Ed. Maxwell in Omaha.

Omaha, Nov. 15.—Ed. Maxwell, alias Williams, the noted Wisconsin desperado, arrived in Omaha this evening, and was lodged in jail. He will leave for Poplin county, Wis., to-morrow morning, going via Sioux City and St. Paul. He was brought here by William Knight, under a writ of Habeas corpus, and Ed. and C. Colman, brothers of the two Colmans who were murdered by the Maxwells. Sheriff Joe Kilian of Hall county, Neb., who captured Ed. Maxwell, accompanies the party to get him to Poplin, there being $5,200 offered for the capture of the two desperados. The reason of their detention at Grand Island was to continue the search for Alonzo Maxwell, of whom all traces seem to have been lost. The country has been thoroughly scoured for the past few days. The last trace of him was at Aurora, twenty-two miles from Grand Island, where he sent a boy into a store to buy some articles of food for himself. On Sunday last Ed. Maxwell was taken to a photograph gallery and three attempts were made to photograph him. At the first attempt he drew down one shoulder and screwed up his face out of shape, making a villainous picture. Sheriff Knight then told him that they proposed to have his photograph, dead or alive. He then allowed his photograph to be taken with his long hair cut and unshaven face. He was then shaved and had his hair cut, and the third photograph was taken successfully. His likeness shows him a good-looking man, about twenty-five or thirty years of age, with an intelligent and determined expression. This photograph was immediately sent to Joliet State prison, with a request to answer it was the picture of Maxwell, who served six years there for a burglary committed at Macomb, Ill., and who was released from prison in January last. Upon reaching Omaha this evening, Sheriff Knight found awaiting him here a dispatch from S. R. Wetmore, recond clerk of Joliet State prison, stating that the picture, though poor, is unmistakably that of Ed. Maxwell. So say the officers of the prison. Just as the picture was leaving Grand Island for Omaha Sheriff Knight received a telegram from Hastings, Neb., from David R. Maxwell, father of Ed. R. Maxwell, requesting the sheriff to wait another day, as he wanted to come to Grand Island and see his son. The dispatch was shown to the prisoner, who said that the man was not his father. Later Ed. asked Sheriff Knight to stop one day in Omaha and telegraph his father to let him there, as he would like to see the old man. The prisoner, however, will be taken to-morrow morning to Wisconsin. He refused to answer any questions concerning himself and is very reticent about everything. When he and Alonzo passed through the valley, this county, on their way west they stole two horse blankets, which were captured by Ed. who acknowledges the theft, and it was the last scrape he and his partner, as he calls Alonzo, got into. The old man Maxwell lives in Kersey county, his postoffice address being Osceola. He has lived there five or six years, and bears a fair reputation. Ed. and Alonzo were on their way to visit him.

Remember the Grand Ball.

To lovers of the Turpschora frolics, and dances of to-morrow, the announcement of the grand ball to be given at City Hall on the eve of Thanksgiving will be greeted with pleasure. This affair is to be given under the auspices of the Brainerd Cornet Band, which is composed of energetic young men, and an arrangement to make it one of the most successful features of the seasons amusements. No palmas have been spared to procure good music, and every appropriation which shall tend to enhance the facilities of the occasion. The Turpschora will be served from the finest the laud affords, and it will pay any one to buy a ticket just for the supper, if nothing else. If we are not judged from reports which are constantly reaching this office, the Turpschora would advise everybody to go and take their wives, and give the boys a boost as well as have a glorious time. A band of twelve, instruments bought and paid for, and a band stand erected which would do credit to a much larger place, and now let the people take part with a generous list of boys. Again let us advise everybody to go.

PERSONAL POINTS.

J. R. Jackson, of Brainerd, was in Fargo last Saturday.

F. B. Thompson, county auditor, has moved into his new office in the Hartley block.

Mr. W. H. Jones Sundayed in St. Paul. That city has many attractions for the Brainerd "Turpschora" friends.

Mr. Chas. S. Chase of the Winchago Summit, published at Forest City, Iowa, has been organized, instrumenta bought and paid for, and a band stand erected which would do credit to a much larger place, and now let the people take part with a generous list of boys. Again let us advise everybody to go.

General Manager Haupt, Mr. Geo. W. Cross, superintendent of investigation, and Herman Frost, land agent of the Northern Pacific, were in town on Tuesday.

W. C. Hayward, chief of the Gerner (In) Signal, was in the city last week, having been called hither by the serious illness of his brother-in-law, Fred Hubbard.

Miss Maudie Sherwood, who has been confined to her room for some time past with typhoid fever is convalescing and again able to mingle with her many young friends in Brainerd.

E. E. Gannon, a printer of long experience in Winnebago, and other points, has been employed at the office of Mr. W. C. Hayward for several days. He is a workman of excellent taste.

On Tuesday last, Mr. E. M. Westfall severed his connection with the Northern Pacific R. Co., as freight agent at this place, and was succeeded by Mr. W. C. Hayward of Cleveland, Ohio.

The St. Cloud Journal Press, of the 10th inst., says: "O. J. Zachary, of Brainerd, has surveyed two forty acre additions to the town, the expense to be made in two weeks."

Mr. R. Slupe, who, in company with his son Johnny, is out on the Yellowstone, hunting buffalo, etc., sent one of the black-headed deer last week, and the Brainerd House boarders are feasting on venison this week.

POINTERS.

The wife of Edwin Booth, the noted tragedian, died last Sunday.

Mandan has two newspapers, neither of which are worth anything.

The small-pox has reached Fargo Falls; cases are also reported at Blinnock.

Junco Frazar, of New York, is now Secretary of the United States Treasury.

A steam mill at Sauk Centre is turning out 220 barrels of flour per day.

Now is the time to buy Geygan socks, and lay in a general stock of flannels for the cold season.

A gas pipe under a hall was extensively advertised to take place at Gill River, last Tuesday evening.

A young man named Howe, at Detroit, cut his wife's throat with a razor, and then killed himself with a dose of prussic acid.

Quite a number of Brainerd sportsmen are out in camp, after venison, and the deer are being unmercifully slaughtered.

Miles City is producing good money, and the people are getting a good many new and useful articles of fine, and it is either an awful place, or else has been awfully lied about.

When the Fargo Argus proposes to call this paper to task for a supposed grammatical error, it would do well to look up its own record in grammar and orthography.

Two thousand men and sixteen hundred mules are at work on the Yellowstone division of the Northern Pacific, and they will soon have the road completed to Miles City.

The small-pox scourge still continues at Spring Hill, and almost everybody in Stearns county has been vaccinated.

It is a common saying in this section now: "How's your seat?"

An Ohio man landed in Fargo who was out of a job. This is the first instance of the kind on record. Had he wanted his way to Washington, he might have a government job.—Republican.

The impudence and brazen cheek of the Fargo Argus is a matter which which it is to be feared by some corporations which it has attacked, were it not for the fact that no significance has been attached to its weekly importunities.

A prophecy made by an eastern capitalist, after a tour from St. Paul to Glendive, that in 1853, Brainerd would be the largest and most prominent point of the Northern Pacific railway. The fact of the improvement has been made next spring, surely look like something of this nature. It is always best to get the most of a new farming community.

A New York special says: It is learned that the Missouri dividend is the Yellowstone, a dividend of two million dollars. There are at all 380 bridges. The road therefore cost about $10,000 per mile, and the result of building more easily constructed roads, stock and bonded at $50,000 per mile, can be readily estimated.

Harry Robinson, of the Mandan Observer, says: "The Observer doesn't appear next week it will be because the editor, publisher, compositor, and reporter have all been in hiding down his end of a jury bench for $2 a day in county orders."

CHASE & FRATER, PUBLISHERS. ARCADE, CHASE BUILDING. BRAINERY, N. Y.

CALIFORNIA, a surplus of 50,000,000 bushels of wheat, 10,000,000 bushels, are expected to reach England and France during the holidays; and to these facts is attributed the comparative weakness of the market at home.

New York was tolerably easy under the influence of the ordinary demand. The bulls were a rally on the policy, but were the bench above suspicion. The reaction that much favors have been tendered by railroads and not by the stock market. The high courts, create a good deal of excitement, and there is talk of strict legislative prohibition.

The annual discussion about the admission of Dakota as a state is now in order. The reasons for and against seem conclusive. The population is about 100,000, which is more than seven of the other territories that were admitted into the Union, but in density of population it will compare, especially when it is proposed to divide the territory into two states, with admitting at present only the southern part. And then the eastern part, with a population of 100,000, and with a population that as a vote for settlement can hardly be looked for at the coming session.

MINNESOTA has been appointed into view congressional districts of nearly equal population. The bill is now in the hands of congress, but it was deemed safe to make this appointment, as no bill introduced at the last session of congress contained less than five districts, and it is probably of a reduction by which it will have been enacted. The necessity of apportioning the seats in the next session of the legislature arose from the fact that no other session will intervene between now and the congressional election of 1882.

MARRIAGE and divorce laws are peculiarly subject to states and not to the general government, but such is the nature of the legislation of these subjects that call upon congress to regulate such things, by margin state laws in one national law. It is nothing to argue that the laws of the state or national control of the marriage question is the best for all concerned, for under our system it inheres to state operation, and congress is prohibited from meddling. Many people would be wiser than at present if they would familiarize their minds with the federal constitution and also with the bill of rights.

LADY HARRY an English woman, has written a book of her travels in the United States. She says that Chicago has risen out of its base grander and staller than ever, but is wholly devoted to money making, and not to the advancement of the human race. The big black newspapers take exception to the charge of a money man, but it is really a charge of fact. The same may be said of many other pretensions of the distinguished Eastern college professor, who visits Minnesota last summer and was deeply impressed by only two things—the vastness of the prairie and the ever-ascending ozone for money-making. Who shall say that he was a superficial observer.

Some burglars at Fairview, Pa., broke into a certain store and stole a large quantity of cash and other property. The burglars were caught and the cash was recovered. The store owner was very much pleased with the result.

Dr. W. H. Peters of Louisville, writing upon the question whether vaccination for small pox is necessary calls attention to a note published several years ago in the New York Medical Journal. This note is to the effect that the vaccine, the medical officer of the British privy council, put forth a memorandum, which was sanctioned by the royal college of physicians, in London. The substance of it is that successful vaccination in infancy would insure for a lifetime against small pox, but in the few cases in which this protection is not complete, the disease will be so mild, as not to threaten death or disfigurement; and in the few cases in which it is not so, the disease will be so mild, as not to threaten death or disfigurement.

A man named Thornton was severely injured by a switch engine, at the S. P. Junction, last Thursday. He was brought to Brainerd, and placed in the Northern Pacific Hospital where the operation of amputating his limb was performed, and it is hoped he will soon be around again. The undersigned can furnish from twelve to fifteen good teams of horses and mules with drivers for work during the winter in the woods. Address giving terms and particulars. S. J. GLASSLICK, Jameson, D. T. Burbank of the Clark House at Duluth. The following passed over the wires last Wednesday night: "The principal hotel in Duluth, the Clark House, was burned to the ground this afternoon. The fire originated in the boiler-room back of the hotel, and spread with great rapidity. The fire-alarm was sounded about fifteen minutes after the fire was discovered, and the engine was on hand within half an hour. It was necessary to go down the lake to get water, quite a distance from the scene of the conflagration, and much precious time was lost. In the meanwhile the flames kept on spreading, and a large portion of the building was a mass of smoke before the water was turned on. Two streams were at last brought to play. They began more effect than a sprinkler. The flames ran out, rapidly extinguishing one portion after another, until the whole structure was enveloped in a mass of smoke. It was soon seen that working parties were on hand, and attempts were begun to save the building near the mill's barbershop, and every now and then the hose was turned on, and by slight efforts the horses adjoining were saved. Most of the furniture was got out of the house, but a large portion of it was destroyed by rough handling, and of course much of it will be missing. Dr. Sherwin was dangerously ill, but finally recovered. A chimney fell on him, striking him on the head. An unknown man had his arm broken, and several others slightly injured. Fortunately there was no wind, and it was raining slightly all the time during the fire. Some of the boarders had made accommodations in the Dramatic Temple, and others have been provided for by private families and the other hotels in town."

A Severer Lesson. A carpenter named James Perkins has been made the victim of a rather severe lesson, for which he is possibly not too severely criticised, yet it was some time, undoubtedly, of a night's booze. Some time ago, while engaged at work at a dredge, he accidentally laid a drawing-knife slip from his proper course, and cut deep a gash in one of his legs, just below the cap of the knee. As a matter to be expected, he was necessarily kept from the pursuit of his avocation for some time, and in a few days his injured leg began to heal nicely. However, on Monday night last, he succeeded in getting on a big drunk, and tearing open the half-healed wound, and as a result, on Wednesday afternoon, he was compelled to undergo the amputation of his leg, which was taken off directly above the knee, by Drs. Parsons and Hoever. This is rather a cautionary lesson, and the unfortunate man is to be pitied, possibly, rather than censured, and it is to be hoped he will suffer no farther injuries.

Burbank. To me. Testimonies concerning Mr. A. P. Burbank, the great actor and humorist, were presented to the committee on Monday night last. Mr. Burbank is a native of New York and Brooklyn, and in all the North, his reputation grows from year to year. Committees of Societies desiring his services may be assured of his unblemished personal character, and of the high respectability as a humorist, descriptive, and talented reader. I commend him to the kindness and confidence of friends abroad. HERMAN WARD BURNBANK, Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. To my friend: I have been Mr. Burbank in his characteristic readings and recitations, and have no hesitation in pronouncing him one of the most facile, entertaining, and accomplished men in his profession that the country possesses. I cheerfully commend him to the public as an artist and a gentleman. J. G. HOLLAND, New York, Nov. 17, 1874.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION, NEW YORK CITY. Mr. A. P. BURBANK: "DEAR SIR:—I wish to express for the Lecture Committee of this Association their very high appreciation of your entertainment last week; and the regard of the members, made manifest by their crowding the hall to its utmost capacity. So that it was necessary for the officers to close the doors, and shut out the throng seeking admittance. GEORGE M. VAN DENBURG, Chairman Lecture Committee, New York, Dec. 2, 1876. I think Mr. A. P. Burbank is the best reader of humorous pieces I have ever heard. He is also a fine reader of patriotic and wise things. An evening at his company is a rare treat. ROBERT COLLETT, Pastor Union Church, Chicago, March 27, 1874. In addition to the above, Mr. Burbank has a large number of the most favorable testimonials from the leading journals of America: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco, and almost at every point where he has ever appeared.

MIKI! MIKI! MIKI! C. Eichler is now prepared to furnish talk in any quantity from one pint to one hundred gallons, at the lowest market price. Contracts made for the winter. Having made special arrangements where by I can furnish the best milk in the market. It will be to your advantage to try me and see if I mean business. Pure Milk. Fresh and all day every morning, without fail. C. EICHLER.

Honesty. There are many kinds, or rather many degrees, of honesty. There are people who will dishonestly tell you that "honesty is the best policy," for while they repeat the proverb they show by their actions that they do not believe it, nor attempt to practice what they preach.

There are, it may be, a merchant and Smith having on a recent occasion made a purchase of you, comprising sundry articles, comes to you and says, "I think you made a little mistake in figuring up my bill the other day."

You feel well assured that if the mistake had been on the other side of the account, there is not a man amongst them, who on discovering the error would not have returned it to you to have it corrected. But with the error in their favor, as in Smith's case, how many, or rather what percentage of your business acquaintances would come to have it corrected? Well, there are certain ones amongst them whom you are satisfied are dishonest—they of course would never come. Then there is another class, rather a numerous class, too, who always look out for the best end of a bargain, and if another will permit it, are ready to get something for nothing; but they generally do what they agree to do, and having made a bargain they adhere to it to the end.

Ed Williams, of the famous firm of Williams Brothers, is slowly making his way back to the scene of his Wisconsin exploits. He reached Omaha last night, and will leave there this morning for St. Paul, on his way to Popin court, where he has reason to anticipate a warm reception. There seems to be little doubt that this man is the real Ed Williams. His photograph has been sent to Joliet and identified as that of the man imprisoned there under the name of Williams, and his father, to whose house, in Nebraska he was making his way when captured, unconsciously betrayed him in a telegram to the officers who had him in charge.

double Democratic stronghold, which gave 1,800 majority for the Democratic State ticket. This result is an expressive tribute to the personal popularity of Mr. Seale.—P. P.
