ALDERMAN LOW HONORED.

The City Council Elects F. E. Low City Clerk, vice F. A. Farrar.

Resigned.

A special meeting of the city council was held on Wednesday evening for the purpose of receiving and acting upon the resignation of City Clerk Farrar and to elect his successor. The meeting was called to order and the object stated and after Mr. Farrar's resignation had been accepted to take place on the election and qualification of his successor, the clerk read a list of those who had filed applications for the vacancy as follows:

H. E. Brooks, F. E. Low, C. E. Cole, W. E. Estriken, John Hurley, David I. Cohen, C. A. Albright, W. H. Durham.

The first ballot taken was informal and resulted as follows: Brooks 2, Low 3, Cole 1, Estriken 1, Hurley 1, Cohen 1.

The formal ballot stood, Brooks 2, Low 4, Cole 1, Albright 1, J. A. Wilson 1.

There being an election a second formal ballot was ordered which resulted in the election of F. E. Low, he receiving five votes, Brooks three and Wilson one.

Mr. Low is well known to our readers, having been employed for many years as cashier of the Northern Pacific freight station in this city. At the last election he was chosen as one of the aldermen to represent the Second ward on the city council, which position he has filled with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of his constituents. He is in every way qualified to perform the arduous duties of the office which he has just been elected.

Mr. Farrar resigns the office to accept a responsible position with the First National bank of this city. He has held the office of city clerk for several years and has been the most efficient officer in that capacity the city ever had.

Jay Batchelder will succeed F. E. Low as cashier at the Northern Pacific freight station when the former gentleman assumes his new duties as city clerk.

Will Answer to the Grand Jury.

Tullie LaCrosse and Joseph Beausieu, whose preliminary examination on charge of having robbed the Magies at St. Matthias in 1897, was in progress when the Dispatch went to press last week, were held to the grand jury in the sum of $2500 bail being furnished in each case.

The evidence in the case as to the facts are much the same as was published in this paper at the time the robbery occurred. Mr. Magee and his mother retaining the story as to the holiday. Harry Mowenkamp, one of the state's witnesses testified that Beausieu had asked him a few days after the robbery to swear that he was afraid that he would be arrested for the deed. John Roberts another witness for the state, testified that LaCrosse confessed to him the commission of the crime implicating Beausieu. The conversation took place at a dance held at Deschamps' and was before the Viette hearing.

Will Resign His Office.

Joel Smith, chairman of the board of county commissioners, will tender his resignation as a member of that body at the meeting next Tuesday to take effect at the adjournment of the annual session. This action is taken by Mr. Smith on account of his intended removal from his farm in the first commissioner's district to this city. The vacancy caused by his resignation will be filled by the supervisors of the towns comprising his district, Crow Wing, Long Lake, St. Matthias, Daguerre Brook, Garrison and Maple Grove, according to law which provides that whenever a vacancy shall occur in any office of county commissioner from death, removal, resignation or otherwise more than 30 days before any general election the chairman of the board of supervisors in each town which is included in any commissioner's district where such vacancy shall happen, or a majority of such officers, shall assemble at the court house at the county seat and appoint or elect a person who is a resident of such district to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Smith has held the position for several terms, has been a faithful officer and has been elected chairman of the board on several occasions.

A Week of Drama.

The Bijou Comedy Co. opened a week's engagement at Gardner Hall on Christmas Day. The first performance was at a Christmas matinee, when the beautiful Irish Comedy drama "Inshavogue" was presented to a rather small audience of ladies and children. On Monday night "Hazel Kirke" was the bill, on Tuesday night "The Banisters" and on Wednesday night "Uncle Josh," and last night "Inshavogue" was repeated. The company is much above the average of repertoire companies playing to popular prices, and make every effort to please notwithstanding the small patronage they are receiving here. The plays are all well staged, the company carry considerable special scenery, and the costumes worn by the ladies are new, elegant and in good taste. Very good specialties are introduced between the acts, which relieves the audience of the usual tiringness waits. There will be three more performances, to-night, to-morrow night and Saturday matinee. At the matinee a fine large doll will be given away to some little girl attending, and a fine pair of slippers to some lucky boy. Admission to the matinee will be 10 cents for children and 25 cents for ladies.

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Chord gave a dinner party at their home, twenty-eight invited guests sitting down to a bountiful repast. In the afternoon all the young folks and some not so young enjoyed the skating on Island Lake.

Edson people enjoyed a Christmas tree Saturday evening which delighted the children, a fine program being rendered in connection. The motion song of the infant class was very cute. Little Melissa Chord saying she had to borrow one of grandma's, so she could put in all the presents she wanted. Quite a ripple of laughter was created when our Sunday school superintendent's wife received a gentleman's note while he received an article that is generally supposed to belong strictly to a lady's wardrobe. It must be that Santa Claus, or his assistants, made a mistake in labeling some of his gifts. DANE RYSON.

DISASTROUS RAILROAD WRECK.

Graphic Story of the Kendrick Canyon Tragedy on the Northern Pacific.

A telegram from Lewiston, Idaho, to the daily press under date of Dec. 27, thus describes the awful wreck that occurred last week on the mountain division:

There have been countless railroad wrecks in the Rocky Mountains, but none like the tragedy of the Kendrick Canyon. A week has passed and the wreck is not yet cleared, but the body of the fifth and last dead trainman has been taken from beneath a mass of railroad iron that was piled so high that it turned the channel of Polatch creek. The Northern Pacific has never had such a wreck in the history of the system.

Although extreme caution governs the operating department of the road, the elements conspired to make this wreck an awful catastrophe. The first brief telegrams simply gave notice of the accident. It has taken a week for the details of the disaster to be received. It was known that a train of eighteen flat cars loaded with steel rails and drawn by two locomotives had been derailed and destroyed and five men killed. Day by day the fragments of the tragedy had come to light. How did it happen? It has been asked by railroad men everywhere.

Before a coroner's jury the evidence of the disaster has been gathered. The loaded train left Spokane for a run of 150 miles, with steel rails to be used on the construction of the clear-water short line. Not quite 100 miles had been covered when darkness came on, accompanied by a fine snow that was to prove a terrific wind. Before the train lay the most precipitous declivity on the entire Northern Pacific system. It was in reality a descent of a mile and a half, with a water level of the Polatch. It led down a walled canyon, with a fall of two feet in every 100 feet of grade, which is known in railroading as a full stop was made, and the brakes thoroughly tested. Had the trainmen noticed the load loosing to make descent in safety. They failed to comprehend the danger and their lives paid the penalty.

It was about 7 o'clock in the night when the train began to move down the grade. For a distance of twelve miles the train was along the canyon bottom, when the track made an abrupt curve to the approach of Polatch creek. The train had not more than half a mile when the conductor noticed by a way of the caboose that he was running at a high rate of speed. He climbed into the cupola with some difficulty. It was then that he became conscious that the train was running away. The brakes were set light and on both sides of the train there was a glare of light. Showers of sparks shot out from the wheels, illuminating the walls of the canyon. The conductor had one brake-man with him, and it took but an instant for the two men to decide to cut off the caboose and save themselves. It was only by the greatest exertion that they were enabled to make their way to the forward platform of the car and pull the coupling pin. By setting the brakes on the detached caboose it soon slowed down, and the flying train vanished in the darkness between two lines of spluttering fire. The tremendous crashing of the loose steel rails against each other created a deafening roar as the train swept out of sight. The conductor intuitively pictured the awful scene that must soon take place. He had not long to wait. The noise of the train grew fainter in the distance when there was a final crash that rang through the canyon and froze his blood with its horrible roar.

Saidon has such a scene never been witnessed as the one presented by the wreck when the morning came. The two locomotives lay some distance from the track, stripped to their bare frames. One of the engines had been hurled fully 100 feet across the Polatch. Railroad iron lay piled in fantastic shapes, or tangled mass into the side of the mountain. So many were struck that steel rails shot 250 feet in the air and fell in heaps in the bed of the stream. Five men were killed and $100,000 worth of property destroyed. The condition of the track on account of the storm made it impossible to build the train on the grade. No blame is attached to the railroad company, but the train men were in error in not dividing the train at the top of the grade when they knew there was a slippery track ahead.

There are a great many of them. Every paper has its share. Statements hard to believe harder to prove. What people say in Florida and Public expressions from California. Ofttimes good indorsement there. But of little service here at home. Brainerd people want local proof. The sayings of neighbors, friends and citizens. Home indorsement counts. It damps the skeptic; is beyond dispute.

This is the backing that stands behind our Brainerd Kidney Pills. Here is a case of it: Mrs. S. Brain, of 125 South Ninth street says: "Don's Kidney Pills cannot be spoken of in too high terms. I suffered greatly from my back, the symptoms showing unmistakably that the kidneys were at fault. The secretions from those organs were scanty and caused some pain; the swelling in my back was constant and exceedingly distressing. When my husband brought me Don's Kidney Pills I was much in need of relief. I used them and in comparatively short time the pain had disappeared and the improvement in my constitution was general and the kidneys were quickly restored to health and performed their function naturally."

A BAD BLAZE.

Fire Last Night Destroys the Stock of P. M. Zakariassen, Tailor. At 10:30 last evening fire was discovered in the building occupied by P. M. Zakariassen, tailor, and who also carries a stock of gent's furnishings goods. The department responded promptly to the alarm and succeeded in getting the blaze under control before it escaped from the room in which it originated but not until the large stock of piece goods, suits and gent's furnishings were practically ruined, water and smoke doing what the fire did not consume. The fire undoubtedly originated from the air tight sheet iron stove with which the place was heated and which probably exploded scattering the fire all over the room.

Mrs. Zakariassen closed his place after 9 o'clock, shutting up the stove and turning off the electric lights. The stock of goods inventoried about $4,500 and was insured for $2000 in the Murphy & Valentyne agency. The building is owned by the Northern Pacific bank and is insured for $1000 in the J. R. Smith agency.
