BRAND, OCTOBER 23, 1897.

ANOKA appears to be just rolling in prosperity these days.

We congratulate Bro. Eastman on his appointment as postmaster of Wadena.

Wheat in Japan have increased 30 per cent since the adoption of the gold standard.

The editor of the New York Sun, Charles A. Dana, is dead. Paul Dana will succeed his father as editor of the paper.

As now the Nebraska banks claim to have more money than they can loan. Wonder how the populace like property down that country.

A very large amount of cotton goods used in this country are purchased from the mills in the south, and new factories are being built to accommodate the largely increasing demand.

In a review of the potato market the American Agriculturist says that since 1892 has the potato crop of the United States proved so nearly a failure, there being a falling off in tonnage of over 30 per cent.

A train was hit by a Little Falls during the week among the manufacturers, and the price dropped a dollar on a barrel Monday. The consumers are hoping that the difficulties will not be arbitrated.

An important transfer of real estate occurred at Wadena last week which State Senator Geo. A. Whitney became the owner of 230 residences and business lots in that thriving city, formerly the property of the Northern Pacific railway company. The Senator evidently has shrewd faith in his own town.

Some 452,000 cans of corn were put up by a canning industry at Faribault this season. Minnesota could take fruit work in the matter of putting up vegetables in this manner, and there would be money in it for the factories as well as the farmers. It should be one of the chief industries of the state.

The Pacific coast cities are reaping a harvest on account of the Alaska gold craze. In Seattle alone 8000 outfits have been sold to as many people going to the Klondyke country, and in most instances the merchant will make more money off the sale of the outfit than the purchase will be in search for gold.

A rumor that the Northern Pacific people will remove the division headquarters from Staples to Wadena has gained considerable circulation during the past week and also that when the change comes the headquarters at Fargo will go to Valley City. This would cut out one division entirely and would be in the line of retrenchment. The arrangement would be a death blow to Staples.

The Menasha Messenger objects to the bringing out of J. D. Jones, of Todd county, by the Yoreville Sun as a candidate for the state senate from that district and the Wadena Pioneer secures the objection. The Wadena people seem to think Mr. Jones should not interfere with Senator Whitney's chances for a reelection but should be allowed to go back to the home. It is hardly probable, however, that Mr. Jones will again to the lower branch of the legislature having graduated from the home by his election as speaker at the last session and if he desires to be senator there will be a red hot campaign in the new district to which Mr. Jones' county was attached by the reapportionment bill. And by the way the redistricting of the state has put a good many political noses out of joint, as will be evident at the next election.

Prospering in Georgia.

J. C. Congdon is the recipient of a letter from Ed. Mahan, formerly of this city but now located at Ocala, Georgia, in which that gentleman states that he is getting along nicely in his new home, besides opening up a farm in the pine of that state is also busy contracting and has several months work ahead of him. Mr. Mahan has built a fine house and barn on his place the lumber for which was cut from the trees on the land and all done inside of seven months. To use Mr. Mahan's words "I have 17 acres under plow and have had two crops off some of it, and a nice young orchard set out and looking well. Our winter garden is coming up nice, such as onions, radishes, turnips, etc."

Accompanying the letter was a clipping in regard to Mr. Mahan's farm from the Fitzgerald Enterprise which we publish below:
"Say, just take time to ride out to my place and see what we can accomplish in seven months. A lot of Minn. folks will be there. Hicker, the photographer will be along soon to take the view." Glad of an outing we coasted Artist Hicker to take up beside him and were soon on our way to the handsome "40" belonging to Ed. Mahan who uses the land for cultivation. We found some thirty colored and red-headed men at the place. The 16 by 34 house which looks up slightly on a gentle sloping elevation, with a good sized barn in the back ground. The lumber in the house was taken right off the land after preparing for placing, sawing and preparing cost about $10 per 1000 ft. Notwithstanding the fact that we had resolved to allow nothing to surprise us in this country, we did almost lose our breath trying to keep up with the happy owner as he led us from one fruit tree to another (from three to four hundred peach trees) doing fine by then to sweet potatoes, big red yellow, and white ones some of which we carried home and cooked; there he hurried on to his corn which he had planted on ground from which he had a big crop of oats and the growth was really surprising. The spot where he had tickled last year when first located upon his ground had grown upon it the most of the finest corn we have seen. Then on to the thirty cow pens which were now only left and his tickle went in the pride of his heart. His location and surroundings are attractive to say the least and just close enough to the city for pleasant drives. Mr. Mahan has shown in plain and done with energy and pluck. He has seventeen acres broken and clear of all roots and stumps, and we noticed a weed that dried to his bond as he pulled us low in hand, over his possession. A good well of water, naturally lighter than any which is the family of Warren Dornier. No wonder he is so charmed with his southern home. Mayor Goodnow and wife, Dr. Cox, Messrs. Scott and Ingersoll and others were among the Ocala notables who were in the group which Hicker took the "snap shot" at them and the home and laudable. Mr. Mahan's enthusiasm and faith in Georgia is worthy of emulation. It is hard to realize that the farm growing up out of a pine forest is the result of only seven months time and labor.

Seelye and the Railroad.

The Third Iowa Falls News says Chief W. E. Seelye left Wednesday for St. Paul, where he will consult parties regarding the feasibility of constructing a railroad in Alaska next year. Mr. Seelye some time ago made a survey of a route in that country, and if a permit and free right-of-way can be had from the next session of congress, the road will be built next spring.

Fixing the Old Engines.

The Northern Pacific road is having new and more modern boilers put in some of the older locomotives, with the result that the power of the machines in each case is increased about 12 per cent says the Duluth News-Tribune. A number of engines that were given new boilers as an experiment are doing such good work that it is expected that a large number will be treated in the same manner.

To Cure Cures.

An exchange gives the following guaranteed cure for the benefit of suffering humanity:
To cure the Klondyke fever go out into the field some cold morning before breakfast eat winter and wild rice, dig a hole 10 feet deep, and come back to the house in the evening and eat a small piece of stewed buffalo ribs and go to sleep in the wood shed. Repeat the dose if necessary.

We make LOWER PRICES on GOODS than any house in the city.

Mrs. Henrietta Hovey.

The New York Journal tells an interesting story about Mrs. Henrietta Hovey, the famous exponent of Deism in Princeton and her control of the smart set in the metropolis.
"The revolutionized many customs. She more than any other person did away with the custom of slinking hands in society. 'It is a superstitious custom,' she urged. 'It presupposes equality, and as people in society are on an equal footing it is superfluous.' Mrs. Hovey has also revolutionized the bow of company, both in New York and London. The old lines style of bowing, in which the foot played an important part, is characterized by this progressive Deistress as 'merely a modification of the millennial courtesy.' The bow of company, Mrs. Hovey says, 'should represent, above everything, reverence. To ladies who were to be presented at court Mrs. Hovey said: 'Bow in the foot scrapping, genteel fashion, and the scowling will scarcely notice you, but bow as I teach you and you cannot fail to catch the royal attention.'"

"Mrs. Hovey begins bowing by dropping the eye. Next the head bows. Then the shoulders and body and limbs sink until the person is almost on the knees. The recovery is slow and graceful and expresses reverence almost as much as the low land. This is the court bow, and it is a modification of this courtesy which Mrs. Hovey teaches fashionable women for their use. To ladies who were to be presented at court Mrs. Hovey said: 'Bow in the foot scrapping, genteel fashion, and the scowling will scarcely notice you, but bow as I teach you and you cannot fail to catch the royal attention.'"

The Legal Status of Women.

James J. Conroy's little book, "The Legal Status of Women," is creating quite a sensation. Some of the laws in which women are particularly interested are of decidedly good. In Idaho there is a provision for compelling the husband to furnish support for the wife. In the country, if he is found to be unable to support her, the wife must support him. In Nebraska the husband is expected to furnish suitable maintenance, according to his idea of suitability. "If he is idle, he is to provide and support for that." In Mexico "nothing special is required." Nevada requires the husband to "maintain and support" his wife. If she happens to be of a luxurious frame of mind, she will have to furnish her luxuries. The law does not prohibit this. In Kansas no support for the wife is compelled by law, unless she serves a divorce.

The Colorado Example.

The report that comes from Colorado of the good work done by the women of the state during the three years they have been enfranchised may give a lesson to women suffrage in the rest of the country. One of the difficulties upon which great stress has been laid by the anti woman suffrage here seems to have been answered in Colorado. This is in regard to the employment of women in public meetings and polling places. This difficulty seems to have been solved, as in other small things in other large matters, has had great improvement in primary meetings and polling places. "The Colorado statement," said where they were formerly held in a stable or drinking saloon, in many precincts primaries are now held in home parlors and polling booths are arranged in respectable buildings, and rolling is invariably conducted with decorum. "The decorum in the representative hall, where there are women members, is also said to contrast with the usual scene in the male world. The general influence exerted by women upon politics is said to have been excellent, and there has been more general study of political economy by both men and women during the last three years than ever before in the history of the state—New York Times.

When perfume are not disagreeable to a patient, it is well to use them freely in a sickroom, as they are a protection against contagion. It is said that if cold water is sprayed through the living corner of a house situated in a malarial locality it will prevent the occupants from contracting the disease."

A piece of narrow webbing such as is used for holding furniture springs in place, sewed upon the under edge of rugs, will prevent the corners from curling. Moreover, the rug is not so likely to pull out at the ends when taken hold of too near the edges when they are beaten.

An account was recently read at a meeting of the American Neurological association which demonstrates very forcibly the power of the mind over the body. A young woman of good standing after reading a clinical history of cases of abdominal tumor became convinced that she was a victim of that disease. She suffered acutely, and her friends shared her fears. The doctors believed the case of hysteria, and all other methods for relief having failed, consented to perform a dangerous operation for the removal of the tumor. The girl was dressed for several days, her senses stripped of all paper enticement and made to resemble a hospital in harness. During the operation, she and surgeons' paraphernalia were freely exhibited. Physicians and nurses stood around the table, and the patient was carefully observed. An incision, barely six inches, was made, and the girl carefully stitched up in elaborate dress and bandage. When asked she was allowed to receive company, she was too weak to raise her hand. She felt the irritation of the wound and was thankful to find herself alive. In two weeks she was completely cured.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Minneapolis Times on Sunday contained a five column write-up of old Crow Wing in this county. Several pictures were published, one of the Catholic church, another of the altar of the church and the tomb of Hole-in-the-Day, the old Chippewa chief. The best picture, however, was one of the family of Chas. Bailey, a well-to-do farmer, and the only residents now in what was once a bustling village. Concerning Mr. Bailey, The Times in part says: "About 30 years ago Charles Bailey, who with his family today constitutes the population of Crow Wing, arrived there, was pleased with the town and purchased the John George Morrison place. He has owned it ever since. He has seen the inhabitants seek more promising localities and has witnessed the destruction of the homes owned by one until at last his own shared the common fate."

Couldn't Catch Paul.

Two men attempted to hold up Paul Bettors, an engineer on the Northern Pacific, as he was walking in the yards last night to take out his train. Mr. Bettors ran on hearing the command of the robbers to give them his money, and escaped in to the round house. Mr. Bettors says that he was a short distance from a round house when two men called to him to stop, saying at the same time, "Give us your money." Without stopping to argue the matter the engineer started to run. The men followed him some distance, but gave up the chase when they saw him go into the round house.—Houses Press.

The Annual Fair.

Last evening was the opening night of the annual fair of St. Francis Catholic church, and the attendance was much larger than usual on occasions of this kind in the past. The fair will continue this evening and to-morrow night. Gardner Hall has been very nicely arranged and presents a very pleasing appearance. The booths for the sale of fancy work and other articles are arranged on the north and east sides of the spacious hall, and in a manner that reflects credit upon the ladies in charge. The "dining room" where supper is served each evening from 6 to 9 o'clock, is attractive and the excellent meals served are fully up to the standard established by the ladies of the society. Ice cream and other refreshments are in evidence and the ladies in charge of the table of the society, in being a comfort to their patrons. The comic opera and drill by the young ladies and gentlemen is a very pleasing feature.

A spirited contest for a ladies' bicycle donated by the Twombly Mercantile firm is to be held here and will be between Misses Ella Saunders, Jennie Orth, and Nora Venneville.

John Calvin started for Tecoma, Washington, Tuesday evening where he expects to join his brother.

John B. Viny left for Brainerd on Tuesday evening where he goes to work as orderly in the N. P. Sanitarium.

Peter Behlmer and Oscar Carlson came home from the harvest the early part of the week. Both report having done well.

The service at the school house on Tuesday evening was not very well attended owing to the inclemency of the weather. Those who did go were well pleased with Rev. Markham and all pronounce him an eloquent talker.

A Serrator.
