Arrested for Kidnapping.

H. R. Ramsey, of Dolan, Wis., was arraigned in the municipal court on Monday charged with kidnaping his own son, a lad 12 years old. He was arrested in St. Paul on Friday last on a telegram from Sheriff Erickson, of the county, and Mr. Erickson went down and returned with Ramsey and the boy on Saturday. The complaint was made by Mrs. Ella Gaffney, the boy's mother, who lives on Ninth street, near the Washington school. It seems that Ramsey and his wife were divorced over four years ago. They had two children, a boy and a girl. The boy went to Wisconsin with his father and lived with him four years until just before Christmas time when Mr. Ramsey came to this city to visit his brother, Chas. Ramsey, who lived with his mother while here, she being married again. Mrs. Ramsey, during his stay, took a great liking to the boy and objected to his returning with his father, hence Mr. Ramsey apparently toward trouble, quietly took the boy while at play and left on the train with him. The case was continued until Monday, the 13th, and the defendant was held in the custody of the sheriff. P. J. Murphy appeared for the defendant and County Attorney Alberman for the state. According to the St. Paul Dispatch, Mr. Ramsey says he does not understand the arrest, that his wife is unable to support the child, and that he is only too willing to provide for him. The youngster himself is unwilling to return to Brainerd.

Benefit of a Public Library.

ENTRUS DISPATCH.—The greatness of a people is determined by the books that they read. Ideas make great actions. These ideas are best taught in books. While more pure, these things ideas create nobility of life. The nations that have made an impression on history have been influenced by one or more powerful books. The Sibylline books shaped the statesmanship, the wars and the customs of Rome. "The Chapters on the Dead" formed Egyptian civilization. The Shoo-Kings have given China her peculiar ideas of life, religion and destiny. The Old Testament is the foundation of Judaism, her religion, her laws, her Hebrew people. The Bible, Old and New Testaments together, reveals to the world the source, power, and progress of Christianity. The Koran keeps alive the fires of Moham-medanism. A few great books like Homer's Iliad, Virgil's Iliads, Spenser, Paradise Lost, will lift a nation out of barbarism into civilization, refined humanity.

The value of a public library in forming the reading habit, in cultivating a fine taste, in awakening an interest in the lives of our countrymen, in acquainting the people with the noble thoughts that have lived for God and man, in quickening every high impulse into action, in educating us into the experience of the world, can never be over estimated.

It is a fact that I heartily endorse the movement made late to acquire a fund for a public library. While many of us may differ as to what is the best and the way to establish such a fund for a public library, we all will help to forward any reasonable and laudable effort to attain the desired end. The entertainments that have been given under the auspices of the Library Association have paid the expenses of the whole course. So every ticket now bought will be added to the permanent sinking fund of the library. So in the Tank Kee and the remainder of the entertainments to be given, each one who has the satisfaction of knowing that the purchase of a ticket will be added to the permanent fund of the library, as the library is for the benefit of the people, it is hoped that they will support the remaining entertainments.

WANTED.

1000 yards green jack pine wood.
I. J. CALE.

Old Maid's Convention.

Arrangements are now being made and rehearsal held nightly for probably the most humorous, unique and interesting entertainment ever given in this city by local talent. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. Hence you will contribute to a worthy cause when you purchase a ticket. The entertainment will be held at Gardner Hall on Tuesday evening, January 24th, and is called the "Old Maid's Convention," the cast of characters containing the names of the most prominent and talented ladies of the city. Those who have attended the rehearsals pronounce it one of the most laughable things ever put on the stage.

A Shelter for Farmers.

Alberman S. H. Adair the first of the week circulated a subscription paper to procure money to furnish shelter for farmers on the market, and in an hour or so had a fund collected sufficient for the purpose. An old house in West Brainerd, 1428th, was bought, and on Wednesday it was moved to the market and placed into position, and now the farmers who have wood or hay on the market need not suffer from cold or exposure while waiting to sell their produce.

A Correction.

A notice appeared in last week's DISPATCH stating that I had no interest in the implement business of Host & Remmel's, but was interested merely in the grain buying business. This is not correct. I was a partner in the implement business as well as in the grain buying, and the notice as it first appeared was correct.

A Very Pleasant Occasion.

The public installation and entertainment given by Unity Lodge No. 134, I. O. O. F., at their lodge rooms, on Wednesday evening, was a very pleasant occasion, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number of guests present. The lodge room was beautifully decorated with potted plants, cut flowers, evergreens, flags and bunting, and presented a very pleasing appearance. The grand master of the lodge, George G. Campbell, was present and conducted the installation after which he made a very pleasing address on the order and its benefits to humanity. Miss Lillian Cole and C. D. Johnson favored the audience with recitations, after which Rev. G. W. Gallagher delivered an eloquent and powerful address on Old Fellowship. Refreshments were served, and when the inner man was satisfied, the floor was cleared and dancing was indulged in to the great enjoyment of the young folks. It was a most enjoyable occasion.

This includes silks worth $125 a yard, Royal robes made by order of the Queen's mother at Nanking, taking four years to make and costing $5000 each.

In one lecture Tank Kee uses six of these magnificent costumes. This collection of curiosities is said to be insured for $12,000.

Whether equal suffrage is to be enjoyed or merely tolerated by women, it has been for some years conceded to them in Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho, and now South Dakota has come near to adopting it in the form of a constitutional amendment. It is noteworthy that in all these new and sparsely settled communities of the West the women are much less numerous than the men, and are probably the more highly valued.

In Albert D. Richardson's "Beyond the Mississippi," published more than a quarter of a century ago, occurs a passage which, in the light of recent events and their ulterior possibilities, seems almost prophetic. He points to the fact that the "spirit of progress" entering from Europe and China, had passed through Greece and Rome and Western Europe across the Atlantic through Jamestown harbor, over Plymouth Rock and on to the Pacific.

It has been suggested already that what is happening among the poor in classes is happening among the rich. This is the truest insight of social conditions. It is conceivable to the average mind how a man or woman suffering from poverty and want should appreciate to themselves those things which they most need and desire. It is inconceivable however, how a woman with every want supplied and money to purchase her heart's desire should deliberately steal that which is of no material value to her and by so doing court the risk of social ruin.

It is not well to deal too carelessly with the word kleptomaniac. It is a disease, it has ruined hundreds of homes. Kleptomaniacs in its actuality is a shifting. But all kleptomaniacs are not kleptomaniacs.

"Whether it would be well to have an extra session of congress called after the fourth of March is one of the questions that have been discussed. The present session, the fifty-fifth, and the fifty-third were both summoned by extraordinary session. The frequency of these calls grows out of the long period which constantly elapses between the November election of members of the house and their assembling in regular session in December of the following year. There have been many earnest advocates of a change in the congressional calendar.

THE LEGISLATURE

Business Transacted by Minnesota

St. Paul, Jan. 4.—John Lind was yesterday inaugurated governor of Minnesota. The ceremony of installing the new governor's office was held at 10:30 o'clock, the hour set apart for the ceremony. The legislative committee, consisting of Senators Mitchell, Hall and Stockwell, and Representatives Weston, Ferris and Allen, accompanied by ex-governors of the State, Hon. William Hall and Philip D. West, Gov. C. A. Gilman, ex-governor Hastings, Governor Floyd and Incoming Governor Lind, took the hall of representatives. The senate and house were in joint session, and as the ceremony was announced the arrival of the executive party all eyes were turned toward the platform and the speaker. Gov. Lind, who had reached the foot of the platform, had at once mounted the platform and shook hands with Speaker Ferris of the house and President Smith of the senate, who were occupying chairs on the platform. As soon as the applause had subsided Gov. Lind addressed the assembly. His address was brief but full of interest. During the time Gov. Lind sat at the foot of the platform, near his family. At the conclusion of his address the governor was enthusiastically applauded. His speech was interrupted by applause. Representative Pugh moved that a rising vote of thanks be extended to Gov. Lind, for his services as chief executive, and especially during the trying period of the war with Spain and later on the influenza epidemic. Every one on the hall stood up when the vote was called for, and in retiring Governor was greeted with enthusiastic applause and in his return to the platform to make way for his successor. At the foot of the platform, Gov. Lind shook hands with Gov. Lind, who then stepped in front of the platform and was sworn in by Chief Justice Starr of the supreme court. After taking the oath of office, Gov. Lind mounted the platform, and amid much applause, was introduced by Speaker Ferris as "the governor of Minnesota, John Lind." Gov. Lind then delivered his inaugural address. The joint session was then declared adjourned and the house individually adjourned until the next day.

The fact that the governor was to be inaugurated brought out a large number of interested people, and long before the hour fixed for the ceremony the hall of representatives was filled almost to suffocation. At the conclusion of the inauguration Gov. Lind received members of the legislature and friends in his private office.

THE SENATE.
After the usual opening words had been observed Senator Foster of Minnesota called up his resolution providing for a special committee of seven to consider the question of a board of control for all state institutions. There was some objection to the resolution, Senator Hiller criticized the resolution and the committee on particularly in the blanket provision for reference of bills, private bills, and the proposed committee. He wanted it stricken out, and Senator Pugh amended the resolution. The resolution was then adopted practically without opposition.

Chief Clerk Bergstrom announced that the house was ready to receive the message of the governor and governor-elect, and a recess was taken for half an hour. Upon resuming Senator Stockwell offered a resolution directing the clerk of the senate court to report all letters received in that office, the legislative assembly, for a period of five years last past. Senator Daugherty cut off the discussion by the convention policy of debate, and then Senator Stockwell forced a similar resolution so to the effect, which was adopted by a vote of 22 to 12. The resolution was to be furnished by Jan. 25, thus giving the full amount of time for the action. Senator Hyde gave notice of debate, and adjournment followed.

St. Paul, Jan. 5.—Having made provision for the payment of the legislative expenses by the passage of the usual appropriation bill, the senate adjourned until a week Monday evening. The bill was S. 1, and was introduced by Senator Knutson. Six other bills were introduced and all of them possess more than the usual amount of general interest. Senator Wilson of Minnesota is responsible for S. 2, S. 3, S. 4 and S. 5. The first two propose to modify with respect to the fee officials above the line of Gov. Lind's recommendations in his inaugural message. S. 2 puts the oil inspector on an annual salary of $2,400, S. 3 a $3,000 and S. 4 a $2,100, each a thousand, and reduces the fee for sealing Gov. Lind's third bill. S. 5, S. 6, S. 7, S. 8 and S. 9 are in a primary election law.

Senator Hawkins of St. Louis introduced a bill whose purpose would add to the number of state lands for a "Street Car Operators' Board of Examiners." It is made unlawful to employ as motorman, grip-man, or in any connection with the motive power of street cars other than those using home power, any but registered and licensed employees. A board of examiners is to be constituted. This board is to hold two sessions a year in each city where street railways are operated. The purpose of examining applicants for license. Senator Knutson introduced S. 10, a bill for the purpose of providing for the encouragement of village schools. Senator Young offered a measure governing the sale of blinding wire at the state prison plant.

THE HOUSE.
The house of representatives acted yesterday on a number of bills. The legislative committee in spite of the fact that Speaker Hiller has not yet received the organization by announcing committees and appointments. The senate has making the usual appropriation of $13,000 for the legislature. The bill was introduced and referred to the committee. To be taken up when the committee were named. Among the bills are three relating to taxation. One is a bill to amend the law relating to the assessment of a motor vehicle. Another is a bill to amend the law relating to the assessment of a motor vehicle. The third is a bill to amend the law relating to the assessment of a motor vehicle. The house also passed a bill to amend the law relating to the assessment of a motor vehicle.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK
 As Seen Through the Eyes of a Popular Brainerd Young Lady.
 A Graphic Description of the Beauties of the Wonderland of America.
 BY MISS KITTIE WALKER.

On the morning of September 21, brother and I, in company with five others, started from Livingston for the Yellowstone National Park. We traveled by rail to Emigrant where teams were waiting for us. We drove about twenty miles before we camped at night. This first camp was not in the park, but about six miles from the Golden Gate and Moberly Creek. The scenery of the first days drive was very pretty and some places very interesting, especially to one who is not accustomed to seeing mountains. It seemed to me as we went on seeking for beautiful and new things, that each place reached exceeded in wonder and beauty the one we had just passed. In fact, it seems as one looks back over a trip through the park, that the scenery grows more and more beautiful until at last the Grand Canon is reached, when the climax is complete. About two o'clock of the second day we passed through the Golden Gate. This is a road leading along a cut in the mountains. This road is wide enough to permit two teams to pass. Down through the canon below this pass the Yellowstone river rushes over the huge yellow rocks and at the further entrance of the gate there is a fall about 30 feet in height and this is called the Roaring Falls. It is not very rare only in its colorings which are very brilliant. The next place of interest is the Mammoth Hot Springs. From pictures of these springs one can form an idea of their formations but not of their colorings which are exceedingly brilliant. All shades of brown and yellow, purple white, green, blue and gray can be plainly distinguished among these wonderful formations. Among the wonderful and Pulpit Terrace are white as marble. There are many other pure white formations. The Elephant's Back is at this place. It is a gray formation about six feet wide, fifty feet long and perhaps ten feet high. The Devil's Prying Pan, Orange Geyser and many other curious things are in this division, but they are too numerous to mention. Bath Lake is especially attractive, it is nearly round and has very shallow banks.

The trees about it have immense projecting limbs. On one side of the lake the water boils ferociously and on the opposite side the water is nearly icy. We went down into the "Devil's Kitchen." This is a space about forty feet deep, eight feet wide, and about sixty feet long. The top, with the exception of a gap wide enough to allow a person to be descended by means of a ladder and long enough for two ladders to be placed side by side, is covered by a dark rocky formation. In the summer season the air in this place is very oppressive, but at this time of the year it was cool, so we were down about twenty minutes. Next we came to "The Norris Geyser Basin." This contains many boiling pools and geysers. To stand a distance from this certain basin one would imagine there were scores of heavily steamed locomotives at this spot. The most ugly-looking place of this basin is "The Black Growler." This is a hole about six feet in diameter, apparently in the side of a huge black rock. From this hole steam pours out without ever retarding, and a dreadful roaring that can be heard a mile away, is kept up by this "Growler." Below this there is a very angry looking black mud six feet high every ten minutes.

"The Emerald Pool" and "New Grater Geyser" are both very beautiful. "Emerald Pool" is about thirty feet in circumference, and the water is of an emerald green. These pools are all very beautiful, the formations in some of the deepest ones can be seen through the clear water a great distance below. The water, as it boils up, is of a delicate shade of green and blue, and some of a rare shades of pink. It seems very curious to look about and see the water in these little pools boiling as fiercely as though placed in a vessel over a very hot blaze. Our camp the second night in the park seemed the most beautiful. It was at "Epic Park" in a newly sheltered spot on Gibbon river. Opposite our camp there was a pretty little island, very thickly covered by trees. The trees are mostly pine and fir. In some places there are great stretches of timber land, and in others there is not a tree or anything else to be found. In a particular forest the trees grow in groups of two and three, and in some groups as many as six are found. They all appear to grow from the same root and are very tall. This forest is called "The Walled Forest." The principle rivers in the park are the Gibbon, Firehole, and the Yellowstone. These all have numerous falls. In the Gibbon the water falls a distance of 250 feet, and the mountains at the side of the falls rise to the height of 1,000 feet above the top of the falls. The falls of the Yellowstone, as it surges down through the Grand Canon, surpasses everything of its kind. We reached Central Hotel and Midway Basin in the afternoon of the fourth day. "Excelsior Geyser," which was at one time the largest in the world, is in this division. It played from 200 to 350 feet high, but now it is a shallow pool, presenting the appearance of a huge deep hole about half full of water. Opposite this geyser is "Prismatic Lake." This has very blue colorings, and so far as has not been fathomed. It is 250 by 350 feet in diameter, and its altitude is exceedingly high. Turquoise Spring is the most beautiful of springs. Its color is a turquoise blue and shaded to a delicate green. It is 100 feet across. These are the most attractive features of this division. We pass on to the "Lower Basin." The most wonderful of this division are the "Fountain Pots." They appear to be a huge basin, filled with lava or clay. The clay of one is pure white, while that in the basin opposite is a deep rich pink. These "Pots" are from 40 to 60 feet across and are nearly level with the ground about them. This clay boils up in great bubbles, and sometimes splashes 6 or 8 feet in the air. "The Fountain" and "Great Fountain" geysers are in this basin. The Fountain plays from 20 to 30 feet high, thirty or forty minutes every five hours. The Great Fountain plays to 150 feet high, lasting for twenty minutes, at intervals of two hours. The fourth and last division is the "Upper Geyser Basin." This contains the famous "Old Faithful." We had dinner in a grove near where we could watch "Faithful" play while we were at the table. It plays 165 feet high over 7 minutes. Its formation is white, and 60 feet high. These formations are very wonderful in shape. They are irregular in form and vary much in size. Some are of a low basin-like formation, and some have high projections and others are very beautiful with great imposing projections that remind one of ancient castle ruins. When I looked over these numerous formations I thought of Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii." The day we spent in this basin was a perfect one and we were so fortunate as to see 13 of the most celebrated geysers play. The largest of these is "The Giant." This surpasses every other geyser in height. Its formation is estimated while it was playing is of nearly a pure white, and about 75 feet high. From this geyser the water is thrown from 250 to 300 feet in the air. Its eruption occurs every four to seven days, and continues ninety minutes. The day we were there it played the first time this season by daylight. "The Riverside" is curiously situated on a branch of the Firehole river, so close that the water flows from it during its eruptions falls into the river. Its formation is very large, and shaded from a light gray to a yellow and deep brown. "The Saw Mill" and "The Fan" are both very pretty and interesting. "The Fan" plays about 30 feet high, in the exact form of a fan. "The Grotto" and "The Castle" are very attractive. Their formations are nearly pure white and very large. (to be continued.)
