DEATH'S HARVEST.

Victims of the Urin Reaper the Past Week.

On Saturday, the ninth instant, at the home of Mr. L. J. Cole, Mrs. Mary Glass Barwick, the mother of Mrs. Cole, entered into rest at the age of ninety-four years and five months.

In the passing of Mrs. Barwick, a remarkable career has closed. Born in Maryland in 1806, she was married to Mr. Isaac Barwick at the age of nineteen and came to Minnesota in 1855, settling at Parkbush, where the remainder of her married life was spent. Never did a pioneer woman face hardships with more unshaken courage and cheerfulness. Her real life and character were strikingly like Solomon's ideal wise woman. The mother of twelve children and the head of a well-ordered household, she was also an agent of mercy to the whole country side at the gateway of life and the portal of death, she comforted and blessed, and the memory of "Grandma" Barwick will be tenderly cherished in countless households, where she came as God's good angel in the training of her family, in the church and in the social circle, she always did her duty nobly, following with perfect faith in the footsteps of the Master.

Eighteen years ago, after the death of her husband, she came to live with Mr. Cole. Her unflinching courage and self sacrifice increased with her years and her happy, serene life was still a pleasure to herself and to all who knew her. But the journey had been very long and the aged pilgrim longed for home. So with prayer for all the loved ones, and a special benediction on the household where she had been cared for with loving kindness, with an unflinching trust and wholly unafraid, she entered into the joy of her Lord. Five children survive her but only the two younger, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Carr, of Blamark, were with her in her last hours. Impressive services were held at the home, Sunday afternoon, and at midnight Mr. and Mrs. Cole left with the remains for Parkbush.

Miss Julia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Galt, died at the home of her parents in this city last Friday morning, of spinal meningitis, aged 21 years. The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at St. Francis Catholic church, Rev. Father Lynch officiating. Deceased was a most estimable young lady, whose untimely death is mourned by her many friends.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Koop was saddened on Monday morning by the death of their 10-month old daughter Evelin, of bronchitis, produced by measles. The funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Francis church by Rev. Father Lynch. Mr. and Mrs. Koop have the sympathy of all in their trouble.

Hilda M. Erickson, wife of C. A. Erickson, died at her home on Front street, in East Brainerd, on Wednesday, March 13th, of pneumonia, aged 22 years. The funeral services will be held at the Swedish Lutheran church on Sunday, March 17th, at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. A. Johnson officiating.

Wm. Fincke, aged 20 years, died at St. Joseph's Hospital on Monday, of blood poisoning. His remains were sent to his home in Little Falls for burial. He had a foot injured while working in the woods about a month ago.

G. A. E. Officers.
Comrade G. W. Healey, writes from St. Paul that the newly elected state officers of the G. A. R. are: Commandant—Capt. W. H. Harris, of Caladonia.

Senior vice commander—Perry Starkever.

CHAS. M. PATEK.

FROM SUNNY CALIFORNIA.

Interesting Letter from the Pacific Coast State from an Old Crow Wing County Resident.

NEV'S SYSTEM, SISKIYOU, CO., CAL. E. HERRON DISPARVED.—It has been a long time since you heard from me. In fact I think this is the first time directly. Nevertheless having known you in the past and believing that my many friends will be pleased to hear from this part of the union, I venture a few lines.

A letter from me should be from Dawson, N. W. T., but having been attacked by the enemy, rheumatism, I was compelled to drop down to Seattle for treatment.

From there I went to a mineral spring near Portland, Or., but deriving no benefit therefrom I was obliged to give up in despair, when I met a man in Portland, who had been cured at a California spring. His account was so glowing that I bought for a time, but I finally made up my mind to chase the "rainbow" little further, and I am happy to say that the account was not overdrawn or even up to the mark.

At Sisson on the southern slope of Mount Shasta, I left the train. There was about four feet of snow on the ground, an unusual amount, even for extreme northern California, all things considered. From this town the springs are five miles distant, and were closed down for the winter months, as the accommodations are but of a primitive nature. I had a hunt for the owner, an old California, I told him my story, and he said that boys who went abroad to earn gold with which to enrich the nation should be treated with every courtesy. So he arranged and mounted me by a pair of Norwegian snow shoes, and the hunt commenced. On level ground they are tractable and docile enough, but going down a mountain side and across gulches and cañons, when "back," take the "bit," to speak, and play no end of games. We got there however, with the aid of a "snot-gun" which the old man carried. I have been here three weeks and am about well. I will stay three weeks longer, perhaps, to clinch matters.

This spring is wonderful and I may as well not be equalled anywhere. It breaks you out wherever you have disease, and keeps doing so as long as any disease remains. It is next to the taste, but good for the stomach and digestion. There are three sorts of water in this spring, each taken out by a siphon. The top is fairly drinkable, the middle strong enough to make you feel like uttering the "swear" word, and the bottom water at one hundred and ten degrees is delicious, invigorating and exhilarating beyond expression. It must be judged according to physical condition, otherwise it would knock you down. Hard by is a white sulphur spring clear as crystal and of blood medicine worthy of the name. The surroundings are beautiful and everything is conducive to health. Rheumatism should not despair until they have given Nev's Springs a trial.

Northern California consists of high mountain ranges, and individual peaks that reach 14,444 feet. Middle the mountains are numerous valleys, rich and fertile. Some of them, such as Shasta and Scott, are quite large and lovely as a dream, especially the latter. The mountains are covered with sugar and yellow pine, red fir and cedar. There are openings here for men with sufficient capital to go into the mill industry. The principle industries are mining in the northwest, cattle raising in the northeast, agriculture in the valley and lumbering in the Mount Shasta region.

This oak county, Siskiyou, is larger than some of the New England states. Beginning at the extreme southern boundary of California, harvesting of some sort goes on for about ten months in each year. Oranges and lemons are picked in January and February, and the Yuba valley man puts his strawberries and cherries on in the market about the middle of April. Hay grain etc. follows to the gathering of apples in November. At Wheatland, Yuba Co. vegetables grow in the open air, the year round.

Price of land ranges between $2.50 per acre and $1,000. Crops grow on bottom lands without irrigation. On upland, all crops, except grain, must be irrigated. Raising and poultry raising is carried on, on an extensive scale. Grapes in the Yuba valley section, cover hundreds of miles. The people of Santa Clara, bank on prunes and olives. From Oroville on the north to Los Angeles, on the south, the orange is king, except in the belt in the valley of the San Joaquin where wheat and grapes dispute its title with success. March 3, the snow has all but disappeared. It is warm, soft and pleasant. The grass is green on the side-hills. Summer clothes, summer, is here.

Shower fortune favors me in the Bloodline. I will see more of this Golden State and people.

Good-bye, I will drop you a line from Dawson.

Best wishes to all my friends.

Yours Truly

HERMAN HOLTER.

The purpose of the Exposition is to illustrate the progress of the countries of the Western Hemisphere during a century of wonderful achievements, and to bring together in closer relationship the people composing the many States, Territories and Countries of the three Americas. Acting under proper authority, the President of the United States has invited all the Republics and Colonies of the American Hemisphere to join in commemorating the close of the Nineteenth and beginning of the Twentieth Century, by holding this International Exposition, on the Niagara Frontier.

For this important event, the Nickel Plate Road has issued an attractive, descriptive folder pamphlet liberally illustrating the Pan-American Exposition, the buildings and grounds.

The Nickel Plate Road is the shortest line between Chicago and Buffalo, with trains of modern equipment in which no extra fares are charged; and a special service of the Pullman cars. It affords meals in its dining-cars on the individual club plan, ranging in price from $5.00 to $1.00.

Can't see any ticket agent for Pan-American folder of the Nickel Plate Road, or address John Y. Calahan, General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chicago.

Parties desiring hotel or rooming accommodations at Buffalo or Niagara Falls, during any period of the Pan-American Exposition, are invited to apply by letter or otherwise to F. J. Moore, General Agent, 291 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

QUIET AND PAINLESS
FORMER PRESIDENT HARRISON
DIES WITHOUT REQUIRING CONSCIOUSNESS.

A GRADUAL SINKING AWAY
None of the General's children at his bedside—The Body Will Lie in State at Indiana's Capitol Saturday and the Funeral Will Be Held Sunday—A Short Sketch of the Dead Soldier and Statesman.

Indianapolis, March 14.—General Harrison died at 4:10 p. m. without requiring consciousness. The ex-president's death was quiet and painless, there being a gradual sinking until the end came, which was marked by a single gasp for breath as life departed from the body of the great statesman. The relatives, with a few exceptions and several his old and tried friends were at the bedside when he passed away.

The general's condition was so bad after a restless night that the attending physician endeavored to see that he could not be far off and all the bulleins sent out from the sick room were to this effect: that the family and friends were prepared when the End came. The gradual fading of the remarkable strength shown by the patient became more noticeable

BURN THE MURDERER
JOHN HENDERSON, COLORED, IS CREMATED AT CORONA, CANAL TEX.

FOUR THOUSAND LOOK ON
Crows Come in From the Surrounding Country and All Business is Suspended—Full Confession of the Crime Made Before He is Executed—Screams of the Wretch Are Drawn by Yells of the Mob.

Corona, Tex., March 14.—John Henderson, the negro who brutally outraged and murdered Mrs. Conway Younger, was burned at the stake by a mob in the courthouse yard shortly before noon in the presence of 4,000 persons. Henderson was arrested several days ago and placed in jail at Waco. Later the negro was spirited away to Hillboro. The offense, forcing mob violence, was quickly arranged to take the prisoner to Fort Worth and at 9 o'clock they left before noon in the presence of citizens from Corona, among the first of whom the officers and their prisoner were seated and at the entrance of rowlers took the negro and in a short time were on their way toward Corona.

Henderson reached here during the morning and when he learned that he was to be executed by a mob made a call confession. He told Mrs. Younger had bravely resisted the assault and how in his frenzy he had butchered her before the eyes of her little girl. In the meantime runners were sent to all parts of Navarro county to notify the people that Henderson had been brought to the scene of his crime and that he would be executed during the day. Thousands of people poured into the city and at 10:30 o'clock the streets were swarming.

Fare He Would Be Rescued.
It was given out that the negro would be burned alive at 1 p. m., but a rumor became current that a sheriff's posse was being organized to rescue him and the mob changed their plans and announced that the execution would take place immediately.

A railroad train was seen in the ground in the middle of the courthouse yard and the shivering crowd, heavily clad, was brought forward by the still clamorous crowd. The negro was securely chained to the iron stake and hung up to the gallows about him. Then quantities of oil were poured on his clothing. The fire, which was lit by the sheriff's posse, jumped at Henderson and attempted to cut his throat with a large knife, but only slashed the chained negro's face.

Henderson's struggles were fearful but his screams were drowned by the yells of the frenzied mob. After 10 minutes in the roaring fire, Henderson's head dropped forward, his struggles ceased and he was to all appearances dead. In a few moments the crowd dispersed and Corona was quiet.

COMMENDS THE DEED.
Croner Upholds the Burning of Henderson at Corona.

Corona, Tex., March 14.—Justice H. G. Roberts, acting coroner, held an inquest over the remains of Henderson and gave the following verdict: "I find that the deceased came to his just death at the hands of the best people in the United States, the citizens of Navarro, and adjoining counties. The evidence, as well as the confession of guilt by deceased, shows that his punishment was fully merited and commendable."

PERPETUAL INJUNCTIONS.
Baltimore Packers Restrained From Using the Word "California."

Baltimore, March 14.—Thirteen perpetual injunctions against Baltimore fruit packers and in favor of California Fruit Growers' association have been granted by Judge Morrison in the United States circuit court. These injunctions not only restrain the defendants from "selling or offering for sale peaches or pears not the product of the state of California in any can or other vessel to which the word 'California' is or shall be affixed or selling the same with the intent that such label or false representation shall thereafter be used."

To Appraise Land for Legislation.
Feking, March 14.—The foreign ministers sent to the Chinese plenipotentiaries a list of the towns and cities in China whose examinations for the civil service would not be permitted for a period of five years. They also require these Chinese authorities to appoint a commission to act with a man appointed by the ministers to determine the value of the private property taken for irrigation purposes.

Repeat All Railroad Laws.
Lincoln, Neb., March 14.—The state senate has passed the bill repealing the law of 1890 creating the state electric bittern. It will be passed in the house and as there is practically no opposition it is expected to become a law. With the final enactment of the pending bill the practice of the bittern will be closed off of all laws looking to the control of railroads.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.
In the afternoon a few moments before the end there was an apparent breakdown on the part of the sufferer as he succumbed to the disease against which he

Had Been Bravely Battling for so many hours. The change was noticed by the physicians and the relatives and friends who had gathered from the sick room to the library below were quickly summoned and reached the bedside of the general before he passed away.

News of the death spread quickly through the city and several of the more intimate friends at once hurried to the residence to offer services, which, however, were not needed. The announcement produced the greatest sorrow, nearly everyone having shared the hope that General Harrison would recover within a few minutes all the signs on the public buildings and most of the down town blocks were hoisted half mast and other outward manifestations of mourning were made.

None of General Harrison's children were present at his death. Neither Colonel Russell Harrison nor Mrs. McKee had reached the city, although both were hurrying on their way to the bedside of their dying parent as fast as steam would bear them. Elizabeth, the little daughter, had been taken from the sick room by her nurse before she had come.

The group at the bedside included Mrs. Harrison, W. H. H. Miller, Samuel Miller, his son; the Rev. M. I. Haines, pastor of the First Presbyterian church which General Harrison had attended for so many years; Mr. Abbott, Doctors Jamison and Dorey; Colonel Dan Russell, sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate; Clifford Article and the nurse, who were in constant attendance at the bedside. General Harrison's two sisters and an aunt were also present. Mrs. Harrison knelt at the right hand side of the bed, her husband's right hand clasped in hers, while Dr. Jamison held the left hand of the dying man, counting the feeble pulse beats. In a few moments after the friends had been summoned to the room the end came; Dr. Jamison announcing the sad fact. The great sorrow that fell on the sorrowful watchers at the bedside was broken by the voice of Dr. Haines raised in prayer, supplicating consolation for the bereaved wife and family, mingled with the sob of the mourner.

General Harrison had been unconscious for hours before his death, the exact time when he succumbed was not known. He had been in a comatose state being hard to determine. He spoke to no one during the day and failed to recognize even his wife. All efforts to arouse the slowly dying man to consciousness failed and he died without a word of recognition to any of the loved ones who surrounded him.

According to the funeral plans General Harrison will lie in state at the state capitol next Saturday and the funeral will occur Sunday.

Harrison Was Guided by Patriotism and Devotion to Duty.

Princeton, N. J., March 14.—Former President Cleveland spoke as follows concerning the death of former President Harrison: "I am exceedingly moved by the sad intelligence of Mr. Harrison's death, for, notwithstanding the late discouraging reports of his illness, I hoped his life might yet be spared. Not one of our countrymen should for a moment fail to realize the services which have been performed by their high public office he was guided by patriotism and devotion to duty, often at the sacrifice of his private life, and in private station his influence and example were always in the direction of decency and good citizenship. Such a career and the incidents related to it should leave a deep and useful impression upon every section of our national life."

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, Pa. "No remedy helped me until I began to use Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just what I did for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run-down women. No other medicine can take the place in our family of these.
