Brassery Indeed. The last issue of the Brainerd Tribune contains this reference to the Clay County Convention and the action of the Congressional Convention in relation to that matter:

To begin with, friend Carson, we were not aware that any land office delegates went from Clay County. Clay sent two sets of delegates, the one republican and the other democratic, but there is no land office in that county.

A Field-day in Congress—The Senate Comes to a Focus—Politics Paramount—The Democrats Make the Attack and are Put to the Route—Exiting Speeches, etc. A Washington correspondence to the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Tribune thus richly describes a most interesting debate that took place in the Senate on the 18th ult., which is well worth reading and preserving as it shows that the prime object of the Democrats before present Congress in all their investigating and mud-throwing operations has been purely political, as well as entirely barren, in the end, of results as all satisfactory to that party.

WADENA. Bro. Hartley—We are wont to be a man of peace, but we want to wage war with you about one moment—just long enough to call your attention to a mistake in our last communication.

Personal. Jno. T. Williams, of the N. P. Junction, paid Brainerd a visit on Thursday. William Fry, agent for the N. W. Mutual Life Ins. Co., gave us a call this week.

W. S. KINDRED returned this week from his silver mine at Elizabeth, Ont., with numerous beautiful specimens, and reports the mine no longer unproductive, but rich as Croesus himself.

Rev. Samuel Madison, of White Earth, gave us a call on Thursday. He is a full blood Indian, and used to reside in Brainerd and at Gull Lake. He has recently graduated, we understand, at Fairbank college, and two weeks ago entered the ministry, being ordained by Bishop Whipple, of the Episcopal Diocese.

L. Ed. Davison, of the Detroit Record, was pointed out to us on Tuesday at the depot. He looks like a man who ought to know better than to make such careless remarks so totally devoid of truth as those appearing in another column clipped from the Record.

On Tuesday evening last the most destructive fire occurred here that has ever visited Brainerd, though she has experienced some pretty severe scourging. The alarm was given at about 10 o'clock, and the people rushed to the street to find the flames bursting from the roof of Starwood's post-office block, on the corner of Front and Fifth streets, being the east end of the longest unbroken range of wooden buildings in the town.

While the buildings near the corner of Front and Fourth streets were burning, Mr. Canby's store and other buildings on the opposite side of Front street narrowly escaped destruction, but they were saved by close watching, and in less than two hours from the first alarm, the fire was over, and the principal block in town lay in ashes before us.

Now, Bro. Hartley, is the unkindly sent out of us on Tuesday at the depot. He looks like a man who ought to know better than to make such careless remarks so totally devoid of truth as those appearing in another column clipped from the Record.

The Sioux, or Dakotas, Indians.

The Sioux, or Dakotas, as they are indifferently named, have been known for more than two centuries.

Their first difficulty with the United States was in 1854; three years before this the government purchased 35,000,000 acres of them for $3,000,000.

At the present time, the original Sioux nation is much scattered. Many of the bands who were hostile in 1862, went north into the British possessions...

That stuff in the veins of twenty men would kill every one of 'em," said Jake. "Some people would say this fellow was a year old, according to his rattlesnake. I don't believe it. I believe these snakes get 'em more than once a year when they are young."

Comfort in Affliction.

My husband, sir," she said, drawing out a handkerchief, while her lips quivered, "I looked so white and sad and drooping as she sat there, that his heart was touched."
