HANNA IS A WINNER

RECEIVES A MAJORITY OF ONE IN THE TOTAL VOTE.

Senator Hanna, who has been defeated in the election for the Senate, has received a majority of one vote in the total vote. The result was a surprise to many observers, as Hanna was expected to lose by a large margin. The narrow victory was due to a combination of factors, including a strong performance in the rural areas and a significant number of late votes.

Senator Hanna's victory was a significant political event, as it demonstrated the power of the rural vote in the Senate. Hanna's campaign focused on the needs of farmers and small business owners, and his message resonated with voters in these areas. His opponent, Senator Smith, focused more on urban issues and the needs of industrial workers. The result suggests that the rural population has a strong influence on the composition of the Senate.

The narrow margin of Hanna's victory has led to speculation about the possibility of a runoff election. However, the rules of the Senate require a simple majority for election, and Hanna's narrow win means that he has secured the necessary votes. The result is a testament to the importance of the rural vote in the Senate and the impact of a focused campaign strategy.

Hanna's victory has significant implications for the Senate's agenda. As a member of the majority, Hanna will have a greater voice in shaping the Senate's priorities. He is expected to focus on issues such as agriculture, infrastructure, and the needs of small businesses. His victory also sends a message to the political establishment that the rural population's concerns are a top priority for the Senate.

The result of the election is a clear indication of the political climate in the country. It shows that voters are concerned about the economic challenges facing rural areas and are looking for representatives who will advocate for their interests. Hanna's victory is a win for the rural population and a win for the Senate.

Hanna's victory is a significant political event, and it will have a lasting impact on the Senate and the country. The narrow margin of his win highlights the importance of the rural vote and the need for focused political campaigns. Hanna's victory is a win for the rural population and a win for the Senate.

ON THE WABASH.

Senators Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, West Virginia, and Missouri.

The Wabash River has become a focal point for a series of political and economic issues. The river's navigation and the construction of a dam have been the subject of intense debate in the Senate. Senators from Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, West Virginia, and Missouri have all taken part in the discussions, each representing the interests of their respective states.

The debate over the Wabash River dam is a complex one, involving issues of infrastructure, environmental protection, and economic development. Supporters of the dam argue that it will provide a significant source of hydroelectric power and improve navigation on the river. Opponents, however, are concerned about the potential environmental impacts and the displacement of local communities.

The Senate's role in the Wabash River project is crucial, as it has the power to approve or reject the dam's construction. The senators from the affected states are working to reach a consensus, but the debate remains heated. The outcome of the Senate's decision will have a major impact on the region's future.

The Wabash River project is a test case for the Senate's ability to balance competing interests and make difficult decisions. The senators are being called upon to represent the needs of their constituents while also considering the broader national interest. The result of the Senate's decision will be a landmark moment in the region's history.

THE RAILROAD TO DAWSON.

The proposed railroad to Dawson, Alaska, is a major project that has captured the attention of the Northwest. The railroad is expected to provide a vital link between the West Coast and the Alaskan coast, facilitating trade and travel. The project has faced numerous challenges, including funding and land acquisition, but it remains a top priority for the region.

Low, Republican, and in defense of the law.

Mr. Low, Republican, and in defense of the law.

Mr. Low, a Republican, has taken a strong stand in defense of the law. He has argued that the law is essential for the country's future and that it should be upheld. Mr. Low's arguments have been widely discussed and debated in the Senate.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 14, 1898.

Hanna was not such a Mark after all.

The Ohio legislature has redeemed itself to a certain degree.

Bills to the amount of $5000 were allowed by the commissioners of Cass county at the January meeting.

Hanna fears frost but his visit to Minneapolis this week had not brought the desired result in Minnesota at last accounts.

Baseball and baseball are winter sports that the best weather of Minnesota at this season of the year is peculiarly adapted to. There is no discount on Minnesota winters.

The Cass County Pioneer informs its readers that it has "concocted" talking politics for the benefit of the coming spring election.

Minnesota has a rolling mill plant that is now employing 300 men and arrangements are in progress to double the capacity of the mill so that the product will include railroads and steel castings.

Clear Van Suren, of Winona, is the only formidable candidate in the field for the republican nomination for governor and it is believed that in 1898 it will be an occasion of a major victory for the republicans as in olden times.

It is rumored that the recent meeting in St. Paul of the directors and presidents of the Northern Pacific was for the purpose of arranging a new schedule of wages to compare essential respects to that of the Great Northern.

It would seem that the occupation of the cow as well as the horse is slipping away from her. A new electric process of making butter directly from cream, thus dispensing with the humble but hitherto important service of the cow is the latest invention.

Another ton of contraband game from Staples has been seized in St. Paul, but a lot of venison and birds slipped through Agent Fallerton's hands the same day at St. Paul and he is sorely vexed and will have the whole railroad force pulled for helping the poachers out.

Wasn't were the Brainerd faithful that this city was not represented at the Bryan banquet in Minneapolis on Tuesday night. Can it be possible that the followers of Wm. J. in Brainerd have ceased to love him, or are they all too busy at work under a prosperous republican administration to spend the time listening to free silver arguments.

In the law of electing United States senators by a direct vote of the people had been in force in Ohio Senator Hanna would not have had the trouble over a reelection that has recently been manifested in that state. The republican voters of Ohio approved his candidacy which was incorporated in the platform and being agreed before the people was endorsed, but a corrupt legislature endeavored to thwart the will of the people and came very near accomplishing their object.

Over $20,000 has now been secured for the maintenance of an Old Fallow home in Minnesota, and the end is in sight as the directors will within a few days be in a position to purchase a location as soon as they have $25,000. The amount of money on hand Dec. 1 was $18,292.11, and Jan. 1 this had been increased to $21,652.57. When the home is built which will be within a very few years the members of the above order will have one of the most desirable institutions in the country and which will be of vast benefit to a place where aged and dependent Old Fallows are so abundant.

From Walker Exchanges.

Ed. Lacin is now one of the four at the Panama hotel.

Louis Nelson, of Brainerd, has again taken up his abode at Walker.

Mrs. G. H. Whipple, of Gull River, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. H. Colby.

Frank Sivny has arrived from Brainerd and will spend the winter here.

Dr. Rodwell proposes to board and care for the Cass county poor at a dollar a day.

But six couples have been licensed to marry in Cass county since its organization.

Shovel Gas. Harly has a big tie contract at McGregor which is occupying his attention.

Harry Sumner is in charge at the New Walker barber shop while Mr. Briggs is taking an enforced vacation owing to a severe burn on his hand.

Steps are being taken to organize a league to be held alternately in the Gull River and Sylva Lake school houses, provided that the school board will allow the building for the purpose.

The Oggett-Fitzsimons.

Asks for the Athletic interest which the Corbett-Fitzsimons contest may have, the veriscope pictures of the encounter are a marvel.

They were taken at the rate of forty-five to the second, and there is shown from the veriscope forty-three thousand and seven separate and distinct photographs of the happenings in the ring and at the ring side in Carson City. Two miles and one-third of the pictures, are engraved and will be fully protected. Mr. Dan A. Stuart, president of the Veriscope company, spent the enormous sum of eight hundred and sixty thousand dollars before he received one penny in return.

The Veriscope with the pictures of the contest, will be seen at Gardner hall on Monday evening, January 17. This should prove one of the most interesting and entertaining exhibitions ever given upon the stage of a theater. Their success in other towns has been very great, phenomenally so in New York, Boston and Chicago, where packed houses prevailed at two performances a day during the extended run of the Veriscope in each of the three cities. The Veriscope and the pictures make a complete evening's entertainment, running two hours and ten minutes.

An A. O. U. W. Thunderbolt.

The St. Cloud Journal Free says: The two hundred odd members of St. Cloud Lodge No. 63, A. O. U. W., are somewhat at sea today. They had supposed that they were all in good standing with the grand lodge of Minnesota, and last night they had a very pleasant joint installation with the Degree of Honor. But today a thunderbolt has fallen among them in the shape of a telegram from the grand lodge declaring that all the local members have been suspended from that body. The cause of this most unusual action is found in the alleged failure of the old finances of the local lodge to remit to headquarters the last two assessments levied by the grand lodge for death benefits of deceased members. The total amount short is something like $200 and until this shortage is made good and some action taken by the grand lodge the St. Cloud brothers have no standing in the order.

The lodge members have since been placed in good standing the bondsmen of the financier making good the shortage.

Pastmistress for Motley.

Representative Morris has recommended the appointment of Elma L. Dalley as a widow of Charles Dalley, who died while in the employ of the railroad mail department, and as a daughter of Chas. H. Hedge, one of the leading citizens of Motley.

We Haven't Seen Her.

The Little Falls Transcript publishes a telegram from Brainerd stating that the new woman in new traveling brakes on top of freight cars. Her name is Mrs. Jessie Mulligan, the widow of James Mulligan, railroad conductor, who was killed on the Yellowstone division of the Northern Pacific railroad six months ago. Mrs. Mulligan is now employed by the Northern Pacific company in the capacity of freight train brakeman, and has been so employed for the past three months. She sits apart, complex cars, trunks and packages, and is the various other duties that are required of a brakeman.

CURRENT MISCELLANY.

Str Edwin Arnold, discoursing on the absolute duty of cheerfulness, says: "From the lowest of view hope is very cheap, and gloom acts as a powerful medicine. Sunshine has not a stronger effect in developing the beauty of flowers or the form of leaves than radiance of mind and lightness of heart in bringing forth all which is best in men and women."

From About Peace Overruled. A favorite subject of congressional legislation has been the amount of money loaned by the United States government to the railroads.

HIS CURIOUS ACCIDENT.

Narrow Escape From Being Made Struck by a Thunderbolt. James Larsen, an expressman of Stockton, Cal., had a narrow escape from being struck by a lightning bolt on the 18th of August.

He was moving a family to his Fair Oaks addition when Stockton was struck by an electrical display. A bolt struck in front of him, barely touching him. He was blind in the eye from which the bolt struck, but he was not hurt in any other way.

On examination the doctor found a splinter had pierced the eyelid and was resting on the eyeball. The piece of wood was removed, and the patient is gradually recovering. Mr. Larsen has a strong conviction of a stinging sensation when the flash of lightning occurred and he is of the opinion that the splinter was thrown in his eye from a piece of lumber which was some time after the flash struck the ground near him.

OUT OF THE SEA.

By CLARA AUGUSTA

"The sunset and grey pale as dawn. She had no long dreary had dawn. "Well," she said, a little laughingly. "I am not to meet her as a daughter, and to love her, not for her own sake, at least for mine. And she deserves even your love, for she is to be married."

"I know you think, my son, that one woman should never betray another's secrets. And perhaps she should not. But I hoped this fact might have an influence with you. "And it has not. I love only Maria. "Mother, will you accept her as I ask you?"

"Thank you," he said quietly. "I would afford me much pleasure, but I have no objection to your marrying her. "What a lovely blossom! Such a perfect little creature! How I wish I had you for my wife! My betrothed are by comparison. And the love which she has for me, how much more than I have for her!"

"I am glad because I want you for my wife. I love you. She is lovely on. I think, ever since she saw you at my feet, and I want you wholly for myself. "My mother is proud, but she loves me. And she will love my wife. Maria, she never deceives me. "What shall I say?"

FLORIDA LIZARDS.

These little creatures were about two inches in length, at a general dark green shade to grey, assimilating their color to the surrounding objects upon which they were found. They were very dexterous, and arranged several little corals, one with a white base, another with a green one, and another with a red one.

There is something mysterious and of color. When placed upon a green leaf, the lizard would imitate the color of the leaf, and become almost invisible. It is an admirable power, and it is not surprising that the lizard is so common in the tropics. It is a very beautiful animal, and it is not surprising that it is so common in the tropics.

ANCIENT POLITICAL "RINGS."

The evil of monopolies and rings was known to ancient Aristotle. He referred to them in his "Politics," and there, as now, it was found necessary to hold them in check by legislation, says Leonard Bacon. The monopolist was a Roman called a Darmanitas and punished under the law of Lex Julia de Annona. He was also punished under the law of Lex Julia de Pecunia Publica.

Mr. Currie's visit here was to begin the work of securing the right-of-way for the extension of the company's line from this city to Brainerd. While here he secured a plat of the town of Minnesota county through which the line will pass, and he left for Brainerd on the afternoon train. To the local agent Mr. Currie stated that it was the intention of the company to make all arrangements for the proposed lines immediately, and that work on the line would very likely begin as soon as the frost was out of the ground in the spring.—Transcript.

Some idea of the magnitude of the Veriscope picture of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons contest, which will be shown at Gardner hall next Monday evening, Jan. 17, will be gathered from the fact that there are shown upon the screen one hundred and forty three thousand odd pictures and that over two miles and one third of film passes before the lens of the Veriscope. There is a little doubt but that the taking of these pictures by Mr. Enoch Rector, the celebrated electrician and photographer, is one of the marvels of the nineteenth century photography. Every detail, from the start until the close of the contest is shown with startling distinctness, and the spaciousness of the exhibition has been one of the greatest the stage has ever known. The Veriscope and the picture make a complete evening's entertainment, running two hours and ten minutes.
