Cleverly written essays, good orchestral music, beautiful floral contributions and the excellent musical numbers marked the closing exercises of the class of 1901 at Gardner hall last evening. The hall was filled long before the hour to its utmost seating and standing capacity, and never has any class of the Brainerd High School enjoyed the distinction of graduating before a more appreciative and intelligent audience.

The stage had been transformed into a bower of beauty, a great American flag being used as an excellent back ground for the pleasing arrangement of banks of evergreen, potted plants and cut flowers. The class colors, old rose and cream, were used in profusion, one of the most distinct features being a large old rose and cream colored banner stretched across in front of the stage with the class motto, "Non Scholae Sed Vitae Discimus," printed thereon.

The seating space on the platform was occupied by Prof. John L. Torrens, Prof. Harft and Miss Ruth S. Hutchinson and the members of the graduating class, the young lady members of the class appearing to good advantage in their gowns of immaculate white. Graham's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and after the rendition of two numbers, the ten members of the class accompanied by members of the faculty marched to the stage. The appearance of the class drew forth deafening applause which was certainly a compliment and must have stirred the hearts of the ten young people who were about to be graduated.

After the orchestral numbers invocation was offered by Rev. Father D. W. Lynch in a very impressive manner. Miss Lottie Elizabeth White demonstrated her adaptability as a salutarian, her address "of welcome" being replete and urbane. Representing the class she stated that the greeting was of especial welcome for there was a feeling that the interest of those assembled, ever manifested toward the members of the class, had encouraged them to strive toward ideals brought before them by their faithful instructors. There was a feeling that it was not only their duty to tell those who had assembled how much they owed to their financiers, but it was true. Miss White brought out the thought that this was not ordinary graduating exercise or commencement festival. This class has the honor of appearing before a Brainerd audience as the first to graduate from the High School in the twentieth century. None can lay claim to this fact—they are first. A very apt and witty presentation was made of the facts and Miss White received many congratulations.

Miss Muriel Burrell's essay on "Patriotism" drew some good work and some excellent thoughts were presented which she deemed were on every hand, who would rather give up life than sacrifice principles, and it was hoped that all would retain some remembrances of the class of 1901.

Miss Katie May Payne had an essay on the subject, "Each and all." Tomorrow the class members go forth into the wide world there to make themselves what they will. The world is there to use as they will and as individuals make up the whole they will form a part of the great elements which mould and build up. Every person is led and he himself is a leader. Especially is this true among friends. To-day they stand upon the future but to-morrow they go forth to make progress. As their strength is so will their progress be. Beings live but to act, that each to-morrow find themselves further than to-day.

Francis Charles McElviren spoke on the "Triumph of Democracy." Mr. McElviren's effort was especially pleasing and so thoroughly did he captivate the audience that he was interrupted during the delivery with frequent applause. It was the best effort of the evening. His delivery for a young man is excellent and he should be encouraged. He said that from the earliest period of history there has been witnessed the struggle of man for absolute freedom. He has attempted and failed and generations and centuries have only recorded the repetition of his failure. Through the turbulent centuries the individual man has fought to the front, he is still in the heat of the struggle but he has made progress. He has proved his strength and he knows that the world is his.

Miss Katherine Anna Cosgrove presented a strong well written essay on the "Success in Life." Her delivery was especially good and it was a very meritorious effort. From the earliest days of childhood she said, we meet with obstacles that must be overcome before we can make any progress. Study and perseverance are easy and pleasant for when the pain is gone we forget the cause of it. But to stop and give up is the disagreeable task that prevent themselves one would be as the energy of the world, not like the child that is learning to walk, for we could not be expected to be urged on. None are born wise and though it may be easier for some to become wise than others, the most learned are those who have studied the hardest and who have fought all the battles as they presented themselves. Not only in the schoolroom is success attained by perseverance but in every profession in life.

Miss Eloise Smith had a very poetical essay on "Happy is the man who can regard life as comedy and at the same time prevent it from becoming a tragedy. To him the world becomes a bower of roses instead of a vale of tears; his path through life a joyous stroll instead of a painful pilgrimage; his misfortune the occasion of a laugh as with a brave endeavor the sob is stilled, we born. His is the brave soul that will admit of circumstances which it cannot surmount and control. He is the man who has learned in the cruel school of experience that narrow thread divides comedy and tragedy and that either a tear or a smile may determine which the play may be. While no volitional act, dress had been advertised technically. Miss Smith had this honor. In her address to the class mates she said that after last night the class would probably never meet again as an organization. The interest, however, in one another will always be felt. To the superintendent and teachers she extended on behalf of the class heartfelt thanks for the benefit of the instruction and guidance. The never falling interest and patience of the teaching staff was mentioned as a potent factor in their school labors. To the president and board of education Miss Smith paid a high compliment to their earnestness and solicitude in behalf of the class; for the gifted teachers and excellent methods of training and for the kindness and favors shown the class.

To citizens and friends the class felt much indebted for they realized that without their assistance the public schools would not be what they are today. In closing Miss Smith said that the happy memories of those past years will linger in their hearts and it was hoped that all would retain some remembrances of the class of 1901.

Prof. J. L. Torrens then addressed the class at length and presented the individual members with their diplomas. He said that when he came to this city in August of last year the thing that impressed him the most, from an educational standpoint, was the magnificence of the school buildings. When the improvements this year are completed, he said, no city in the state of Minnesota could boast of five such fine school buildings. He also spoke of the increase in attendance over the preceding year. The total enrollment for the year preceding this one was 1800, while this year the enrollment reaches 2001. The professor had a pleasant look on his face and he stated while he had no claim on this class in particular, having spent but a year in the city, still he felt that they were a credit to the city and an honor to the schools.

The music of the evening was furnished by Miss Jennie Myren, who gave an instrumental solo. Frank McCarty, who gave a vocal solo and a quartet of very handsome young maidens. The benediction was offered by Rev. A. H. Carver.

AN OBSTRUCTION TO HIM.

J. H. Hallett Objects to Having Streets Blocked--Warrants Issued for Arrest of Conductors.

J. H. Hallett is up in arms and does not propose to dally with the matter which is most vividly impressed on his mind these days. He has taken a hand in organizing against a class of children so called conductors and intends to have them incarcerated unless they desist from stopping their trains on crossings.

The city ordinance provides that the trains shall not stop longer than five minutes on a crossing unless they are working. This is the longest contention. And it is not presumed that Mr. Hallett would object to this if it was any other than the meanly log train that blocked First street for a short time a few days ago.

Mr. Hallett has had three warrants sworn out and as soon as the three conductors who violated the ordinance can be secured they will be taken before a justice.

Master Mechanic Bean Now Has Charge of Three More Round Houses and Additional Trackage.

Master Mechanic S. L. Bean has been notified that his jurisdiction has been extended to include all of the Manitoba or D. & M. division of the Northern Pacific south of the boundary line. The new addition adds three roundhouses to the present number under the supervision of Master Mechanic Bean, one each at Winnipeg Jct., East Grand Forks and Pembina.

THREE WEDDINGS CHRONICLED. Miss Emma Schmid Married to Mr. Ami Guld Shanks-Walters.

One of the prettiest weddings that has been witnessed in the city of Brainerd for some time was the one that occurred last evening at 8 o'clock at the Swedish Lutheran church when the nuptials of Mr. Charles Oscar Hagberg and Miss Eda Marie Lindbergh took place.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Lindbergh and Mr. Fritz Hagberg, brother of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were the Misses Jennie Lideen and Emma Beck and the groomsmen were Messrs. John Bye and Erick Westberg.

The church had been decorated in an elaborate and elegant manner and the scene was a beautiful one. The laws were lighted with fifty or more incandescent colored lights which made a beautiful spectacle.

CIVIL ADMINISTRATION

FORM OF GOVERNMENT FOR THE PHILIPPINES AFTER JULY 1.

JUDGE TAFT AS GOVERNOR

New Tariff for the Islands Will Be Proclaimed as Soon After as Possible—Recent Supreme Court Decisions Call for No Change in the Federal Government's Programme. Military Will Be in Control.

Washington, June 5.—About July 1 full civil government will be set up in the Philippine Islands, exactly as provided by the Philippine commission. As soon after that date as an administrative machinery can be made ready for it the new Philippine tariff will be proclaimed, also following out the original plan formed before the announcement of the decision of the supreme court last week. It was also an extra session of congress. These determinations followed a careful study of the jurisdiction of the court by Attorney General Knox and Secretary Root the results of which were made known at the cabinet meeting during the day. After two hours' discussion the cabinet was unanimous in the opinion that the recent supreme court decision called for no change in the government's programme. Secretary Root has had little doubt at any time since the court's action of the feasibility of continuing the action of the Philippine programme without violating any of the principles enunciated by the court, and his main duty to make sure that he had not overlooked anything that belied on his part. He has not found in any of the decisions delivered since the justices announced in his original idea, and having to satisfy the cabinet. Attorney General Knox, after an independent consideration of the decision, was of the same opinion as the originally long view was carried out. The programme will be submitted to the cabinet a very elaborate review of the supreme court decisions with his conclusions thereon.

Mrs. McKinley, However, in No Immediate Danger.

Washington, June 5.—Mr. Taft was at the White House an hour and a half today, in answer to inquiries concerning Mrs. McKinley's condition, said: "There has been no change in the condition in the morning. She is resting very comfortably. Of course there are fluctuations in her condition, but she is better and at times worse, but she is originally a long view. In fact she is possibly gaining very slowly. There is no more immediate danger now than there has been for some time."

The car was approaching the jail as an unmarked motor car. Three loaded revolvers into the cab. Jones caught one of the officers and shot Officer Boyd. Officer Stewart opened fire on Jones, shooting him in the arm and groin. The prisoners fled a running street car ordered the motorcar to proceed faster. The latter removed the arm of the motor car and struck Rutledge over the head, while the conductor threw out the prisoner. The men were brought to a standstill. The men were then overpowering.
