REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

It Should Be Elected in Every Instance. A Better Ticket Never Presented to the Voters of Crow Wing County.

The republicans certainly have occasion to feel proud of the county ticket which they are now asking the voters to support and vote for at the polls next Tuesday. It is a ticket made up of men so well known to our readers that a personal mention of each of the candidates would not seem necessary.

In each individual case the general fitness of the candidate has been considered and we doubt if the choice of the republican county convention could have been better.

A. MARLEN heads the ticket for county auditor. He is a gentleman who has been in public life in this county for many years and as an officer has always been found to be the right man in the right place.

For some time he has held the position of register of deeds and the records of his office have always been neatly kept and the business accurately attended to. He is peculiarly fitted for the office of auditor, being thoroughly conversant with the county business, and will be elected by a handsome majority.

W. A. JOHNSON is the candidate for county treasurer and he has no opposition which speaks volumes for his ability and ability to conduct the office in a manner satisfactory to all the people all the time. Mr. Johnson has served the people in the capacity of treasurer for several terms and has always been found courteous and obliging.

HENRY SPALDING received the republican nomination for sheriff and is before the people as a candidate for that responsible position. Mr. Spalding is well known to our readers and to probably four-fifths of the people in the county. He has served the people of the county as sheriff in former years and he was as able and efficient an officer as the county ever had. The office is one that every man cannot fill satisfactorily, and the sheriff should carefully guard the interests of the county and its people at all times. Mr. Spalding's former experience and general knowledge gives him a superior advantage over his opponents. He should receive the vote of every man in the county regardless of politics who stands for honest government and who desires to see the business of the county conducted in a fair and impartial manner.

M. C. STIVERS comes before the people as the republican candidate for register of deeds and his election is only the matter of a few days. He is thoroughly competent to fill the position and needs no commendation at our hands.

W. A. JOHNSON, who for the past six years has been deputy clerk of the district court at the republican candidate for clerk of the district court. Mr. Johnson's record is of the best as a public official and he has recommendations from the officers of the United States land office at St. Cloud of which office he has been an efficient clerk.

J. S. GARDNER is the republican nominee for county commissioner for the second district. Mr. Gardner has filled the same position before and is thoroughly conversant with the county's needs.

J. S. GARDNER is the republican nominee for county commissioner for the second district. Mr. Gardner has filled the same position before and is thoroughly conversant with the county's needs.

M. C. STIVERS has the nomination for the republican party for county commissioner in the fourth commissioner's district. Mr. Stivers is a gentleman thoroughly acquainted with the needs of the district and if elected will fill the office with credit to himself and all concerned.

M. C. STIVERS has the nomination for the republican party for county commissioner in the fourth commissioner's district. Mr. Stivers is a gentleman thoroughly acquainted with the needs of the district and if elected will fill the office with credit to himself and all concerned.

A. F. ALDERMAN the republican candidate for county attorney is a gentleman thoroughly qualified for the position. He is an attorney of well known reputation and the county's interests will be carefully guarded by him. Mr. Alderman has lived in Brainerd for many years and has hosts of friends all over the county who will be pleased to have the opportunity to cast a vote for him for this important position.

tion, regardless of politics. His election is a forgone conclusion.

Great Contention Act. As a contentionsist the Brainerd Journal has few equals and no superior. What the Dispatch said of the Journal two weeks ago is borne out by the fact that the paper went to press this morning, coming out squarely for Henry Spalding for sheriff. J. H. Smith, for city assessor and several other of the local republican candidates. Bro. Stivers was away from the city, but arrived home on the 3:15 train this morning, and when he found that his temporary "independent republican" editor and manager had had the audacity to go to press without his consent he tore his hair, and he also tore up the edition that had not already gotten into circulation. In fact he tore the newspaper apart to pieces, lifting out the items that did not suit him in relation to the candidates he did not desire to support, and inserted a half dozen boom for Buckman. The second edition of the political contentionsist also supports J. H. Koop for mayor, someone that the supposed editor of the paper, Mr. Smith, had not thought of until Stivers told him he must do it. The fact that Mr. Smith came out in support of A. J. Halsted for mayor two weeks ago in a very flattering notice did not deter him from keeping to his policy of not knowing where he was at any of the time.

The Journal has received some very cheap advertising from its two editions, and they are being compared side by side in various places, and have made the paper and the two men who are each trying to be editor of the laughing stock of the city.

It is generally understood that the opposition at the last moment will circulate dirty campaign lies to the detriment of the republican legislators. It is too late to counteract the effect. The Brainerd Journal is getting desperate and the public is warned to pay no attention to them.

An independent republican newspaper one like the Brainerd Journal claims to be, is a paper whose editor has nothing to say regarding what shall appear in its editorial columns. If the editor desires to support a candidate on the republican ticket he must get the consent of the former owner. The former owner at all times reserves the right to stop the press and change the policy of the paper even in the middle of the edition. In fact the gentleman whose name appears at the head of the paper as editor and proprietor is merely a figure-head who doesn't even know when his paper goes to press or what it will contain when it is printed.

Look on This and Then on That. The Brainerd Journal as an independent republican paper on Oct. 6, contained the following in regard to Bro. Halsted's candidacy:

We congratulate Editor Halsted of the Tribune, upon his nomination for the mayoralty. Never was an honor more worthily bestowed upon a faithful and able republican. If the republicans of the city of Brainerd will work as hard for Mr. Halsted as he has worked for all the candidates of the party in the past, his majority will be a handsome one, and a fit tribute to a brainy man and tireless party worker.

Today the Journal, under the leadership of Bro. Stivers, comes out in favor of J. H. Koop for mayor and urges all the people to vote for him. DIED.

Mr. Pauline Betzold, aged 75 years died on Saturday, Oct. 29, at her home in East Brainerd from infirmities of old age. The funeral was conducted on Monday morning from St. Francis Catholic church, Rev. Fr. Lynch officiating. Deceased was the mother of Mrs. E. Poppeberg, and Henry and Miss Kate Betzold of this city.

Walter Gray, aged 68 years, died on Sunday of pneumonia, the remains being taken to Girardville on Monday. Deceased was a brother of Justus Gray of this city.

To the Business Men. Who has always had the interests of Brainerd at heart and who still labors for your interests and has the interests of the city still at heart? Remember this when you mark your ballot for municipal judge on next Tuesday and vote for A. L. Hoffman.

BETTER AVOID IT.

If Clothing is offered you and the price seems reasonable, and yet the quality isn't there, better pass it by. It's a waste of money to invest in such. It's the most unsatisfactory kind of purchasing. The satisfactory kind is what we encourage. No other plan satisfies us. The quality must be there. The value must be there. The style must be there. Perfect satisfaction goes with clothing that is the best in quality. There's no other right way. Ours is a store in which quality is the first consideration, followed by prices the most reasonable.

"I was right," said the old lady, nodding her head. "You have the Heberling temper, Johnnie Sutherland, Oh, that I were a man to gang in your place! But you shall follow them with the swiftness of youth and the keenness of injured love."

A few minutes later, Sutherland left the castle, fully authorized to bring Marjorie back if possible, while she remained in the shape of a large sum of money, which Miss Heberling thrust upon him.

Left to himself in the lonely castle, the lady retired to her private apartments, and there gave up all thought of her servant and the dear Marjorie, and turned her thoughts to the matter of her money, but love was there, too—the intense love of motherhood, which for nearly eighteen years had been flickering secretly like a torch fire.

Sitting in her arm-chair, her head leaning back and her eyes fixed wildly on the window's glimmering square and the drowsy prospect beyond, she fell into a troubled dream of the past.

Again she was a proud, passionate girl, reckless in her coming and goings, caring for nothing but the world, but the smiles of one man and frowning nothing but the anger of another brother, in whom the fiercest hatred of the male Heberlings ran twice fiercer, fiercer, but not wiser.

So haughty and unlovable had she seemed, so stubborn and capricious, that only one man had dared to woo her, that man her father's and her brother's enemy, the Duke of Northampton. She had met in secret, and she with characteristic audaciousness, had loved him better for the feud that might have torn them asunder. And at last, in a wild moment of passion, she had placed herself at his mercy, and had loved him without fear or constraint or the shadow of a misgiving.

Then, in the terror and amazement, both came the knowledge that she was about to become a mother.

Not till she confessed her situation to him did she discover that the hate she bore her family was justified, and that she had loved a villain. For almost simultaneously came the news that he was about to marry the daughter of an English earl. She hated him with it, and she scarcely told the trouble to do so. It could never, he said, quite himself with one of her house.

How it came about she scarcely knew, but one night when she met her lover and faced him with wild up-braiding, a hand like iron was laid upon her arm, and turning, she saw her brother Hugh. Then, for almost each other, there were a few words, a blow, and she saw her lover's face red and bleeding as she exposed herself with one of her house.

As if that night when Hugh Heberling sought her in this way, he was where she was now sitting, and that hearing it, had struck her, too, with the thought of that time, she rose fleetly and looked into the glass. Yes, the marks were there yet, she would carry it to her grave. Her own face was ghastlier yet, she remembered what had followed. How her wild brother left the place and was absent for many days and how, just after he returned and drove her forth, the read in a newspaper that Lord Lockman, of the great Lockmans of the Border, had just died suddenly in his 32d year, somewhere abroad. There was no scandal; the world did not even know how Lockman perished, but she knew that he had fallen by the hand of Hugh Heberling, in a duel fought with swords on foreign soil.

At the darkness, the horror, the desolation of the next few months! No one but her brother knew her secret, and he kept it tight, so that the world heard nothing of it. The brother and sister had quarrelled, and that had left the castle to dwell, temporarily at least, apart. No one wondered. The Heberling temper was well known. A by-word; it was an actual that such a brother and sister should hate each other as that swords should clash, or fire and torrent should dispart.

Creeping in secret to a town upon the English border, she had hidden her shame among the poorest of the poor. No one knew her, no one suspected who she was, and she was some lonely woman who had gone astray in a mad moment, too common among her class. Then at last her little one was born, and she, sitting and reviewing it all, dreading memory's phantom images

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Threshing Operations.—Transactions and Reports.

Soil Water and Crop.

To make one ton of dry matter in one grain crop, the use of from 300 to 500 tons of water is necessary. In Wisconsin, King found that a two-ton crop of oat hay required over one thousand tons of water per acre, equal to about six inches of rainfall. The average rate for field crops at large given by European observers at 135 times the weight of dry matter produced, being at the rate of about three inches of rainfall actually evaporated through the plant.

To irrigate this water, it is necessary that the ground containing the roots should not be too full of water. One would suppose that with water flooding the roots of the plants the water would be able to take both food and water to the plants. This is not the case, except with aquatic and semi-aquatic plants. With most plants the action of the roots stops at the point where they reach "moor" water. Thus if at the surface there is a depth of a few feet the soil is too dry to permit of the roots taking any of the water, and if the water comes to the surface, it is so abundant that the plants cannot take it. This is the case with most plants, and it is the cause of much of the failure of the farmer to get crops in bearing condition. In a many cases the ground is so saturated that a great deal of the constant irrigation of the crops in the early stages of their growth is due to the shallowness of rootlets, and the fact that the soil is so saturated that the plants are unable to get any water. This is the case with most plants, and it is the cause of much of the failure of the farmer to get crops in bearing condition.

Pruning Ornamental Shrubs.

Shrubs may be pruned at any season of the year, but the best time is in the late summer and early fall. It is better to prune them in the late summer and early fall, when the plants are still growing, and they will have time to heal their wounds before winter sets in. What a beautiful subject for a woman to take up! It is a subject that is full of interest and importance. It is a subject that is full of interest and importance. It is a subject that is full of interest and importance.

The Towne shooters are getting down hearted.

Remember the legislative ticket.

A vote for C. A. Towne means a vote to enrich millionaire silver mine owners.

A vote for Buckman means a vote against C. K. Davis for the United States senate.

The republican legislative ticket should receive the vote of every man in the county.

If you favor hard times, free silver and repudiation, vote for John Lind. Otherwise your vote for governor should be cast for W. H. Enstie.

The workmen of Northern Minnesota, who felt friendly toward Towne have changed their minds since they discovered that he lobbied against the lumber tariff.

Every republican in the county should consider it his duty to go to the polls on Tuesday and cast his vote for honest government.

The Buckman boomers are getting desperate and have started dirty campaign lies calculated to injure W. M. Fuller.

We ask the voters to compare the two men and their records and are willing to trust to their decision.

On the other hand Mr. Fuller has received the republican nomination and is before the people as their candidate.

Buckman halted the ticket and now has the gall to ask republicans to vote for him.

The Minneapolis Tribune is issuing a series of tables giving the wages and local industries in the city in 1896 and also in 1908.

The Little Falls Democrat very pertinently remarks: Buckman, Meyer, Shaw, Vandy and Silvers are working on the still-better plan.

SOME USEFUL HINTS.

Sometimes These Will Prove Very Convenient to Residents of Brainerd.

Did it ever strike the reader that when mankind takes sick, if all the stories we hear about the miraculous cures performed by medical preparations are true, how they could possibly help being cured, and why for the same reason they should die?

Did it ever strike the reader that some of the commonest ailments which afflict mankind, had a very small beginning, and had the trouble been checked in time an immense amount of suffering and a vast amount of money would have been spared the victim?

Mr. A. E. Lossy, of the firm of Lossy & Dean, undertakers and embalmers on Front St., he should be pleased with what brought about much cordial results.

They are warned that they will neglect the warning, complicated difficulties follow; they begin to realize their danger and anxiously look for some agent to relieve them.

After trying half a dozen remedies and probably consulting a physician, they find their physical condition far from improved.

Now when an unfolding remedy like that which Mr. Lossy tested and proved to be up to its representations, is offered Brainerd people, would it not be the height of folly to ignore such valuable information?

Here is the proof of it: Continuing Mr. Lossy says: "I prepared one box at Mr. Swartz's drug store, and I believe that it helped me. I take pleasure in recommending them for backache, etc."

A man by the name of Fritsham who lives some miles out in the country had the misfortune to break his leg while in the city Tuesday. The accident occurred at the bridge which crosses the ditch in the ravine on the East Brainerd road. Fritsham and another man were leaving the bridge and a race ensued to see which would reach it first, and the teams crowded onto the bridge together and both rigs were upset. The injured man was taken to the Lumberman's hospital for treatment.

An All Hallows' party was given at Walker Hall on Monday evening. About 40 young people were present. The hall was lighted by candles placed in pumpkins from which pieces had been cut in such a manner as to produce the Jack-o-lantern of the small boy. The effect of the lights arranged in this manner was weird, and was heightened by the costumes of the guests who were all dressed in sheets with pillow cases arranged for masks. It was a ghastly appearing crowd indeed. Cake and ice cream was served and dancing was indulged in. A very pleasant time is reported.

Speeches at Deerwood and Ft. Ripley.

Gen. Barclay Murdered.

Gen. Barclay was murdered in cold blood at Pine River on Saturday and up to date no clue has been obtained as to who did the deed. Mr. Barclay was sitting on the bar room of the hotel smoking a cigar and conversing with four or five men when some assassin fired a gun, the ball passing through the window glass striking Mr. Barclay in the neck cutting the jugular vein and imbedded itself in a pine post that supported the ceiling in the bar room. Mr. Barclay dropped from his chair to the floor and bled to death without uttering a word.

Sheriff Hardy was at once notified and a coroner's inquest was held on Monday but nothing that would point to who perpetrated the deed was discovered, the verdict being "that Gen. A. Barclay came to his death by a gun shot from the hands of some person unknown to the jury."

The remains were brought to this city yesterday and buried from the Episcopal church, Pat Thomas Post G. A. B. having charge of the services. Mr. Barclay having been a member of that organization for some time. The deceased was probably a well known man in Northern Minnesota as any other man, having followed the business of lumbering and carried on a general mercantile business at Pine River for some years.

LOUIS TACHS, Co. Auditor.

Statement from W. A. M. Johnston.

To the Public—

Information has just come to me, from sources which I know to be reliable, that my opponent for the office of Clerk of the District court has represented to many of the voters of this county that the income derived by him as clerk for the past four years has been practically nominal and that I have received the benefit of his official position.

This is so far wide of the facts that, as well as just to me, that consideration be given the following statement of the receipts of the clerk's office for the year 1896. I happen to have the statement for 1896 already made up for another purpose, and would be glad to submit for consideration a statement of the receipts of the office for the years 1895, 1897, and 1898, but it is not possible for me to prepare such statements within the limited time at my disposal. I will make in adding, however, that the years 1895 and 1897 did not vary materially in the matter of receipts from the year 1896.

The year 1898 would show, undoubtedly, a very material shrinkage because of the organization of Cass county, but allowing a shrinkage of one-half for 1898 and placing the average of all three years, 1895, 1896, 1897, and 1898, the total receipt for all these years will be $8,800. I do not of my services as deputy clerk, and it is plain that Mr. Farber has come into possession of about $6,350 more than he is entitled to.

I regret to make this statement and I hoped that newspaper denunciations of matters pertaining to this campaign might be avoided, so far as my candidacy is concerned. I confess I have some gross perversion of facts, carrying with it a possible intimation against the books of the organization of Cass county, but I can assure that the clerk's office for the benefit of any one is an infinitely interested to open to him and make an examination as these are matters of public record, and open to every body.

The following are the receipts for 1898 referred to—$3423.59

It has been reported that I am a single man, with no one dependent upon me, and that I am a pauper. I am now and have been for nearly ten years past the sole support of an aged father and mother.

Respectfully yours,
W. A. M. Johnston.
