FACIAL PROPENSITY.

General Manager Haupt Severely Criticized.

The Fargo Argus "Suggests" that General Haupt Resign, and Proposes other Changes in the Management of the N. P. R. R.

Never, perhaps, in the history of the Northern Pacific railroad and its varied management has a more uncalculated comment on the control of that road appeared in any journal than that which appeared in the Fargo Argus of late Tuesday. The idea of this illustrious journal, presuming the authority of suggesting the proper disposition of matters pertaining to the management and control of this great line of road has been made the subject of much ridicule since the publication of the article in question. Relative to the "innumerable reports" which have been published relative to the retirement of Gen. Haupt, it is quite plausible to assert that the majority of such articles have been a portion of the reading matter furnished the subscribers of the Argus from time to time. Relative to the article said down by the General at the beginning of his administration, they were such as but very few would find difficult to maintain and submit to, as to stringency and severity, they would not compare with the regulations required by any eastern line. A young man is suggested—evidently the Argus implies that an eastern man of wide and varied experience is not worthy of qualification in preference to a young man of limited comprehension, if such youthful representative only be a western man. On this basis the Argus makes, by self-complimentary insinuation, a most absurd assertion, and betrays great lack of initiative and discretion. That there is a screw loose somewhere is quite evident, indications point strongly to the fact that management will soon be prompted the publication of the article mentioned. Mark the sentence, "what is wanted is a man without grooves, and capable of running outside of a rule." An insinuation of this character is a type of the above, should be ignored as unworthy of even a passing notice by every man who has the interests of this great western country at heart, and who appreciates a pure and systematic control of any corporate organization or institution. When have matters run more smoothly and when have needed more men adjusted with more promptitude and precision than under the present administration? This is a question that it will take more capital than backs the Argus or any other newspaper to answer. Gen. Haupt has been the subject of much admiration and significantly favorable comment by virtue of his recognized qualifications to properly conduct the arduous duties imposed by his present position, as general manager of the Northern Pacific railroad. The situation is one which requires good, sound judgment and cool forethought at all times and under all circumstances and intonations that may arise. A gentleman has been selected who possesses these necessary qualifications in their most technical and formal requirements. But the sent offered which most decisively determines the origin and design of the article published is the one where the paper suggests that a manager should be selected whose word and promise is a sufficient guarantee of their fulfillment. The people of this section are already too familiar with the policy of Gen. Haupt to place any credence whatever upon this kind of unwarrantable claim. The conclusion of the Argus effusion concludes the aim of the selfish motives which have prompted its publication. It is as follows: "It is the opinion of many of the wisest men fully alive to the facts, that Mr. Villard could not do better than to put Mr. Sargent in charge of the Northern Pacific railroad." Dear Argus, it will never be thus; Gen. Sargent resigned through the promulgation of his own judgment, and it will never be expected or presumed that he will again assume the management of the N. P. The "Argus" entertains none but the highest respectation and esteem for Mr. Sargent, but the foolish suggestions of the Argus are truly ridiculous.

This government is loudly called upon to suppress polygamy among the Mormons. At the same time it permits citizenship to even that revolting feature of Mormonism to prevail among the whites. It has lately been reported in the English papers to the habit of purchasing Indian girls and working them as slaves in the fields and in their houses, while their half-breed children draw rations from the government. It is charged by correspondents that some of white men are accumulating wealth from the physical labor of these poor women and their children. This phase of the Indian question has heretofore been kept in the background, but its evils and misdeeds, present and prospective, are so serious as to merit prompt attention.

CONGRESSMAN J. C. BURROWS, of Michigan, announces himself a candidate for the speakership, and has already commenced an active campaign. He left Kalamazoo for Washington Saturday.

Only one million dollars reduction reported in star routes since March. The reduction in the income of public places might be reported in about the same ratio.

The Typhoid Fever Source.

The numerous charges made by the board of health relating to the use of well water as a cause of the typhoid epidemic has caused some discussion among prominent physicians in this city. At a recent meeting of the Hennepin County Medical Society, the matter was brought up and an interesting paper on the subject prepared by Dr. W. A. Miller was read. A lengthy discussion followed, and the sense of the society in regard to the question was expressed by the following resolutions, which were adopted:

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

- For Governor, LUCIUS F. HUBBARD. For Lieutenant Governor, CHARLES A. GILMAN. For Treasurer, CHARLES KITTLESON. For Auditor, W. W. BRADEN. For Secretary of State, FERD. VON BAUMBACH. For Attorney General, W. J. HAHN. For Clerk of Supreme Court, S. H. CHAPLES. For Railroad Commissioner, JAMES H. BAKER. For Judges of the Supreme Court, C. E. VAN DERBURG, WM. MITCHELL, D. A. DICKINSON. For Judge of 11th Judicial District, O. P. STEARNS. COUNTY TICKET. For Sheriff, PETER MERTZ. For Register of Deeds, M. McFADDEN. For Judge of Probate, H. D. POLLETT. For County Surveyor, J. J. KENNEDY. For County Superintendent of Schools, R. A. BRARD. For Coroner, J. C. ROSSER. For County Commissioner 2d District, J. C. ROSSER.

GEO. GRANT has his life insured for $100,000. FERDINAND FALLS is becoming somewhat metropolitan. A ROOM in Confederate bonds has been attempted. HUBBARD will soon be the governor-elect of Minnesota. The bond bill passed the house by a vote of 77 to 29. HOWARD doesn't seem to loom up very prominently on close inspection. THREE hundred bills were introduced in the house during the present session. THE recent election in Iowa not a single democratic vote was cast in Dickinson county. It is said that Secretary Hunt and his sons draw total salaries of $41,000 per year from the government.

THE RAILROADS PUTTING UP RATES.—The railroad passenger and freight war seems to have terminated for the present and rates are creeping up again towards their old figures. The Vanderbilt roads have advanced their passenger rates between Chicago and New York to $19.25 New York, with a rebate of $6.75, with an addition of a dollar to the above rate to Boston. The Grand Trunk railroad has advanced the rates on grain to New York to fifteen cents, and to Boston twenty cents, to go into effect Nov. 1. The other trunk lines have advanced their rates but seemingly without concert of action, and the pool has not been reconstituted. All the roads now have more business than they can do.

PENSIONS.—It is stated that in addition to the regular annual pension roll of thirty million dollars forty millions more will be required to pay claims under the arrears of the pension bill, and one hundred millions of dollars yearly hereafter until the arrears are all paid. In one point of view, it seems a hardship that the nation should bear so heavy a burden for unnumbered years after the close of the war, but on the other hand, it is after all a mere trifle in comparison to the anguish and suffering for which it is offered as a partial compensation, and that the money taken from the treasury is distributed among the common people throughout the country, conferring infinitely more benefit than though it were paid out in the way of appropriations for the benefit and schemes devised by speculators for obtaining money from the public treasury when the revenues of the government are considerably in excess of the necessary current expenses.

It is a dark chark of the Julius Tower at Spandau, Prussia, lies a vast lot of gold coin, equal to about $30,000,000, laid aside from Germany's gains by the war of 1870-71, as a provision of hard cash wherewith to defray the mobilization and other preliminary expenses of the next campaign undertaken by the Empire. This fund is absolutely unproductive, and this is its total cost the German nation half its total amount in foregone interest since it has been lodged in its subterranean repository. A few days ago the annual inspection of the treasure by the Imperial commissioner took place. A specially detailed section of the Prussian Guard assisted the two commissioners in the laborious task of counting over the contents of twelve hundred canvas bags, each containing one hundred thousand marks, or twenty-five thousand dollars. The massive iron door closing the domicile of all this wealth can only be opened by the simultaneous action of two keys, masterpieces of the locksmith's art, one of which is in the possession of either commissioner. The exact times at which the door is unlocked and re-locked, as well as every circumstance, however minute, connected with the process of revision, are registered on the spot in a protocol signed by the officials before leaving the fortress, and attested by the governor in person. During the inspection the towers guards are doubled; at its conclusion the commissioners turn their keys in the locks at one and the same moment, are escorted to the gates of the fortress, and take their departure for Berlin, leaving the intractable millions to darkness and seclusion for another year.
