The Republican Convention.

The republican county convention for the selection of delegates to the legislative, state and congressional conventions will assemble at the court house to-morrow afternoon and it will be a harmonious affair throughout. Differences in opinion have existed but have been agreeably adjusted and delegations will be selected that will favor the nomination of A. F. Ferris for the legislature and D. M. Clough for governor.

The Democrats of Illinois have again placed John P. Altgeld in nomination for governor on a free silver platform.

The Northern Pacific re-organization managers have selected General Manager Winters, of the Omaha road, as president of the Northern Pacific. It is claimed that the selection is advantageous in many respects, especially as Mr. Winters is a practical railroad man.

PARK RAPIDS has a new publication, the Hubbard County Clipper, and it is a very neat appearing paper with a prosperous air about it. Pinned to the masthead is the motto, "Protection to Northeast is the motto, "Protection to American Labor and American Industry." The people of our northern city should give it liberal encouragement.

THE Duluth News-Tribune is making it decidedly interesting for Mr. Towne and his free silver ideas in that city. Mr. Towne's friends endeavor to make the people of this district imagine that Duluth and St. Louis county is solidify with him in his bolt, but such is not the case.

THE candidacy of Hon. A. F. Ferris, for re-nomination for the legislature, is meeting with general approval throughout the entire county, and without a doubt delegates favorable to him will be elected at the county convention which convenes tomorrow. The canvass in the country precincts was held this afternoon, and tonight they occur in the city, each ward holding their meeting at the same hour, from 7:30 until 9 o'clock.

THE most important question to be considered by the Republicans of the Sixth district until the congressional convention takes place at St. Cloud on July 16th, is the selection of the proper candidate to put in nomination for congress. The peculiar conditions existing, as the St. Cloud Journal-Press states, makes it necessary to wisely consider the question and set selfish interests and personal ambition aside and unite on some man who will be acceptable in all sections. Mr. Towne is out of the party and will make his fight on an independent free-silver standpoint, and while he will necessarily draw to his following a number who favor his belief, there is no reason why the Republicans cannot nominate and elect a congressman on an honest money platform. The district has many good men who could ably fill the position, but in all probability the candidate will come from Duluth, Mr. Towne's home, where Paige Morris, C. D. Kinney, and other brainy men are being talked of, but whoever the convention decides on will receive the undivided support of the party in all sections of the district.

People's Party Convention.

On Monday evening the People's party of Crow Wing county held a convention at the court house, the purpose being to elect seven delegates to the congressional district convention, which convened at Duluth yesterday, and at which time delegates to the national convention will be elected. J. E. Johnson, chairman of the county committee, called the meeting to order and was elected to preside over the deliberations of the convention, J. W. Martin being elected secretary. The committee on credentials, consisting of O. P. Errickson, S. W. Quinn and Andrew Hall, reported the following delegates as entitled to seats:

First Ward—Jens Molstad, Martin Orig and John Bacon.

Second Ward—Thomas Johnson, Andrew Lund, Wm. Mahood and Peter Walters.

Third Ward—Andrew Hall, J. W. Martin and M. Holmes.

Fourth Ward—Thomas Johnson, O. P. Errickson, J. Tillquist and B. McGivern.

Fifth Ward—S. W. Quinn, Louis Sherland and Gust. Siokkmon.

Deerwood—John Engman, Gus. Pearson and C. F. Jones.

Oak Lawn—John A. Jackson.

Delegates to the Duluth convention were elected as follows:

Solomon Johnson, O. P. Errickson, Peter Walters, Felix Graham, W. W. Winters, J. E. Johnson and John Engman.

After electing John Atkinson chairman of the county committee and J. W. Martin secretary, the convention adjourned.

The National Convention

Of the Democratic party will be held July 7th at Chicago. The best, quickest and most comfortable line is the Burlington. Reclining chair cars dining cars, and standard and compartment sleepers, make inquiry about all that could be asked. A very low rate of fare will be named. Don't forget to see that your ticket is via the Burlington.

Democrats

Went to the National Convention of 1892 at Chicago via the Burlington Route. They elected their candidate. They secure good luck again—and have a comfortable journey—go again by the same line. When buying a ticket, be sure that it reads via the Burlington Route.

GOVERNMENT DAM BREAKS.

The Bank of the Pine River Reservoir Gives Way and a Torrent of Water Rushes Through the Pelican Creek Valley Causing Much Damage.

A. T. Kimball's Stopping Place in Ruins—Water Still Running Through the Break.

On Friday afternoon of last week news was received here that the government reservoir was pouring its vast volume of water through a break in its bank, some distance from the dam proper, and that the flood, resembling a mighty river, was running through the valley of Pelican Creek toward the Mississippi river.

The dam is in charge of Neil McKay, and his instructions were to hold seventeen feet of water, the reservoir having been built to hold twenty, and on Wednesday the gauge registered sixteen feet, but shortly after that Mr. McKay noticed a fall of some inches. As there was not a drop of water running through at the dam Mr. McKay knew something was wrong and he proceeded to investigate the matter, finding the water running over the bank near what is known as Long Lake. He immediately dispatched a courier to Brainerd to notify Major Jones, the government engineer, at St. Paul, and that gentleman sent back the information that he would come at once. The water continued to run through the opening, filling the small lake into which it was pouring, and at about 5 o'clock the mighty volume came roaring down Pelican Creek, having taken out a section of the reservoir bank some 200 or 300 feet wide. At Kimball's place the water rose so rapidly that it was with difficulty that the household goods and stock were gotten to a place of safety, but with the help of several teams which, luckily, were there, nearly everything of that description was saved, but the mighty river caused destruction to his building, His large log barn was carried down stream and lodged on the meadow a long distance from its original resting place, and the earth and foundation was washed from under his house, causing it to fall into the stream and completely wrecking it, and also destroying all the smaller outbuildings. His large frame barn, standing farther up the hill, was saved by running grey-ropes from the building to some large trees. The crops on the low land were all washed out, and the meadows on Pelican Creek and also on Pine River, have been destroyed, which is severe loss to the people in that vicinity.

The gates of the dam were raised as soon as the flood began, in order to draw as much of the water into Pine River as possible, but the water still continued to run through the break at last accounts. As soon as Major Jones arrived he put a large crew of men at work constructing a temporary dam at the foot of Crow Lake in order to shut off the water from the break until the damage could be repaired, and it is expected this work will be completed by the end of the week, but it will take some time to repair the damage to the reservoir wall.

This vast flood of water found its way into the Mississippi, and, as a consequence, the water raised rapidly. At Dr. J. L. Camp's place on the Mission, the flood has backed up over his farm, and his foreman was obliged to abandon the house and move the stock to high land and his damage will be considerable.

The water in the Mississippi river at the pump house raised four feet on account of the flood and has practically been at a stand still at that stage since Monday night.

Republican Primaries.

Tonight the Republican primaries, to elect delegates to the Republican county convention which will be held tomorrow afternoon, will occur between the hours of 7:30 and 9 o'clock p. m., at the following places:

First Ward—Central Hose House.

Second Ward—Building adjoining Congdon' paint shop on Main street.

Third Ward—Hose Houses.

Fourth Ward—Hose House.

Fifth Ward—Old school building on Sixth street.

More than ordinary interest is being taken in the caucuses, and it is probable that they will be largely attended. It is at the primary elections that the voter has the chance to express himself as to his choice in regard to candidates, and with proper attention to the caucuses no man can be placed before the public as the regular nominee of any party who is distasteful to a majority of the electors.

Frey's Good Work.

H. B. Frey, of the Nelson & Tenney Lumber Company, has succeeded in bringing our the drive on the Shingobee river this year will be in the south arm of Leech Lake Wednesday. There are about 35,000,000 feet in the drive. This successful termination of the drive reflects great credit on Mr. Frey, as the Shingobee has so much flooting bog as to render it impossible in the past for logs, says a Lothrop correspondent.

A NEW POTATO BUG.

He Can Eat Ten Potato Plants While the Old Variety Is Feeding on One.

Mr. J. F. Guilmartin has discovered a new variety of potato bug on his place, on the White Bluff Pike, about a mile and a half beyond the toll gate. If the nature of this insect is not investigated and soon means of destroying it discovered, it is likely to become a matter of impossibility to raise potatoes in the county.

The advance of the old-fashioned potato bug, the round fellow with the black and yellow stripes, is at about a rate of a half a mile per year. It is a big bug, and has a body in three parts, a head and a neck, both of which are small, and a large body. It is striped brown and black, and has wings, though it is not known that it can use a big bug is running when disturbed, or flying.

A hundred or more of these bugs will gather on one potato, and they make short work of it. They strip the plant of its leaves, leave their refuse right on the stem, and it might as well as they breed while they are eating. They are cannibals and live together in swarms, but at the rate they at it would not take them long to go through a big potato patch.

Unlike the old bug it will not touch poison. Mr. Guilmartin has tried it green and other methods of getting rid of the bug, but as soon as the poison is sprinkled on the plant the insect scoots off and makes tracks for another plant. Mr. Guilmartin says that the poison remedy was ineffective, and as he is at a loss as to how to get rid of the bugs he has practically turned over to them the field of potatoes he has under cultivation only a day or two ago, but since then their number has doubled, and it is now more nearly an acre of potatoes.

The old bug is easily got at, and is easily gotten at, but this one can run swiftly, and he takes to his legs as soon as he is discovered. He is the only insect to which the insect has yet been seen. Mr. Guilmartin has never seen one kind of anything like it before, and he is very desirous of having a specimen of it. The insect made in the hope that some means of effectually destroying it may be discovered. Should the bug once get a foothold on the truck farms in the vicinity of Memphis it would certainly suffer seriously. It has been suggested that the Truck Growers' association take the matter in hand and see if the entomological department at Washington can not be interested over with enthusiasm and was in temper to be worked.

A Brother's Devotion.

But the baronet insisted that this project might be very easily accomplished, and he had already imagined it, and now was certain of its success—entreated that Mrs. Willoughby would not refuse her consent to its attempt, and reminded her that, rejecting the plan he had conceived, Rosa's first born would be left to struggle with a cruel world—she did not always behave to best rewards on those who most merited them.

And Mrs. Willoughby thought of Sydney, still of employment and unpreferred, and would not acknowledge the truth that was in the words the baronet had last spoken. And Sir Loghlen promised Mrs. Willoughby that he would not take his son beyond her reach. The baronet would reside in London, and with such a friend as he was at command, if it should be completed, as he had no doubt would be the case, the marriage to be joyfully contemplated.

"You would promise that he should not be taken from me?" cried Mrs. Willoughby, now first yielding before this last temptation.

"Never should he go beyond your sight," cried Sir Loghlen, growing warmer and more urgent in his pleadings as he felt convinced he would succeed. "Only consent to it I ask. Our fate is in your hands; for it is not only of the welfare of my own son that I think; the happiness of the other is at stake; for I would not separate the two brothers."

"Tony, poor boy, he would also be well cared for," thought Mrs. Willoughby; and then demanded of the baronet what he would advise her to make acquaintance with the grandsons.

And Sir Loghlen replied that nothing could be more easy; he would return by an hour or two with his sister, and Mrs. Willoughby would have but to say that, in former years, she and the baronet had been acquainted.

"Let it all be as I would have it," cried Sir Loghlen. "Let Frances and my son behold each other, and heaven, who judges all intentions, and who knows what are mine, will accomplish the rest."

And Mrs. Willoughby was greatly troubled—knew not how to decide. The baronet was, perhaps, right; and it might be that love for the other would arise in the heart of each, and then, oh! then, Mrs. Willoughby would believe that Rosa's position had been avenged for she had so basely wronged her; and poor, old Mrs. Willoughby could then herself be able to forgive.

And, with a joy at his heart greater than it had ever known since those days of his youth, when he had received a confession of her love for him from the charming lips of Rosa Willoughby, the baronet took his leave, for an hour or so, of the mother of the first and the only woman whom, in all his life he had ever truly loved.

How often had Sir Loghlen wished that he had possessed the courage to brave his father's anger and threats of disinheritance, and that his marriage with Rosa had been as real as to that unhappy and cruelly-deceived young girl in his presence!

The baronet's carriage had rolled but a few paces from Mrs. Willoughby's door, when it flashed across his mind that even yet, he knew not what had been given to his son, nor what had been the name of Rosa's second, and his well-wedded husband.

Sir Loghlen, in his hurried and excited interview with Mrs. Willoughby, had forgotten to ask the name of that son, about whom his heart had been so deeply interested.

About to order his coachman to return, the baronet then thought so little a soul that it was not worth while, since, in an hour or so, he would behold both his young sons and from his own lips learn his name.

Mrs. Willoughby, left to herself, had some difficulty in believing that she had not fallen asleep and dreamed, so strange did it seem to her that now, after so very many years, she had for the first time in her life encountered the man on whose head her curse had always rested and that she had for him won so easily to pardon him.

But it was no time for idle soon convinced herself. The baronet had been there, arousing himself and imagining that she would pardon him the wrong he had inflicted on her child, and he had left her feeble and disarmed.

She had been won by the prospect of fortune for her grandsons. But they were equally dear to her heart, although the circumstances of the birth and of the mother's wrongs had caused for Sydney a compassion which, in its display, had perhaps appeared a preference in her love.

And without doubt Tony would have been angry with his grandmother if he had not believed in her preference of all his brothers for he never dreamed himself in comparison with Sydney, whom he considered altogether a superior being.

But Mrs. Willoughby well knew that although in physical beauty Sydney might surpass his brother, they were most perfectly equal in the more estimable qualities of mind and heart.

And the baronet had promised that he would not separate the brothers, and Mrs. Willoughby believed that great happiness was now in her old age about to arrive to her and she must wait for her for the little time that she had yet to dwell on earth.

Unwelcome Visitors

The brothers had returned home and both had been unsuccessful in their search.

Sydney was not to have the appointment for which he had last applied, and Tony had again been unable to obtain any information concerning the rascal from which, at first, he had hoped so much.

Both entered their grandmother's presence with the same cheerfulness that it was now possible to them to assume.

But while Sydney's was a very sorry attempt at cheerfulness, Tony's face wore a pleased expression which might readily have deceived more scrutinizing eyes than those of his grandmother's as to the true feeling at his heart.

And besides, Mrs. Willoughby had had an interview with Sir Loghlen in which was the cause that Tony now prejudiced and prepossessed in her favor pair which he had bought for her.

Mrs. Willoughby could not but say was a dear, considerate boy, and so, indeed, he was.

"Will they do grs'mother?" inquired Tony, as he fixed the glasses to the old lady's nose.

"Beautiful, beautiful!" was the response, "yes very beautiful, Tony dear. A young girl of sixteen—in fact, better!" she added, seriously; "for with these I see no cause to fear that you, my dear, good boys, who were always as gruesome to their old grandmother as always bringing her some such little present."

And then she embraced Sydney, saying to herself that, with all the money he could bring, it was not quite possible that Sir Loghlen O'Meara's niece might be far more acceptable to become the wife of her handsome and gentlemanly-looking grandson. And when Mrs. Willoughby had called Sydney "Now," said her youngest grandson, "it is a shame, grs'mother, that you the lady so violently that she was glad to escape from his clutches.

And, while smoothing her cap, whose border Tony had sadly ruffled, she laughingly told him he was getting like a young bear than a respectable human being.

And Tony laughed, too, and said he did not know what should make him so rough, for he had been brought up very tenderly.

And now, observing Sydney, "Always those sad looks, dear boy! Why are you always so very wretched, and, seemingly, so hopeless?" said Mrs Willoughby.

"To-day, at least, grandmother," Sydney replied, "I have good reason to be otherwise than hopeless. I had hoped to obtain—"

"Mother of the situation!" broke in Mrs Willoughby.

And her grandsons looked wonderingly at her, as, removing her new spectacles from her nose, and placing them carefully in their case, she said, rather haughtily, "Who wants any of their old situations? They will have to come and ask you for situations, I expect!"

"What do you mean?—whatever are you talking about, grandmother, dear?" demanded Tony, staring with all his eyes, and wondering if his Grandmother was joking, and if he was especially pleasant. In fact, he did, when he could see that the old lady was smiling, and concluded that she had said something very funny.

TELLER THEIR MAN.

SILVER MEN MAY NOMINATE HIM FOR PRESIDENT.

They Hold a Conference After Leaving the Convention and Decide to Issue a Statement Favorable to Teller's Nomination — Congressmen Towne, of Minnesota, Leaves the Republican Party.

St. Louis, June 18.—The silver delegates played a very important part in the day's session, dramatic in its extreme, and seldom has a political convention been the presidential nomination. The men who walked out had the unanimous support of the silver men and ag red to spring Senator Teller of Colorado, who has been identified with the free silver coinage movement, as a candidate for presidential. This fact will be announced at the meeting to be held to-morrow, when it will probably be signed by a majority of the disaffected delegates who formed their backs on the convention and declined to come others. A canvas for signatures was made among the silver men and the canvassers expressed satisfaction at the success with which they had met. They do not expect to secure the names of all the delegates who voted against the free coinage plank, but they say they have received words of encouragement from many of them. This address will simply suggest Senator Teller's availability as a presidential candidate, upon whom the entire silver vote can be concentrated, and will request the conferees of all parties who believe in bimetallism to support him.

The delegates who walked out of the convention were:

Colorado—Henry M. Teller, W. F. Gandy, J. W. Richardson, C. J. Hughes, jr., Fred Stevenson, J. S. Vivian, G. J. Hurd and D. Breitenstein.

Idaho—F. T. Dubois, W. E. Sweet, Price Hiller, A. L. Richardson, H. C. Wilson and Alexander Robinson.

Nevada—J. Cleveland, N. C. Stranahan, J. B. Overton and W. D. Phillips, jr.

Mont.—C. H. Spriggs and F. W. Bennett, their seats.

Utah—Isaac P. Cannon, Clarence R. Allen and Thomas Kearns.

Montana—Joseph H. Hartman.

South Dakota—R. F. Pettigrew.

Delegates were from scattering states and territories.

TELLER'S FAREWELL.

Speech of the Colorado Senator Without decorum.

Senator Teller, as he stood on the platform to make his final proposition to the convention, was greeted by an ovation of a gold standard policy, was a tall, slender, fair, gray-haired man, with a cold-featured frock coat of the old fashioned cut. He spoke slowly and with deliberation of thought, and no one who knew considered all his old associations for a moment could doubt the sincerity of purpose behind his honesty of purpose. His face showed the matter of his life more than any other one who have been conspicuous in the free silver movement than I. There are few men who have been associated with the latter of a cause so anything else, many of the delegates were strangers to him, but the enthusiasm by the wild tumult about them, the Colorado senator stood as if carved at dramatic effect. He spoke in clear, ringing tones, which have so often resounded through the halls of the United States senate. He was cheered at the close of his speech that he became hoarse and could not be heard by those of his long service in the party visibly affected him. As he began to speak he was about to take, he drew himself together with an expression that impressed those who heard him, and for the moment mortality, the religion and the salvation of the country seemed to be in his hands. He said as follows:

I will not attempt to inflict upon you a discussion of the great financial question which is dividing the people of this country, but of the world. The free expenditure of gold by the government will not enable me to do more than state my own views briefly and explain the objections to the financial plank proposed for the consideration of this convention, and I recognize the conditions existing in this convention and the power that is held by the action of the committee selected by the convention and appointed by the chairman of the states. This plank or the proposition which is presented to this convention as a substitute for it, is as follows:

"Resolved, etc., gentlemen, for your kind attention, retiring from you as I do, perhaps never again to address the convention of addressing a Republican convention, I will say that I believe that the platform I have in my heart a hope—say, I have expectations of a plank in the platform broad enough to adopt this platform and to stand upon it, and congratulate you at some time prevail, and ultimately, on the basis of bimetallism, and believing that the publican principles, I will have the privilege of again addressing you."

MR. WHITNEY OUT.

He Declares the Democratic Nomination Was Stolen.

New York, June 23. — William C. Whitney to-day made public a statement in which he defines his political situation, makes his position clear as regards his decision to remain in the democratic party instead of going to Bryan, and concludes by saying that he is not a presidential candidate, that he "would not run if nominated, and would not accept if elected." The statement in part is as follows:

"I find it necessary to make a public statement embodying my views on the situation, to correct misconceptions and save time, owing to the pressing questions. Far too much importance is attached to my action to go to the Chicago convention. I have been practically out of politics for four years and there are now many Eastern Democrats who can do much more than I can for the party. I shall not assume any position of leadership. My decision to-day was simply based on the duty of every person who believes in the party for its principles, to stay by and lend his aid and take his chances when the great crisis is upon the Democratic party. Fundamental differences of principle have existed in the party almost always by sectional lines.

"The great question, to my mind, is whether the party meets in convention now as in 1860, and secedes and nominates an ex for the moment irreconcilable. For the past fifteen years leaders of the party in the east and west have been advocating an income tax, the election by the people of senators, the initiative and the referendum, the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, without the co-operation of other nations.

"It has come to be believed in, there quite generally and conscientiously. A large majority of the delegates to the coming Democratic convention have been elected by the people for the purpose of putting these ideas into practice into the platform of the Democratic party.

"Our people, on the other hand, excitedly disagree with these views, and believe almost unanimously that it will bring general ruin to the business and manufacturing interests of the country. A new doctrine when it is proposed to be incorporated into the platform of a historical Democracy. It is true that in no previous platform of the party can it be asserted that it has consequently no party obligations heretofore assumed to prevent its adoption if the campaign the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 independent of other nations, in the intensity of feeling that they would be the ruin of the country. The free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 independent of other nations, in the intensity of feeling that they would be the ruin of the country. The free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 independent of other nations, in the intensity of feeling that they would be the ruin of the country. The free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 independent of other nations, in the intensity of feeling that they would be the ruin of the country.

"This movement for free coinage purports to have for its object the establishment of bimetallism and of silver as the money of the country upon equal terms with gold, and with a parity of purchasing power. If, by the proposed movement, that object could be secured, there would not be substantial disagreement in the party. Democrats generally favor a platform that has heretofore spoken upon the subject of money as that of gold and silver money. It is our traditional policy. But the present condition of the double standard at the present time is not a question of desire; it is a question of fact. The commercial value of silver has declined greatly in the markets of the world.

"Whatever the causes are and whether is to believe that there is the slightest reason to expect that the commercial value of silver will be restored to a parity with gold and silver money, apparently in variance with the commercial value of the two metals, we must take the world as it is and not as it ought to be. The enormous surplus ourselves, maintain its parity with gold, or else we shall be left to fight our battle alone.

"Mr. Whitney says that there is ground for the belief that international bimetallism will soon be an established fact. Europe, he says, recognizes should declare for free silver they will not agree to it. I do not believe Mr. Whitney would make any speeches or not. Mr. Bryan will be in the convention morning to see the governor.

THE PULPIT

MAJOR M'KINLEY GIVEN POINTERS BY A PREACHER.

The Republican Nominee Listens to Sermons of Rev. Dr. Hanna at the Recent Convention — Senators Sherman, of Ohio, and Davis, of Minnesota, Also Present — Congratulating Maj. McKinley.

Canton, Ohio, June 22.—To-day has brought temperey and peace and quiet to the citizens of Canton. Aside from the profuse decorations that greet the eye, on every hand, there has been no sign of the stirring scenes of the past week. Yesterday was a busy day when Gov. McKinley and Mrs. Gen. Russell Hastings, accompanied by Capt. Hobart, the major's right hand man, drove to the First M. E. church, a handsome structure two blocks from the public square. Gov. McKinley, with his wife, was a regular attendant of the Sunday school of this church, while his wife was Sunday school teacher in the First Presbyterian church, two blocks west, in which they were married twenty-five years ago. The church was crowded and Gov. McKinley was given a hearty welcome by all when he entered. Fifty newspaper reporters were present. The pastor, Dr. Hanna, chose for his text: "Make your calling and election sure, for if you do these things ye shall never fall." Dr. Edmunds made the opening prayer, which was followed by a prayer in a happy manner to the republican candidate for president. In his sermon were these thoughts:

"We have just passed through a week whose significance none are disposed to underrate. The school which entailment of free government was illustrated. The sacred right of the American citizenship exercised in the choice of men and measures representative of the views of the citizens.

"As one of the first conditions of having a sure election we must announce the liberty of every citizen to cast his ballot as he may desire. A second requirement of a sure election is to have a platform and stand upon upon it. It is your privilege; it is your noble duty to be absolutely fearless in the declaration of principles for the honor of God. True courage comes from the fear of nothing but the fear of God. True courage comes from the fear of nothing but the fear of God. The spirit of other men would be inconsequential, from him would be startling and disastrous. The spirit in mind a party which attributes its success to the fear of the men would ominously spoken," but the doctor did not utter the words "Hum, Romanism and Rebellion."

Among the letters received to-day by the following:

"I have not hurried in sending you the congratulations for your nomination as the next president of the United States, but they were not forgotten. I will gladly do all I can to secure your triumphant election. Give my kindest regards to your wife."

Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota, author of the platform and candidate the day of his state's Republican convention, has also written, and this is his letter:

"Permit me to add my congratulations to the many you have received. Your nomination is a fulfillment of the wishes of the Republican party as also decreed by the people themselves. I feel sure that history will date from next month the greatest epoch of material prosperity for the American people that they ever enjoyed."—C. K. Davis.

Hanna Takes a Rest.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 23. — M. A. Hanna spent to-day at his home in Cleveland, resting as much as possible. Among his guests were Col. Fred Grant, H. C. Ide, Governor and Gen. Russell and M. Osborne of Boston. Mr. Hanna was asked whether the appointment of the national committee would be established. He said he had not given the matter much thought as yet. He said, however, that he might spend some time in New York during the campaign. When asked if he knew Mr. McKinley's views on the money campaign were, Mr. Hanna said he had not yet consulted the governor at length on the subject, but whether Mr. McKinley would make any speeches or not. Mr. Hanna said he would be on hand.

Fighting in Cuba.

Havana, June 23. — As a result of skirmishes in Pinar del Rio, Havana and Matanzas provinces, the insurgents have sustained a loss of nineteen killed, eleven wounded and forty-nine owners, while the troops had three not specified. Reinforcements for the insurgents have also surrendered to the authorities at various points.

Fight for Cuba.

New York, Special.—A dispatch to the Herald from Havana says: Consul General Lee forwarded to President Cleveland to-day dispatches of Gen. Gomez, commanding the insurgent forces, which reached the president and Secretary Olney early this week. The dispatches from General Gomez detailed the general upon the Cuban situation, and are of extremely sensational character. In the dispatches there are two quite startling statements. The one wholly confidential and for the personal information of President Cleveland, and contains a clear, frank exposition of the situation in the island at the present time. The other is a projected cardon of the representative of the United States in Havana, Consul General Lee stating conditions of affairs in Cuba. I have seen Consul General Lee to-day, and, notwithstanding his extreme reticence and his refusal to reply to questions regarding the matter, I am in a confidential report to President Cleveland, I am satisfied in the belief he concluded that this document is of tremendous importance to the United States and to Spain. So strong is it, in fact, that its contents may, it is hinted, be made the basis of armed intervention in Cuban affairs on the part of the administration at Washington immediately.

Good Fighting.

Washington, Special Tel.—President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle left to-day on the 1:30 train for a hunting trip down the Potomac river. With the party was Capt. Lamberton, of the Pilot. The present intention is to be absent for two or three days, but the trip may be longer and extend into the waters of Chesapeake Bay. The weather during the past few days has been excessively hot, and the president being unable at this time to leave the city permanently for the summer, takes this means of obtaining a few days' respite from official duties.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Artichokes for Swine.

There is no crop probably regarding which there is so wide a difference of opinion as artichokes. Some farmers are emphatic in condemning them as a valueless crop, while others just as pronounced in the opinion that it will pay well to grow them for swine. In some parts of Michigan, for instance, artichokes are not only grown regularly by swine breeders, but they go to the trouble of digging and storing them for winter use. Where the winters are short they will most unquestionably be more useful than where the ground is frozen during nearly half the year, but as long as the ground is open the swine can dig them for themselves. Their food value is considerable. Found for pound they are probably worth as much as potatoes; of course when pigs are being fattened grain must be added to the artichokes. They are more valuable for store pigs and brood sows than for pigs that are being fattened, but the latter should not have to labor for their food when they are being finished for the market. If planted in a damp, mucky soil they will grow very large roots, and it is claimed that there is no difficulty in getting rid of them if they are allowed to grow up to the height of ten or twelve inches, and are then plowed under.

East Brainerd people have been somewhat excited during the past two weeks over the nightly prowling of a wild animal in that vicinity which has been working destruction among the chickens and pigs, and up to this time has escaped unharmed, although several attempts have been made to kill the brute. Alderman Bartlett thinks the animal is a wolverine, and as he had the satisfaction of sending two or three bullets after it a few nights ago he is in a position to judge.

A. H. Closterman is up from Brainerd this week on business. He says the plans and specifications for their new hotel building at the corner of Fourth street and Second avenue, are now being drawn up by a Brainerd architect. Capt. A. Lessard was in the city from Walker on Wednesday and stated that he had received notice to bring out the men employed at the Leech Lake dam July 8th, and he was informed that the men were to be transferred to Gull Lake, where work was to be commenced at the new government dam. It is altogether probable, however, that the men will be put at work on the break in the Pine River reservoir and that nothing will be done at Gull Lake until that is repaired, which will take some time.

It was a hard struggle and took good management on the part of Messrs. This city was also honored by the election of T. H. Murphy, insurance secretary of Division No. 1, as a member of the state board of six directors of the insurance fund, A. O. H., of Minnesota.

THE NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

The Arrangements Completed for a Grand Celebration on July Fourth.

The Calithumpian Parade and Mounted Sword Contest Will Attract Attention.

The People For Miles Around Will Come to Brainerd and Join in the Jollification.

When the business men of Brainerd undertake anything it is safe to assume that it will be carried through to completion and success, and the celebration in this city will be no exception to the rule. The committees have worked hard and faithfully, as the programme will show for itself, and the people in the immediate vicinity of Brainerd will all be in the city on July 4th to join hands with our citizens in fittingly observing the National holiday.

The calithumpian parade will start promptly at 10 a. m., under the immediate control of Col. A. L. Hoffman, and will appear on all the principal streets in the city, the parade ending at noon. Captains Ed. Chamberlain, Alba Hall, A. Rienthal, John Clark, Chas. Isachner and J. E. Ireland will assist in the managing of the monster aggregation, and will designate the positions in the line of march.

At 1 o'clock sharp the exercises will commence at the City Park, the first contest being the mounted sword contest between Henry Harley and A. Rienthal, and it will be a spirited contest, as both gentlemen have served as cavalrymen.

The oration will take place at 1:30, Hon. D. B. Johnson, of Minneapolis, being the speaker of the day. Mr. Johnson is an able speaker and the address will be full of eloquence and patriotism.

BARBERS TO CLOSE.

The barber shops in the city have entered into an agreement to close their places of business at 12 o'clock, on the Fourth, and remain closed the balance of the day and evening.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Antoinette Atkinson, wife of John Atkinson, died at her home in East Brainerd Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock of asthma, aged 60 years. The deceased has been an invalid for many years, during the greater part of which she has been confined to the house. The deceased was a member of the Congregational church, and during all her years of suffering she bore her troubles with a Christian fortitude. The funeral services were held from the family residence yesterday afternoon, Rev. T. M. Edmonds officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in Evergreen Cemetery. To the bereaved husband and daughter, Mrs. Henry White, the sympathy of the community is extended.

Miss Mary Geminder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Geminder, died on Saturday morning last of paralysm, aged 15 years. The funeral services occurred at the Catholic church on Tuesday morning, Rev. Fr. Lynch officiating.

The R. R. Picnic.

Tomorrow the Northern Pacific railroad employees of this city add their families will enjoy their annual outing and picnic, going to Detroit for the day's sport, a complete programme of which was published in this paper last week. The cannon will awaken the people at 4 a. m., and the first section will leave promptly at 6 o'clock, the second section leaving the depot at 6:30. Everything points to a grand time and undoubtedly the attendance will be larger than on any former occasion. All arrangements have been made at Detroit for the reception and comfort of the excursionists, and if the prediction of the committee who has had charge of the details is correct, the excursion of 1896 will go down in history as the most happy event of the kind.

Music and Comedy.

Music and comedy combined is undoubtedly the greatest of entertainments, when in the hands of competent artists. This is what Manager Stivers has in store for us Monday night. He has secured the Columbia Opera Co., one of the best organizations traveling, to produce "Said Pasha" on June 29th. Anybody that has seen this opera will never forget it. Its music is the sweetest and its comedy the funniest of all operas. From the reports we get of this company Manager Stivers must be a wide-awake manager to secure them at these prices, and we hope he will not be discouraged in getting us as good attractions in the future. Reserved seats 50 and 75 cents, and the gallery 25 cents.

The fact that the Columbia Opera Co. was originally the Calhoun Opera Co. that played here Dec. 4th, 1894, is a recommendation itself.

To Walker and Leech Lake.

There is every reason to look for a good crowd of excursionists to Walker and Leech Lake on the Fourth. Much interest is being taken in the excursion, and there is already considerable inquiry for tickets. A most interesting and to many a curious and novel programme of athletic sports and amusements by the Indians from the agency has been arranged at Walker, and in addition there will be an eloquent address by Col. Gridley, of Duluth, one of the most brilliant orators in the Northwest; a hot base ball game between Canoe Paintrails' Sunday School boys and a nine made up of Indian boys from the reservation; dancing all day long in a spacious pavilion; excursions on the lake on the several steamers, with barges and good music for dancing; boating, fishing, etc. The fishing, as every one knowns, is the finest in the state. The Walker people have made extensive preparations to receive and entertain the excursionists.

The train will leave the Northern Pacific depot promptly at 7 a. m., and return to the same depot not later than 9:30 in the evening. The fare is only $1.50 for the round trip; children half price. No charge for dancing. The ladies will serve lunch and refreshments cheaper than you can buy them at home. Take your wife and little ones for a fine day's outing, and spend the Fourth in a suitable manner for once.

Christened the Islands.

A telegram from Walker says that last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John A. Berkey, of St. Paul, and C. E. Chipperfield, of Brainerd, chartered the steamer Flora for the entire day to make a cruise of the lake. Among the guests invited were Mr. and Mrs. Chipperfield, of Canton, Ill., John King, C. W. Scott, P. H. McGarry, J. G. McGarry, Misses Sallie Hart and Alice Hart, of Walker, and H. McCoy, of Chicago. The party proceeded up the arm of the lake into the main lake, thence to Goose Island, Otter Tail point, Bear Island, and several points of interest in the lake, stopping at Bear Island for half an hour, visiting with the natives. The Indians on Bear Island are noted as being the most uncivilized of any tribe this side of the Rocky Mountains. From Bear Island they proceeded back to Steamboat river, up the river as far as Steamboat landing, at which place a short stop was made, Rienne homeward. At the mouth of Steamboat river a beautiful island, hitherto unnamed, was christened Minnesota island by Mrs. Berkey, and she bay west of the island, Clara Rose bay, in honor of Mrs. Chipperfield, they being the first lady tourists to visit these places. After the christening ceremonies the party proceeded along the west shore, through Minnie Olga bay home.

Giving Satisfaction.

The Paul T. Wilbur Stock Company have held the boards at the Sleeper opera house this week, giving an excellent play each evening at the popular 10, 15 and 20 cent prices. Tonight (Friday) evening, "Kathleen Mavourneen" will be given, and Saturday evening "Uncle Joshua Whitcomb." Saturday afternoon a family matinee will take place at 2:30 o'clock, at which time "Rights in a Barroom" will be presented. The company is certainly one of considerable merit and should be given a liberal patronage during the remainder of their engagement in this city.

Reduced Fourth of July Rates.

The Northern Pacific Railroad Co. will sell tickets to all points in Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota within three hundred mile limit, and from all points to Fargo, Wahpeton and Grand Forks, at rate of fare and one-third. Tickets will be on sale July 3d and 4th, with final limit of July 6th.

Notice to Water Consumers.

Water rents for the third quarter of 1896 are due July 1st, AND MUST BE PAID ON OR BEFORE THE 10TH OF THE MONTH. The Company is particularly desirous that the rentals for this quarter shall be paid promptly. The water will be shut off from all consumers who are in default after the 10th of the month.

Parties using water for lawn or garden sprinkling are requested to procure permits at once. The water will be shut off without notice where water is used for this purpose without a permit.

WHAT MAKES THEM POOR.

A Free Silver Kindergarten Lesson For the Benefit of Those Who Need It.

What is it makes some people poor?
The crime of 1873.
How did that "crime" cause poverty?
By striking down one-half of the money of the country.
How much silver money was there in the United States in 1873?
Less than $60,000,000.
How much have we now?
Six hundred and twenty-five million dollars.
Does this increase of about $560,000,000 look like a reduction in the volume of our silver money?
So Senator Stewart says.
What causes floods, cyclones, droughts, weevil, bollworms, grasshoppers, gophers and other evils which injure the farmers' and planters' crops?
The gold standard.
What will make the cows give more milk, the sheep grow more wool, the hogs weigh twice as much and the hens lay bigger eggs?
The silver standard.
Name some of the silver standard countries.
China, India and Mexico.
Are the people of those countries more prosperous than the American farmers and workers?
No; they are a great deal poorer.
Why has not their silver money made those countries rich?
Ask something easier.
If there are more poor people in silver standard countries than in gold using nations, how would free coinage of 50 cent dollars abolish poverty in the United States?
That is one of the things that nobody can find out.

Willing to Correct Mistakes.

About the only arguments the free silver papers offer in advocating the issuance of fiat money is that Secretary Carlisle and The Courier-Journal have changed their views on the money question. To their credit, be it said, The Courier-Journal and Secretary Carlisle argue the question.—Lexington (Ky.) Sun.

SCHEME TO LOWER WAGES.

The following is the suggestive heading of an article in The Sun of Lexington, Ky.:

TO LOWER WAGES.
Scheme to Reduce the Pay of Laborers Without Strikes and Lockouts.
Depreciate the Money With Which They Are Paid, and the Result Is Obtained.

The People, Not the Politicians, Will Vote.

The Journal has always stood for sound money and contended that the result of the discussion would be the triumph of that doctrine. It did not do this in the spirit of prophecy, but because it was convinced that the good sense of the people could bring them to no other conclusion. The politicians may manipulate and make a great showing on the free silver side, but when one comes to talk to the people at large, when the question is presented to them, there is but one result possible.—Milwaukee Journal.

Must Consider the German Vote.

It may be in this crisis, that the Germans will play a specially important role. In the east they are altogether sound upon the silver question, and in the west the preponderance of German sentiment is sound. If the conventions perceive that they will have to reckon with the German vote, the influence of that vote will not be lost.—New Yorker Staats-Zeitung.

Silver and the Fall in Prices.

The Philadelphia American, a paper published in a sound money city, last devoted to the cause of free coinage, repeats, in a recent issue, the stale old assertion that it is the adoption of the gold standard which has caused such a marked decline in prices. Without going into the general question of the effect which the quantity of money in a country has on the prices of goods, it is only needful to point to the fact that prices have fallen just the same in countries on a silver basis as in those using gold. Wheat is cheaper in Russia than it was some years ago. It is also cheaper in India and Russia, both silver standard countries—in fact, it is largely the competition of their low priced wheat which has brought down the price of American wheat.

Can The American explain why the cheap silver of Russia and India has not kept up prices in those countries? If using more silver would benefit our farmers by giving them higher prices, why has it not done so where silver is the only money used? How can we expect that a fall of wheat will buy more goods, if measured by silver dollars, when it is found that in countries which have always had the silver standard wheat brings no more than in America?

These are questions which the believers in silver have been asking ever since the present agitation for free coinage was started. Is it not about time that the silverites tried to answer them?
