Probate Notice.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss
County of Crow Wing. }

In Probate Court, Special Term, July 18, 1896.

In the matter of the estate of Annie Olsen Mestad deceased.

On receiving and filing the petition of Nels Magnus of Crow Wing county, representing among other things, that Annie Olsen Mestad late of said County, on the 8th day of July, A. D. 1896, at said County, died intestate, and being a resident of the County at the time of his death, leaving goods, chattels and estate within this County, and praying that letters of administration of said estate be to Henry Mahle granted.

It is ordered, That said petition be heard by this Court on Monday, the 10th day of August, A. D. 1896, at 10 o'clock p. m. at the Court House, in said County.

Ordered further, That notice thereof be given to the heirs of said deceased, and to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Brainerd Dispatch, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Brainerd, in said County.

Dated the 18th day of July, A. D. 1896.

MONDAY Sept. 7th is labor day and Gov. Clough has issued a proclamation in accordance.

THE Little Falls Herald favors the candidacy of J. H. Koop for the legislature on the democratic ticket.

UP to the time of going to press the records do not show that Bro. Stivers has sold his silver mining stock.

NEARLY every man in America who earns a dollar desires that it be worth a hundred cents, and that is the reason so many of them will vote for McKinley.

UNDER free coinage the government will stamp so much silver as a dollar but no guarantee goes with it to the effect that it is as good as a gold dollar.

THERE is no doubt but that Page Morris will be elected to congress from this district. Towns and his silver idol are fast fading from sight and mind.

THE laboring man's pay has been reduced by free trade, and the scheme of the silverites now seems to be to reduce the value of that pay one-half by free silver coinage.

WHEN are the silver men that have been accorded to Crow Wing county Bro. Stivers will have to get out a brass band and get his cohorts together pretty soon or they will all get away from him.

COUNTY politics are picking up and candidates for office are beginning to get acquainted with their farmer friends. The summer of the local political pot will get down to business in a couple of weeks.

W. H. MORGAN has been selected by the state fish and game commission as superintendent of the state fish hatchery. The gentleman has had fifteen year's experience in similar work for the government, and is said to be an expert.

THE president of the Indians Farmers Association says that out of a membership of 50,000 in that state an actual poll shows that 49,000 of them will vote for McKinley and Hobart. The Indians farmers have all the free trade clover they want; and so has the balance of the country for that matter.

AND now Don. Ames, of Minneapolis, has announced himself as an independent candidate for governor. The main point set forth in his announcement is that both candidates before the people are republicans, and it is desirable to divide the spoils. There are many democrats who will support Ames in preference to John Lind.

MONDAY Mr. Towne was an independent candidate for congress; Tuesday he was the candidate of the populists, and Thursday he was the candidate of the democrats. Three of a kind will never win out this year. Page Morris has four of a kind and they are all aces—the laboring men, the farmer, the business men and the manufacturers.—St. Cloud Journal Press.

THE promises of 1892 were just as glittering as those that are being offered the people by the free silverites to-day. Promises will not buy bread for the laboring men of this country, and they know it. Mr. Kinley's utterance "I believe it is a good deal better to open the mills of the United States to the labor of America than to open the mints of the United States to the silver of the world," will go a long ways toward helping the unemployed in deciding how to vote. This "clover" business is played out with them.

POLITICIANS, in the stress of partisan argument, or ill-informed and narrow judgment, vaguelingly assume at times that the United States can cut loose from the rest of the world, and "go it on gaut," in all material matters. It is flattering to national vanity to be told that Uncle Sam is too big to ask anything of any other country—but it isn't worth while to be independent of good sense. Farmers, especially, are interested in keeping up extensive commercial relations with outsiders. Out of $763,289,525 of exports in 1895, the products of agriculture were $568,310,026. About one-third of our wheat goes to Europe, and a considerable part of our corn and grasses is exported in the shape of cattle, sheep, hogs and their products. Markets abroad for many farm products can be and ought to be enlarged.—Northwestern Farmer.

A Good Speaker Coming.

Hon. J. H. Davidson, national committee orator, has been assigned to Brainerd by the republican state central committee, and will speak here on Friday evening, Sept. 4th.

Predicts 3,000 Majority.

"I am willing to risk my reputation as a political prophet," remarked F. E. Searle Sunday evening, "on one thing. I am willing to go on record for publication as saying that Judge Page Morris will come out of St. Louis county on election day with 3,000 clean majority over his opponent, Congressman Towne. If Stearns county does what is promised for her, nothing on earth can head Judge Morris off, and his election is inevitable.—St. Cloud Journal-Press.

His Audience Dwindled.

The Sauk Rapids Sentinel has the following to say of Bro. Stivers' free silver speech in that village:

Editor Stivers, of Brainerd, had quite a good audiences to commence with on Saturday night last, but it dwindled into small numbers before he got through. He has a good voice, and is quite a good speaker, but his argument in favor of free silver were not at all convincing.

The Mormon Temple.

It was only four days after the arrival of the Mormon emigrants in the basin of the Salt Lake that Brigham Young marked out the site for the great Mormon temple. The people of the colony labored on the edifice for many years, hauling the granite of which it is constructed from a quarry twenty miles distant. At last, after the expenditure of several millions of dollars, it has been completed, and is one of the most solid and impressive buildings in America. Its walls are sixteen feet thick, and will probably stand without a crack for a thousand years. The temple and the Mormon tabernacle are architectural buildings of which any city might be proud.—From "Wonderlands of the West," in Demorest's Magazine for September.

How It Affects the Lumber Trade.

We have had a beautiful illustration of the Democratic free trade ideas in a recent bridge contract which was let at Duluth," said C. C. Prindel, of Duluth, to a Minneapolis Journal man. "Canadian lumbermen got the contract, owing to their cheap labor, for 2,000,000 feet of lumber right under the noses of the Duluth lumbermen. That is one case and there are hundreds like it. If we had the old tariff of $2 per 1,000 there wouldn't be any Canadian lumber coming into this country, and our wealthy lumbermen wouldn't be confronted with the necessity of paying their men in time checks or else shutting down their mills. About the time the men begin to get time checks together with a demonstration that the scarcity of money and the dullness of business are due to Democratic free trade which we have and the Democratic free silver which they want to give us, there will be a marked diminution in the number of men who are talking about voting for free silver.

"The bulk of the silver men in Duluth are real estate speculators and other people who have gone broke Out of the ranges I am assured that Towne will not get 25 per cent of the votes.

"Still there is going to be quite a fight. There is no cause for our silver friends to lose any sleep for fear Mr. Towne won't have enough money to pay his campaign expenses. Whenever it comes from he gets it. The silver men of the Sixth district are too poor to contribute a cent, so it must be coming from some outside source."

Charlie is a Pop. Sure.

Charles A. Towne, who was nominated for congress by the Populist at St. Cloud on Tuesday, in his speeches two years ago said:

"Between Democratic demoralization on the one hand and Populistic infatuation on the other stands the Republican party calm, hopeful and confident.

"And when, in the calm and privacy of his voting booth next November, the patriotic citizen of Minnesota weighs the claims of opposing parties and their candidates, the memories of the glory and happiness under Republican government will cause the follies of Democracy and the vagaries of Populism to kick the beam."

It must be galling, indeed, for a party to place a man in nomination to be elected by votes pledged to John Lind at New Ulm in October, 1888, in which he said:

"Tear down the walls of every state prison in the land and you would find that 96 per cent of the population which you would release are Democrats. All Democrats are non-producers and horse thieves, but pretty near all of the murderers and horse thieves are Democrats."

How do our Democratic friends relish the above? If Lind held the above opinion of them in 1888, he certainly has not gotten it entirely out of his system and this fact can cut Towne will both be defeated, so much for their denunciations of the parties whose nominees they now are as anything else. The people of Minnesota are not ready to turn its government over to political renegades.

"Newspaper Men's Day" at the State Fair, Saturday, September 5th, will be replete with features of an interesting and sensational character. The programme in charge of committees from the state editorial association, the St. Paul and Minneapolis press clubs, and a great programme of sport is to be furnished. There will be a mammoth cake walk in which the swellest colored belles and beaux will compete for prizes to be awarded by popular vote. Cake-walks made a great hit of the season at lakes Como and Harriet last summer and the newspaper men propose to get up one that will discount all previous affairs of the kind. Albatross the fastest quarter horse to harness in the world, will be sent against the fastest bicycle in the northwest, best two out of three heats. There will be a race of satette bicycles, the first ever seen in the northwest; horse horse races between Winnebago and Chippewa Indians; races between mounted police of St. Paul and Minneapolis; a bicycle drill by a military company with a bicycle band; a relay running race, battle royal and a host of other features will be included. The state fair this year is organized on the scale of a northwestern exposition, with exhibits from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, North and South Dakota. More and better exhibits are reported in all department without exception. Great amusement programmes are provided for each day of the week, but none will excel that of newspaper men's day. Excursion tickets are good until September 7th, so as no one going to the fair need miss the last and best day which will be the culmination of the greatest fair Minnesota and the northwest has ever seen.

The week of the state fair, August 31 to September 5th, will be a notable one for the Twin cities. The G. A. R. national encampment is held at St. Paul and the National Encampment of the Knights of Pythias at Minneapolis. It is expected that there will be between 150,000 and 200,000 visitors in the two cities during the week as railroads are giving a rate of one cent a mile outside of a 250 mile limit, good for 30 days. There will be parades and spectacles each day in both cities, so arranged that the main features do not interfere with each other and each city offers carnival features at night. When to all this is added the great state fair and a dozen attractions in the way of amusement enterprises, it does seem as though it would be a real misfortune not to be able to take advantage of the opportunity to be present, enjoy and take part in what promises to be the greatest week in all the history of the wonderful Twin cities.

People's Party County Convention.

The People's party county convention met at the Court House in this city last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock to elect delegates to the state, congressional and legislative conventions. J. E. Johnson was elected chairman, and C. W. Martin secretary. The report of the committee on credentials showed the following named delegates entitled to seats in the convention:

First Ward—Lars Molstad, P. M. Zaadstraas and Ed. Sivery.

Second Ward—A. Olson, Peter Walters, Andrew Lund and Thomas Johnson.

Third Ward—John W. Martin, Andrew Hall, W. W. Winter and John Atkinson.

Fourth Ward—O. P. Erickson, Solomon Johnson, Felix Graham and Andrew Johnson.

Fifth Ward—J. E. Johnson. A. B. Johnson, N. Bisted and S. W. Quinn.

The following named delegates were elected by acclamation to represent Crow Wing county in the state and congressional conventions: J. E. Johnson, S. W. Quinn, O. P. Erickson, A. B. Anderson, Felix Graham, Solomon Johnson and Peter Walters. Delegates were elected by acclamation as follows to the legislative convention: Solomon Johnson, Peter Walters, A. Olson, Thomas Johnson, O. P. Erickson, Felix Graham, Martin Hanson, A. B. Anderson, J. E. Johnson, S. W. Quinn, N. Bisted and T. C. Kerr.

The following resolutions were then adopted.

RESOLVED, That the People's Party convention of Crow Wing county hereby declares its approval of the platform and nominees of the People's Party national convention held in St. Louis, and pledges the earnest support of the same by the People's Party of this county.

RESOLVED, That this convention favors the nomination of Hon. John Lind for governor, and Hon. Chas. A. Towne for congress, and hereby instructs the delegates of this county to the state and congressional conventions to use all honorable means for the nomination of the above named candidates.

The convention then adjourned.

DON'T STOP TOBACCO
How to Cure Yourself While Using It

The tobacco habit grows on a man until he becomes a slave. Then, if he wishes to stop, he either has to use inveterate will power or take some such remedy as Baco-Cure. The latter is a cosmetic cure for the tobacco habit, in all its forms, carefully compounded after the formula of an eminent Berlin physician who has used it in his private practice since 1872, without a failure. It is purely vegetable and harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want while taking Baco-Cure. It will satisfy you when to stop. We give a written guaranteed to cure permanently any case with three boxes, or refund the money with 6 per cent interest.

"Baco-Cure" is not a substitute, but a scientific cure, and is the only one in the world that is. It will cure you while you smoke, chew or snuff, and without the least suffering or inconvenience. It leaves the system as pure and free from nicotine as the day you took your first chew or smoke.

Cured by Baco-Cure and Cabned Thirty Pounds.

From hundreds of testimonials, the originals of which are on file and open to inspection, the following is presented:

Harper, Reynolds Co., Ark., Jan. 18, 1895.

Baraka Chemical & Mfg. Co., La Crosse, Wis.—Gentlemen: For forty years I had a craving appetite for tobacco. For twenty-five years of that time I used from one to two plugs per day. I commenced using your Baco-Cure on the 1st of last December, and have not touched a piece of tobacco since. I have gained in flesh from 135 pounds to 170 pounds. I have recommended Baco-Cure to many friends, and they all say it is a success. Yours truly, "Doctor Charcoal" of Death," etc., etc. Sold by druggists at 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.00, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. Send for booklet and proofs. Address Baraka Chemical & Mfg. Co., La Crosse, Wis.; and Boston, Mass.

BRAINERD, - MINNESOTA

A butler and the maid of a well known upper class family in England have been seen on bicycles in Rotten row. London swelldom is aghast at the desecration.

It turns out that a jealous girl, who was deserted by one of the gang, gave the information that led to the arrest of a grand, international swindler. It doesn't pay to trifle with a woman's affections when you are wanted for highway robbery.

Many yen's prior to the British occupation of Egypt some of the pashas of that country worshipped at the crocodile god. Since they got nothing else like him. They fed him on dainties, and decked him out with jewelry. In other parts of Egypt, however, the natives looked upon his as a devil.

A woman writer complains that her sex has never enjoyed freedom of dress till the bicycle was brought into popular use among its members. What they have lacked in freedom of dress they have amply made up in freedom of gossip. By the bicycle they are doubly dosed.

The dog-cart, as some naturalists call the cheetah, gets so tame that it can be trusted to pass the night among men even in the master's bed, and will play for hours with aggressive and troublesome puppies without losing its good humor. But out in the bush its sensitive instincts are apt to revive at the most unexpected moments.

Nemesis in the case of Theodore Durrant, who murdered two young girls in a San Francisco church, is delayed at present by the disability of 2,000 pages of the ms script on appeal. If this work, in three ponderous volumes, fails, the able lawyers for the defense have several more devices for carrying the case over to the next century.

Rev. Reed of Denver says Park Street church, Boston, as a means of grace, cost $600,000, and seats 1,500 people who can afford the luxury. The only preacher who has succeeded in filling it in later years called it "a religious club house." There are a great number of religious club houses in cities and villages.

Down at Old Point, in Virginia, three ten inch steel breech-loading guns are about to be mounted. They are thirty-one feet long, weigh 67,000 pounds each, and have a range of several miles. Somebody in charge of the government is making up for costly secure against hostile attacks.

A decision of the Kansas court of appeals declaring the divorce law of that state for the past twenty-five years, under which many thousands of persons have been divorced, to be inoperative, is a decision that most persons will think should have been avoided engrounds of public policy.

Among the wedding presents received by the Princess Maud, daughter of the prince of Wales, by the czar of Russia, which goes to show that even royal brides are victims of the duplicate system. Still she may be thankful that the handkerchiefs were not parlor lamps at least.

The typewriter continues to introduce its lady operators to unusual opportunities, matrimonial and monetary. About three weeks ago John C. Mc-Donald of San Francisco died in a New York hospital, while on a visit East, from spinal meningitis. His will, filed at San Francisco last week, leaves all his property, valued at $125,000, to his stenographer.

The Royal Academy of Music, London, has both indoor and outdoor students. The indoor pay 50 guineas a year and 10 guineas entrance fee and the outdoor 30 guineas a year and 5 guineas entrance fee. Some previous knowledge is required, and the students must pass an examination in the instruments they propose or are appointed to learn.

Spain is said to be building four new battleships. The chief cities of such vessels so far as Cuba is concerned, up to the time navy seems to have been able to convey detachments of Spain's soldiers to the islands as visions for the insurgents' benefit. At the present rate, the close of the Cuban war, whichever way it ends, probably will see Spain a worse bankrupt country than she has ever been.

It is with no feeling of discouragement that Samson returns to civilization from the frozen North. Although he failed to reach the north pole, he came nearer to that imaginary point than any man has ever done before him. With a sufficient number of dogs at his command he avers that he could have reached the goal of his ambition. This persistent and dauntless explorer is but likely to rest content with his latest achievement.

As the four battleships, Indiana, Massachusetts, Maine and Texas, which make up Admiral Barne' fleet, maneuver together in the open ocean, their fighting value can be readily compared. This fleet will be the most powerful ever put to sea by any one of the United States flag. The Maine was launched in 1890 and the Texas in 1892, while the Indiana and the Massachusetts date back to 1893. The great advance made by our naval constructors will be clearly shown by the comparison of these ships.

Tobacco, the trade journal, in reply to the assertion that the bicycle has decreased the use of tobacco, points out that for the fiscal year just ended for the production of clears increased 73,783,504; cigarettes, 722,356,543; manufactured tobacco, 7,597,500 pounds; snuff, 1,717,125 pounds. The bicycle has hardly reached the snuff dipper yet,and it appears to have affected the consumption of other forms of tobacco as much as it has affected the consumption of snuff.

The watermelon and the cucumber have won a reputation for unhealthfulness that is wholly undeserved. The cucumber, properly seasoned and eaten in prudent quantities, is luscious and wholesome, and the watermelon in ha'mless when it is ripe. Nature seldom makes mistakes, and she brings us watermelons, cucumbers and fruit because they are good for us. If we blunderingly eat them before nature has completed her ripening process, lo, as not blame nature, but ourselves.

K. P. ENCAMPMENT.

Biennial Gathering of the Pythian Knights at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 20.—Hundreds of Knights of Pythias marched through the streets of this city at the eighteenth biennial session of the supreme lodge and the national encampment of the uniformed rank, the latter being the successful twenty-five times uniform in front of the hotels. The afternoon troops assembled in full dress uniform in front of the hotels. The afternoon troops reviewed by Supreme Chancellor Wilson M. Day, director general of the commission, the presentation of Camp Forest Gump, by Gen. Charles Mason, acceptance of the camp by Maj. Mrs. Byron and a banquet at the Hollenden hotel, left Red Hook today to begin their journey homeward to Lincoln. Mr. Bryan has gained flesh during his visit here and looks well. He is much impressed particularly by an approaching meeting with Senator Hill, Chairman Hinkle and other Democratic leaders, which he expects will result in the nomination of a ticket that will be worthy the support of the state organization. The party decree is followed by a party demand for free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1. There were gains in 38 states and territories, and a loss in 10.

The rank has made a steady and substantial growth. Since the last biennial session it has been able to hold together on account of the hard times, but the new officials of the order, under the financial depression were great gainers. The rank had a net gain of 1,100 and upon the Knights of Pythias in general. Warrants had been granted to 104 new lodges.

The report of R. L. C. White, assistant keeper of the records and seal, showed that in 1894 there were 3 new lodges instituted, 2 of which are in 1895, 6 new lodges instituted, and in 1896 6,504 subordinate lodges and 406,208 members. The states in which the greatest gains were made were: Ohio, 2,959; Illinois, 2,317; Indiana, 2,296; Kansas, 2,262; Pennsylvania, 1,914; Missouri, 1,612; North Carolina, 1,219. There was a loss of 2,807 in Kansas and 1,060 in Texas. There were gains in 38 states and territories, and a loss in 10.

The session of the supreme lodge is likely to be very interesting. The question of representation, it is said, will be the German ritual. Interviews with a number of supreme lodge representatives published today, show that opinion is pretty much divided on the question. There were a number of German ritual. Supreme Keeper of Records and Seal White said: "In my opinion the Germans have either got to obey the law or get out." The Germans have been given to understand that the English ritual ought to be used in this country, where English is the language almost universally spoken.

Enjoyed Themselves.

Chicago, Special.—A number of army recruits from Columbus Barracks, Ohio, are visiting various parts of the West, made things lively this afternoon on the fast Pennsylvania limited which arrived in Chicago this afternoon. All of the soldiers were under the influence of liquor when they got on the train. The windows in the car were smashed, the seats were overturned, the bag age of everything contempt for the contents, and the contents of the bags were thrown on the floor and pitched out of the windows. There were a number of men in the muse, and the train hands were utterly unable to keep the men in order. Valparaiso, Ind., the train was stopped and a message sent to Chicago asking that the train be locked down with a full-sized riot, and police be sent to the depot. Mrs. Preston was sent to the depot with enough men to capture the whole party. When that city the soldiers had fought so much among themselves that they had no interest fighting anybody else, and the police had no trouble in handling them. They were conquered. Nearly all of the men were badly wounded, and the car in which they came looked as though a cyclone had struck it.

Eminent Geologist Dead.

New London, N. H., Special.—Joseph Dwight Whitney, the eminent geologist, died here today, aged seventy-two years. Professor Whitney graduated from Yale in 1839, and in 1847 he made a geological survey of the Lake Superior region, followed by a survey of the mining regions of all the states east of the Mississippi. In 1855 he was state chemist and professor of the Iowa State university, and, later, state geologist of California and professor of geology of Harvard university. His library is said to be the most complete in geological works in existence.

BAD TRAIN WRECK

SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON THE PITTSBURG & WESTERN.

Two Freight Trains Collide and a Passenger Train Runs Into Some of the Wrecked Cars—Twenty-Five Passengers Are Injured, Five of Whom will Probably Die—Broken Failed to Work.

Pittsburg, Aug. 20.—A wreck on the Pittsburg & Western railroad at Valencia, twenty-two miles west of here, resulted in the destruction of three passenger coaches, eighteen freight cars and the injury of twenty-five passengers, five of whom will probably die.

The names of the seriously injured who may die are Mrs. W. B. Marsh, Talmadge, Ohio, frontal bone crushed, internal injuries; Mrs. Curry, Valencia, Butler, Pa., jaw broken and body badly bruised; Mrs. J. W. Hoffman, Lodi, Ohio, collar bone fractured, injured internally; Maud Bennett, Allegheny, skull fractured; Mary J. L. Smith, Verona, Pa., skull fractured. The following are also badly injured but will recover: Mary Bennett, Allegheny; Walter Smith, Akron, Ohio; Mrs. E. M. Cramer, Appollo, Pa.; Jessie Cramer, Belle Vernon, Pa.; Agnes Cooney, Sharpsburg, Pa.; J. W. Morse, Lodi, Ohio; Mrs. C. W. Hyde, Mercer City, Pa.

The injured were all brought to the Allegheny general hospital. The serious cases are still there, while the others were either removed to their homes or to Allegheny or continued on their journey. The wreck was a peculiar one and involved three trains—the local freight, No. 27, the through freight, No. 25, and the passenger conductor, No. 14, from Chicago.

The local was standing at Valencia station unloading freight when the through freight came in on the fast, the grade just east of Valencia. The engineer, who was on the look-out for No. 25, put on the air, but the train refused to work, and his train went crashing into the back end of it. The two freights collided the passenger train also ran into the local freight and was struck by the freight cars which were derailed at that moment. The engine and baggage car of the passenger train got through safely and broke away from the rest of the train. The first passenger coach, which was filled with people, was crushed by a car load of oil well tubing. The tubing was thrown with terrific force and many dreadful injuries and the wounds received by the passengers. The next coach was completely twirl-fifty or thirty feet high in the air. The rollroad people say that the trouble was caused by the failure of the brakes to work while the through freight was on the hill.

Blew Off His Face.

Aberdeen, S. D., Aug. 20.—Charles Eichler of Sand Lake attempted to remove the cartridge from the shell of a shotgun. The shell exploded and blew Eichler's left eye and a large part of his face away. He never knew a way. It is not thought he can recover.

A Wealthy Farmer Dies.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Aug. 20.—John Railsback, a wealthy young farmer, living ten miles from this city, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. No reason is known.

ACCEPTS THE DENIAL.

Thurston Publishes a Card Regarding Charges Against Bryan.

Chicago, Special.—Hon. John M. Thurston of Nebraska to-day handed to the Associated Press the following card in reference to the recent request that it be disseminated:

Omaha, Neb., July 31.—If the Chicago Chronicle charged W. J. Bryan with being a salaried employe of the Standard Oil interests. On July 31, at Madison, Wis., I read the editorial in the Chronicle of that date that Mr. Bryan owed it, as a duty to the American people, to make the charge. His explicit denial appears in the press this morning. I suggest to Nebraska that the matter be denial would be accepted by me and that I would so notify the Chronicle. This is the immediate and public manner of doing.

—John M. Thurston."

New York in the Fold.

Upper Red Hook, N. Y., Special.—It is pretty apparent here to-day that Candidate Bryan's plans to spend some time in this state in the campaign are not objectionable to the leaders in Democratic state politics, but that, on the contrary, he has their co-operation in the movement. It is not hard to anticipate that the Democratic convention in Saratoga will indorse the candidacy, from several events of the past two days, and Mr. Bryan himself said nothing seemingly avillingly: "I am not bothering about New York Democrats; everything will be all right."

He Will Stump New York.

Upper Red Hook, N. Y., Special.—William Jennings Bryan has decided to make a pretty thorough canvass of the State of New York, and for the first time since the days of Martin Van Buren will make addresses in many parts of the state. He will first go to Albany, spending five hours there. He will visit each big city along the New York Central road.

THE WAR IS OVER

REBEL MATABELES IN RHODESIA HAVE SURRENDERED.

Hon. Cecil Rhodes Inspires the Confidence of the Native Chiefs by Going Among Them Totally Unarmed, and It Is Believed That the Matabele Chiefs Are Sincere—Is Practically Unconditional.

Bulawayo, Aug. 25.—The mission of Hon. Cecil Rhodes to the Matabeles is reported to be a pronounced success. The natives have yielded and the war is considered at an end. Lord Rhodes inspired the confidence of the Matabele chiefs by going among them unarmed. The chiefs complained that it usage by British officials had provoked the rebellion, and Rhodes promised them that reforms in this respect would be inaugurated at once. Earl Gray, who was appointed to administer the affairs with Mr. Rhodes, son of the British South African company, the administrator of the territory, has sent to Missouri, Indiana and Illinois and the insurgents. Mr. Rhodes and Congressman Bynum and others naturally suggested themselves. Governor Pennoyer was quoted in favor of the gold standard in the preliminary talks on the Chicago Democratic convention, but he and his associates were disfranchised by the state laws. During the convention he was also very active. Since the convention he has been in Missouri, Indiana and Illinois, on no public utterance as to his position with reference to the ticket, and, and so far as known, has not, at least actively, lobbied here with the representatives of the Indianapolis convention. Gov. Francis throughout his public career has been a friend of Grover Cleveland supporter and a warm friend of the latter during the late administration. It is recalled that when Mr. Cleveland was at Lakewood making up his cabinet prior to his taking up on his second term, ex-Gov. Francis was summoned there. Then there was a strong impression for a time that he might be called to the cabinet

A Brother's Devotion.

"Oh, dear! if I didn't think he wasn't be ay t," stammered Boots, in great di'ficu'ty, and drawing the pocketbook from his box and offering it to Tony.

Abraham appeared lost in silent absorbent of what was going on, and stood very quietly, and seemingly in great abstraction.

In fact, matters had grown very desperate with him; and he was appreciating, as he believed, a desperate remedy.

"I don't want the book," Tony said to Boots; "only the sheet of paper that it contains."

The lad drew a slip of paper from the pocketbook.

"That is not it," cried Tony.

"There's no other paper here," said the boy; "nor nothin' else, except this here little thing here."

And he showed Tony that there really had been nothing more in the book.

Tony's first thought, then, was that he had wrongly suspected.

His belief that he had been duped, that Abraham's cunning had been an overmatch for straightforward honesty—Stanley Claremont's accomplice had supposed that their fee might be in the watch, and so had laid a trap for him, baiting it with that slip of paper which he had rightly believed Tony would clutch at as the leaf of which he gets in search.

Tony's agony, as these thoughts rushed through his mind, was pocketrible indeed.

The poor fellow had not seen that Abraham had written on the piece of paper which had been placed in the pocketbook, or he would have acted very differently.

"Here, where writing!" cried Boots.

Tony snatched the paper from the boy's hand, and read:

"The torn leaf is in the little ebony casket that stands on a table in one of Mr. Stanley Claremonte apartments. I send the key of it.

"If the name of the possessor of the watch should not be sufficient to convince Sir Loghlen of Stanley's guilt, you'll committed the robbery, let him just read to him the letter concerning the way in which old James Frances came met with his death."

Tony knew where to find that torn leaf, and confessed to himself that, after all, he was more deceived than put back than his judgment.

Addressing Abraham, said Tony, "You wish me, I dare say, that you had not taken the trouble to write these few lines?"

A malignant look was Abraham's answer to these questions; but he was thinking how it was that he should now be threatened with utter ruin from the very cause against which he had so often and so earnestly inveighed.

Tony grasped the prisoner by the arm, to lead him away, and bring Chase along to Sir Loghlen's house, but the latter will be a motive so plausible not so profitable to you as you had hoped."

Abraham showed not the slightest resistance, and walked very quietly till they had reached the corner of a small dark street, when suddenly Tony felt that he was struck with a knife.

Abraham threw him away and fled. The crimson tide rushed from the wound which Tony had received. His vision failed him, and he sank down cold for help his legs tottered; a mist was before his eyes; and then total unconsciousness, faint and unconscious, poor Tony sank down upon the pavement.

CHAPTER XXII.

Sir Loghlen's Son and Heir.

It so happened that for the evening on which occurred the events related in our last chapter—an evening which is still proceeding, being the one on which Tony's prospects were to be would make clear his brother's innocence—it so happened, we say, that for this evening Sir Loghlen O'Mears had several days before, sent invitations to a party to his most particular friends.

Those invitations having been given, could not, for any possible plea, be withdrawn; and it was doubtful, even, if the baronet had felt any desire to countermand them, since he had been brought to believe that that which he formerly assumed to him as most unlikely—almost impossible, indeed—was neither impossible nor less than a fact, and Sydney was innocent.

He had proved himself a stern judge, without a doubt, for the one whom he loved guilty, while he would have given the world for but a single proof that the unhappy young man's innocence might yet be made apparent.

And now, in his heart, he did believe that Sydney was innocent.

He had read truth in every accent of that heartrending appeal which his son had made to him; he had read truth in Tony's bold, unflinching eye, in his earnest manner, and in his confident bearing.

Tony's boldness, the Baronet had reexpected, was not the bravado of a man seeking to throw aside condemning proofs; it was the noble daring of one who had faith in a just and holy cause.

But the evidence which weighed most of all with the Baronet was furnished by his nephew.

Stanley Claremont's looks and manner, contrasted with those of the brothers, confirmed him in the eyes of the baronet; and, indeed, the man would have been a poor physiognomist who, looking from face to face, could not have read where lay the guilt.

And we believe that most convinced that Tony would keep his word, the Baronet was not at all anxious for the guests were with him on this momentous evening.

It was about 10:30 o'clock when, nothing the flour, the Baronet said to himself that it was growing late, but Tony would remain with him until midnight had struck; he had confidence in our friend Tony, and believed in his success.

Sir Loghlen sought out Frances, and asked her if she could tell him anything of Abraham's whereabouts.

And the answer he received from Frances was, that her cousin had not returned to the mansion since he had quitted it early in the evening.

And the Baronet had a suspicion that his nephew was purposely absent, because he was afraid of the brave boy's exposure of his villany.

It had been already stated that Sir Loghlen had never evinced any very great affection for his nephew; and, of late, won by that young gentleman's hypocrisy to believe that he had felt and truly valued his kindness, had strriven hard to like Stanley, without entirely succeeding; and now that everything was reversed, because believing that he had utterly wronged his nephew by a show of affection, and to the torture of his darling niece.

"And Stanley left no word as to when he would return?" inquired the Baronet.

"No," replied Frances; "and he is more fortunate than us, for he is able to avoid the people who are here this evening."

The Baronet said it had not been possible to countermand the invitations; and, besides, if Tony should succeed, more eclat would be given to Sydney's rehabilitation.

And earnest were the prayers of both uncle and niece for our good Tony's success.

What would have been their despair if they had known the wretched state in which we last left our gallant hero!

And Tony thought, too, of the good old Mrs. Willoughby, who, full of terror, for his name, anxiously flowing, was waiting the decisive hour to whom the destruction of the hopes she now cherished would be speedy death.

And for him, too, disappointment would be death, the Baronet told him so!

He asked if Mrs. Willoughby and Sydney had arrived, and was not surprised when told that they had not yet presented themselves at the mansion.

In their own home, no eyes would be seen them. There would they stay till the decisive moment had almost arrived, striving to inspire each other with courage for an ordeal on which depended such human life itself.

"Pray dispense with my company, my dear Lord Frederick," pleaded Abraham, not, at least, at present, to show my self among your guests."

The Baronet understood and sympathized with the feeling which had urged his nephew to the request which he had now made, but hesitated to grant it.

"I implore you, uncle!" Frances cried, more earnestly even than she before had spoken.

"But what will he said?" urged the Baronet. "Will it not seem strange that—"

"My absence will not be remarked."

"Very well; be it as you wish."

"Oh, thanks, dear uncle! I know you would not refuse me, for you are always so good to me!"

And Abraham hurried to her own apartments, to endeavour to subdue her fears, and to watch for the arrival of Mrs. Willoughby, that she might strive to inspire the poor old lady with hope, if not with confidence.

Eleven o'clock had struck before Mrs. Willoughby had arrived at the mansion.

Frances O'Mears's waiting-maid, who had been directed by her mistress to remain on the watch for the old lady's approach, had met the latter at the door, and there by the mansion, and there by the mansion, and there by the mansion

The McKinley and Morris Club held its first meeting in the new quarters on Front street Tuesday evening and it was largely attended.

A report from the chairman of the mounted marching club was received in which it was stated that already 40 horses had been pledged with riders.

The committee on hall reported that they had received two propositions on chairs to rent the room with, one from C. M. Patek, and one from A. L. Hoffman, the offer of the latter gentleman being accepted.

The matter of employing a janitor for the headquarters was on motion left with the hall committee with power to act.

The matter of arranging for a flag and banner to put up outside of headquarters was discussed as was also the matter of procuring transparencies, and on motion the chair appointed committee to look after the same as follows:

Flag and banner—A. F. Ferris, J. A. Wilson, E. C. Gates, H. I. Cohen and R. R. Nye.

Transparencies—W. A. Fleming, J. C. Congdon' N. H. Ingersoll, Wm. Dodd and J. J. Hows.

The president announced that there were now on the membership rolls of the club over 1000 names.

The club was addressed by J. A. Wilson, W. A. Fleming and C. E. Chiperfield at some length, after which the meeting adjourned.

A Premeditated Collision.

Engine "46," which was used on the L. F. & D. branch for some years, went south on Monday, bound for Minneapolis, where it will be used on Saturday next in the collision at Minnehoha Park, and represents "gold." The "63" will represent "silver," and is one of the old-time N. P. passenger engines, worn out and of no value except for scrap iron. It is claimed the engines will come together at a rate of speed of 45 miles per hour, and both engines will have three cars of sand behind them to give more force when the engines come together. The sight of two railway engines coming together at a full rate of speed will undoubtedly attract a large number of people.

Bicycling Under Difficulties.

A long trip has been made by Roy E. Douglas, who started from here with his bicycle a short time ago. After visiting friends in the southern part of the state he mounted his wheel at Brainerd, whence he has ridden westward 600 miles to Glendive, Mont. Wet weather gave him muddy roads from Fargo to Mandan, N. D., and he had to ride over the railroad ballast most of the way. Head winds also bothered him. He thinks that under ordinary circumstances the Dakota roads would have been excellent. He secured a pass to cross the railroad bridge across the Missouri, and found good bicycling from Mandan, N. D., to Glendive, Mont. The Bad Lands were quite hilly, but the scenery was interesting. The sun was so hot on 16th inst., that his companion fell sick, but they pushed on until they reached Glendive on the 17th.—Grand Rapids Herald.

An Expensive Morning Blaze.

A little before 6 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the dry house at the J. J. Howe Lumber Co.'s plant. The fire department at once went to the scene, but the fire had gained such headway that but little could be done except to stop the progress of the blaze among the buildings which had not already been ignited. The dry shed, containing 40,000 feet of finishing lumber, the office building, warehouse and blacksmith shop were entirely consumed. The records and files of the old company were nearly all destroyed, but A. C. Wonderlich succeeded in saving the books of the new firm. In the warehouse was stored a quantity of sash and doors, and in the blacksmith shop was a quantity of valuable machinery and patterns.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, and can only be accounted for by the presence of tramps in the upper part of the dry shed, where were stored a quantity of blankets and bedding. The blaze was discovered by Fred Fogle, who occupies the mill boarding house, and when first seen the flames were issuing from all parts of it. A strong wind from the south was blowing and it did not take long to wrap the office building in flames so that it was impossible to get the contents out, and the attention of those present was turned to saving the large boarding house and planing mill.

At this time it is almost impossible to estimate the loss, but it will be in the neighborhood of $5,000 and $8,000, and is partially insured.

A Northern Pacific box car standing on the track filled with wood was partially burned.

'TWAS EVER THUS.

How a Princess Called Down Another Woman Who Dared Admire Her.

Twenty-five hundred years ago a princess of the royal family of Assyria wrote a letter to a lady of the imperial court, in which the latter was haughtily rebuked for presuming to use the familiar title of "sister" in addressing the royal lady. In Baltimore an English translation of this letter was published by the Johns Hopkins university. Dr. Christopher Johnston has been working for some time to translate all the dignified terms in which one woman of those ancient days rebuked another.

The letter was not written with ink upon a sheet of tinted paper, as would be done by a fair dame today, but was inscribed in cuneiform characters upon a tablet of baked clay. It is in 13 lines, and the royal lady did not waste words to express her contempt at the other's impertinence. The tablet was written only a few years before the destruction of Nineveh and the overthrow of the Assyrian empire, which is generally placed by historians as having occurred in 606 B. C. It is one of the few remains of that period which have come down to the scholars of the present day. It was discovered a score or more years ago, and many Assyriologists have tried their hand at a translation. Dr. Johnston, in working upon it, did not have the original tablet, but a picture of it. The royal lady who wrote the letter, or who probably dictated it to her scribe, was the Princess Sherauttara, a granddaughter of the famous Assyrian monarch Assurbanipal, called Sardanapalus by Greek writers, who, in addition to being a great conqueror, was the founder of an extensive public library and a patron of literature and the arts. The letter is translated by Johnston:

"Message of the king's daughter to Asahar-Shazrat. Thou dost not properly address thy letter to me, nor use the title to me befitting my station. People might say, 'Is she the sister of Shermaketsri, the oldest daughter of Ashur-etil-ilani-ukinni, the great king, the mighty king, king of hosts, king of Assyria?' But thou art only the daughter of the daughter-in-law of the wife of Assurbanipal, eldest son of Esarhaddon, king of Assyria."

Dr. Johnston suggests that this sentence was probably a crushing blow for the recipient of the letter, as the peculiar expression "daughter of the daughter-in-law of Assurbanipal's wife" was most likely a reference to some delectable bit of court scandal in the famous Assyrian empire. The doctor also said that the rebuke was a perfectly proper one from what is known today of Assyrian etiquette in letter writing.

"If the lady, Asahur-Sharrat, addressed the princess as sister without being so related," said he, "she certainly committed a gross breach of etiquette, and was guilty of impertinence which richly merited a rebuke. Even if she was actually her sister, it is doubtful whether she could have so addressed the eldest daughter of the sovereign family. We find a prince speaking of his father as 'the king, my lord,' but never as 'my father.' And among private individuals, except in the case of near relatives, it was the invariable rule to address each person by his proper title, with the addition of the words 'my lord.'"—Baltimore Sun.

THE LAST CAPTURED SLAVER!

How Captain Gould in Slave Trade Wrecked on Mobile's Island.

The only captain of a slave vessel who suffered the death penalty in America was captured by a crew of which one of the members is now a citizen of Cleveland, the engineer of the People's Gaslight and Coke company.

"The slaveship was the Erie, and it was the last American slaver captured," said Mr. Matthews in talking about the historical event. "She was taken off the mouth of the Kongo in the spring of 1861 by the United States sloop-of-war Mohican. I was captain of the foretop and of the starboard watch. The capture was accidental. The vessels sailing in slaves would slip out in the intervals between the patrol boats of the men-of-war, and they knew pretty well our habits. But this time the Mohican was delayed two days in waiting for mail, and going from the island of Fernando Po sighted a vessel making from the mouth of the Kongo. We were flying a French flag, and the stranger hailed us in French. Our captain hailed for her to heave to, but this request not being regarded a shot was fired. Then she hove to without offering resistance, and a party sent aboard found every one dressed alike. It was thus some days before we discovered which was the captain. She was manned by 15 men and had on board 880 slaves and three slave agents. The slaves were landed, and the slave agents and five Spaniards who did not wish to claim American citizenship were sent ashore in a tradeboat. Eight of the slaver's crew were shipped on the Mohican, and the officers and two of the crew were brought to America. The slaveship was taken to Liberia.

"The captain of the slaver was Nathaniel Gordon, and a year after his capture he was swung on Bedloe's island, where the statue of Liberty now stands. The first mate was released on two years' imprisonment, the second mate received a five years' sentence, and the two seamen were each given a year.

"The severe dealing with the officers was due to the intense feeling on the slavery question, as the war had just broken out. The second mate and the two men volunteered to enter the army and were allowed to go free. Our lieutenant, Dunningham, went into the Confederate navy after bringing Gordon back.

"About three months before the operations with the Erie shaleer escaped us by being disguised as a whaler. The simulation was very perfect, and on the docks we could see even the boiling vats. The captain showed papers which disarmed suspicion, and when the 'whaler' put up for the night at the mouth of the Kongo our captain informed him that next morning he would come around on a visit.

"In the morning he was gone, having taken 1,300 slaves aboard. We sighted a vessel in the distance, which we thought was armed, and for an English man-of-war also trying to catch the 'whaler.'"—Cleveland Leader.

A Chicago Fire Legacy.

The books of the United States treasury still carry an item of $1,600,000 which represents United States notes which are supposed to have been consumed in the great Chicago fire 25 years ago, says a correspondent of the New York Sun. It is known that there was $1,000,000 of currency more or less in the vaults of the subtreasury then and that none of it was recovered, but the demonstrations of those notes and the exact amount are unknown, as the books of the cashier were consumed also.

There could not have been, however, very many dollars less or very many dollars more than $1,000,000, and it would simplify the accounts of the treasury and save a great deal of labor to the bookkeepers if congress should pass a bill or resolution recognizing the fact that this money is no longer in existence, for every day when the cashier of the treasury balances his accounts he has to include this item, deducting it, or adding it as the case may be, from the amount in hand. It appears upon every daily, weekly, monthly and yearly statement of the assets and liabilities of the governments as moneys destroyed United States notes, $1,000,000."

Not Surprised.

"John has broken the record," said the proud father.

"I expected it," said his mother resignedly. "He's broken the front gate, and three places in the hedge, and the cat's back, and the croquet set, and his collar bone, since he began to ride, and I'm prepared for anything."—Washington Capital.

The Seat of Knowledge.

An Archbishop's Wit.

The stories that have told of Archbishop Ryan's wit would fill a small volume. A well known priest called upon him one day to ask for a subscription on the ground that his health required it. As he was noted for his frequent absences from his parish, the prelate could not allow the opportunity. He granted the leave of absence promptly, with a recommendation. "The physicians say that you need a change of air, father?" "They do, your grace." "How would it do, then, to try the air of your parish for a month or two as a change?"

He remonstrated once with a priest whose silk hat had seen its best days before the war. "I would not give up that hat for 20 new ones," said the priest. "It belonged to my father, who fell in the rising of 1848." "And evidently fell on the hat," said the archbishop.—Household Words.

Sir James Crichton Browne, the expert on brain diseases, holds that insomnia is not attended with such disastrous consequences as is commonly supposed. It is not as dangerous as the solicitude of the sufferer. He suggests that the brains of literary men, who are the most frequent victims, acquire the trick of the heart, which takes a dose of a fraction of a second after each beat, and so manages to get 8 hours' rest in 24. Some brains, in cases of insomnia, sleep in sections, different brain centers going off duty in turn.
