

THE MEMORIAL WAS IMPRESSIVE

A Large Concourse of People Attend the Elks Annual Meeting Sunday

Memorial Address by J. T. Armstrong of Duluth, a Powerful Effort

Sunday afternoon a very large and intelligent audience gathered at Gardner's hall, the event being the annual observance of Elks memorial day and the convening of the Lodge of Sorow. The exercises throughout were particularly interesting, and although Brainerd Lodge B. P. O. E., has not suffered since its evacuation from the loss of a member, the services yesterday were very impressive and served to recall the sorrows of other lodges in the United States during the past twelve months, all of which were holding the same solemn exercises at the same hour.

Brainerd lodge has grown in membership during the past year to a degree that is extremely gratifying to the organizers. There is a membership in the lodge now of about 130 and it is expected after the new hall is completed that the membership will reach the 200 mark before spring.

The program as originally planned was not carried out yesterday afternoon, although it was equally as good perhaps. Judge Alderman was sick and the American quartet could not sing. Mr. Alderman was also down for a solo. Mrs. J. C. Atherton and Mrs. C. W. Crane, however, assisted materially with the singing, rendering a solo during the exercises.

The first speaker was Exalted Ruler Saxton, who spoke of the virtues of the organization.

W. S. Cox was the next speaker and in part he said:

"One needs not elegant diction, flower of rhetoric, penitence, or other of the arts and accessories of oratory to inspire you with noble sentiments at such a time as this. The very time, the occasion, the day we observe with its tender memories and all the surrounding circumstances, the gathering of the members of this order and many friends the flowers, the charms of music, the solemn service—each in itself is an instant inspiration. For at such a time as this we must all feel, as the conscience does in silence and at night, that 'life should soar to nobler ends than power.'"

"The nobler end? They are those that make possible this beautiful ceremonial today. They are those that brought us together as a lodge. The wish for a closer brotherhood to bind ourselves together by a tie that can never come from social or business relations and not to often in the home life where for some inscrutable lack of reason the human family is prone to throw off every restraint and lay bare to those nearest and dearest all the evil of their natures. If a man have brutality as a part and parcel of his make up give me the one who vents his ill nature upon the street or his place of business, but who enters the portals of his home, in the kind and loving husband and indulgent father. He may not gain the credit for it but he is the real gentleman as contrasted with the glibbed from him who only puts on his smile and engaging manner when he closes the door of his home behind him."

Major A. J. Halted then spoke at length. He said in part:

"The principles of the order of Elks, although widely known, are not as well known as they should be. Many people think our principal object is to get together and have a good time. That does not mean justice. While the social feature is a prominent one in our order, I want to say that the Elks is the most charitable organization on the face of the earth—not that charity which goes abroad and flaunts itself before the world; but that letting the right hand know what the left hand doeth—that is the kind of charity practiced by the Elks."

"The order of Elks is well known for its benevolent and charitable acts. It long ago surpassed every other order in the United States in acts of charity. But the past year it is safe to make the statement that the Elks have surpassed any order in the world for a single year's beneficent deeds. Hereafter, in any one year the most that was accomplished by the lodges comprising our grand order, was less than $12,000. The past year nearly a quarter of a million dollars have been transmitted to the worthy needy, the actual amount, as shown by the grand lodge reports, being the munificent sum of $226,887."

"Except in the case of a great public calamity, like that of Galveston, the gifts made are not published to the world, it being a principle, indeed a law, among the Elks, that the name of a brother, or the family of a deceased brother, receiving charity, shall not be known outside the order, in order that there may be no humiliating feature connected with the deed."

"You all know the motto of our order, brethren: 'The virtues upon the tables of love and justice.'"

"As I have already stated, the chief and greatest characteristic of the order of Elks is the practice of charity; not to its membership alone, but in line with the teachings of the Master, who said to His disciples, 'A new commandment give I unto you, that ye love one another. The great principles of our order are charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity.'"

"As our order continues to grow as grow it will, having already invaded the islands of the sea, and it is not far distant when the lodges of Elks shall encircle the world, like the martial hosts of England. Whenever shall come that happy time, then shall it be, at that hour they will know that some place on earth it is 11 o'clock, and that all eyes are turned to the lodge of Elks, performing their loyal duty of remembering our absent brothers."

"The address of the day was given by Mr. J. T. Armstrong of Duluth and it was the general impression that no better effort along any line has been heard in this city for many days. Mr. Armstrong, an orator by nature, and he is endowed with a peculiar poetic gift which carries with his remarks a glowing effect of the sweetest sensation. It is to be regretted that his memorial address to the Elks yesterday afternoon could not be published in full. The following are excerpts:

"I do not believe that an explanation of what this day means to us is needed here; I presume that the symbolism of this memorial service is to be understood by everyone present. Wherever there exists in this broad land a lodge of Elks there is today a gathering like this, with the flowers, the charms of music, the solemn service—each in itself is an instant inspiration. For at such a time as this we must all feel, as the conscience does in silence and at night, that 'life should soar to nobler ends than power.'"

"The nobler end? They are those that make possible this beautiful ceremonial today. They are those that brought us together as a lodge. DISTRESSING AND PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Young Son of Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Lease Has a Leg Taken Off Yesterday

RUN OVER BY STRING OF CARS, He and Other Lads Were Sweeping Wheat From Cars in N. P. Yards.

A most distressing accident occurred Friday about 5 o'clock near the Fourth street crossing and as a result young Fred Lease, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Lease, who lives on Second street south, lost a leg and his life, may yet be sacrificed.

Young Lease with a number of young boys were sweeping wheat from some cars standing on a siding near the Monarch elevator where they had been for several hours. There was some wheat under the cars and one of the older boys said to have asked the young boy to crawl under and get some of the wheat. This the young boy did but while he was under the car a switch engine hooked on one end of the string of cars and without the least warning started to go. The boy tried to make his escape from the death trap and got hurt, but one of his legs got caught beneath one of the wheels and he fell fainting. Several cars passed over his leg and it was crushed to jelly, the flesh hanging in shreds from the bones.

The boy was removed to his home and afterwards to St. Joseph's hospital. Dr. Thabes and Hatcherberger were called and amputated the shattered leg. A heart ache of pain, or a heart throb of joy, it is either the one or the other, the year as a whole has gone from you, you have lost and forgotten it. It is only the particular day here and there that you remember. It may be a day when that heart was wrung with anguish, because the market was so low, and some one near and dear to you. Or it may be a day made memorable because it witnessed the successful consummation of an important business deal, or by the opportunity to do a good deed, or to see again the loved light in the eyes, and to clasp the hand of some loved one long absent. "I am glad that a day has been set apart by the Brotherhood of Elks in a memorial day. I am glad that it has been placed near the beginning of winter, amid the beauties of the dying year, the faded emblems of the summer, the flowers in the garden, all pointing to another milestone in the history of the life of our order. There is a touch of sadness in the closing of a year with its lifeless leaves scattered at our feet, and its evidences of decay, which from, where there was once life and the laughter of the trees. No longer do the souls were found under Dale & Bane's warehouse and it is thought that the thieves became leary and planted the spoils of their expedition. No arrests will be made as it would be impossible to make out a case against them as they were not seen."

THEY STOLE COATS

Seas-Thieves Made Away With Two Duck Coats In Front of G. A. Lagerstedt's

Monday the police were called upon to try and locate thieves who stole two duck coats from in front of G. A. Lagerstedt's clothing store. The police suspected two men in town and were watching them but they got away with the coats without being caught.

Tuesday the coats were found under Dale & Bane's warehouse and it is thought that the thieves became leary and planted the spoils of their expedition. No arrests will be made as it would be impossible to make out a case against them as they were not seen."

McCULLOUGH NOMINATED

For the Office of Deputy Grand Master of the I. O. O. F. of the State of Minnesota.

George McCullough has received word from the grand master of the I. O. O. F. of the state that he has been nominated for the office of deputy grand master for the state. This is quite an honor and it is understood that Mr. McCullough has the backing of all the members of Unity Lodge of this city.

The several lodges of the state will vote on officers in the near future and it is hoped by Mr. McCullough's friends that he will be elected.

THE BRAINERD OPERA HOUSE

A BRILLIANT EVENT.

Brainerd Dressed in Gala Attire At First Performance in New Opera House.

Excellent Stage Facilities Makes Possible the Appearance of Large Productions.

Everyone Present Declared the New Brainerd House a Perfect Gem.

The Auditorium Was Packed to Overflowing With City's Swagger Set.

All Brainerd was out in its gayest attire Monday night at the opening of the new opera house, and never before has there been a more fashionable and stylish gathering in the city, the event being dignified especially by elaborate displays of pretty gowns, rich and elegant with the latest that a lavish hand of art can be directed to procure.

The beautiful coloring of the new and richly furnished walls of the theatre, the embellishment of the beautiful draperies about the boxes and the foyer, the harmonious tints in the scenic properties of the house, and the auditorium filled with ladies in handsome gowns, with a perfect shower of dazzling lights to illuminate the scene, made the picture one of the most lovely to behold, the triad of excellent coloring giving an inspiring feeling to the lover of beautiful and harmonious effects.

The list of elegant gowns and by whom they were worn would be too long to publish. The list of names intended to procure these names and a description of each gown. There were many out of town guests at the theatre and the event was made a brilliant social affair, a fitting opening to the season's gaiety. All the society folk of the city seemed to take this as a nucleus for social formations and the Brainerd Opera House will in all likelihood become popular as a Mecca for Brainerd's swagger set.

The boxes presented a stylish air. In one of the lower boxes were Ke. Mayor J. H. Koop, wife and son, the Misses Koop. In another one of the lower boxes was Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sankara and family and Mrs. Kate Closterman, of Staples, mother of Mrs. Sankara. In "the box to the right of the house" was Mr. J. P. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Parker, and the rear box was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Kneate, Miss Spalding and Messrs. Bert Parker and Clarence Hill.

In the upper box on the right hand side Hon. A. F. Ferris and a party of friends including Hon. A. N. Dure, of Elk River, Hon. C. B. Buckman, of Little Falls and Landlord George Kibbin, of the Merchants Hotel, St. Paul, were seated. In the box to the rear sat Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wise. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Reilly occupied a box on the left hand side another box party consisted of the Misses Adams, Barker and Curry and Messrs. Batcheller and F. B. Johnson. All the ladies were beautifully gowned for the event.

"The Casino Girl" was selected as the piece for the opening and long before the hour of performance the house was crowded, and as the business manager remarked, it was one of the prettiest audiences that the company has greeted for some time. The production was very satisfactory, and it is thought that hardly a person in the house went away feeling disappointed. It is a high class comedy which is considered a magnificent performance.

The performance that night gives the people of Brainerd the idea of the excellent facilities of the stage in the new house. This company used its own scenery, and used all of it, and there is not a theatre going in the city but that will say that the stage effect last night was almost perfect. The stage is large and roomy, and it will never be necessary for any company to cut out parts of the performance on this account. Members of the company were especially gratified with the end of the house, being particularly pleased with the modernized interior and these have been selected with great taste, the coloring matching with that on the scenic drop curtain. The draperies are the best imported upholstered French goods and cost the association in the neighborhood of $500. The harmony of the coloring of the draperies and the scenic drop, and the resplendent style of the decorations of the house, with green and gold tints, under the glare of the light, makes a wonderfully pretty effect.

The seats in the parquet are all upholstered and have been selected with a view to bring out the general harmonizing effect of the interior of the theatre. There are 187 seats in the parquet. The arrangement of the seats is especially modern. The entrance to the gallery, or the "lighter heaven," as it is sometimes called, is in the lobby and not in the foyer as in some houses, so that the feature of the house is made a separate department in its self. The entire arrangement of the foyer, lobby, entrance, rooms, and box office is modern in every way.

The stage has a depth of 33 feet, is 57 feet wide and its height to the gridiron is 48 feet. The stage is equipped with all the accessories for the production of a first class piece, and Brainerd theatre goes will never have cause to regret that part of a show has been "cut out." The stage is one of the most conveniently arranged in the north-west, not only from an advantageous standpoint for the house, but the members of theatrical companies have been considered, and actors who visit this house will find all the latest and most modern equipments. The dressing rooms are large, commodious and airy and the lavatories and toilet rooms are all arranged in a most satisfactory manner.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The attractive programs distributed to the patrons of the opera house last night contained announcements of companies booked for the current month. The list is a very attractive one, and includes Hoyt's latest comedy, "A Texas Steer"; Eugene Blair in an elaborate production of his new play, "Peg Woffington"; the famous Lewis Morrison production of "Rustle"; the Royal Italian Band, which organization comprises fifty of Italy's best instrumentalists, and is undoubtedly the best concert band that has ever toured this country; and the Chase-Lister stock company, which will be seen in an excellent repertoire of comedies and dramas. The theatre patrons of Brainerd are to be congratulated upon the opportunities offered them in the matter of entertainment during the first month the handsome opera house is open.

Hoyt's most laughable satire upon national politics, "A Texas Steer," comes to the Brainerd opera house next Friday evening, after a highly successful tour across the continent. This celebrated comedy is always a welcome offering wherever it is presented, for it affords theatre-goers a double opportunity to enjoy a hearty laugh and a good play both at the same time. Of all the Hoyt plays "A Texas Steer" ranks as best. It is the famous playwright's highest than in any of his other farce-comedies, but at the same time he filled it to overflowing with fun and merriment. The piece deals in the happiest way with politics, both local and national, and as it is absolutely non-partisan all parties are pleased and interested. It carries one into the midst of the intrigues and plots so common with Washington political life and gives the audience a crude, but absorbing idea of the ways of the average politician and office-seeker. There is a charming little love story interwoven and an occasional touch of pathos, in the midst of the rollicking fun, that surprises one almost to tears.

The company this year is one of exceptional strength. James R. McCann, the intomtable "Haverick Brainerd," is still at the head of the organization, having almost seven years' grained in this part. Of the other old time favorites, Gustave Nauwille as "Major Yell," Edward J. Bos as "Old Bragg," Lisle Ken dall as "Mrs. Brande" and Katie Farwell as "Dixie Styles" will also be seen in their "original parts." This season two notable improvements have been made in the "Bosy" of Lydia Dickson and the "Bosy" of G. P. James A. Davis, who give a far better portrayal of these roles than they ever had before.

The sale of reserved seats opens Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at Dunn's drug store.

Eugene Blair's magnificent production of "Peg Woffington," which was adapted for her by Wendell Allison Hobart from Charles Read's classic novel of the same name, will be presented in its entirety in this city in the near future.

The play is a new one but the care and elaborateness with which it is produced has caused it to score a lasting success in every city where it has been played. In creating the role of "Peg," Miss Blair has honestly earned a well deserved triumph and has enriched the stage with a new character that is effectively pleasing.

THE BOY WILL LIVE.

Young Scott Lease, who had his leg cut off, is Much Better Today and No Serious Results are Expected.

Scott Lease, the young son of N. A. Lease, who had his leg cut off by being caught between the wheels of a car near the Monarch elevator on Friday evening will live.

The leg, was amputated above the knee by Drs. Bachelder and Twombles, as was stated Saturday, but at the time it was not known what the effect of the shock would be on the young man. The many friends of the family will be pleased to learn, however, that the boy is improving today and he will be all right in a few days.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me so good," says County Physician Geo. W. Scott, a physician I have prescribed it and send it to give the best results. If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach, it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by digesting but this means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need not starve. It cures indigestion, constipation, the worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. H. P. Dunn & Co.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under the Sun." All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders and gels, but they have failed to form. Their powders dry up the mucous membrane causing irritation and pain. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely done away with the same. And all experienced practitioners who have for many years made a specialty of Catarrh, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once but permanently cures Catarrh, by removing the cause, stopping the discharge, and curing all inflammation. It is the remedy known to science that actually reaches the affected parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "Snuffles the Guaranteed Catarrh Cure" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfected use.

Yesterday afternoon the fire department was called to the residence of James R. Burras on Ninth street north. The children had built a fire in the stove in one of the rooms upstairs and there was some clothing hanging in close proximity which caught fire. The children tried to put the fire out without the assistance of any one and in this way the flames made rapid headway. The department did good work and by prompt action checked what might have been a very serious conflagration. As it was much of the clothing in the room was destroyed and the wood work was badly charred. Walter Cameron, the young man who was thrown from the top of a car near Deerwood recently and quite badly injured, is still at the North-Western hospital. J. A. DOING SOMETHING FOR INDIANS.

Government Urges that the Subject of Agriculture Should be Studied- Domestic Science for Girls.
The annual report of the superintendent of Indian schools has been submitted to the commissioner of Indian affairs. It is an interesting document, showing what the government is doing for the practical education and advancement of the Indians, and embraces ideas gleaned from personal observation in the field together with the views of various superintendents, Indian workers and prominent educators throughout the United States. The general superintendent has outlined a uniform course of study for the students of the Indian schools, and makes a strong argument for education along practical lines which will improve the Indian's domestic science, the study of agriculture, the subject of agriculture is taken up, embracing dairying and other branches of farm study, as well as domestic science for the girls. Speaking of agriculture, the superintendent says: "No occupation will so permanently benefit the Indian as the study of agriculture. Tilling of the soil will necessarily obligate him to remain in one spot, and the performing of certain duties at proper times of the year will impart into him the necessity for systematic work and for giving attention to details. To make any real progress the Indian must have a home, wherein will center all his interests, hopes and ambitions, and a home on a farm will best fill these requirements. As there is no field in which he can so readily contribute to his own support, he should not only be encouraged, but urged to cease leasing his allotment, to cultivate more acres, raise better crops, and live the thrifty, independent life that the Indians of this land are so proud of."
Miss Reed points out that the Indians own their land, and each one should be taught to farm it himself. In preference to his old-time custom of renting to his industrious white neighbors, and himself living in idleness. This idea, instilled into the red man will be a long step toward actual reform. Attention is called to the fact that the first government appropriation in 1819 was for $10,000, while during the past year the sum of $3,242,250 was expended for Indian schools and that the total number of pupils enrolled was nearly 25,000. The superintendent points to the benefits resulting from the introduction of the outfit system, and suggests systematic methods of selecting pupils for school attendance calculated to reduce to the lowest possible degree of evil which have hitherto existed.
A gratifying feature of Indian education, as indicated by the report, is the rapid growth of industrial training methods in the Indian schools. Practical industrial training, with elementary literary studies applicable to industrial work, should make the Indian a useful citizen, and this is the aim of the Indian school service under its present management.

A FINE OPERA HOUSE.

Editor Fuller of the Little Falls Transcript thinks it is one of the Neatest. The following is taken from the Little Falls Transcript about Brainerd's new opera house: "Brainerd's new theatre, the Park Opera house, was opened on Monday evening by a company that played 'The Cuckoo Girl.' There was a benefit sale of tickets, and the patronage of the citizens was so liberal that the receipts for the first night were about $2,000. The house is one of the neatest in the northwest being up-to-date in every respect, and it has one of the largest stages west of Chicago. The seating capacity of the theatre is 877, the seats being so arranged as to secure a good view of the stage from any position. C. P. Walker, who has the management of the Fargo Grand Opera, Crockett and Winthrop theatres, has leased the new house for a term of five years. The property is owned by a joint stock company, composed of prominent citizens, the officers being: President, A. F. Ferris; vice president, H. R. Wain; treasurer, F. R. Johnson; and secretary, G. D. LaBar. Going out of the clothing business and selling the stock at actual cost price. Come and examine prices. HENRY I. COOPER.
