It is quite natural for a full man to appear on the scene.

Even after marriage a woman goes to the aid of his old flame.

The football player may come early, but not to avoid the rush.

No woman can look intelligent and talk to a lady simultaneously.

There isn't enough meat on some arguments to make an intellectual wife.

A politician doesn't seem to be so important after all when you get to know him.

Wilks may be man's worst enemy, but some men make a specialty of losing their enemies.

There is always work at the top—probably because the experienced traveler prefers a lower berth.

The strong-minded woman is always the first to show at the door when she is doing things she don't herself.

A woman begins to realize that she is getting old when the policeman comes to take her arm at a street crossing.

Admiral Robley will give the chief credit to the man behind the gun. The admiral has never come out fighting for the strategy board.

The reader of today may well smile, for all claimants of society worth counting, the trained and honest hand are not so plentiful. If pleasure and the hand are distinctly noted above the "hat."

Kipling's story, "The Man Who Would Be King," has found a strange parallel in central Africa, where a romance as weird and bloody as any ever penned by the English writer has just reached its finale. Two English officers, dressing of great empire with themselves as rulers, headed a mutiny and murdered their commander. Then, with their supporters, they followed, they plunged into the wilderness, they were then in turn murdered by the native soldiers who they counted for the men that could strike by their thousands.

General Heenan at Odessa reports on a curious device to prevent rats from carrying contagious diseases into ships. The cable of the ship was run through a piece of iron pipe about a foot in diameter, and worked on the end of the pipe was a hinge or flange, which looked like the end of a trumpet with the wide and facing the ship. The iron pipe was stuffed with oakum to prevent rats from passing through it. This novel construction was built close to the ship.

Royal Baking Powder

Imparts Healthfulness to the Food

Royal Baking Powder leavens the food perfectly by its own inherent power without changing or impairing any of the elements of the flour.

Thus the hot-breads, hot-rolls and muffins, and the delicious hot griddle-cakes raised by the Royal Baking Powder are wholesome and digestible, and may be eaten without distress, even by persons of delicate digestion.

Alum baking powder is low priced, at about cents but two cents a pound, but when it is a corrective poison and renders the baking powder dangerous to use food.

EDUCATING RUSSIAN NOBLES.

The nobility of Russia in each and every province, who form a kind of corporation in the eyes of the government, and to be allowed to establish special boarding-schools for the education of their children who attend the middle-class schools, but quite separate from such schools. The government undertakes to pay the full cost of the maintenance of these institutions, which will come under the supreme control of the minister of public instruction, and in which the pupils are to receive board, lodging, clothing, linen, boots, school books, necessary assistance and, if necessary, personal help in doing their home lessons after school hours. The government also engages to pay half the yearly cost of supporting them as well as gratuitous maintenance while in preparation for the higher and secondary education, for which the government likewise provides half the necessary funds. At the same time an annual sum of 135,710 rubles will be paid out of the imperial exchequer for the free education of 415 boys in two of the new military cadet schools. This curious piece of class legislation will give the handed nobility of Russia a far cheaper education for their children than any that is put in the way of the other antiquated social categories into which the Russian population is still divided.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The executive committee of the Public Library Association held a meeting on Saturday evening, and elected Mrs. Irma Hartley librarian for the year. It was also decided to keep the library rooms open at present to two evenings and on afternoon each week. The time has not yet been definitely decided, but it will probably be Wednesday afternoon and Saturday afternoon and evening.

During the past week the library rooms have been put into shape for the public. The shelves have been completed and nicely painted, and the walls of the rooms papered and decorated, and the books purchased are now being unpacked and placed on the shelves ready for use in a few days, probably to-morrow afternoon.

In Good Condition.
John F. Jackson, of St. Paul, secretary of the state board of correction and charities, was in the city on Tuesday. Mr. Jackson is making a tour of inspection of the correctional institutions of the northern part of the state. During the day Mr. Jackson inspected the county jail, the city lock-up and the county poor farm. To a Dunavon representative, Mr. Jackson expressed himself as well pleased at the manner in which all three institutions are kept. The jail he says is bad and poorly fitted for the purpose intended. However, the worst defects can be remedied at comparatively no cost. The walls should be whitewashed and a new door constructed, the present one being in bad shape. An iron or steel roof or ceiling is an absolute necessity as a prisoner could go through the present one with a sack knife. The lock-up was good, almost a model institution for the purpose intended. The poor house he considers not particularly good, but he was lavish in his praise of the way in which the house and rooms are kept and in the gentle treatment of the inmates. He considers it one of the very best and best kept places of this character in the jurisdiction. Mr. Jackson talked entertainingly of his subject of prisons and correctional institutions and said that Minnesota was slowly getting the best institution, not the most expensive, but the best adapted to the use intended.

Tendered a Reception.

The Fargo Argus contains the following notice of a reception tendered Miss Helen Tenney, well known in this city:

Last evening the ladies of the Red Cross society and the Co. Y Auxiliary ladies tendered a pleasant reception to Miss Tenney, the popular nurse who cared for the North Dakota boys in the Philippines and to Corporal Hathaway, who was delayed in arriving home by being quarantined in the hospital at Frenido, and so was not here when the reception was given to the members of Co. Y.

The early part of the evening was given over to games and the gracious lady had the appearance of a full grown cow-bob social for a time, being literally tangled up with twine and cord. After the games came refreshments and fragrant coffee, which tasted all the better on account of the pleasing music of Schirman's orchestra.

After the supper dishes were cleared away, Lieutenant Ellsworth sprang a complete surprise on Miss Tenney by presenting her in behalf of the Red Cross society a beautiful solid silver toilet set, suitably engraved with the name of Miss Tenney from North Dakota Red Cross Society, in recognition of services rendered for North Dakota Volunteers. Miss Tenney was so overcome by the gift and presentation, as well as the kindly words and the sincere thanks and appreciation of the elegant tokens of the regard and esteem of the Red Cross society ladies.

The gift was an exceedingly fine one and has a pretty black Morocco case with a silver inscription plate bearing her name and date of presentation. After the presentation the company danced to the music of the orchestra, and all present had a very enjoyable evening which will not soon be forgotten.

Resolution of Respect.
Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove from us our beloved brother, Albert Hoppe and Whereas said brother was a kind and loving husband and father and a true and loyal member of the St. Francis society, now therefore be it resolved, that the members of this society express our deep sorrow and regret because of our loss and extend to the bereaved widow and orphan children our deep and heartfelt sympathy in their afflictions and affection, and be it further resolved: That these resolutions be spread upon the record of our society; that a copy be sent to the family and published in the local news-papers and also that our charitable contributions be suspended in mourning for the period of thirty days.
