A Summary of the Evidence Elucidated During the Trial Last Monday Before Justice Steiner.
The case of the State of Minnesota vs. Jack O'Neill, on the charge of murdering George Smith, was called for trial Monday afternoon at 10 o'clock before Justice Steiner in this community, of which brief mention was made in our last issue, came to see Justice H. Steiner, and after examining the case, he adjourned for a preliminary hearing. Below we are to be found a summary of the most important and convincing testimony which was presented to the jury during the trial. The case was called for trial Monday afternoon at 10 o'clock. The court was presided over by Justice Steiner. The State was represented by Mr. J. H. Steiner, and the defense by Mr. O'Neill. The case was called for trial Monday afternoon at 10 o'clock.

CURRENT PARAGRAPHS:

A silk association has for some time past existed in Utah, and extensive preparations have been made for the manufacture of silk. Skilled European operatives have been secured, and the factory will probably open about the middle of June.

A recently published map of Boston shows that fully one-half of the present area of that city consists of "made ground," reclaimed from water or swamp by filling in and piling.

A recently published map of Boston shows that fully one-half of the present area of that city consists of "made ground," reclaimed from water or swamp by filling in and piling. The water street exhibition, Charleston, the freight yard of the Fitchburg railroad, the Children's hospital, the Boston Electric Light company's building, and the building of the Boston Art club.

At a conference of the special committee of the American Society of Association in New York, it was decided that a national fair or exhibition would be not only practicable, but a great benefit to the agricultural, mechanical and industrial interests of the country. Although the fair will be mainly for the benefit of the United States and North Carolina, it is intended to give it an international character. Invitations will be sent to all parts of Europe. The location of the fair will be held in the vicinity of New York, probably in the fall of the year, but the date will be fixed at the third meeting shortly. The officers of the various state agricultural associations have expressed a desire to send exhibits, and there is every prospect of a fine display.

If Massachusetts is more fortunate than other states in the possession of historical antiquities, she is nevertheless constantly subjected to the pain of seeing them disappear with the march of modern improvements. The Governor Crankshaw, in Medford, probably the oldest building standing within its limits. The thirteen original states, to be sold at auction, and there is reason to fear that the land on which it stands is nearly two and a half centuries. This ancient structure was erected in 1834, and the center of a large tract of land by a rich merchant. In its early days it was no doubt regarded as an elegant mansion, and even now it bears many marks of decay.

Russia is far behind the rest of Europe in the matter of postal intercourse. While in England thirty letters are annually transmitted for each individual of the population, in Germany fourteen and in France thirteen, the number sent in Russia does not allow one letter to each inhabitant. The unimproved postal system of this letter is officially subjected upon the slightest provocation, the low order of general intelligence, and the lack of postal facilities. There are towns in Russia where letters are delivered only once a month, and in some of the largest provinces, only twice a week. At present the gross revenue of the department is 14,000,000 roubles, which is about cover the expenditures.

The particulars of the recent water competition at Melbourne are somewhat curious. They show that the water which is in point of quantity, the American is the finest and general average. Thus, out of a possible 900 points for good looking water, the American secured the first prize 500; for fish, etc., it got 403; while the American, which came in second, was assigned 403 points for good looking water, and 403 for fish, etc. In the matter of quantity, a watch from London came next after the Loch water, with 498 marks, and considerably before the Scotch water competitor, which had only 430; but as touching fish it was the last but one in a list of eight, gaining no more than 310 marks out of a possible 500. It would therefore seem that in the matter of good time-keeping English horologists have little to learn, but in the matter of quantity, the American and Swiss competitors.

A St. Louis paper thus exposes a "terrific" played by some unknown parties in New Orleans upon its own owners. The paper, which at the latter part of March some unknown parties in New Orleans sent letters to all the principal book-keepers in eastern and western cities, directing them to engage all the available tonnage to carry grain from New Orleans to Europe. The unknown parties borrowed money in the name of a respectable St. Louis firm. The consequence was that the tonnage at St. Louis was in due time, enormously in excess of the freight for shipment, and the vessels had to accept rationally low rates, or go back to the States in ballast. It was a pretty "terrific" on the part of the New Orleans sharps, but it was not all a "Yankee" trick, as the St. Louis paper calls it, for there isn't a half-witted Yankee who wouldn't think that a performance of that kind would, in the long run, cost the community more than it would come to. The book-keeping parties were looking for will not come any sooner in consequence of the "Yankee" trick, as the St. Louis paper will have all in future how they will all come for damage at the most serious port of the States.
