

THE BRAINER DISPATCH.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

VOLUME 17, NUMBER 52.

BRAINER, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1895.

INGERSOLL & WIELAND, PUBLISHERS

Sunday services at the Y. M. C. A.
 Rev. A. H. Carver, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will deliver an address at the men's gospel meeting Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, the topic being "The Arithmetic of Life." All men of the city are invited to attend and get acquainted with the new pastor. Miss Mabel Davis will sing and the Vaude Walker orchestra will furnish instrumental music.
 Ladies are invited to the social hour 4:30 to 5:30, the services being in charge of Rev. Bird of the People's church.
 All literary people, ladies and gentlemen, are invited to be present Monday evening, Dec. 12th, at which time a literary society will be organized.
 Basket ball will be indulged in Saturday evening in the gymnasium between the Whites and Reds. Free admission to members of the Association.
 The Association now has a splendid night school and every young man in the city should improve in the winter evenings. The teachers are: Mechanical Drawing—Mr. H. C. Archibald; French—Miss M. J. Pennington; Book Keeping—Miss Mabel Davis; Orchestra—Miss Mabel Davis; Vaude Walker.

THE JOURNAL PROPERTY SOLD.

The Brainerd Journal newspaper property, consisting of printing outfit, subscription list and subscription accounts, also the business and good will of the paper, have been sold by the undersigned to Messrs. Ingersoll & Wieland, publishers and proprietors of the Brainerd Dispatch, who have taken possession and added the Journal subscription list to that of the Dispatch, giving that paper a circulation ranking with the most prominent newspapers in the entire northern half of the state. The reported recent sale of the Journal property to Geo. H. Smith was not perfected, Mr. Smith having failed to make the required payment.
 Although the Dispatch differs from the Journal politically, I am glad to have been able finally to turn over the Journal subscription list to a newspaper that has in the past, and will in the future, ably and fully cover the local field of news, and meet in a comprehensive way every requirement necessary to satisfy in the highest degree its very large number of readers. As it is known by everybody here, the Journal has always had a remarkably large circulation, and the combination of two such subscription lists for the use of one publication has very rarely occurred in this state outside of St. Paul and Minneapolis. For the present, and perhaps permanently, I sincerely thank all friends and past patrons, and wish them unbounded happiness.
 Dated, Brainerd, Dec. 7, 1895.
 H. C. STIVERS.

SANTA CLAUS SECRET.
 The Plaza Found Where He Gets The Rest of His Presents.
 'Twas the night before Christmas, When all in the house, Not a creature was stirring, Not even a mouse.
 The stockings were all hung 'Round the chimney with care, Hoping good St. Nicholas Would soon be there.
 The children were all tucked Warmly in their beds, With visions of sugar plums, Dancing thro' their head, Mamma with her kerchief, And I in my cap, Were quietly settling our minds For a long winter's nap.
 When out on the snowy lawn, There arose such a clatter, Lapping from my bed To see what was the matter.
 I hastened to the window As quick as a flash, To see what my dear father, And lifted up the sash.
 There, by the moonlight, Which made it so bright as day, I saw six little deer, With a little fat quiver,
 So lively and quick, I was in a minute, That it must be St. Nick.
 The sleigh was well loaded With dolls, stock and toys, Such as always bring pleasure To boys and girls and toys.
 There were tin horns and drums, And toys of every kind, And such packages were marked, "From Nutting's News Stand."
 And I said to myself, "This Nutting surely is 'A neat fellow of Santa Claus," I shall see for myself.
 And I turned with a jerk, Almost went down the chimney To fetch my good work.
 I put on my clothing, And hurried that around, Dressed my nose overcoat, And started off for town.
 "This man strange," I remarked, "I said my words aloud, The place is easy to find, I must follow the crowd."
 I followed all the people, And soon found the store, Filled with holiday articles, From cutting to the floor.
 They were all anxious, And they looked me over, Of the stock of good things, That packed up close to the door.
 There were candies, nuts and fruits, Tree ornaments and Xmas cards To suit the most fastidious, And poetic books by the barrels, Toys and toys for the young, Cigars and pipes for the old, I saw everything that is kept Where the best is always sold.
 Now kind, good hearted friends, Let me advise you once more, Don't buy your Christmas presents, Without visiting Nutting's store, And you will hear Santa Claus say again,
 "Peace on earth, and good will to men."
 Sunday Schools and Church Societies should call as well.
 He has tree ornaments, nuts, fruits and candies to sell. The prices and quality can't be beat.
 Next south of the Post-Office on Seventh Street.
MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL.
 I. A. NUTTING.

OUR PRICES

Are just right—neither too low nor too high. We do our work in a way that is appreciated by sensible people. You are required to pay cash for our services and we give you in return our best results. The rule of charging prices which do not amount to make good the bills of those who don't pay is what we think absurd and unjust.

To the Voters Seeking the Spoils.
 On January 1, 1896, John Lind will take his seat as governor of the great state of Minnesota and if reports are true there will be a turning over in the affairs of state so far as appointments under the hand of the governor are concerned that will be interesting to watch, and the populists and democrats in every county are preparing to receive their reward for faithful work and adherence to the cause. This county is no exception to the rule and accordingly on Tuesday evening a meeting of the populist committee consisting of Peter Walters, E. E. Sisson, P. G. Fogelstrom, J. M. Hayes, Solomon Johnson, A. Olson, John Meland, C. M. Jacobson, A. Everett, T. C. Kerr, John Ryan and S. W. Quinn, was held at the home of the populist committee of considering the claims of candidates in connection with a committee from the democratic organization whose names the reporter failed to learn.
 Charles M. Jacobson made a formal application for enforcement for the position of factory inspector and as a result will receive the support of both the populists and democrats of this county. Mr. Jacobson is a thoroughly capable man for the position of a first class mechanic, and a gentleman worthy of the united endorsement that he receives. We understand that he will also have the support of influential friends in other parts of the state.
 The committee also passed a resolution recommending J. E. Johnson as an appointment in the gift of Gov. Lind. If persistent and faithful work is done for anything Mr. Johnson is certainly entitled to recognition and will undoubtedly succeed in his ambition.
 It was decided that the two local appointments, that of deputy game warden and deputy oil inspector, should be divided between the populists and democrats and P. G. Fogelstrom was endorsed by the populists and democrats and T. C. Kerr was endorsed by the populists and democrats.
 G. W. Merrill and T. C. Kerr were candidates for the populist endorsement as deputy oil inspector.

Dress Skirts—a nice assortment just arrived at Parker's, next to N. W. Bank.
 Bids for Bridge Called For.
 The city council met on Monday evening with all members present. Officers' reports were read and routine business transacted. President Crust announced the following standing committees: Finance and Taxes—Adair, Cohen, Low and Fogelstrom. Purchasing Printing and City Property—Low, Adair, Jamieson and Keagy. Streets, Sidewalks and Bridges—Candner, Halliday, Johnson and Keagy. Electric Lights—Halliday, Jamieson, Adair and Cohen. Fire Department, Water Works and Fire Protection—Johnson, Jamieson, Low and Fogelstrom. Health, Sewerage, Police, and all Matters Pertaining to Police—Keagy, Fogelstrom, Cohen and Candner. Report of special committees appointed to prepare plans and specifications for the construction of a white pine bridge across the bridge to East Brainerd, stating the same work in course of preparation and that it would be in the clerk's hands by 25th, also recommending that it be considered for bids on same was read and accepted.
 In accordance with the above the clerk was instructed to advertise for sealed bids for a bridge across the ravine from Kingsroad to Kindred streets, according to plans and specifications on file bids to be opened Dec. 10th.

 L. M. Page was elected superintendent of electric lights for the ensuing year.
 A number of bids were allowed and other minor business transacted and the council adjourned.

Mortuary Record.
 Mrs. Rosalie Nutterberg, aged 36 years, died last evening, 8:25 Barr street, St. Paul, on Friday, Dec. 2nd, the immediate cause of her death being kidney trouble. The remains were brought to this city on Tuesday, the funeral services being held from the Episcopal church, Rev. C. F. Rite officiating, after which the remains were laid to rest in Evergreen Cemetery beside those of her husband who died some seven years ago. The deceased was an estimable lady and was well known to many of our readers, having resided in this city for several years previous to her husband's death. She leaves a family of four children, Miss Emma and Rose Nutterberg, Mr. John Lewis Charles and Robert Nutterberg, of St. Paul, and Edna Nutterberg, of Butte, Montana, all of whom were in attendance at the funeral services.
 The Pioneer Press, a Wednesday says: "Christian M. Switzer, a printer, who was taken suddenly ill Monday, and conveyed to the city hospital, died yesterday morning. Mr. Switzer was thirty-nine years old and was a member of the local Typographical Union. His wife and family reside at 408 1/2 Peter street. A post-mortem examination will be held today. Mr. Switzer was a member of the Iron Workers' union. During the war he was a member of the Fourteenth Minnesota volunteers. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon."
 W. S. Hanks lost a horse recently. The stealing is very fine in the woods.
 We are pleased to see Myra Scott in our locality once more.
 Mr. G. Christmann has bought a fine coat from Christ Wilson. Christ Wilson will celebrate Xmas by furnishing his new license stand sign.
 David Burden has killed two wild cats and several deer since he went hunting.
 Mr. and Mrs. Seale have promised to assist in the musical program by Christmas.
 Peterson has sold a large quantity and lumber to the man has contrived to get into his lake hole. R. Hunt will attend the church in his new church at Deer. Vlesher and Johnson will attend school winter. Carrier, Walter Archibald, a smiling face, is up and out. There is a new bill house.
 A son has left this night. I moved into his new house. She will be loved by her old neighbors. It is a Christmas tree at the Palace and Edith's, also at Mrs. McCall on the Brainerd road.

To Our Patrons.

THE DISPATCH and the Weekly Journal have been consolidated, the proprietors of this paper having bought the Journal newspaper plant including the subscription list and accounts and good will of that paper. The subscription list of the DISPATCH has been added to that of the DISPATCH, thus giving us the largest list of any weekly paper published north of the Twin Cities. All our advertisers will appreciate as well as the publishers. The Journal has been published in this city for seven years, and the names of many of the subscribers to that paper who started in with the first issue are still to be found on the books, and the Journal to them had become a household necessity, but in assuming proprietorship of the list the DISPATCH hopes and expects to give each and every one of its now patrons value received, and if we are not greatly mistaken before the year is over it will have been proven to them that the change has been beneficial to all concerned. The DISPATCH is the official paper of the county and has been for fifteen years, and as such the official proceedings of the county's doings have monthly appeared in its columns, and there is not a citizen or taxpayer of the county who is not interested in the county government, and in addition to the local and general news our new subscribers will find that they are fully informed as to the doings of the government when they have elected to legislate for them in their capacity as county commissioners.

In place of the Journal this week the subscribers to that paper will receive the DISPATCH which will be continued, those having paid in advance for that paper being given credit on our books, and those who arrears will receive a statement of their account in due time, and the publishers hope to be able to give entire satisfaction to all, so much so that not one of the old subscribers will desire his name dropped from the list.

The consolidation of the two papers gives us a wider field for operation and reaching now as we do every nook and corner of the county and almost every home in the city it will be our aim to give our patrons a newspaper in every sense of the word.

It is stated that President McKinley's message was read with much interest in Madrid.

SPAIN can use that twenty millions as a nucleus with which to establish a new navy of which they are badly in need.

In Admiral Dewey proves his ability to protect himself from the politicians now he will have won another victory.

ROBERTS, of Utah, congressman-elect, is expected to keep very quiet during his term of office, his three wives anticipating doing all the talking for him.

SENATOR HARRIS, of Kansas, attributes the defeat of the Populist party in that state to poor crops, good prices, good times generally, and a good national administration.

The habit of cutting down telegraph wires by the Cubans when they wish to take their hay will have to be stopped now as the custom is not strictly up-to-date, remarks an exchange.

A PROMINENT candidate for the position of chief clerk of the house at the coming session is J. B. Bergstrom, of Minneapolis. The gentleman was formerly a resident of Brainerd and his many friends in this section would be pleased to see him thus honored.

THERE are several of the faithful in this city who are wondering if Governor Lind will give them the fact that they have fought, bled, and almost died for their party, to these many years, and receive them as cordially. Speak right up today for the best is none too good for any of us so long as the pie is being passed around.

Our law makers at St. Paul this winter will again have a row with the measure to extend the term of county auditors to four years. The bill has been before the last two legislatures and was defeated each time, probably for the reason that it was an attempt to legislate into office for two years the auditors then holding the positions.

ANALYSTS will do well to consult the DISPATCH if they wish to fold return for their money. With the combined circulation of the DISPATCH and Weekly Journal the advantages offered are exceeded by no weekly newspaper in Northern Minnesota. If you wish to get your bargains before the people an advertisement in the DISPATCH will reach them all.

The idea advanced by State Auditor Dunn for a mock election during each campaign in every school district in the state has considerable merit. The suggestion is that the coming legislature pass a law authorizing such a proceeding, and that sample official ballots such as furnished by the state be used, the ballots to be cast exclusively by school children above the primary grades, the teacher to have charge and to outline a course of instruction covering all matters with reference to marking and depositing the ballot. This would not only educate the coming generation but would interest many ignorant fathers and thereby impart information to be reached in no other way.

The President's Message.

No annual message of the president for many years has been awaited with more interest and anxiety than the message of President McKinley to the congress which convened on Monday last. The country has the past year been passing through a new crisis in its history and the people were anxious to learn what the intentions of the chief executive were in regard to the new territories captured from the Spaniards. In this they were disappointed, as President McKinley did not think it proper to discuss his disposition until the peace treaty was ratified, and his position is certainly right. The message contained a review of the causes leading to the war with Spain, and a brief but graphic description of the war and its triumph. He settled the Cuban question by declaring it to be the intention to establish a stable and independent government for Cuba. A territorial government for Hawaii was recommended, and currency reform in the bill with republican principles was urged. The message is universally pronounced one of the ablest state papers emanating from our chief executive.

James Will Harwood Them.

Fourteen Chipewau Indians near Park Rapids have been openly violating the game laws for some time past, and the other day when the authorities attempted to arrest them they with one accord resisted, and now swear to kill the first officer who attempts their capture. It will now be in order for Gas. Bennett to get out among these savages and tell them that the government, the timber-thieves and the white men generally are heaping untold injuries upon them and for them to set the newspaper reporters who are so readily worked and misled by the missionaries, Jones, who will come out and feed them for a few weeks on oysters, olives, celery and port wine, and then go back to Washington to give their another chance to defy the law and perhaps murder a score of soldiers or officers.

Overlooked Names THE REIS.

Matchless Pianos and Organs are unequalled in tone, touch, workmanship and durability, receiving the Highest Honors at the World's Fair in 1893, Gold Medal at the Omaha exposition in 1898, and are endorsed by all teachers of music in Brainerd, and musicians of the world. Why run chances on cheap instruments, get up to well without reputation, with stained cases, and which are good only for a few months. Then you wonder why your instrument needs tuning so often? The W. W. Williams sells as cheaply as any of them on monthly payments, and you are sure to get a square deal.

HARD TO EXPLAIN.

If This Had Occurred Anywhere Else Than in Brainerd There Might Be Grave Doubts About It.

If this were published anywhere else than in Brainerd, that is, if the statement given below went, the rounds of the press, readers in Boston, New Orleans would not believe it. In the very nature of things men and women will not believe that a simple little pill will have any effect on humanity when the subject is in a serious condition. When it has that effect, when the party is a living witness, perhaps a neighbor, brained people at least, cannot possibly deny it—particularly so where investigation is resorted to. Now ask Mr. James Parker, who lives at 27 Second Ave., East Brainerd, carpenter, and see if he will not corroborate personally what he says publicly.

Mr. Parker says: "Four years ago I was as stout and healthy a man as could be, when I was attacked by the grippe. Every winter since I have had it and have been unable to shake it off its effects. My back commenced to pain me across the kidney, a numb sort of aching which I felt always over the same spot, even when I was at rest. I was also troubled with headaches which I think arose from my kidneys. Early last spring I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Smart's drug store, and took them for a week. They have been much better in general health. I have no more attacks of headache, no more backache, and regard it as quite wonderful that anything in the shape of pills could bring about such a change. You may say to others publicly what I have stated, and I will tell people about it myself."

"What is that to you?" said he. "I have many things to do which you cannot understand."

"And there are things which I can understand," returned Marjorie quietly. "Then she showed him the letter which she had received, and asked calmly, 'is this true?'"

"Yes," he returned. "My friend, Mademoiselle Desperance, is entertaining and my wife is not; when a man has a little leisure, he goes not to the society of the distant companion of his acquaintance."

"He quietly went on eating his breakfast, as if the subject were at an end. For a while Marjorie watched him, her face white as death, then she went to him and knelt at his feet."

"You think this is the way to love me back?" he said. "I am more likely to drive me away, for, look you, I dislike these knees and I hate these hands which demand that I keep cool. There dry your eyes and let me finish my meal in peace."

"At that time nothing more was said, but once he was free of the house, Cassidore reflected over what had taken place. He was in some trouble as to what he must do. To abandon Marjorie meant abandoning the cause which laid him golden eggs, for without the supplies which Miss Hinchington sent to her daughter, where would Cassidore be?"

"One afternoon, as he was about to return home in his usual frame of mind, an incident occurred which aroused in his mind a feeling more exactly of jealousy, but of less moral indignation. He saw, from the window of a shop where he was making a purchase, Marjorie and little Leon pass by in company with a young man whom he recognized at a glance. His eyes crept to the door, and looked after them, scarcely able to believe his eyes."

"Half an hour later, when he reached home, he found Marjorie quietly waiting in the salon. "Leon," cried Marjorie, startled by his manner, "is anything the matter?"

hear the truth from me. You are no wife of mine!" she cried.

"Not your wife!" she cried. "Certainly not! My mistress, if you please, who has been suffering for a time to wear my arms; that is all!"

"Which are so much waste paper, my dear, here in France?"

"Stick with horror and fear, the letter to him and clutched him by the arm. 'Leon! once more: what do you mean?'"

"My meaning is very simple," he replied. "The marriage of an English woman with a French citizen is no marriage unless the civil ceremony has also been performed in France. Now, do you understand?"

"I am not your wife! Not your wife!" cried Marjorie, stupefied.

"Not here in France," answered Cassidore.

"Then the child—our child?"

"You are reasonable he replied. 'If you are reasonable he can easily be legitimated according to our laws; but nothing on earth can make us two mad men and a wife so long as I remain on French soil.'

FOR WOMAN AND HOME.

General Items of Interest for Maids and Matrons.—The Home.

Alas. (Written by Robert J. Burdette, the American humorist, on the death of his wife, Mrs. Burdette, who was in his room to pass as a writer of humorous matter for the Burlington Hawkeye, and to write to him as a lecturer and contributor to periodicals.)

Since she went home— The evening shadows linger longer here. The winter days fill so much of the year And even winter shows no chill and cheer.

Since she went home— The old glad songs breathe but a sad refrain. And laughter soon with hidden bitter tears.

Since she went home— How still the empty rooms her presence Unchained the pillows that her dear head pressed.

Since she went home— My lonely heart hath nowhere for its rest. Since she went home— The long, long days have crept away like thieves.

Since she went home— The moonlight has been dimmed with doubt and fear. And the dark nights have rained in tears.

Since she went home— Books on Cookery. "What does cookery mean? It means the knowledge of Meats, and of Cereals, and of Oily, and of Herbs, and of Fruits, and of the Queen of Spices."

Since she went home— Colors in all fashionable millinery. A black velvet capote is worn jauntily on the side of the hat. A fold of brightly lined ribbon, terminating in a fascinating rosette, is placed to the left side against the hair.

FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN. Great grandmother and the science of modern chemistry, and French art and Arabian hospitality. It means, in fine, that you are to see imperatively that everyone has something nice to eat.

After Richard Brierley the physician had made his great speech in Westminster Hall, asking for the impeachment of Warren Hastings, Edmund Burke said: He has this day surprised the thousands who were assembled to witness his speech by such an Array of talents, such an exhibition of capacity, such a display of power as are unparalleled in the annals of oratory; a display that reflected the highest honor on himself, honor upon letters, renown upon civilization, glory upon the country. Of all species of rhetoric, of every kind of eloquence, either in ancient or modern times, whatever the accessories of the bar, the dignity of the senate, the solemnity of the judgment seat and the sacred morality of the pulpit, have hitherto furnished, nothing has equalled what we have this day heard. No holy seer of religion, no statesman, no orator, no man of any literary description whatever, has come up, in one instance, to the pure sentiment of morality; or, in the other, to that variety of knowledge, force of imagination, propriety and vivacity of allusion, beauty and elegance of diction, strength and consistency of style, pathos and sublimity of conception, to which we this day listened with rapt and admiring attention.

A New Sign. "When a woman," said the corned philosopher, "says that she really believes she is getting fat, and her husband retorts that it is because she eats too much and doesn't do enough work, it is safe in presumption that the honeymoon has ceased to be a blissful but dull time."

black silk scrolls applied and outlined with black beads. The blue collar is lined with black velvet. The outside of the collar is composed of two cream colored lace ruffles and a narrow putting of black velvet. A band of face falls at either side of the front, terminating into a narrow ruff about the edge of the entire case.

Three folds of white ribbon, and a band of velvet fasten the cape at the throat. The black velvet hat is somewhat hollow in shape and is worn on one side of the head. The inside of the hat is lined with white ribbon, and on the right side against the hair. One rounder end and two loops of black

Make it a Point

To Get the Best Every Time, When You Buy Medicines.

Health is too valuable to be trifled with, no one experiments. Get Moore's Sarsaparilla and get well. It has the best medicine money can buy. It is the medicine that more than all others, you have every reason to expect it will do for you what it has done for others.

Moore's Sarsaparilla is America's Greatest Medicine. Price 25. Moore's Pills are the favorite cathartic.

By Way of Advice. "My son," said the Turkey Cook to the little girl who sat at his side as the Pooling Player went by, "take that young man as your model. Which he begged to train, do you see, and perhaps by the time Thanksgiving Day comes you will get your success so hard and our weight so fine that you will be a winner in the game in which our family is so often the loser."—Harper's Bazar.

Plain English. "Mamma, what is that 'oldest' 'emous' said Nellie, the other day, in a somewhat puzzled manner.

"What is it you want?" he inquired, somewhat puzzled.

"I want a half-dozen 'emous,'" replied the little one, half-puzzled; "don't you know a half-dozen is six?"—Truth.

The Joke on Boggs. "Old Beeton has a mighty good joke on Boggs. Beeton let Boggs a lot of election. See?"

"Well, Beeton lost, and Boggs went down the ladder to get a last and have it changed to Beeton. Catch on?"

"Well, the ladder wouldn't catch it, ha, ha, ha!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Nervous Invalid. "You say your wife is much stronger, but that she is feeling worse. It doesn't quite understand."

"It's simple enough. She can be as sick only her strength will permit, and, naturally, the more strength she has the worse she can feel."—Judge.

Mr. Winslow's Boasting System. Testimonials from various sources in support of the Boasting System.

A Convict of Evidence. "The man who stole the identity of the prisoner (earnestly)—P. de Lavenex, male, will identify me as a man who has been in the jail of a convict camp in six months."—Truth.

Crowded. If people use the new-fashioned bread and butter plates, knives, rests, etc., which are now being introduced, they will not be room on the table for a man to put his elbows—Albion.

How He Made It. The Jay—And did our congressman have since that when he made his first speech?

The Jay—Oh, no. He handed it to the printer, as usual, as you please—Albion.

Against Complacence. The Tutor—That confused dog of yours, madam, how is every thing going?

The Tutor—He is doing poor. He follows his nerves and gradually is being ruined.—Chancellor Equivocal.

What a Question. (Amplified with the very ANNOUCE COGNAC which is on the list. See it on the list.)

Mr. Saphed—What are you going to do, Willie, when you grow up to be a going to be?—Truth.

 The Congregational church fair held at Gardner hall Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week was a complete success in every particular, the ladies netting something over $200. The Hippitan wedding and other features deserve an extended notice but owing to the crowded condition of our columns this week, space is limited.

Prof. J. A. Wilson was surprised at his home on Saturday evening last, by a large delegation of the Crow Wing County Teachers Association who invaded his residence and took his place by storm. The visitors made themselves at home in parlor and kitchen, after which Miss Jeanette Vinje, president of the association, in a most speech presented Mr. Wilson with a handsome rocking chair as a remembrance of the association and a token of their appreciation of his services for eight years as county superintendent of schools. Mr. Wilson in a short speech thanked the teachers for so kindly remembering him. Elegant refreshments furnished by the teachers were served and a very pleasant evening enjoyed. Before leaving the guests wished Mr. Wilson success in new fields of labor.

The master of planning a building on the market square at Fifth and Laurel streets for the accommodation of the farmers who bring wood and hay is being agitated and no doubt is a mark in the right direction. As it is now a farmer brings his produce to the city and unless he feels like facing the elements until he has disposed of his hay or wood he must seek shelter in some neighboring business house. In case a house was placed at the disposal of the produce on one of the corners it would be more agreeable all around. Another large addition to the market will probably be brought to the attention of the council at its next meeting.

A Collector's Experiences.
 E. W. Lynch is about to give up his position as collector for the department store of D. M. Clark & Co. in this city, having given notice to that popular firm for the termination of his services on the last day of this month. Mr. Lynch has been collector for the firm for a number of years, and has earned a reputation of being the most successful collector that has ever been in that line in this city. He has worked exclusively in recent years for D. M. Clark & Co. but the very large business of the mammoth store of that firm has placed Mr. Lynch continuously in business communication with people in every part of the city. A collector, as a general rule, realizes that his business is not one that is likely to make friends, but Mr. Lynch possesses that very rare trait by which friends and collections are made at the same time. Of course, there are instances in which it is necessary for a collector to communicate with some firmness to a tardy debtor the collector's earnest desire and intention to receive some money and sometimes the debtor gets a little "warm in the collar," as the boys would say. But Mr. Lynch insists that after all human nature is not so bad as some people picture it, and that a man who is really willing to sit down by himself and admit in his own mind that he is an infamously very rarely to be found. Almost every man likes to have a chance to think well of himself, and Mr. Lynch through understanding this trait of human nature, and using this knowledge in his business. He keeps cool himself, and he expects the irritable collector after his irritation is over, to sit down and admit to himself that after all Mr. Lynch was right. Mr. Lynch has collected thousands of dollars in this city from debtors that almost any other collector would have given up in despair, illustrating the fact that a little degree of intelligence is required in making collections. Anybody can sell goods, but collecting the pay for 'a horse of another color.' Mr. Lynch has without doubt one of the most successful collectors in the entire state. We are not advised as to what he intends to do after the close of his work for his present employer.
