Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage, executed and delivered by Georgia Hinkley, party of the first part, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Crow Wing County, Minnesota, on the 24th day of March, A. D. 1891, at 10 o'clock a. m., which said mortgage was duly assigned by the said party of the first part to the undersigned party of the second part by said mortgage, and duly assigned by the said party of the second part to C. E. Lum, by instrument in writing, dated November 1st, 1894, and recorded in said Register's office on the 20th day of July, 1895, at 1 o'clock p. m., in book 2 of mortgages on page 972.

The Straight Republican City Ticket Elected. The County Ticket Somewhat Mixed.

"Between Democratic Demoralization on the one hand and populistic infatuation on the other, the Republican Party Stands Calm, Hopeful, Confident.---C. A. Towne.

McKinley, sound money and prosperity has triumphed over Bryanism fiat money and repudiation. It has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the world that the American people can be trusted, that financial honor and integrity is dearer to them than party ties, and it is safe to say that had all the people understood exactly what free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 meant, the popular majority for Mr. Kinley would have been three or four times one million.

The result on Tuesday was a landslide. Every state north of the Ohio river and east of the Missouri west of which has been broken into for the first time since the war, and Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Kentucky have gone republican by majorities of 15,000 and less. The Pacific slope, which was supposed to be saturated with silverism has gone republican with the exception of Washington, and little Wyoming in the heart of the silver country has chosen at least one republican elector and probably all. The popular majority is over one million, the largest in the history of the country. The electoral vote will be 265 sure, and probably others that are now doubtful.

Minnesota did herself proud. McKinley received about 50,000 majority in the state, which is also a record breaker. It is a magnificent notice to capital everywhere that republican sentiment will not be tolerated here. Gov. Clough ran away behind McKinley, but is elected by at least 10,000 majority, and the state is saved from populistic rule. Mr. Clough's small vote is principally due to bitter feeling engendered in the party by the senatorial fight two years ago, and appeal to race prejudice.

In this congressional district C. A. Towne, the turn coat, was turned down by at least 1000 majority, and the gallant Page Morris was triumphantly elected. Aside from the election of McKinley this is the greatest victory of all. Every congressional district in the state elected a republican, even Congressman Eddy, in the populistic stronghold, the 7th, received a good majority.

The next house of representatives will be strongly republican, and probably also the senate, which will result in wise republican legislation that will restore prosperity beyond a doubt.

16 to 1—NIT.

McKinley and prosperity.

WIND-BAG TOWNE is in the soup.

AND the C. A. T. didn't come back.

WHAT'S the matter with the crime of '96?

CHARLIE TOWNE now knows that the Republican party has left him.

IF Bryan could have made another visit to this city McKinley's majority would have been 1,000.

WELL, well, well! The crime of '73 has been endorsed by one million popular majority at the polls.

CROW WING county did herself proud. Six hundred majority for McKinley, honesty and prosperity is a record to be proud of.

"BETWEEN Democratic demoralization on the one hand, and Populistic infatuation on the other, the Republican party stands calm, hopeful, and confident."

WHO says the workingman is dishonest or that the farmer wants to cheat his neighbor with a depreciated currency! The result Tuesday gives the lie to the assertion.

GROVER has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation. Yes, let's all be thankful that the attempt to fasten Bryanism on us has been rebuked by a million majority at the polls.

BRO. BRYAN advises his friends not to get the blues over the result. This will undoubtedly have great weight with them and chase away that tired feeling they have. Well, well, well.

THE more announcement of Republican success has stimulated business in all parts of the country, and mills and factories are being reopened everywhere, and idle labor is being employed. Many homes will have a truly joyous Thanksgiving as a result.

J. H. KOOP, the Democratic legislative nominee from this county, made a remarkable run, although defeated by the general Republican landslide. He ran ahead of his ticket everywhere, and was, undoubtedly, the strongest Democratic candidate on the legislative ticket in recent years.

Result in the County.

Complete returns from the different precincts in Crow Wing county are not where they can be gotten at but the official figures will not materially change the result which is published in tabular form in this issue. The county has been carried for McKinley by 600 majority, and for Clough by 300. On congressman Morris has 200 majority over Towne. On the legislative ticket Farris has 545 majority over Koop, and 890 over Sheets. The balance of the Republican legislative ticket has about 725 over Koop and 550 over Sheets. Newton and Bohall, and there is no doubt of the election of the four Republican representatives in the district with majorities ranging up into the hundreds.

On the county ticket Louis Tacho is elected over James McMurtry for auditor by about 800.

For treasurer John Frater receives a majority of about 600 over J. M. Hayes.

Ole P. Errickson is elected sheriff by 164 plurality over J. W. Slipp and 270 over W. H. Coatine. The complete returns may reduce this somewhat but Errickson is undoubtedly elected by at least 150 plurality.

A. Mahlum defeated A. G. Gallop for register of deeds by 698 votes.

For judge of probate Milton McFadden's majority over John Hurley is over 750.

W. A. Fleming is elected county attorney over C. E. Chipperfield by about 500.

R. E. Whitsley was elected surveyor, I. T. Dean, coroner, and J. A. Wilson superintendant of schools, without opposition.

In the first commissioner's district Joel Smith was re-elected, in the third district L. J. Cale was elected, and in the fifth David Archibald defeated Harry Patterson.

Latest Returns Give Major McKinley a Cinch on the Presidency.

Kentucky Still in Doubt but the Outcome There Is Immaterial.

Bryan Acknowledges Defeat and Congratulates His Opponent.

Says the People Have Decided the Issue and That Their Will is Law.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The campaign of 1896 is over. With Senator Jones' confession of McKinley's election the last hope of even the most partisan silver men was lost, and the exciting events of the past few months pass into history. But while the main result is settled, there are still some interesting questions. In Kentucky the vote is extremely close, but it is believed the state will go for McKinley by a very small majority. On the coast, California is out of doubt, and one of the Wyoming electors will probably cast a vote for McKinley. South Dakota is close, but is now put in the Republican column. North Dakota and Indiana are no longer looked upon as doubtful. Giving McKinley the vote of the Dakotas and Kentucky, and the doubtful vote from Wyoming, he has 278 votes in the electoral college. Without these he has still plenty to give him an election. The result by states, both as to electoral and popular vote, based on the latest returns, is shown in the following table:

CONGRATULATES McKINLEY.

Mr. Bryan Sends a Telegram to the President-elect.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—Mr. Bryan has sent the following telegram to Major McKinley:

"Senator Jones has just informed me that the returns indicate your election and I hasten to extend my congratulations. We have submitted the issue to the American people and their will is law."

AT 8:20 Mr. Bryan received a message from Senator Jones, saying that he conceded the election of Mr. McKinley.

Mr. Bryan announced that he would soon issue an address, but he declined to make any statement or to commit to an interview further than to say that the fight for silver had just begun. He was known to be anxious to devote much of his time in the future to educating the people to the acceptance of views on the financial question and it is his intention to sound the keynote in the paper which he will now issue.

REPUBLICANS GET ALL.

Secured Electors, State Officers and Legislature in Michigan.

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—The total vote of Michigan appears to have been, in round numbers, 495,000, of which, for governor, Pingree received 275,000 and Sligh 205,000. Pingree's actual plurality has been cast to 70,000. McKinley is about 16,400 less, presumably on account of the "Bryan and Pingree" vote, which shows that a considerable element which favored Bryan also voted for Pingree. The legislature is now estimated on stand as follows: Senate, 26 Republicans, 6 fusionists; house, 80 Republicans, 20 fusionists.

THE SENATE DOUBTFUL.

Republicans Will Apparently Lack but One of a Majority.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Later returns indicate slight changes in the next senate from the table sent Wednesday. The five doubtful states then were Delaware, Kansas, Kentucky, North Carolina and South Dakota. It is now reasonably certain Delaware will have a Republican legislature. The only claim to the contrary being of irregularities in Sussex county. Kansas will elect a fusion or independent senator to succeed Peffer, and Kentucky on the face of the returns will elect a Republican to succeed Blackburn. The North Carolina legislature is in doubt, with chances favoring the success of the fusionists, who in this state were made up of Republicans and Populists until the legislature accepts Pritchard's successor. It cannot be told whether North Carolina's new senator will act with the Republican majority, and he is not classified in either the Republican or independent column, but in the doubtful list. South Dakota is still in doubt, with the chances favoring a fusion independent. The senate, therefore, on this estimate would stand: Republicans 44, Democrats 32, independents and Populists 12, doubtful 8. Total 90.

TOM CARTER'S COMMENT.

Bryan's Large Vote Will Admonish Republicans to Do Something.

HELENA, Mon., Nov. 6.—Discussing the results of the election, Senator Carter said:

"The election of McKinley bids the American people to renew hope in the future. That the newly elected president will justify the expectations of the people, no one familiar with his past record, and great ability can question. It must be understood, however, that his path is liable to be beset with difficulties. It is obvious that the senate will be very close on the subject of tariff legislation.

"The very large vote cast for Bryan will, I am sure, admonish those in authority of the necessity for prompt and vigorous efforts in the direction of securing results on the coinage question, in accordance with the party platform."

VICTORY FOR BIMETALLISM.

British Bimetallic Leagues Issue a Manifesto.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A meeting of members of the Bimetallic league has been in session all the afternoon, engaged in the work of drawing up a manifesto. Members from Birmingham, Manchester and elsewhere are in attendance. The document is signed by Messrs. A. J. Balfour, H. R. Greenfell, Robert Barclay, H. C. Gibbs and H. MacNeil. It claims that McKinley's election is a victory for international bimetallism and quotes the money plank of the St. Louis platform.

IN HIS OWN STATE.

McKinley's Plurality in Ohio About 53,000—Populist Vote Large.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—Chairman Kurtz of the Republican state committee says: "McKinley has 52,000 to 53,000 plurality in Ohio. The Republican state, congressional and the Democrats 6. The poll of the state shows 48,000 to 49,000 Populists, whose fusion with the Democrats reduced McKinley's plurality. Then, too, the national Prohibitionists worked with the Democrats, but the gold men overcame them all with 58,000 plurality."

STRONGLY REPUBLICAN.

Massachusetts Gave McKinley a Plurality of 108,716.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Complete returns from Massachusetts give McKinley a plurality of 108,716. The vote was as follows: Bryan 104,890, McKinley 213,606, Palmer 11,863. Wolcott's plurality for governor is 180,726. The vote in the question of biennial elections shows a majority against the proposed change.

Reduced Democratic Vote.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 5.—The returns so far show a decided decrease in the Democratic vote as compared with 1892. The returns from the black belt are not in yet and nothing will be definitely known until the official count, the majority for Bryan on the face of the returns will hardly be less than 35,000.

Complete New Jersey Returns.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 6.—Complete returns give McKinley and Hobart 85,000 plurality in New Jersey. The next legislature will stand: Senate, Republicans 18, Democrats 3; house, Republicans 56, Democrats 4.

California's Majority 6,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Two thousand two hundred and fifty-one precincts out of a total of 2,377 in California give McKinley 144,054, Bryan 138,704.

IN A RECEIVER'S HANDS.

Santa Fe Road Comes in Contact With a Kansas Law.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6.—The equipment of the Santa Fe in Kansas has been placed in the control of State Senator Charles F. Johnson of Oskaloosa, by the action which resulted in the appointment of a receiver is brought under the Kansas law of 1891, which decrees that no corporation more than 20 per centum of whose capital stock is owned by aliens shall acquire real estate in the state of Kansas, and that if any real estate should be acquired in violation of this statute it shall be forfeited to the state.

Selecting McKinley's Private Secretary.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—It is the talk around Republican headquarters that Perry S. Heath of Ohio, who has been in charge of the Republican literary work during the recent campaign, may be the private secretary of Mr. McKinley after his inauguration. Mr. Heath said he knew nothing of the matter.

CLOUGH ELECTED

Chosen Governor of Minnesota by a Plurality of Not More Than 5,000.

Other Candidates on Republican Ticket Have Votes to Throw Away.

McKinley's Lead in the State Increasing, Being Over Fifty Thousand.

South Dakota So Close It May Take the Official Vote to Decide.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 6.—Official figures have been received from several counties, those from St. Louis county materially increasing McKinley's lead, his plurality now being over 51,000. The figures on governor, on the other hand, cut into Clough's plurality to such an extent that he now leads Lind by but 5,066 votes. Enough is known now to indicate clearly that Clough is elected, though perhaps by a slightly larger or smaller plurality than that given above. The other candidates on the Republican state ticket are elected by the pluralities averaging 32,000. All of the nine amendments voted upon are carried by large majorities. Returns so far received indicate that the vote for Palmer and Levering was everywhere very small. In the Sixth district Morris' plurality over Towne has been reduced to 392, but later returns are not expected to affect the result.

RESULT STILL IN DOUBT.

South Dakota So Close the Official Count May Be Necessary to Decide.

HURON, S. D., Nov. 6.—The election returns have somewhat changed the figures previously given and put McKinley's majority below 1,000. The result is still in doubt. The returns, mostly complete on presidential, congressional and state tickets, are in from all organized counties, and, after making liberal allowances for possible votes in unorganized counties and a few remote districts in the Black Hills, McKinley has between 800 and 900 majority. The state and congressional tickets run about even with the presidential and indicate the election of all the Republican State Officers

by majorities from 400 to 600. It is so close in several counties that the official count will be necessary. Telegrams from the state officials and committeemen warrant the prediction that the above figure will be verified. The legislature is certainly Populist by 10 majority and may be increased to 12. Timber from which to make a United States senator is already being looked up, and among the names mentioned are Judge Plowman of the Black Hills, H. L. Loucks and J. H. Kyle.

IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Legislature Will Elect a Republican Successor to Hansbrough.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 6.—Specials to the Journal from North Dakota points indicate that the next legislature will be Republican on joint ballot by a small majority, insuring the election of a Republican successor to Senator Hansbrough. He probably has the strongest following of any candidate. There seems no reason to dispute the previous estimates of 5,000 Republican majority on the national tickets in the state. Cass county, including Fargo, gives a Republican majority of 1,116, the largest in its history.

BREAKS THE RECORD.

McKinley's Majority in Iowa the Largest Ever Given a Republican.

DES MOINES, Nov. 6.—Specials to the Leader from North Dakota points indicate that the next legislature will be Republican on joint ballot by a small majority, insuring the election of a Republican successor to Senator Hansbrough. He probably has the strongest following of any candidate. There seems no reason to dispute the previous estimates of 5,000 Republican majority on the national tickets in the state. Cass county, including Fargo, gives a Republican majority of 1,116, the largest in its history.

IS CLOSE TO 20,000.

Republican Plurality in Indiana a Certainty.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—Indiana's 15 electoral votes will go to McKinley and Hobart by a plurality close to 20,000. Returns received from all the counties by the Republican state committee place the plurality at 20,128. The official figures will not materially change this footing. The Republican and democratic nine congressmen and the Democratic four. Unless the official figures shall change the figures of the legislature will be Republican on joint ballot.

Nevada Strongly Silver.

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev., Nov. 6.—Nevada returns will not be completed for 10 days, owing to scarcity of telegraph facilities. Enough is known to assure the state for Bryan by at least 5,000. The election of J. P. Jones to the United States senate will be unanimous.

Fusion Majority in Washington.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—Returns from the state are very incomplete, those coming in during the day showing the fusionist majority to be about 11,000.

The postoffice department reports a falling off of $1,500,000 in the postoffice receipts for the quarter ending September 30, as compared with the preceding quarter. This decrease in revenue is an indication of bad times, for the postal revenue increases quite rapidly than population in prosperous years, and there should have been an increase of nearly $1,000,000 under normal conditions.

The British army returns for last year show that the total armed strength of the United Kingdom, including reserves and auxiliaries, was 543,000 officers and men. The average strength of this regular army during the year was 220,300, being the highest for 20 years, and the gunnery of practitioners inflicted was below the average.

A plunge of 80 feet 1-2 inches was made in one minute 38 seconds in the contest for the English plunging championship by Mr. Allman. This beats the record by over 5 feet. There is a time limit of one minute, however, in the championship competition, which Mr. Allman won, his plunge of 72 feet 4 inches in that time being also a record.

George Mogle of Cheney, Kan., attempted to cross the Walnut river a day or two ago, and the stream being swollen the horse lost its footing. Mr. Mogle fell into the water, but caught hold of the horse's tail and it swam ashore with him. When it reached the bank it kicked Mogle in the forehead and killed him instantly.

While the wheelmen are in church their bicycles are stored in a neighboring school house.

According to a report just issued in London by the English government concerning the little British colony at Aden, at the southern entrance of the Red sea, the United States has captured the whole of the cotton piece-goods trade of Arabia and Northeast Africa, to the exclusion of Great Britain. Their losses were 6 men dead, 27 left behind in hospitals and 39 horses.

THE COUNTING OF BALLOTS

The Latest Election Returns From All Parts of the Country.

The Next Congress Will Have a Majority Against Free Silver.

The Elections in a Number of the States Favor the Republicans.

Maj. McKinley Will Have at Least 284 Votes in the Electoral College.

HOW THEY STAND.

The following states are in doubt:

Missouri	17
Montana	3
Nevada	3
North Carolina	11
Oregon	4
Texas	15
Utah	3
Virginia	11
Washington	4
Wyoming	3

The returns from some of the states are very slow in coming in and it may take several days to get definite figures from some of them. Enough reliable returns are in, however, to locate the next electoral vote. The latest figures show that he will have at least 284 votes. The following is a condensed report of the latest returns from the different states:

ALABAMA.

Chairman of State Democratic Committee 40,000 Majority.

Returns from Alabama were given to the Associated Press by Chairman Vaughan: "There is a strong reshoing of a republican of fraude in this state, but for a more aggravating nature than ever known before. Returns are being held back and no information can be obtained from a Democratic election source. The state is unquestionably very close, but I should call no yourself if the democracy brought up the usual fraudulent majority. We have carried at least the usual majority on the foolish ticket."

Signed: "William Vaughan,
"Chairman Republican State Committee."
Gen. Skelly, chairman of the state Democratic committee, declined to give a statement over his signature, but pledged the following:

"Indications now are that the state will give a majority for Bryan and Sewall of 40,000. I say go to work, and I believe it will send a solid Democratic delegation to congress."

ARKANSAS.

The State Goes for Bryan by About 23,000.

The latest returns from all parts of the state indicate the success of the Democratic ticket by a majority of about 23,000.

The Democrats claim the election of the entire congressional ticket.

CALIFORNIA.

Republicans Claim the State by a Small Margin.

The interest manifested in the election has been something unusual in California, every town in the state is receiving bulletins to-night, and in San Francisco the crowds that gathered at the newspaper bulletin boards were enormous. When the returns commenced to come in great excitement was manifested. Both Bryan and McKinley partisans were out in force and they cheered loudly for their favorites.

The latest reports from California are that the Republicans have carried the state by 4,500.

COLORADO.

Free Silver Prevails and Senator Teller Is Assured of Re-election.

Free silver prevails and Senator Teller is assured of re-election.

The result on state officers is still in doubt. Bryan's plurality will reach 150,000 in the state, and Congressman Shafroth, silver Democrat, and Congressman Bell, silver Republican, are both re-elected by 50,000 to 60,000 each. The re-election of Senator Teller is the work of his enemy, and politics has made strange bedfellows.

MAINE.

Republican Plurality Estimated at 40,000.

The election in Maine proved one of the quietest in the state's history. Generally returns are coming in slowly, but the Democratic vote and a slight increase in the Republican vote, which promises, in a great measure, for a heavy Republican plurality, estimated at 40,000. The vote cast for Palmer and Buckner was not as large as was anticipated.

McKinley led Sewall by 101 votes in the latter's own ward at Bath at the city.

Candidate Sewall was interviewed by an Associated Press representative at Bath: "We will be under government controlled by republicans for the next four years, as well as by injunction. Mr. Bryan received 140 electoral votes, which shows that there are some honest men in the country."

MARYLAND.

Republican Plurality Estimated at Above 20,000.

Chairman Talbot, of the Democratic state central committee, concedes Maryland to the Republicans, but would give no figures.

Senator Gorman, Wellington Jones, of the state central committee of Maryland, stated to the Associated Press as follows: "McKinley carries Baltimore by at least 20,000 majority; the Democrats concede 15,000; the state will give 20,750."

Above five Republican congressmen have been surely elected.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Republicans Carry Every City and Town in the State.

McKinley's majority in Massachusetts is now placed at 104,000. The Republican candidates for president and governor have carried every city and town for the first time in the history of the state.

The following congressmen were elected: First district, Wright; Fourth, Adams; Republican; Second district, Gillett, Springfield, Republican; Third district, Lawrence, Republican; Fourth district, Morse, Republican; Fourth district, Weymouth, Fitzgerald, Democrat; Fifth district, Knox, Lawrence, Republican; Sixth district, Barrett, Haverhill, Republican; Seventh district, Barrett, Melrose, Republican; Eighth district, McCall, Winchester, Republican; Ninth district, Fitzgerald, Boston, Democrat; Tenth district, Cushman, Dedham, Republican; Eleventh district, Simpkins, Yarmouth, Republican.

MICHIGAN.

The Republicans Carry the State by a Good Majority.

It is evident that the Republicans have carried Michigan by 40,000 to 50,000 and that Pingree (rep.) is elected governor by about the same majority.

Chairman Baker, of the Democratic state committee, declines to make any statement at present further than that the returns from which he had received returns show average gains for the silver ticket of 1,500 over the Democratic majorities of 1892.

The Tribune (free silver) concedes McKinley carries the state and Pingree (rep.) believes that Pingree's vote will set run greatly behind McKinley.

Chairman Ferry, of the Republican state central committee, claims the state for McKinley by 50,000 plurality and ten out of the twelve congressmen. He concedes two to be doubtful.

MISSISSIPPI.

The Democrats Carry the State by 40,000.

Mississippi gives Bryan a majority of 50,000. The vote for Watson will not exceed 10,000. The seven Democratic candidates for congress are elected by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 3,000.

MISSOURI.

Returns Are Delayed and No Result Can Be Predicted.

Telegraphic advices from St. Louis state that complete returns for that city will not be in until Thursday and no reliable estimate of the vote of the state can be given. Chairman Harris, of the democratic state committee, at St. Louis, according to the Republic (silver Dem.), claims that the state is carried by the Republicans by 15,000 plurality. The Republic also claims that the democrats have elected twelve congressmen; outside of St. Louis Democratic city returns for Kansas City will not be in until late to-day, but enough returns are in to insure the election of McKinley and Bland by from 1,200 to 1,500 majority. Sheriff O'Neill concedes the state to McKinley by the carrier Kansas City. This is the general opinion of the prominent politicians here.

MONTANA.

The Boy Orator of the Platte Carries the State by 10,000.

Returns from this state will be necessarily slow in coming in at the present writing. Returning have been received from Helena and Butte which indicate Bryan's majority to be at least 10,000.

Seventy-seven precincts give McKinley, 2,401; Bryan, 13,149. Six to one for Bryan. Fusion state ticket and Hartman (Republican) congressman elected. Hartman, silver Republican, is elected to congress by a majority of 1,000 over Haskell, silver Republican. Nearly the entire Democratic-Populist fusion state ticket is elected.

NEBRASKA.

The Democrats Claim the State by a Good Majority.

Returns from Nebraska precincts are very meagre, but indicate that McKinley has carried Nebraska. Bryan's plurality in Nebraska, outside of Omaha, give McKinley 1,000 plurality.

The closeness of the vote on president indicates that the vote on the state ticket will also be close, as well as close contests in congressional districts, with the chances of final election.

The following statement was issued to the Associated Press: "We will carry the state by 15,000 to 20,000 majority, electing the state ticket and legislature.

(Signed) "A. Dahlman,
"Chairman Democratic State Committee."
Bryan's plurality in Douglas county, Omaha, will be 1,000.

Later reports state that Chairman Post exceeded part of the state ticket to the democratic side. He also claims that the Republicans would elect their presidential electors in the First, Second, Third and Fifth districts. Popkins claims the democratic electors in the Second, Fourth and Fifth districts. Popkins claims the democratic electors in the Second, Fourth and Fifth districts. Popkins claims the democratic electors in the Second, Fourth

A MATTER OF SKILL.

By BEATRICE WHITBY.

CHAPTER V.—(Continued.)

Why had Mr. Jones been so anxious she should go to Miss Mitford? Though his was the only familiar face among all these strangers, he had never once come near her. He was not the usual desirous of the company, he was unconscious of her presence, which he had certainly been at some pains to secure. She had thought about him a good deal; she had never thought of any stranger so much before. She was thinking about him at the very moment when he emerged from behind the granite, moss-fringed bowlder before her and joined them. This time he was alone—no pretty, pale-eyed girl to monopolize him. He, too, was stunned by meeting her, by reference, if not devotion, from men; she almost considered it her due. Almost simultaneously with his appearance the tooting of the horn broke above the roaring of the water and echoed among the hills. This was the sound for which she had been eagerly listening, it had come but just three minutes too soon.

"That is the master, old chap," said Helen's squire, with alacrity, addressing Mr. Jones. "Come along, Miss Mitford; you and I must be off. Awfully noisy place, this—Niagara and all it. Sha'n't be sorry to get into the quiet. See you again, Good-by. Good-by, Jack!"

"Good-by, Jack," said he, "but it isn't possible to Miss Mitford. I'm sure will allow me, I am to have the pleasure of driving her back in my cart. Lady Lucy fancies there is going to be a thunder storm, so she remains with the landau, and I can't be such a brute as to sunder any of the couples on the coach.

By this speech Mr. Jones had shown the subtlety of the serpent; by his indifferent but incontestable invitation, he precluded the possibility of Helen's either refusing his escort or guessing at what pains he had been in perfecting the irreverent arrangement by which arrangement she acquiesced quite graciously; her pride would not allow her to stoop beneath the punishment to her vanity.

"Will you go down and see the start, Miss Mitford? Or will you come a hundred yards higher up to the summit and have a look at the pools?"

She hesitated; she had a real inclination to see the start, she had no interest in her companionless. Mr. Jones read her silence to his liking.

"We won't see them off. Good-bys are melancholy duties; you are quite right. Come along down this path; it's not far." And he led the way through the bracken. "But such a rippling place when you get there. We have plenty of time, I am going to drive you home by the New Cut round the Great Tree—it is a shorter way and the way you came, but the road isn't safe for coaching. You want a good head and a steady nerve to appreciate the view, but you possess both, I know."

He went on talking with great ease and fluidness. It really was impossible to remember lost parental ire, imbecilic proposalities, coercive hurrying or purse-proud oddities in company with the sunny manner of the genial comrade. What gratification was to be found in holding aloof from and sulking with a person who is bound to your fraility, who listens eagerly to your remarks, who understands and responds to your smiles, who meets your thought half way with a word, who, one thought, and who—this last cruise is the most effective in the category—should he choose to turn your back upon and leave him, would be quite as happy, content and delighted with some other young woman beside him? Helen's head reigns rather with her or with herself, but she forgot his duty when though she meant to remember them, and responded to him almost. She became friendly and enjoyed herself; her face was already dangerously expressive of her feelings; he saw at once that she was pretty.

Precipitous hills inclosed a wide ravine through which a swift and angry river plashed, striking against numerous shallow cascades over the stones, rushing bowlder with a roar, pushing log with silent but mighty force beneath the other banks. At one spot a cluster of jagged bowlders had been detached from the overhanging cliff and had fallen into the river with a terrific, subsiding, by their strength, the frenzy of the water only for a little while dark, brooding pools between them. Further on, like a giant crouched to leap with an outburst of fury, the water in a squatting column poured over a lofty fall and thundering down a great bowl long on its course to the sea.

To this Mr. Bertie guided his companion.

"Isn't it fine rippling?" said he, leaning against the rock upon the ledge of which he had seated herself. "I wanted you to see the pools. I knew you would like rivers. Most [illegible] and don't talk to you of a human voice or a human being is superfluous here. We are too insignificant to assert ourselves; we ought to take back and keep quiet."

The brawling river drowned his last words, which he had addressed more to himself than to her.

She clapped her hands lightly and did as he told her. She looked and listened; she forgot him, she forgot herself; her eyes grew dim with wonder and with awe; her quickened breath rose and fell sharply.

Before the eternal beauty of those hills and vales, before the overwhelming majesty of God's creation, her small "pride of life" was annihilated. She turned to him for sympathy as a child might turn.

"And I shall go away and forget it," she said, and then added, ashamed, "Oh, Memory, shield me from the world's poor strife.

And give these scenes thine everlasting life."

She was astounding him by this departure, but he said again, in that familiar formula which, though not of Humpty Dumpty's words, did duty with him for a refrain:

"It's rippling!"

"It makes me good," she said; "it makes me want to be good. Nothing else matters. All the things we value are nothing; they are frivolous. I want only to be good."

He nodded. He knew, or guessed, what she meant; but he was a genuine John Bull to the going into explanations. Only upon a very great emergency was a glimpse below his levelled surface to be obtained.

He kept his eye on her glowing face in lieu of those rapturous tears. She caught his glance, hesitated and then jumped to her feet.

"We ought to go," she said; and as he did not dispute her assertion she retraced her path, he following in her wake.

As a matter of course, but with complete authority, Mr. Jones took Helen's guidance into his hands. He gathered her into the cart, wrapped a light rug over her knees and decidedly neglected her ardent desire to drive herself.

"Lean back," he said; "that seat is pretty comfortable, and you must be tired."

"I'm not the least tired. I should like to drive."

"Are you used to driving?"

"Yes."

She was accustomed to driving the rector's rough, gray pony, which dredged the parish roads for twenty years old.

"Then you shall take the reins presently. She is fresh at starting and I know her ways. She will behave cool down. Do you mind my smoking?"

"Not if the wind won't blow it in my face," she replied politely but untruly. He did not share the modern damsel's oft-asserted passion for the fragrance of tobacco.

"The wind is the other way and I am half a foot above you," he urged with some mutual anxiety.

"Then smoke by all means."

He thrust his hand into his pocket. "I have no light," he told her, "so I can't."

And he mounted to her side and they started.

"A quarter of a mile," he assured. "If we went more quickly it would sooner be over."

"Yes, but I would rather go slowly, if you don't mind."

When we round that corner," pointing to a distant spur of the cliff which concealed any further sight of the road, "we soon turn inland and go into a lane with twenty solid feet of bank on either side."

"We shall get there in ten minutes?" interrogatively.

(To be continued.)

WONDERFUL OKLAHOMA WATER.

Drink of the Liquor Will Turn Anvils to Stone.

There is a generally accepted theory that no story, however absurd, has been written that has not its parallel in fact, or will not sometime be found in due course of time. If a story seems founded upon imagination and a writer flatters himself that he has struck a new lead of fiction, let him beware how he hugs the delusion, since in time he will discover the same odd features open all about him. The "yarn" is a necessity—the author's name is forgotten—but going the rounds of the press sculptor who discovered a chemical secret, by means of which an animal could be transformed into a statue retaining almost instantaneous process of petrifaction, nobody ever doubted from Oklahoma would come a verification of the tale. But, with a most doubtful whether too much credence should be placed in the yarn about the girl who drank water out of the center of a geode and at once turned into stone. Still it might be true—in Oklahoma that land of easy divorces and Munchausen happenings, for it should be borne in mind the writer will be given to geological research and the trade in geodes will soon set in. The power of a shout to decease we can give him a plenty of geode and give him his stone and decorate our front yard with his statue at small expense. It will be a monument pleasanter to look upon than we used to drive immortalized in stone with a marble wave of whisky or a prescient maiden ladies will be much pleased to have the statue of the girl separated from each other they lose their identity entirely. Now, when the top crust of the soil is loosened and reduced to a fine filth these geodes lie less closely together, and do not attract moisture from below. The molecules now rises as high as the upper filth and there remains to a much lesser extent than in the case of untilled soil, for, owing to the blanket or mulch of loose soil on the top, the water in the subsoil is much less exposed to the action of evaporation.

Herein lies the whole secret of why land should be cultivated after each rainfall, and why every farmer who loves his home and family should do it. To another the same quantity was added and both were mixed with the top half of the soil only. To another the same quantity was mixed with the top and bottom half of the soil, and to another the same quantity was added at the bottom of the soil only. To another the same quantity was mixed with the top soil and to another the lower half of the soil only. To another the same quantity was added at one time and were all treated just alike. The unfertilized box produced 10 ounces of corn, the box in which the fertilizer was mixed with all the soil produced 47½ ounces; that mixed to half the depth, 32 ounces; and that mixed to one-fourth the depth produced 40 ounces. The conclusions drawn are that the productiveness of a soil depends not so much on the concentration of the plant food as upon the depth to which it is mixed, and that only a small quantity of manure is available, it is best to concentrate it near the surface in the drill or hill, and that deep culture without increased depth of soil is useless. The whole theory is based upon the principle that the soil is composed of innumerable and infinitely small particles. When the soil is dry and mellow it is surrounded by a vacuum or air space. Whenever the particles come in contact with moisture they have the power of attracting that moisture and surrounding themselves with a thin film of water. The particles next to the water first draw it to them and themselves from the dry particles next to them in turn attract it, so a continuous stream is set up, which, in the same way that a wick of a lamp draws up oil. This goes on until the whole body of the soil is saturated, but as soon as the water reaches the particles next to the surface of the soil this water is evaporated and the supply of water is again drawn upon until the water stored below is so exhausted or left at such a depth that the distance overcomes the force of attraction, and the soil becomes completely dry. The deeper then
