark hair and eyes. The entire dress is made of cheap, black tarleton, with full skirt, and train bordered with a deep ruffle of tarleton folds of dress and bodice to match. The waist is bare except for with surplice front, the neck opening bordered with stars; a girdle of stars and a small star or crescent, covered like the rest, or jeweled ornaments of the same shape, complete the dress, unless a long tarleton veil, held in place with stars, is desired. When the entertainment is for children the front of the doors or curtains, behind which the Genius of Dreams is seated, should be of white tarleton, through which the figure is partly seen. Cotton batting, with gold and silver tinsel, is used to represent stars, and the girls snowflakes. It will add greatly to either a fairy scene, or its place of meeting. Costumes of many kinds can be devised to carry out this idea, but I would suggest that the boys have Oxford gowns of black cotton cloth, with caps, bib, the necks, yokes, flowing sleeves and hems defined by rows of gilt stars cut from gilt paper. Mortarboard hats, caps, the skull cap made of black cloth, the dark part of pasteboard covered with the same, are used. The flat part can be made square, as usual, or with a gilt star on the surface over and tiny ones hanging all around the edges, or its place can be filled with a large five-pointed gilt star, with a small one hanging from each point. The effect of these small stars, glittering with every motion of the wearer, is very pretty.

The little girls wear dresses of white muslin, with broad hems around the bottom made of snowy cotton wadding, with gilt stars cut from paper, as the rough tinsle surface can better imitate snow. These bands and little stars are also sprinkled with gilt and well laid with diamond dust. The hair, worn flowing, is also powdered with it.

GRIZZLY WHIPPED BY A COW.

Bossy Roused to Terrible Rage in Defense of Her Offspring.

"Usually a cow does not stand much chance when she engages in a hand-to-hand conflict with a grizzly bear," said Thomas Hunter, a Kalispell stockman to a writer for Dumb Animals, "but several years ago one of my cows killed one in a fair fight and came out of the struggle without a scratch. The cow had recently given birth to a calf. It being her first-born, she was very protective of it, and it was unsafe for a stranger to approach her, as her horns were long and pointed, and she had a way of clutching roof and was scooped out of the ground with a sudden upward toss. One night a bear, having smelt the presence of a cow and calf mounting by a narrow trail to the pasture, to force an entrance by scratching through the logs. The cow was at the same time detected the presence of the bear, and held herself in readiness to receive the intruder. The noise of a terrible struggle aroused me, and snatching a lantern I rushed from the house, and opening the shed door, found the cow in a frantic state, bellowing and tossing to and fro some large object, which evidently had lost all power of resistance. It turned out to be a good sized grizzly, which had been over through and through the body by the cow's powerful horns. The little calf was nestled in a corner, sleeping peacefully, and seemed unmindful of the maternal struggle. I quickly saw that the bear could not have gained an entrance through the roof as it was pinned to the ground by the cow's horns before it had time to do any damage."

EACH GIRL WORE COURT PLASTER.

And So the Youth Couldn't Tell Which Came Into His Room.

The young man who thinks he is going to come out ahead in any joke in which a girl of ordinary sharpness is involved is sure to find his mistake. It happened some time ago in a certain college, that the dormitories of a number of young lady students were occupied into the same hall, says the Indianapolis Sentinel. One evening near midnight one of the girls who had stayed out of her room to enjoy a spicy chat with one of the other girls, was hurrying to her room and in the dark mistook the room, entering the room of one of the boys by mistake. He was standing by the gas jet, having just turned out the light, and when he found the girl for which she carried in her pocket and started to fight for the one stumbled against him. Of course she screamed and started for the door; but he was between her and it, and holding her for a moment actually bit her cheek, in order that he may identify the young lady when next they met. Of course her wrath knew no bounds; and when she finally reached her room she called an indignation meeting of the other girls and explained what the hardy fellow had presumed to do. She could never face him again, and was not going to stand the insult unavenged. But then, of course, he would know who she was, and she appealed to the girls to help her out of the difficulty. They did. The next morning when the girl students filed past the boys at declamation exercises in the chapel one wicked youth looked over the top of his testament only to see a procession of twelve girls, each having a long strip of black court plaster on the left cheek. He has never yet discovered which girl he bit.

SETTING A RIVER ON FIRE.

Apparently the Trick Is Not So Difficult as Was Once Supposed.

We have all become accustomed to the expression "setting the river on fire" as a synonym of impossibility that we have long since regarded it as such, says Electricity. Yet, in evidence of the untruth of this idea the chemist teaches us that it is a simple matter to burn water if we have but a proper igniter. The chemist, in illustration of this, drops a piece of metallic sodium upon the surface of the water, when it bursts immediately into flame. This experiment is attended with some danger, however, since the heat is generated by the flame is so rapid as to immediately transform into steam that portion of the water closely adjacent to the sodium, and this passes off with explosive quick force. Experiment will also prove that the fire thus kindled of water is unquenchable by water, and will prove it impossible to put it out in this way: He will tie a weight to a large piece of sodium, so as to cause it to rapidly sink and then throw it into the water. The sodium thus weighted, before its virtue is gone, will have dragged perhaps many feet below the surface of the water, and when it has succeed with unimpaired rapidity and the result will be a violent explosion, which will project a column of water high in the air as does dynamite or nitro-glycerine when subaqueously exploded. The philosophy, of this is as follows: Metallic sodium has such an affinity for oxygen that it will rob even witter of what it demands, and water, like everything else, is made up of hydrogen and one part of oxygen, between which atoms thus deoxygenated which is very combustible, being liberated and the oxygen going to the metal. So much heat is generated by the oxidation of the sodium that the liberated hydrogen takes fire as quickly as it is set free. Combustion causes the liberated hydrogen to ignite.

An Entertainment That Can Be Used Wholly or in Part—The Months, Holidays and Seasons in Costume, Santa Claus and King Christmas.

The arrival of the gayest season in the year is the signal for all kinds of merry-making. "What new plan for entertainment can we find?" is a common question among hosts, hostesses and those in various public and private enterprises for stimulating holiday mirth. These hints are quite

The sodium thus weighted, before its virtue is gone, will have dragged perhaps many feet below the surface of the water, and when it has succeed with unimpaired rapidity and the result will be a violent explosion, which will project a column of water high in the air as does dynamite or nitro-glycerine when subaqueously exploded. The philosophy, of this is as follows: Metallic sodium has such an affinity for oxygen that it will rob even witter of what it demands, and water, like everything else, is made up of hydrogen and one part of oxygen, between which atoms thus deoxygenated which is very combustible, being liberated and the oxygen going to the metal. So much heat is generated by the oxidation of the sodium that the liberated hydrogen takes fire as quickly as it is set free. Combustion causes the liberated hydrogen to ignite.

A brilliant and fancy appearance to the rooms full of guests in the social hour that follows.

The Genius of Dreams is presented as suggested might, and the part should be taken by a slender lady of at least medium height, with dark hair and eyes. The entire dress is made of cheap, black tarleton, with full skirt, and train bordered with a deep ruffle of tarleton folds of dress and bodice to match. The waist is bare except for with surplice front, the neck opening bordered with stars; a girdle of stars and a small star or crescent, covered like the rest, or jeweled ornaments of the same shape, complete the dress, unless a long tarleton veil, held in place with stars, is desired. When the entertainment is for children the front of the doors or curtains, behind which the Genius of Dreams is seated, should be of white tarleton, through which the figure is partly seen. Cotton batting, with gold and silver tinsel, is used to represent stars, and the girls snowflakes. It will add greatly to either a fairy scene, or its place of meeting. Costumes of many kinds can be devised to carry out this idea, but I would suggest that the boys have Oxford gowns of black cotton cloth, with caps, bib, the necks, yokes, flowing sleeves and hems defined by rows of gilt stars cut from gilt paper. Mortarboard hats, caps, the skull cap made of black cloth, the dark part of pasteboard covered with the same, are used. The flat part can be made square, as usual, or with a gilt star on the surface over and tiny ones hanging all around the edges, or its place can be filled with a large five-pointed gilt star, with a small one hanging from each point. The effect of these small stars, glittering with every motion of the wearer, is very pretty.

The little girls wear dresses of white muslin, with broad hems around the bottom made of snowy cotton wadding, with gilt stars cut from paper, as the rough tinsle surface can better imitate snow. These bands and little stars are also sprinkled with gilt and well laid with diamond dust. The hair, worn flowing, is also powdered with it.

GILFILLAN IS DEAD.

MINNESOTA'S CHIEF JUSTICE PASSES AWAY.

After an Illness Lasting Seventy Months He Succumbs to Bright's Disease—A Sketch of Justice Gilfillan's Life.

St. Paul, Dec. 18.—After an illness of little over four months, Chief Justice James Gilfillan breathed his last this away at 6:04 yesterday morning. His death was caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. Justice Gilfillan was unconscious for some little time before the end came. There was no one present when he died but members of the family. Dr. Senkler, who attended throughout his illness, was with him until midnight, and was convinced when he went away that death would come before morning. The news of his death spread rapidly among the close friends of the family, and all day yesterday they kept calling at the residence to extend their consolations to the members of the family. Gratify and view the remains of their departed friend. Justice Gilfillan was as ex-commander of the Grand Legion of Minnesota, the only society of which he was a member. He could never be induced to join societies, because he knew that he would not take as great discredit on his impartial disposition on the bench. The commander of the Grand Legion invited him to be for all the members to participate in the funeral services.

James Gilfillan was born in Scotland in 1829, and the following year his parents came to this country and settled on a farm in New York. The boy remained on the farm until he was four months in the year until he was sixteen years of age, when he began the struggle of life. His first employment was read. The prisoner made no plea, reserving this for a future time.

Hayward was brought into court by Sheriff Egan and two deputies. He appeared in the same clothes he has worn during his incarceration, and there was a decided difference between the fashionably clad young man who undertook to take human life and the broken-down old man who, in 1862, fell into the hands of Mayor Rustis and the Sioux City lookout individual in his court to-day. Hayward betrayed none of the evidences of guilty fear that characterized Blixt's demeanor through the same door earlier in the day. He walked with his head up, and appeared to resent the sheriff's hold upon his arm. The effect of his confinement had told on him in the private office in the bank in much the same way that it had on the same upper lip. Both said that they were unarmed and did no shooting. Cromwell's testimony did much to strengthen the belief in Huntington's innocence, and there was but a small crowd in the court room. The prisoner's attorneys, Hale & Morgan, were present, and there was but a few minutes to wait before the sheriff's party arrived with Judge Bedford, who was to try the case. Judge Bedford entered on the bench and there were one or two remarks to fill the unexpired term of Justice Thomas Wilson, and served on the bench until 1870. He was again appointed to fill the vacancy in 1875, and held the office by election ever since.

He failed to receive the nomination and Judge Start was elected without opposition. It is believed that Justice Collins will serve as chief justice until Chief Justice Start is sworn in next month.

FISTED TO DEATH.

Jack, to his mother.)

I cannot see why Santa Claus,
On Christmas day in sleighs
My stockings only fills with toys,
And nothing else.
So common and so cheap!
He says he brings me expensive toys—
He never forgets.
A ride or woodpecks,
Or some bon-bons gay.
He leaves no trains of cars at all
And it's just think it's mean,
He fills the stockings with the brim
With apples red and green.
Now, there is Mr. McAdoo—
He's rich, all people know,
And Santa Claus brings lots of things
Each Christmas eve for Jos.
Now, if our fathers were so rich
As Mr. McAdoo,
Would Santa Claus bring to us
boys
Such costly presents, too?
—N. K. M.
He brings him hobby-horses,
And boats that go by steam,
And bright, spotted pasteboard cows
All full of chocolate cream.
And then upon his Christmas tree
He hangs red candy dogs,
Gold dromedaries, rubber cats,
And wind-up jumping frogs.
And I know other rich men's sons
Who, when it's just the same
The slightest presents get
Are more than I can name.
Another poor man's son like me
Is little Jimmie Pett,
And fifty cents would pay for all
The presents that he got.
Now, if our fathers were so rich
As Mr. McAdoo,
Would Santa Claus bring to us
boys
Such costly presents, too?

FISTED TO DEATH.

Andy Bowen Killed in a Prize Fight in New Orleans.

New Orleans, Dec. 18.—Andy Bowen, who was defeated in the arena of the Auditorium club by Kid Lavigne de-Saginaw, Mich., died from the effects of the pugilistic encounter early this morning while Father Delaney was praying over him. He remained unconscious from the time he left the ring until he died. The Dempsey-Ryan fight was declared off.

Lavigne was inexpressibly shocked when he heard the news of Bowen's death. He said he believed that when Bowen fell that his head had struck the pine flooring of the ring. The coroner also heard the immediate cause of his death.

Lavigne and his party were taken to the Third precinct police station, Lavigne was released on bail fixed by him at $10,000, the others $5,000. Duffy, the referee, and Spitzfaden, were the only ones to furnish bonds. Fitzsimons telegraphed his sympathy and offered financial aid.

FEAR AN OUTBREAK.

Settlers at Pine Ridge Afraid of their Lives.

Pine Ridge, S. D., Dec. 18.—The Indians on the reservation are getting very restless and settlers are fearful of an outbreak. Owing to the failure of that of three years ago. The Sioux have never recovered since then. Cattle, on account of the dry weather that has made them very poor and unsalable, are dying by the hundreds for coming turbulent. It is believed extreme measures will be resorted to to prevent trouble this winter, as the appresh of cold weather is making the situation more acute.

Death of a Veteran.

Algona, Iowa, Dec. 18.—Capt. L. M. B. Smith, a retired merchant of this city, died this morning of heart disease. He was a former resident of Oconomowoc, Wis., and served during the War of the Rebellion as captain in the First Wisconsin cavalry. He was a well known Grand Army man throughout the Northwest.

MONEY MAKING.

The Quickest Way to Pile Up Wealth in This Business Era.

The reason of the modern difference in favor of business as an instrument of money-making is not far to seek. It is the enormous growth in the scale of everything in which business can be done. The enterprise of a merchant, of a commoner, of a mine dealer, ever of a shopkeeper, may now cover the whole world, and may be carried on moreover, mainly upon credit. It may be doubled whether, except in those transactions which are called "financial," and which really mean the taking of heavy profits for pecuniary support, any one transaction ever yields quite as much as the same transaction would have yielded sixty years ago; whether, for example, any cargo ever produces ten for ten an equal margin of profit, or whether any customer in a shop pays quite as large a percentage on the goods he buys.

It is the magnitude and multiplication of charges, which itself proceeds from the thousand, instead of hundreds, of customers whose clever dealers may introduce to spend money. The new system of rapid turnover is, of course, precisely the same thing—the dealer selling four times what he did, and using only the same capital. This advantage of scale is almost entirely wanting to the professional man, for the obvious reason that he is hampered by limitations of time.

There are only six hundred minutes in a hard worked day, and the seeker after business be he as able as he may, or as decided, or as rapid, must give some of those minutes to each client or patient or contractor with a difficulty to meet. If he does not, he loses custom, and with custom income rapidly slips away. There are no doubt, favorite lawyers, doctors and even engineers, whose advice is sought at great expense, when equally good advice is procurable much cheaper; but still, the favorites must give their advice, and lose their day in doing it, or they will speedily be deserted.

Nothing can alter this first law, while the exaggeration of professional fees is kept down, in the case of solicitors, by positive statute, in that of doctors, by an etiquette difficult to define or transgress where seems to be no reason why a great physician should not charge according to skill—and in that of barristers and engineers, by a competition, which, though never acknowledged, is none the less real and effective. We cannot see what is to alter this condition of affairs, and do not believe that, however civilization may develop itself, professional skill will ever again be the quickest road to large accumulations.—London Speculator.

FOOLING THE SCHOOLMARM.

How an Omaha Girl Manages to Communicate With the Forbidden Sweetheart.

A friend of mine out in Omaha has a daughter, and that daughter has, among other girlish trifles, a sweet-heart, who is rendered doubly dear to her by the fact that her parents have forbidden her to see him, says the Washington Post. He is, to be sure, a very commendable person, but the girl can resist a man her parents have forbidden her to see as well as girls in particular girl is in Washington now, for safe-keeping in a private school where boarding pupils are. Letters are read by a stern faced teacher. I went to see her the other day and after the mail was in, she had received a letter from the school-girl-girl-girl in Omaha, and there wasn't a noun or pronoun of the masculine gender in the whole of it. The girl and I read it merely, and showed it to me. Then we went to her room. The door was no sooner closed than she flew to her curling tongs, heated them, held them close to the written sheet, and read with delight the yellow letters in a masculine hand which appeared between the lines, and faded again as the paper cooled. The moral of this is that love will find a way, and so long as chloride of copper in solution is to be had, I advise every boy and a girl's school to tread all letters well before delivering them.

A WOMAN'S HEART.

ONE DISEASE THAT BAFFLES THE PHYSICIAN.

The Story of a Woman Who Suffered for Nine Years—How She Was Cured.

(From the Newark, N. J., Evening News.)

Various diseases of the heart has of late been considered incurable. The following interview, published will interest the medical profession since it describes the successful use of a new heart tonic for this disease. The patient is Mrs. Geo. Archer of Clifton, N. J., and this publication by her is the first mention made of the case by any newspaper. The physicians consulted pronounced the patient suffering with valvular disease of the heart, yet treated her without the slightest relief. Mrs. Archer said: "I could not walk across the floor, neither could I go up stairs without stopping to let the pain in my chest and left arm cease. I felt an awful constriction across my arms and chest as though I were tied with ropes. Then there was a terrible noise, as my friends said, like the labored breathing of some great animal. I have often fainted expecting to see some gruesome at my side.

"Last July," continued Mrs. Archer, "I was at Springfield, Mass., visiting, and my mother showed me an account in the Springfield Examiner, telling of the wonderful cures of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. My mother urged me to try the pills and on November 18 last Ploughh a box and began taking them, and I took them with care since, except for a short interval. The pain my arms and chest soon left me, but I persevered, encouraged by the requests of my relatives. After beginning on the second box, to my wonder, the noise at my heart ceased entirely. I kept right on and the distress that I used to feel in my left arm and shoulder left me, and the old blood has returned to my face, lips and nails, and my appetite is simply splendid, and I feel well and strong again.

"My son, too, had been troubled with gastritis and I induced him to try the Pink Pills for some benefit. I feel that every body ought to know of my wonderful cure and I hope that this will be the blessed something that has given me this great relief."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only to the public as an unfailing blood builder and nerve restorer, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves. Two-thirds of all cases of most every ill that flesh is heir to, from a pimple to a pain, are simply the result of impoverished blood or shattered nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the only remedy that can make new blood and restore shattered nerves. They are not a purgative medicine, and do not act on the bowels. They are entirely different from any other medicine. Their great success in curing all forms of weakness, both in male and female, has caused many unprincipled dealers to imitate the name, box or general appearance of these pills, hoping to reap a harvest from the good name which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have won. Avoid imitations and substitutes. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

DESERVED HIS PAY AS A COACH.

Street Beggar Who Tried Hard and Fails With an Old Pica Finds a New One.

It was really a sight for the eyes of this degenerate civilization, the magnificent specimen of a man who strode up State street just before 6 o'clock in the evening, with a look and swing that clearly showed he was bound toward home after a day's hard work. A six-footer and more, with broad chest and magnificent shoulders, swinging arms, and a countenance that showed by all its lines and its general appearance that he was a man who could do a good day's work and get his pay for it. He was a man who could be found in any factory or mine or on any farm, and who could be depended on to do his share of the world's work and a little more.

Behind this splendid specimen of manhood came a little, dried-up, wizened, weazened, undersized, underfed, underdeveloped, underclothed, underwitted, underbred, underbodied, underlegged, underfooted, underhanded, underheaded, underhearted, underlunged, underlivered, underkidneyed, underbrained, underthroated, underjawed, underlipped, undernosed, undereyed, underbrowed, underforeheaded, underhaired, underskinned, underboned, underjointed, underfleshed, underbloodied, underminded, underspirited, underhanded, underfooted, underlegged, underbodied

Lands are Cheap.

J. M. Elder is the agent for the sale of Northern Pacific railroad lands in Crow Wing and Cass counties. Having had inquiry regarding the terms of payment, etc., a Dispatch reporter called at his office in the Bank block on Wednesday and obtained the following information: The company has reduced the price on all their lands one-half and they can now be purchased at from $2.40 to $4.00 per acre, only one-sixth of the purchase price being required to be paid down, the balance in annual payments at 7 per cent. Mr. Elder locates settlers on these lands free of all expense to the purchaser, and sends a cruiser with them in order that they may see the land and be entirely satisfied with it. If a man wants a farm now is the time to select the land while there are yet choice pieces left. You can make the down payment for a trifling sum and the balance in five equal payments. Mr. Elder has charts, maps, and all necessary information which will be freely given to applicants.

A Talented Breinerdite.

The following letter written to J. C. Congdon, shows that T. R. Congdon, of this city, for we shall always claim him, has made an enviable mark for himself in Paris, where, in a class of two hundred competitors, he has been awarded a cash prize and a medal for the best work of art. The letter says:

"I have a bit of news that may interest you and my friends in Brainerd. In a competition in which about two hundred artists, French, German, Spanish, Italian, English and American, were engaged, I came out the winner of the prize. It was like this: Since last March the best work of the strongest men have been collected for this competition and yesterday the decision was given, and mark you, the judges are men who are at the head of art in the whole world. They were as follows: Bongereau, Ferrier, Doucet, Lefebure, and Jean Paul Laurens. My work was placed at the head and marked "No. 1," all the others following in rotation. My work will be framed and hung on the wall to remain there, the property of the studio. The prize is nominally 50 francs and a medal, but it is the honor that counts most in these contests."

T. R. Congdon.

Paris, France, Nov. 27, 1894.

The City Fathers.

The city council held its regular session on Monday evening, at which time all members were present. The financial report of the city clerk for November was read, accepted and ordered filed.

The appointment of James Towers as special police without pay by Mayor Halsted, was read and confirmed.

The following claims against the city were allowed:

Tribune	$11 95
Pelz Graham, drayage	2 65
A. P. Farrar, rent of rink	12 00
Elec. Eng. Co., supplies	91 70
A. Remthal, drying hose	4 00
Jno. McDonald, work	2 00

Bills of J. J. Howe & Co., $30.26, and W. F. Holst, $2.25, were referred to the street committee, and A. L. Hoffman, $6.50, steve for pest house, was referred to the finance committee.

Bill of John Hurley, $50, for rent of pest house, was laid on the table until the return of the city attorney.

Communication from City Treasurer LaBar, stating that $2,675 would have to be raised on or before Dec. 27th, to meet obligations falling due Jan. 1st, 1895, was read, and on motion the clerk was instructed to issue an order for that amount, payable to the city treasurer for hydrant rental.

Proposition of Joel Smith to furnish pine and oak sidewalk lumber for the city was read and ordered laid on the table until the next regular meeting.

Motion was made and carried that the chairman of each committee be requested to take an invoice of stock belonging to the city and report.

The matter of reducing the domestic rates on electric lights was laid on the table until the next meeting.

A communication from the superintendent of electric lights was read, stating that it was necessary that the flush boards be placed on the dam again and that the sluice way be closed. A motion was carried that the city pay one-half the expense of doing the above work.

The matter of investigating means of furnishing the city with pure water was referred to the water works committee.

Bond of S. R. Adair, as sinking fund commissioner, in the sum of $2,000, was read and accepted. The council then adjourned.

Drysdale, Drysdale,

Brainerd's leading photographer, never fails to satisfy. Give him a call.

Bean Bake and Camp Fire.

Pap Thomas Post did itself proud last Saturday evening at the camp fire. The spacious hall was filled to overflowing with invited guests and the exercises were excellent. Department Commander Van Sant, who was to have been present, was prevented from being here by a pressing business engagement, but Junior Vice Commander C. W. McKay came in his place, accompanied by Adjt. Gen. J. K. Mertz. The speeches were all fine and were listened to with a great deal of interest. Dreeskell's orchestra furnished the music and the school children rendered some very excellent songs, one under the direction of Miss Katie Canan, and the other under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Paine. Misses Eva Brockway and Nellie Merritt presided at the organ.

The members of the post attended divine services at the Methodist church in a body Sunday morning at which Rev. West delivered an excellent sermon appropriate to the occasion, Gen. Mertz following him in an address on religious army life.

Railway Conductors Ball.

We received a pleasant call from Conductor W. J. Flynn yesterday. The gentleman was in the city completing the arrangements for the fifth annual ball of Brainerd Div. No. 197, O. R. C., which occurs at Gardner Hall on Monday evening, Dec. 31st. A special train will be run from Staples to accommodate the large number of people from that place who will be in attendance. The parties heretofore given by the conductors have been among the most pleasant and successful that it has been the pleasure of the Brainerd people to attend, and the coming event will be no exception to the rule.

I have engaged the service of a good reliable crusher, and am prepared to locate settlers on my farming land close to the B. & N. M. Ry. For information see or address, C. A. Allbright, Brainerd, Minn.

Notice to Water Consumers.

Water rent for the first quarter, 1895, must be paid by January 10th. There is no exception to this rule, and the supply for consumers who have not paid by that time will be shut off.

Xmas Announcement.

You cannot afford to throw away money this year, but you may feel like remembering a few of your friends, and if so let us talk business. We are permanently located in Brainerd, and for the past twelve years have endeavored to keep in touch with the people. We buy what we think they want. We buy the best goods manufactured. We sell as low as we can afford to and live. We cannot give every customer a prize package or present, because that is not business. Should we undertake to do so the expense would have to be added to the goods sold, and that is not business. We sell at small profits, and guarantee satisfaction in every case. As good and well selected stock as was ever placed on sale in our line will be at your service. We are making a desperate effort to have everything that is likely to be called for. It would be useless to try to mention every article, and for this reason we simply say to our customers, look at the goods, you can depend upon the quality. You need not hesitate to offer as a present any article you buy of us. Call and see us.

The Metropolitans.

On Saturday afternoon and evening the musical loving public of Brainerd will have an opportunity of bearing some of the best talent to-day on the operatic stage. The Minneapolis Penny Press, of Tuesday Dec. 18 has this to say of this company.

First, there was one of the most charming young and talented sopranos that the local stage has been the means of introducing. Yesterday Miss Florence Wolcott was a stranger to Minneapolis music lovers; today her reputation is as enviable among them as rare and sweet vocalist as probably any in this country with two or three exceptions. When one like Miss Wolcott is young, exceedingly handsome, reasonably graceful, magnetic in personality, and possessed of a remarkably high, pure soprano voice of vast power, she certainly has a composition of qualifications that will before many ambitions years have rolled away, place her close to the top of American contraltoes singing in English opera. There are few sopranos in English opera who can sing the role of Galatea without having the music altered in some palces to fit the requirements of their voice. James Connell Abdill, a tenor last heard here with the Abbott company, appeared here as Phillip D'Aguilar, and Miss Catherine MacNeill, an excellent contralto, was heard as Donna Agnes. Arthur Donaldson, a basso cantante, who is also a surprisingly good actor for a vocalist, was seen as the Regent.

"Pygmalion and Galatea" a mythological comic opera by Franz von Suppe, and one possessed of a decidedly scrrs, was rendered in a thoroughly excellent manner after the "Sleeping Queen" had been given. Carl Marteus and the effects secured under the wave of his baton were certainly a matter for congratulation. The Metropolitan is an unique an organization as ever has visited Minneapolis.
