Hard to please—the lumbermen are complaining of too much snow.

An old fashioned winter at last. Where are the climatory revolution prophets?

Hon. Alexander Ramsey has assumed the duties of Secretary of War, and Minnesota is represented in the Cabinet at last.

Brainerd has been warned by Lake City, Duluth, Bismarck, Deadwood, and past experience. Will she heed the warning?

Ignis-fatuus Donnelly is still conducting the impudent farce of contesting the seat of Gen. W. D. Washburn in Congress. Bah!

On Friday last Mr. Stanley Russell, a former resident of Sauk Rapids, was attacked with bleeding at the nose, and all efforts to staunch the flow failed and on Sunday he died.—St. Cloud Journal.

Col. John Davidson, agent for the N. P. R. R. at Bismarck, places the Tribune under obligations to him this week, for a letter giving an account of the fire in that city on Thursday morning.

No less than twelve stove-pipes bristle through the roofs in Center Block, all threatening ignition and total destruction to the block. Let them be removed and replaced with brick chimneys.

A fire in Center Block would probably destroy $100,000 worth of property. A good fire apparatus with pipe from railroad water main would cost less than $300. What does good judgment dictate under the circumstances?

The fullest, most comprehensive report of Congressional news appears in the Washington specials to the Pioneer Press. Charley Johnson, the correspondent of that paper, is a good one, and the Pioneer Press is fortunate in obtaining his services.

We have had no musquitoes for at least a week. The weather has been rather cool for them and they were not prepared with overcoats and arctics. These commodities are in course of preparation, however, and they may be expected to raid the skating rink in a few days.

Mr. W. E. Truax, agent of the N. P. Ry. at Moorehead, is the champion of bicycles and the game of checkers. He edits a department devoted to checkers in the Fargo Times, and his reputation as an oracle of the game is universally conceded. He owns an extensive library of volumes upon the game, and is regarded as the most brilliant player of the age.

A writer now claims that the Jews did not crucify Christ. He says Pontius Pilate was a Roman and pronounced the sentence of death upon Jesus, which sentence was executed by the Roman soldiery. If this turns out to be true we shall feel, individually, as though we owed the Jews an apology, done in oil, on sole-leather. And, as for the Romans, they'll be invited by an indignant world, to take a seat in the gallery, whilst the Jews will occupy the dress-circle and make all the "mouths" in the future. "There's no telling," as the old woman said when she followed the cart. —[Duluth Tribune.

Bismarck received a severe scorching Thursday morning. Brainerd, with her close wooden ranges and stove-pipe chimneys, will come next unless something is done and that speedily. A very small expense would render the town comparatively safe and undoubtedly save many thousands of loss by fire. Let the people petition the railroad company to put a pipe connecting with the water main and running into the middle of Center block, with a hose attachment, and any ordinary fire taken in time could be extinguished before much damage could be effected. If money can be raised for a skating rink, why can it not be raised for fire-protection? Business before pleasure, gentlemen.

The attempt is being made by some of our exchanges to attach blame to Deputy Warden Hall, of the Stillwater State prison, who shot and killed Clark the mutinous convict on Thursday of last week, (a full account of which appears in another column of this issue,) though a coroner's jury after fully examining into the facts justly exculpates him from all blame. It must be considered that the officers of the prison have some two hundred awful city criminals, the hardest cases they have in State afforts, to deal with and govern, of whom a dozen or more including the infamous Younger gang occupied the same room with Clark, and doubtless stood ready to lend him a helping hand if necessary, and to avail themselves of any opportunities the conflict might afford. Clark evidently contemplated mischief—the affray may have been pre-arranged between him and his fellow convicts, and the action of Hall was the only safe course and displayed a supply of nerve which leaves no question as to his qualifications for the position which he holds. Instead therefore of adding to the burden of this most disagreeable duty performed in the interests of law and order by a faithful and courageous officer, public sentiment should support and encourage him. Neither those who are inmates of the prison, or those who expect or ought to be there, can be expected to applaud him, and law-abiding citizens should beware lest they be found pleading the cause of criminals and tut-throats.

BRAINERD TRIBUNE.

VOL. VIII.—NO. 45. BRAINERD, MINNESOTA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1879. WHOLE NO. 409.

Stove Pipes.

Fargo, like Brainerd, seems to be afflicted with "stove-pipes sticking through the roof" like bristles in a hog's back, and threatening the demolition of the town at any moment, but Fargo, unlike Brainerd, has a city council which is endeavoring to suppress them. The Republican says:

The ordinance relating to stove pipes, passed last week by the City Council, appears to cause some complaint from persons using such pipes in lieu of chimneys. They claim that there are but few bricks to be had, and those are held at high prices, that mortar cannot be made in freezing weather, etc. There may be some force in these objections, but it must be remembered that the Council has been persistently urged to provide measures for combatting conflagrations, and this includes preventive measures. Stove pipes passing through roofs or sides of buildings, are usually considered unsafe, especially in cold climates, where hot fires are indispensable. We have known instances where fire has caught in the roof of buildings from stove pipes, although they passed thro' sheet-iron plates and were several inches removed from contact with the wood. It is true that they can be arranged so as to be comparatively safe, but as a rule they are not, and when, like a chimney, a stove-pipe "burns out," it is dangerous, unless there is no wood within at least twelve inches of the red-hot iron, as wood, subjected to continuous heat for any considerable time, becomes highly inflammable and ignites readily. It may be a hardship to build a chimney at this season of the year, but it would be an infinitely greater hardship should a fire, originating in one of these fire-traps, lay half the town in ashes.

Like "Old Pappy" W. W.

Mr. G. G. Hartley—a brother of W. W., the active head of the Brainerd Tribune—spent a day or two in the city this week on business connected with his lumbering interests. Our friend G. G. is also a stockholder in the Tribune, aforesaid, and, like "old pappy" W. W., is a royal good fellow.—[Duluth Tribune.

Blizzard on the Northern Pacific.

The storm of wind and sleet that prevailed in this region on the 10th inst., was the expiring effort of a terrific blizzard that swept the line of the Northern Pacific from Bismarck eastward to Duluth, embracing an area of over four hundred miles square.—[Faribault Republican.

The above is about the tenor of an article appearing quite generally in most of our State exchanges, and we rise to object, and object most emphatically. No blizzard has visited Brainerd or that portion of the Northern Pacific road sheltered by timber from Wadena to Duluth. This country does not know what blizzards are. They are prairie animals exclusively, and never frequent the timber regions. This is why Brainerd is such a pleasant winter town.

A Poetical Minnesota Postmaster.

Chicago Times.

The postmaster at Red Lake, Minn., in answer to an official circular from this division of the railway mail service, directing the return of a complete list of all local names, to whom mail matter is sometimes addressed, and which are enrolled within his jurisdiction, responds in the following happy strain:

One hundred miles of mud and bog
Just now divide interverse
Between our happy hunting-ground,
And where the "keers" are skeerse.

We have no "locals,"
But the lake shore stretch both far and wide,
And when the wind is on its ear
Its noise the welkin rile.

We have no rail,
But we have the "Indian" all the same;
And when the white fish "run" they can't take,
They seek for other game.

JONATHAN TAYLOR,
Postmaster.

Jonathan's intellect is evidently of no high an order to be curbed by civil service rules. As a formulator of campaign literature, about election times, the Red Lake postmaster may prove of incalculable service to the party.

Mrs. A. Neiger, Taylorville, Pa., writes:

My mother, an old lady of sixty years, suffered for thirty years with rheumatism, to such an extent, that she was at times entirely lame. We procured from Messrs. Ludwig Bros., Druggists in Scranton, Pa., a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, used it according to directions, and saw our efforts crowned with perfect success. Mother was relieved.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15th, 1879.

In the present session, as the whole is to be judged by the first two weeks, it will be more notorious for inefficiency than the last session was for viciousness. Only two appropriation bills have been passed by the House, and these really are unimportant ones so far as any political differences are concerned. They are the Fortification and Pension Bills. I suppose the Senate may pass them promptly, in order to make a show of doing business. But in reality the democrats are attending almost exclusively to work of a partisan nature, and grave senators are devoting their time to caucusing on the distribution of patronage.

Mr. Hubbell, of Michigan, the Republican member who had charge of the Pension Bill in the House, made an interesting statement on presenting it, that the appropriations amount to $32,404,000 San increase of three millions over last session. This increase is due to recent legislation.

Representative Bromer, of Pennsylvania, proposed to investigate the Pension Office, and many republicans may back him in the effort. A great deal of fault is found with the present management. It is charged that Commissioner Bentley is running it for his own aggrandizement, and that some blunders in the dispense of the office its business is unnecessarily behind. One cause of this condition of things will be found to be that Bentley has been putting too many democrats in his bureau for the purpose of consolidating the Brigadiers.

There will be a large gathering of Republicans here this week on account of the National Committee meeting. The National committee and the Congressional committee will probably together make plans for a real beginning of the campaign of '80. Both organizations will qe ably managed.

The animus of the democrats is shown in the fact that they hesitated to appropriate money to pay the Marshals for services performed this year, notwithstanding they had nothing to do with elections. The amount due them for enforcing the laws is more than half a million dollars, but the democrats outside are to invent some means to attach this deficiency to the next bill, and then refuse to pass it except with the prohibitory clause regarding elections. They are brooding mischief, whether they have the courage to carry it out or not.

As Congress will adjourn next Friday for a recess of eighteen days, there will be little left here except in social circles which will be unusually animated this winter, it is thought. After the reassembling the round of receptions and dinners will be continuous until Lent.

MAXWELL.

The Bismarck Blaze.

Bismarck, Dec. 18, 1879.

Editor Brainerd Tribune.

A disastrous fire occurred here this morning at 5.30 a. m., which at one time threatened the destruction of all the portion of the city lying east of Fourth street. The fire originated in the "St. James" restaurant, better known to your readers as "Fosters" old place, spread rapidly to adjoining buildings and was finally arrested at the "Western House," owned and occupied by the Malloy Bros. as a hotel. At one time the "Sheridan House" was in imminent danger of cremation but, by the application of wet blankets to the side exposed to the heat, and water supplied from Mr. Bly's steam fire apparatus, this fine structure was saved. The fire department and citizens worked with a will and succeeded in saving the "Western," although on fire in several places. The morning was calm, comparitively, which was very forthnate, as with a high wind from N. E. all hope of saving the "Sheridan" would have had to be abandoned.

Buildings burned: Pacific Saloon, St. James Restaurant, Geist's watchmaker's shop, J. H. Marshall, boots and shoes—part of stock saved in damaged condition; Chas. Kypit (late Hallett & Keating) meat market; D. S. Bly & Co., hardware; Dan. Eisenberg, dry goods. The latter named is the heaviest loser, his large and elegant stock being either burned up or entirely ruined by removal.

Other buildings in the neighborhood were partially injured, and in the hurry removal of stock great loss was incurred.

Stop My Paper.

Every publisher of a newspaper has heard this tremendous order from offended subscribers, imagined by the offended to be as dangerous as a stroke of lightning, but in reality more harmless than a musquito bite. A good story is told by the Philadelphia Post of Mr. Swaim, the former proprietor of the Daily Ledger. By his course on some public question, on which different papers took different opinions, Mr. Swaim had offended a number of readers, one of whom met him on Chestnut street, and thus accosted him:

"Mr. Swaim, I've stopped the Ledger."

"What is that, sir?"

"I've stopped the Ledger," was the stern reply.

"Is it possible!" said Mr. Swaim. "My dear sir, what do you mean? Come with me to the office."

And taking the man with him, he entered the office at Third and Chestnut street. There they found the clerks busy at their desks; then they ascended to the editorial and composing room, where everything was going on as usual. Finally they descended to the pressroom where the engines were at work.

"I thought you told me that you had stopped the Ledger," said Mr. Swaim.

"So I have," said the offended subscriber.

"I don't see the stoppage. The Ledger seems to be going on."

"Oh! I mean to say—that is, that I have stopped taking it."

"Is that all?" exclaimed Mr. Swaim. "Why, my dear sir, you don't know how you alarmed me."—Ex.

The Blizzard Horror.

Fargo Daily Argus.

Carl Belau, a German, with his family, were living in a shanty belonging to another man on section 10, township 143, range 50, something less than a mile from the place where they were preparing for a home. The man had constructed a stable, and the house was ready to move into. They commenced to move Saturday, and were drawing their goods on a hand-sleigh, leaving their stove behind to be taken over the next trip. When within about one hundred rods of the house, the woman was taken ill, and the two youngest boys, aged eighteen months, and three and a half years, were left wrapped in a blanket, and put in a dry goods box, while the man helped his wife and two other children to the house. They got the woman in bed when the boy and girl were beginning to freeze, and they were put in bed with their mother. By this time it began to get dark, and when the man started out for the children left behind, his wife begged him not to go, as the children were lost, and he would freeze. He could not think of leaving them without making an effort, so he started and had reached the box, when he was frozen and died on the spot.

The woman gave birth to a child that night, and on Sunday night it died. She laid in bed without any fire, or food to eat until Monday noon when she got up and managed by some means to reach the house of Mr. Gage, about one and one-half miles distant. Search warrants made, and the man was found lying on his back near the box which contained the bodies of his two boys.

It is reported that Mr. Belau had loaned about $65 to some man, and was unable to get it or he would have had everything made comfortable before the cold weather came on. Sheriff Haggart, with his usual true generosity and kindness, sent some flour and provisions to the man who still remains at the house of Mr. Gage. Deputy Sheriff Hammes returned last night with the boy and girl, who were badly frozen, but will probably recover.

ANOTHER.

Among reports of accidents during the late blizzard, The Argus is pained to learn of the sad death of George Owens, aged 19, and Evans Owens, aged 14, children of Wm. Owens, sheriff of our neighboring county of Richland. Last Saturday they were visiting a neighbor, in company with their grandfather, and when they were ready to go home, the old gentleman told them to remain where they were over night. They insisted upon starting, however, and were allowed to do so. They were found next day, half way home, frozen to death.

Library of Universal Knowledge.

Volume two of this very excellent, and from an economical point of view, extraordinary work, is issued October 25th. Its 736 neatly printed and well-filled pages contain a wealth of knowledge, covered by the alphabet between the words Arundel and Boron, such as, it is safe to say, was never before procurable for the trifling sum of 50 cents! The 20 vols. complete, containing over 40,000 distinct articles, and nearly as many more incidentally mentioned subjects, with complete index, are sufficient of themselves to afford a liberal education to any one of limited resources. As a matter of course, they are finding their way into the hands of hundreds of those whose love of knowledge has exceeded their power to buy it at the great prices charged for Cyclopædias heretofore published in this country, none of which equal this in the amount of matter given. Volume three will be ready early in November, and the remaining volumes will appear about two each month thereafter. The publishers will send a specimen volume, which may be returned if not wanted, to any part of the United States, for the price, in cloth, 50 cents; half morocco, 75 cents, or an extra fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $1.00. Their catalogue of standard publications will be sent free on request. American Book Exchange, Publishers, 55 Beekman street, New York.

Cyclopædia of Literature.

It will be welcome news to all lovers of good literature that the new, handsome and marvelously cheap Acme edition of Chamber's Cyclopædia of English Literature is to be completed on June 1st. Volume IV is just issued, and the remaining four volumes are to be issued and delivered at one time on the date stated. The work richly deserves the sale it has obtained of nearly 100,000 volumes already, and ought to attain, as it probably will, to a round million. The price, which has varied at different times, increasing as the publication has progressed, has now been permanently fixed at $2.00 for the paper (8 vols. complete—nearly 3,500 pages), $3.00 for cloth, $4.75 for half morocco, gilt top, and $3.75 for the 4 volume edition in half morocco, gilt top binding. A discount of 10 per cent. from these prices is allowed to those whose orders are received before June 1, and a further discount of 10 per cent. to those entering in clubs of five or more sets at one time. Postage, if by mail, 48 cents extra. Orders will be filled in the order of receipt. Specimen pages and full particulars will be sent free on request. American Book Exchange, 55 Beekman street, New York, publishers. Sold only direct to purchasers, and not through dealers or agents.

CURRENT TOPICS.

The luckless Sultan of Turkey has been subjected to an indignity that is usually restricted to less resplendent mortals. His butcher, and baker, and wine-merchant and laundryman have stopped sending supplies to the palace on the ridiculous idea that their bills are unpaid. Think of a Sultan without a bottled stout!

Those who admire the "noble red man," and are forever harping on the injustice done them, will please remember that when they see a chance, they will ruthlessly slay their best friends. Such was Mr. Kennedy not only thus, but he was a friend to humanity. Nevertheless, in the fite outbreak, he was the first man to be killed.

Butterflies are covered with feathers; hairs are hollow tubes. The surface of bodies is covered with scales like those of a fish. A single grain of sand would cover a hundred of these scales, yet a scale covers hundreds of pores. Through these narrow openings perspiration forces itself out, like water through a sieve.

A telegram to Secretary Schurz, from Gen. Adams dated South Pueblo, Col., the 16th reiterates his belief that the surrender of the White River Utes demanded by the commission will be made, but says it will take time to get them together, as the Indians are much scattered and the snow deep, rendering moving from one point to another difficult. For the same reason, he says Gen. Hatch will be delayed in bringing them out. The "snow fall he says, is unprecedented."

The Melbourne correspondent of the London Times declares that the system of paying members of Parliament has proved a failure. It was contended formerly that country districts might contain many capable men, whose services were lost through poverty, but none of these geniuses have yet appeared, while there has been a liberal supply of those who, unsuccessful in other pursuits, ultimately turn their attention to politics."

It is calculated by a Swiss hotelkeeper that in the season which has just terminated 100,000 foreigners have travelled in Switzerland, each visitor staying on his average between three and four days in the country. The average daily expenditure of each amounted, it is further calculated, to 25, including, of course, railway fares, payment for horses, mules, guides, porters, etc., so that altogether some $12,000,000 must have been spent.

Athenæ journals publish the returns of the last census made in Greece. The population of the Kingdom, which in 1870 was 1,369,450, had increased in 1879 to 1,701,783. In 1838 when the first census was taken the number of inhabitants was 810,505. In 1853 it had risen to 1,096,810, while in 1870 it had increased to 76,000. About half a century ago Athens was only a village, now it is the finest city in the East.

A Thieves' supper is one of the novelties of London. In a mission hall in Derby Lane, the Individual criminal has found friends, who, on his discharge, invite him to a festival. This is the principal, and last year 537 thus had a welcoming hand held out to them on emerging from prison. Money has been given to some, all were entertained and inspired on the principle of honesty is the best policy.

Mrs. Gladstone, the ex-premier's wife, is one of the most charitable women in Europe, and is personally known to nearly all the poor in London. Her kind and serene countenance charms at once. She inspires respect in all, and more than once her deserving charity after the war made Penelope forget her husband's policy. was not very favorable to them. She was, in consequence, very well received everywhere in Paris on her late visit.

Pick, the celebrated Berlin detective, who performed wonderful feats in the way of ferreting out ingenious criminals, has just died. He occupied a high public career as "Burgomaster of Feldlichow, a small town on the Oder, which office he exchanged for Commissionary of Criminal Police, some six and twenty years ago. It was he who broke up the band of malefactors who were the terror of Pomerania, in 1850. He joined the band himself, aided them in committing several overt acts of treason, and enabled himself to identify them when they were netted by a force of gendarmerie.

A spirited woman put an end to a duel near Berlin three weeks ago. Principals, seconds and an army of surgeons were on the ground, and the pistols were loaded when the lady suddenly drove up in a swift droschky to the place of meeting, stepped up to her husband's second, snatched a pistol from his hand, and dispersing its muzzle towards her bosom declared that she would kill herself unless the projected duel was there and then given up. The whole party returned peaceably to Berlin.

In Australia experiments for preserving meat by the injection of brine into the blood-vessels of the carcass, thus preserving them whole, is said to be successful, and a wide bullock is to be sent to the Sydney exhibition. The process is reported to be as follows: Immediately after the animal is killed the breast is laid bare, and a pipe inserted into the left ventricle, through which a weak brine is forced through an elevated tank. The brine flows along all the vessels, and drives out the blood through the right ventricle, when a stronger brine is forced in, until all the vessels are full. It is stated that the distribution of the salt is thorough, and the meat is perfectly preserved by the process.

A valid pension appropriation bill was reported. Ordered printed and recommitted. It appropriates $32,000,000, and $34,000,000 will be paid out last year. Adjourned.

House, Dec. 12.—The fortification bill was taken up and the house went into committee of the whole. The speaker explained the provisions of the bill. Mr. Baker, in charge of the bill was the sense that had been reported for life-long service. The bill provides for armament of coast fortifications, including heavy guns and howitzers, powder, etc., and for fixed ordnance. Some $100,000 of which item of the present bill amounted to $229,000, in place of $125,000 in the bill as it came out of the chief of ordinance for that service had been $1,061,000. The sum of $1,000,000 was declared that estimate to $500,000, and the committee had reduced it to $250,000. The increase in the appropriation was for the purpose of converting smoothbore cannon into rifled guns. If Congress concurred the appropriation $225,000 a year for that purpose it would be twenty years before the armament could be made. A valid pension appropriation bill was reported. Ordered printed and recommitted. It appropriates $32,000,000, and $34,000,000 will be paid out last year. Adjourned.

THE DEADLY BULLET.

A Convict in the Minnesota State Prison Shot Dead by the Deputy Warden.

Saturday was startled on the evening of the 11th inst., by the report that a convict had been shot dead in his tracks for insubordination. On receipt of said information an interview was sought with the deputy warden, Jack Hall, in order to get the facts in the case. Mr. Hall was found in the warden's office, and willingly informed us of the cause of the affair and the facts incidental to the shooting.

THE NAME OF THE DEAD CONVICT,

was John Clark, sentenced from Hennepin county May, 1876, for two years and five months for larceny. Since his incarceration he has shown an unruly disposition, which manifested itself Friday last in his attack on Ramsden with a putty knife. He and two others had a conspiracy to get along with doing as little work as possible without incurring displeasure. After cutting Ramsden he was

PLACED IN A DARK CELL,

and remained there until Sunday when he was taken out. On receiving him from the dark cell, the deputy Warden told him that his evil temper, unless he mended his ways would get him in to attack some one who would not let him off as easily as Ramsden did. Monday morning he was sent back to the paint shop to work and no trouble was apprehended with him until fifteen minutes past 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the guard, Ben Cayon, ordered him and another convict to their cells. It was then within a few minutes of quitting time. Clark refused and with which he had cut Ramsden, he assumed a menacing attitude. The guard then sent for Deputy Warden Hall. On arriving he took in the situation at a glance, and taking out his watch told Clark that he would give him three minutes to put down the knife and obey orders. Clark remained immovable, and at the expiration of five minutes Hall put up his watch saying: "Clark, I ask you once more to put down that knife, put on your coat and go to your cell room. You are only

DRAWING FROM THE BLADE PUTTY KNIFE

TAKING YOUR LIFE IN YOUR OWN HANDS.

Clark replied that he would not part with the knife and put on his coat for any person living. Mr. Hall then shifted his position so as not to endanger others, cocked his revolver, a Smith & Wesson, size 38, and pointing it at Clark, repeated his request, and he again said no. It was the last time he spoke for the next moment a

BULLET WENT CRASHING THROUGH HIS HEART.

After being struck by the bullet he ran toward the stripers, then turned towards Hall and fell on his face dead.

Mr. Hall ordered the body taken to the cell room and sent for Coroner Lee. During the whole affair not a convict left his place.

The above is the story as supplied by the prison authorities.

RAILROAD MAGNATES.

Great Gathering at Chicago—Pooling of Passenger Rates by Trunk Lines—Local Illinois Organizations Form a Pool Against the Trunk Lines.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—The Grand Pacific hotel was almost completely taken up to-day by representatives of railroad companies from all sections of the country, with Illinois, several hundred being there during the day. The passenger agreement was the chief topic of discussion adopted a series of resolutions looking to the better protection of the pooling of rates, step which is declared to be daily becoming more necessary, and which will be taken up for action at this meeting. To-morrow they will act on some suggestions of the general manager.

The joint executive committee of trunk lines completed its investigations of freights.

About thirty roads which cross Illinois sent representatives to the meeting of the Illinois Railroad Rate association. The object is to protect their roads from unfair advantages, which the trunk lines have recently given by the joint committee. Chicago is the dividing line. An executive committee was appointed to-day. It was decided that 50% be equalized and full arbitrary rates will be decided at the meeting. The trunk lines will refuse to prorate with trunk lines.

SOUTHERN WAR CLAIMS.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—Representative Thompson, of Kentucky, chairman of the committee having charge of the classification of all claims now pending before the House committee on war claims, presented its report to the committee to-day. The first feature of the report is the declaration that the government is legally responsible for what are popularly known as Southern war claims and that claimants are dependent entirely upon the generosity of the government for the payment of them. The report and recommendations of the subcommittee will doubtless be adopted by the full committee.

CHICAGO CHOSEN.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The Republican national committee unbolted at noon to-day, but remained in conference with closed doors, when a recess was taken for half an hour. Secretary McCormick called the committee to order, and Senator Jones, of Wisconsin, was chosen temporary chairman. After the roll call the presentation of proxies in lieu of absent members was considered.

J. B. Chaffee, member from Colorado, presented credentials as a proxy for Nevada. Accepted.

John C. New, of Indiana, was admitted as a proxy for Washington Territory. Wm. Haas, of Pennsylvania, was admitted as proxy for Washington Territory, was rejected—yeas 7, nays 32.

Wm. Heath, of Alabama, was admitted to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Z. Chandler.

The resignation of Wm. H. Kemble, for Pennsylvania, was accepted, and J. D. Cameron admitted.

The resignation of A. V. Noyes, Ohio, was accepted, and Wm. G. Cooper admitted in his place.

The resignation of A. B. Cornell, New York, was accepted, and Thos. C. Platt succeeded.

The resignation of Wm. Claggett, New Mexico, Chernick, of Arizona, and Hale, of Tennessee, was next accepted.

Florida then came up. It was claimed, on the part of some Florida Republicans the State would be properly represented by Mr. Furman, on account of his being a non-resident, and Mr. Chandler, who, for the purpose, should be admitted. After a long discussion, Mr. Chandler's claim was rejected and Furman was confirmed.

MEMBERS.

The secretary then read the corrected list of members and proxies as follows:

Alabama—Jere Haralson.
Arkansas—Powell Clayton.
California—Thos. H. Dudley.
Colorado—J. B. Chaffee.
Connecticut—Wm. Walrad Ewell.
Florida—Wm. J. Furman.
Georgia—Wm. Hemphill Felton.

Delaware and Washington Territory are unrepresented.

PERMANENT CHAIRMAN.

The election for permanent chairman then began. Chaffee, Colorado, put in nomination Hon. J. T. Averill, Minnesota, and George C. Gorham, California, nominated U. Don Cameron, Pennsylvania.

Whole number of votes	42
Necessary to a choice	22
Donald Cameron, of Pennsylvania	22
John T. Averill, of Minnesota	19

The election was declared unanimous, and Cameron, on taking the chair, returned his thanks.

SECRETARY.

The resignation of R. C. McCormick as secretary of the committee was presented by that gentleman, who stated, in the course of his remarks, that he desired to resume his duties as a reporter, which he could not perform such laborious duties for more than a month, and therefore desired his having accepted the chairmanship of the committee. Upon motion of some gentleman, Mr. McCormick was urged to withdraw his resignation, was accepted, and Thos. B. Keogh, of North Carolina, was elected secretary unanimously.

CHANDLER'S DEATH.

A committee was then appointed to draft resolutions on the death of the late Chairman Chandler.

WORKING COMMITTEE.

A resolution was adopted for the appointment by the chair of a committee of seven, committee of five, including the chairman and secretary, to consider all matters touching the control of the hall to be occupied by the convention in 1880.

TIME OF HOLDING THE CONVENTION.

After recess claims were presented of several places for holding the next Republican national convention, viz: Boston, Mass., and Cincinnati, Ohio. He said he represented in this matter not only Chicago, but the great West. Chicago was the centre of the great railroad center. That city had held successful conventions. It would give a bed to everybody that came. Chicago has the largest hall in the country, the exposition building roofed with glass, and its arrangements for the press would be complete. He hoped the convention would come to Chicago. There was always a great pressure and no seat smoke. It was within five minutes of the railroad depots, and would be placed under the entire control of the executive committee. Tickets and accommodations for the press be furnished free to members of the executive committee at the Grand Pacific hotel. The committee would be ready to receive all applications for tickets. Applications would be done free, as also the printing and binding of the official report of the proceedings of the convention. Anything else that the committee might suggest would be furnished. (Laughter.) And he promised, when the Chicago people would deal fairly with everybody.

Mr. Root—How about beer? (Laughter.)

Mr. Root—The price of beer will not be raised.

Mr. Snowden, of the Chicago Times, promised, on the part of the press of that city that the proceedings of the convention, if held there, would be reported better than they ever had been.

TIME AND PLACE OF CONVENTION.

The claims of Cincinnati were presented by Richard Smith, who said that he would be but been commissioned by the citizens of that city to say that Cincinnati would be heartily pleased to select Cincinnati as the place of holding the next Republican convention. They would present to the delegates and alternates that would be in attendance at the convention a souvenir of the city, which would be used in every part of the world, not the hall in which the convention of 1876 was held. He said, on his own part, and a half million dollars, for unusual purposes. And he was willing to add a good deal to that sum, if necessary, for the purpose of securing the conventions. In the body of this hall, there were 47,000 seats, while 1,200 seats could be seen on the stage. This hall was reached from all hotels by street railroads. The hotel accommodations would be found free of expense. That would include the printing and binding of the proceedings of the convention. The key of the building would be placed in the hands of the executive committee, free from all control on the part of the local committee. Cincinnati would

THE FALLS OF THE SIOUX.

BY L. G. WILSON.

I've seen the monarchs of our land
In mountain, valley, stream and strand,
But never before in a spot did I stand,
With such a wealth of charms as these.

A thousand waterfalls in one,
A thousand rills around be-tune;
A thousand birds in lunch and leaps,
And make the forest ever complete.

They weave tattoos of the day
With rhymes—in meters and measure;
The feeling of the heart wears rocks true,
And held communion with his God.

When, over these meets, materials,
And through the hole with upward halls,
The drops and spray are ever whirled
And heard and seen—nature told.

Here, on the rocks beneath the trees,
Shut out water's beautiful breeze,
Vessel that has ne'er should never sense
While rocking upon life's ocean.

Aside the spell of years to come—
Of school and study, and upside hand
Of food and rest, and pleasure,
Mark's universal state to meet.

Those fish—those and notes—
Of pearly scales, the glancing eye
Under her mountain and its glades,
Makes one hardest cascades.

And, though I roam in other lands—
Beyond these shores—Sioux's Falls—
And hear, in spirit's home—"Sioux Falls,"
Sioux Falls, etc.

MERRY CHRISTMAS.

[Youth's Companion.]

Twas Christmas Eve, and four little children were running round the nursery in their night-dresses, hanging up their stockings for St. Nicholas, and chattering as great give never their expected presents.

"I think I shall have inches enough of presents to break old Santa Claus' back," said black-eyed Bess, reaching upon tiptoe to hang up the tiny stocking of her doll, Bessie Samuel Newport.

"Pish, Bessie, dear," said Rose, deftly braiding her golden hair into a massive pigtail; "I think Santa Claus will just be coming down the chimney with such a load of toy things."

"O dear, dear," wailed little Madge, heart broken at the mere mention of the dead Santa Claus; "let him come down first, please, Wise, and tell on my little to-kins."

Jamie was wiping on his night-gown his scratched and bleeding little fingers, torn in his awkward attempt with pins and tacks to suspend his own chubby sock.

Tired with the scolding, and sliding, and loss-getting, and tumbling, and nothing of the day, Jamie now knelt down suddenly to say his prayers. Then in another little while rosy-cheeked figures popped down beside the little cots, and in folded hands murmured their evening thanks and petitions.

"And please, dear Father," nested Madge, "send Santa Claus to all the little, ragged, cold boys, and let him bring good toys to all those."Please, Amen," echoed all the little rosy mouths.

Then each nestled down in her own little bed and was soon fast asleep, while the snow-flakes and the frost-fairies, in their fairy ways, shook out their tasks and boots, sat, outside the nursery window and wove a hedge certain to keep out the light of the star-bright night, and the wind fairies sang in the tree top all night long.

Very different from this was Christmas eve in old quaint old Flag Alley, where the small youngs, Tim and his smaller sister, Nannie, lay curled up in under a ragged old quilt, with one end in a bundle over their heads to keep off the snow that drifted in through the rattle window. There was neither cloth nor paper in the room, and the bed, nothing from the latter, fluttered a torn stocking.

The children had fallen asleep talking about Santa Claus. It was Tim's opinion that Santa Claus loved most all sorts of children, but especially Red Hair, to whether by poor children, but they had such uncovenental e imps to come down that chimney. A fine new stock of Confectionery at the Restaurant. MISS M. CALEY.

The ladies of the Congregational Church gave an oyster supper at Bly's Hall last evening for the benefit of the church which proved to be a very popular affair, the proceeds exceeding one hundred dollars. In addition to the supper some very fine music was rendered by Mrs. and Rev. R. A. Beard, and the fish-pond telegraph and other devices afforded considerable attraction.

Several clothes lines were robbed on Tuesday night by a tramp or tramps, who afterwards took quarters for the night in the public school building, breaking out an entire window sash for ingress. Citizens are warned to be on the alert, and these villains may yet be caught in their contemptible villainies, when a little gold lead or hemp would prove a wholesome remedy.

We received a brief call this morning from A. C. Carson, business manager of "Carson's Picturesque Red River Valley of the North," a copy of which is on our table, and does high credit to the publisher and the great Northwest it illustrates. Mr. Carson is soliciting subscriptions to his very attractive work and with good success. He will call upon our citizens to-day for their names.

Dr. J. C. Rosser is in receipt of a letter from Thos. H. Canfield, who has recently arrived in Burlington, Vermont, from his Lake Park place on the Northern Pacific. He reports a call upon Dr. Thayer, who has been very sick for several weeks, and announces that the doctor is much improved in health insomuch that on fine days he is able to be driven out. Mr. Canfield adds in a postscript: "No snow and wild weather."

The Banning sisters of St. Paul, who gave one of their delightful readings at Bly's Hall some months ago, will visit Brainerd again during the holidays, accompanied by St. Paul's famous vocalist, W. H. Lieb, who will intersperse the already attractive programme with song. The entertainment will be one of rare merit, and should receive a very large audience. Due notice of the precise time with more particular reference to the programme will be given hereafter.

The Tribune Ahead.

We see by the Minneapolis Tribune that W. W. Hartley, editor of the Brainerd Tribune, and proprietor, has been in that city, and was successfully treated for tape-worm, by a serpent-professor there. A worm, head and all, thirty feet in length was removed, and W. W. went home rejoicing—as any one would who was relieved from the coils of a boa-constrictor of that size. Hartley is ahead; where's the editor who can beat it?

The postmaster's "tape" is most always red; and seldom, if ever, less any head.—Wetumpka Herald. But he is P. M.
A head to his "tape" was considered at all necessary—or anything like that.
