It is the approaching political campaign that has heated the atmosphere up so?

It is advisable that all the ward caucuses to elect delegates to the county convention on Wednesday next be held the same evening.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN to-day pleaded guilty to the indictment of prizefighting. He was fined $500, which he immediately paid and was liberated. He afterward held a reception.

A LAMBLIDE occurred on the Great Northern railway nine miles west of Marshall on Monday, one hundred and fifty feet long by forty feet deep, leaving the rails and ties suspended.

THE Northern Pacific Railroad company has commenced an action in the United States circuit court against Francis Morrison to recover $5,064.40 for pine lumber alleged to have been converted by him to his use at Motley, Minn., on Jan. 1st.

In speaking of the proposition to bond the towns in favor of the Wadena & Park Rapids Railroad Co., Judge O. W. Holland says: "I am ordinarily opposed to bonding for railroads, but if I lived up here I would hold up both hands to get a railroad and vote for the bonds."—Park Rapids Enterprise.

DEMOCRATS who hope to see the republicans of this legislative district get into a damaging fight over the coming ballot will be disappointed. Although Morrison, Crow Wing and Todd counties each have a candidate for the senate, the fight will be a good natured one, and the winner will have the hearty support of the others. Little Falls and Morrison county would naturally like to secure the senatorship for Hon. J. G. Flynn, and will work hard for that result. The fact that the nomination at the general election makes the contest a little more determined than it would otherwise be. The republicans have never failed to send good delegations from this district, and they will do equally well at this year.—Little Falls Transcript.

Bachelors With Daughters.

There is a wealthy old bachelor living in Minneapolis who has an only daughter, and as he himself says she will make some young fellow "a very desirable wife," and doubly so considering that he openly avows that $50,000 is to go with her as a dowry.—St. Cloud Times.

St. Paul now claims that all the old maids and bachelors in Minneapolis have returned large families of boys and girls to the census enumerators in order to swell the list. This is really getting interesting.

Some Women Wouldn't.

An item in a local exchange says: John Blocksagle writes from Montana to his wife whom he has abandoned ten years ago, that his unlawful love and companion is dead, and asking her to come to him. She will go.

The Washington Excursion.

The recent excursion of the Minnesota Editorial Association to Washington, a detailed account of which appeared in our last week's issue, was by far the most important and enjoyable occasion of that kind ever experienced by that organization. From the moment of starting at St. Paul until the return a week later, the party was the recipient of the most cordial treatment and hospitality. At Mankato the citizens of that beautiful little city did their utmost to make the short stay of the party enjoyable, by taking the editors and their ladies a drive about the city, which was followed by a banquet on their return in the evening. At Washington a programme of entertainment which had been previously arranged by Minnesota's senators and representatives in congress was carried out, and consisted of receptions, drives about the city, steamboat rides, and visits to all points of interest, and occupied every moment of time spent in the city. At all times the party was under the guidance of some Minnesota representative at the nation's capitol, and every place and object of interest was pointed out and visited. Too much cannot be said in praise of Minnesota's senators and congressmen for the cordial reception and treatment they accorded the visiting editors, and their kindness will long be remembered. The heartfelt thanks of every person on the excursion is also due to the railroad companies—the Baltimore & Ohio, the Northwestern Line, and the Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City road, for the kind and courteous treatment accorded the party at all times. Feeling that simple thanks scarcely expressed their appreciation, the members of the association presented the representative of the first named road Mr. C. H. Lord, with an elegant ring, while Mr. Grundy of the Northwestern and Mr. Holdridge of the Kansas City road were each presented with a gold headed cane. These gentlemen accompanied the excursion and did not a little to add to the pleasure of the trip.

Mr. F. S. Verbeck, upon whom the work of planning and perfecting the details of the trip was thrown by the illness of President Hunt, was presented with an elegant silver tea set by the excursionists in appreciation of his ardent labors in their behalf.

The only thing to mar the pleasure of the trip, was the report sent to the St. Paul Globe by its correspondent, Frank Meade, a disappointed office-seeker, to the effect that President Harrison had snubbed the editors, who, consequently, were very indignant. The report was false in very particular, and Meade was denounced by every other member of the Association, whether democrat or republican, for abusing the president and the people of Washington after enjoying their hospitality.

Those Census Frauds.

The attention of the entire state is directed to the alleged census frauds charged against Superintendent Smith, petty quarrel between the Twin cities should not be brought into consideration in a matter of so much importance to the entire state. The census should be an honest count as all representation is based upon it, and if Minneapolis has padded her population 30,000—and it looks very much as if such was the case—it is an outrage upon the people, as it would give it an unjust representation in congressional, legislative and national affairs equal to about three times that of Crow Wing county. The bluff and bluster of the "business" men of Minneapolis who raised the sum of money which was placed in Ed. A. Stevens' hands to do the work of manufacturing names—and everyone who knows Ed. Stevens is aware that he is entirely qualified to do as dirty a job as that—should not be allowed to stop the prosecution of the criminals. To put a census report in as much of a crime as to stuff a ballot-box. The people of Minnesota should put their shoulders to the wheel and see that the matter is thoroughly vindicated and let no guilty man escape.

Maud Granger in "Inherited."

On July 7th and 8th, Maud Granger, the eminent emotional actress, will appear at the opera house. On the first evening she will appear in her new play, entitled "Inherited," in which she won great success in eastern cities the past season. The following notice from an eastern exchange will be of interest.

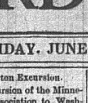
Last night was an opening night. The play was "Inherited," a callaboration by Richard Gaines and Miss Lucy Hooper, and the player was Maud Granger. "Inherited" is an old theme, in four acts—a forgotten crime, in other words—in which Helen Carruthers, (Maud Granger), the daughter of an insanity, Harriet Jim Raymond, (Harry Minshall), and in time goes to Australia, leaving her old child and Alice Pelham to her husband. After five years her husband, having had his marriage annulled, marries Alice, and on this day the wife's reason is restored and she escapes from the Miss Granger handles the character with power and a repressive force that greatly intensifies her work. Her mad scenes were particularly good and true to nature in the interpretation, and her dying very agreeably lacked the harrowing element.

The largest and most complete stock of ladies' fine shoes, in every width, size, and quality found in Brainerd, is now going at manufacturer's cost prices at Day's closing out sale.

The Marquis de Mores, who was convicted a short time ago of inciting to disorder at the time of the May day labor demonstration, is still out of jail, he having been paroled on account of the illness of his wife. He expects shortly to begin to serve the sentence of three months' imprisonment imposed upon him. He is seen nightly at the opera and other places of amusement.

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.



Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Ocoana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which gave me considerable annoyance and much suffering. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Westerlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring, and am not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 20 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS

What our National Lawmakers Have Been Doing the Past Week.

SENATE.

The silver bill passed the senate by a vote of 54 to 32.

Senator Platt called up the bill for the admission of Wyoming, and that was the occasion of the unfinished business of the session. The admission of Idaho will speedily follow.

HOUSE.

The bill to limit the hours of work of clerks employed in the several executive departments and offices, as amended by the committee, the amendments being agreed to, was then, on motion, formally reported.

The general conference on the anti-trust bill has reached an agreement, by the terms of which the bill will stand as it passed the senate, as added by the senate and house, and remains as it originally passed the house.

The sundry civil appropriation bill was passed. The amendment made in the senate in lieu of an indefinite appropriation for the payment of back pay was defeated. Representatives Hall and Dunnell secured an appropriation for the object they were primarily interested in. The sum of $2,400 was appropriated for a signal station at Red Wing, at the south end of Lake Pepin.

SENATE.

Mr. Morrill, from the finance committee, reported back the tariff bill, and said that it was not expected that it would be brought up for consideration earlier than a week.

On motion of Mr. Manderson, the house bill extending the time of payment of purchasers of land of the Omaha tribe of Indians, in Nebraska, was taken from the calendar and passed (with amendments).

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. An amendment was agreed to increasing the salary of 26 committee clerks from $1,500 to $1,800 and the salary of clerks to senators from $1,500 to $1,800.

HOUSE.

As Secretary McCook announced the passage of the silver bill with sundry amendments, the Democratic side of the house broke out in applause, which was at once suppressed by a minute.

The house went into committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill.

SENATE.

The senate committee on Indian affairs has decided in favor of the appropriations as made several increases in the amounts of appropriations for local Indian agencies. As reported in the legislative, executive and judicial bill, the amounts appropriated for general of South Dakota is $18,700 for salary and clerks, an increase from $5,000, and the allowance for Washington has been increased from $5,000 to $10,500 for each year. The salaries remain the same as originally reported, $6,000. Dakota has an increase from $7,000 to $9,000.

HOUSE.

The chairman of the house committee on election of president, vice president and representatives in congress submitted the report of the committee upon the federal election bill, and in pursuance of the instructions of the Republican caucus.

The silver bill is now in the possession of the clerk of the committee on coinage, weights and measures, and he has no power to do else but surrender its custody except upon the order of the house of the whole. No such order has been made by the house and the speaker is not likely to recall it.

SENATE.

The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was reported to the senate. A number of amendments are made in the bill as it passed the house. The committee recommended in the bill the suggestions made by the secretary of state in relation to the salary question and the recommendations of the Pan American conference.

Senator Plumb received the postoffice appropriation bill from the appropriation committee, it appears as $72,461,699—an increase of $870,000 over the amount appropriated by the bill as it passed the house.

HOUSE.

The house committee on postoffices and post roads has postponed the further consideration of the postal telegraph bill until further consideration.

The coal rush of the five coinage men was checked. Under exceptional circumstances they have been coming in. Some Democrats entering the day, but the longer delay there is the more probable that conservatives will be in the majority. The object of the secrets has been not so much for free coinage as to smash Speaker Reed and defeat him and his party.

SENATE.

Senator Power introduced a bill providing for the sale of public lands until for cultivation, but forfeitable for the non-use. The bill provides for their sale in blocks of 160 acres, at the minimum price of $1.25 per acre. Provisions are made that no mineral lands or mining claims shall be sold under the bill, and no rights heretofore acquired shall be impaired.

The Mormon bill passed. It provides that all funds or property lately belonging to the Mormon church shall be devoted to the use and benefit of common schools in Utah.

HOUSE.

The speaker made a statement concerning his action in referring the silver bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures, and the subsequent proceedings in the house in regard to that action. The speaker announced that the bill had been referred according to the rules to the committee on coinage, weights and measures, and an appeal could be taken from its reference.

SENATE.

Senator Plumb reported a bill providing that all persons who served in the army between August, 1887, and January, 1890, on any improved lands in the so-called second reservation, east of the Northern Pacific's grant under the homestead and pre-emption laws of the United States may transfer their entries from that tract to any other unappropriated lands, subject to entry under the homestead laws, as they may select.

Representative Comstock is far from pleased with the amendments. The bill as Mr. Plumb is almost a new bill to such an extent has it been changed.

HOUSE.

Now that the house committee on coinage, weights and measures have had the free coinage bill in their possession by reference of the silver and sentiment of the house, the question arises as to what they will do with it. Should the majority back anxiously and so as to provide for the purchase of four and a half millions of silver bullion per month, legal tender certificates to be issued for the same and the coinage when 371¼ grains worth a dollar, there is no doubt about the Eastern Republicans opposing it. They claim it is going too far.

The committee report on the deficiency bill will be taken up and Mr. Berry has made a request that it may be considered as a bill of a nature to be sold, to put 90 per cent. of the silver coinage into circulation at once. It was really a service pension bill, and the chairman of the committee on pensions (Mr. Davis) could not deny that.

Mr. Davis, chairman of the committee on pensions, replied to the arguments of Mr. Terry and Mr. Gorman. The pension bill presented by Senators West, Blair, Turpie, Hawley, Ellery, Dolph and Power, the pet of the former report was agreed to—34 to 18. Republicans voted in the affirmative. The house insisted upon its disagreement to the senate amendments.

A Degrading System.

The strike of the Chicago waiters brought out the fact that their wages have been reduced in consequence of the fee system, or the giving of "tips" as gratuities. There is an admirable opening here for a great reform. The fee system is a degradation of manhood. It tends directly to servility, to a fawning sense of inferiority in the creation of a class dependent upon favors. It saps manly qualities, hurting alike those who give and those who take. Its teaching tent large are those of contempt for the class that thus waits on favors, tending directly to translate in the mind of the general public a feeling that the whole laboring class is a class of dependents. An American citizen ought to be ashamed to take a fee. He should demand a fixed services. Labor organizations cannot rise to the master general service to labor than by condemning the badge of inferiority which the fee system is.—Indianapolis News.

Threats of Winona Servants.

The servant girls of Winona, Minn., are up in arms. The Maternal society of the Y. M. C. A. started a series of evening gospel meetings, and the first paper read reflected upon the girls' deportment and general taste. The consequence was the girls arose and notified the ladies through the press that a black list was made, and if the maternal meetings were not stopped a general strike of servant girls would ensue.

Under Contract.

A man who was taking in some of the sights at Brighton the other day was led to notice a short-haired young man in a loud check suit, who was accompanied on his rounds by a couple of younger chaps, who seemed to defer to him and to imitate his actions as far as possible. After awhile he with the short hair seemed to get up an aching for a bow, and he drew near the party, approaching the man in a swaggering way and impudently demanded:

"Is you the cove that's got a cigar for me?"

He received an emphatic negative, when up went his eyebrows, and he continued:

"He cove is inclined to be nasty, but perhaps it's 'cause he don't know me. Chollie, you and Dan give him an eye-opener," and while he suggested the latter's graceful pose, with his left planted over his eye, "Cholly" approached and whispered:

"He's bad—awfully bad! He's de celebrated Kidder, from New York, he is. He's going to challenge any kid of his age to a finish—any kid in de world."

"He'd better go and dig for clams!" growled the man.

"What did?" demanded the awfully bad. "De cove wants his eye punched, and if it wasn't for dat copper over dere I'd do it. I'll make him do me de honah to step around be hind de pavilion."

The man said he would and did, and as he reached a secluded spot he peeled his coat the wickedest observed:

"I begs de cove's pardon, but I feel responsible dat I made a contract not to fight until I meets de Oswego Whirlwind. I should like to put him to sleep, but it would be a de contract."

It was suggested that the other to meet might be fair him, but he replied:

"Chollie is me trainer and Dan is me backer, and it would be agin de contract."

The man then suggested that he and a licking in store for the three, and that he should begin business in short order, before fifteen had elapsed he was alone.

The Mystery of Dimples.

Certain physiologists declare that even in the adult they can produce dimples by a semi-surgical process.

This may be, but, after all, the secrete spring of the dimple is the soul. As the latter overflows with mirth the face assumes a radiance that art cannot imitate. Blue eyes or black sparkle as the light rushes upward from its depths, and the cheeks play dimples appear. For again, two dimples, one at each corner of the mouth or near those points, are a lavish gift. The dimplest smile will bring them out, and defined and rayless, a broad grin will expand them into furrows. Therefore it is woman's privilege to smile, if she has dimples. This is no news to the fair sex. A woman with dimples would not have gone for a week to the dentist's if they would. Besides, the surgeons did not know the way of the town, though the dentists did not know the secret. The story was a good comment on the number of occupations that some matters men try.—Youth's Companion.

A Lesson in Manners.

That the manners of our fathers are not ours is well enough understood, and the phrase "of the old school" has come to be used rather as a reproach to the degeneracy of the present generation. An old lady who belonged to the times when courtesy was perhaps more general, as it certainly was more elaborate, than it is now, administered rather neatly to a rebuke to a lad who did not come up to her ideas.

She had known the boy's father when he was a child, and had also known the son, and as the latter could hardly remember his parents who died in his infancy, he was always eager to learn all he could about them.

The youth was invited to call upon the old lady, who was spending the term set by the Psalmist for man's life, at a country place one day last summer, and found her sitting there with her upon the wide veranda, whereshe was sitting alone in the absence of the family, who regarded him with looks of disapproval.

"Do I look like my father" the young man asked, with a laugh.

"I cannot tell," the old lady replied gravely. "I never saw him with his hat on when he talked with a lady."

A Bird That Kills Rattlers.

Riding in California one day my companion called attention to a bird by the roadside.

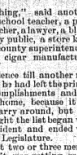
It was a road ahead of me. It was something like a prairie chicken, but much more slender and graceful in all its gaits. So my friend called it a ratllesnake it behaves in such a coy manner that it leads the snake to think it will become the victim of its charm, and while it is keeping the snake in doubt as to its intentions it runs about in the cactus and picks off the thorns with its bill, seized me. Upon my recovery we found the bird had killed the snake and was feasting on the head.

The bird is called by the Spanish natives the "paisano," and their triumph over the deer stars of the Italian sky. It pierced my tired little heart like a stiletto. Nothing was said for a time, and, like it, brought the silence of death—death to a feeble, fluttering hope. I did not mean cry out, but despair number all my senses, and mechanically, almost unconsciously, I groped for my hand still the letter with its hidden sting, turning my head, my face and body away, as one boughs above me, through which came the glint of the lights of heaven, as if they would comfort me.

"No, no, naught could comfort me!" moaned within myself, and like the echo of my heart, sounded the distant vesper bell—clear, but faint and wailing—borne on the evening air.

"Ach, mein Gott! what is this?" It was the rugged voice of Frankels that startled me, and I realized that the long twilight was spent and the stars were far on. She crossed me and took me up in her strong arms and carried me home. A long inaction of ability followed. A month passed under the power of the fever that seized me. Then my recovery was complete after six months. With my brother who was in the University in Germany, came two students. We all journeyed together. One

MY COUSIN ERENE.



E both sat eating bonbons and waiting for dinner—my little French cousin, Mademoiselle Erene, from whom I was visiting, and I. She sat in a tumbled little heap in one corner of her cushioned sofa, her brilliant black eyes dancing with excitement under her dark eyebrows as she talked. She had light, crisp, airy blonde hair surrounding a very fair, colorless face and the dark eyes made her appear singularly beautiful. I was a modest little American, with beauty (if any) of quiet color, hair and eyes brown, and my figure slim and petite.

Erene was a Parisian born, with all their taste and ways. She was sputtering forth impulsively now about a friend, Mlle. Vion, a very high English girl of high birth, whom we expected to dine with us that day. They had met him on the continent, and, although Erene said a great deal against him, I knew her enough that in my heart I somehow felt she liked him. She never made so much fuss over anyone as Mlle. Vion Dieu-sait so often when she did not.

"Oh, but that was the great unkindness that ever I did!" she was saying to Stolholm! Mon Dieu! what a name was that! His father must have been a Swede! His forehead, too, was so dine with us on this particular day, when we were going to the theater a great ball at night, and needed the day to rest! Ah, those English!—they are not like us! They are not like us! Ma foi! three miles or four a day—she had seen them! And how we should enjoy ourselves, and how they all did—and sit still as a post when every one else talked like fire and flew about! Mon Dieu! I was in Neuf but it was a trial. And how gray would she be when the wine came to see the long night of it! Then in the way of the town, though the manners did not be the same as her, story was a good comment on the number of occupations that some matters men try.—Youth's Companion.

COSTA RICA'S latest scheme for raising money and the purpose for which it is to be spent are novel, to say the least. A new theater is wanted at the capital, and an export duty has been placed by congress on coffee in order to rise the necessary money. However, as only $260,000 is needed for the purpose, the tax will not last long.

wuss Bavarian—handsome, intellectual, and fiercely impulsive, the other a Hollander whom I thought intolerably stupid, for he smoked all the time, and nothing more. Both of these men made overtures to my father for my hand in marriage, and, though my father urged the suit of the Bavarian, I declined, not caring for either. The Bavarian and the Hollander ensuring one day to make love to me, I said very decidedly:

"Papa, I shall marry neither. You may do not harbor such an idea."

On the evening of the same day I bade my father and the social residences in Vienna for it was in that country city that we were now sojourning. Although I was no more in love with the Bavarian than with the Hollander, he was more agreeable company, and he paid me much court this night. My glass had not been filled before I left my room that my toilet was most becoming. Its pale green sheen contrasted with my jet black hair and eyes and lent an ethereal aspect to my pale, small-featured face. As we were the soothing air and we listened to the soft splash of the fountains playing in the garden below, I murmured within myself at the fate which carried me into foreign lands. The one longing of my soul was to return to the quiet home of the labyrinthine path of the shrubberied garden. Lights gleamed everywhere amid the dark foliage, and the fountains gushed and tossed and statues stood out cold and white in the light of the moon. I gathered my long, full robe about me and seated myself on the ledge of an artificial grotto. "Oh, why," I sighed dreamily, "did love shown himself to me for one fleeting moment and then vanished? Why speak to me with words no longer mine? Just How She Escaped.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Early in the '60s I was a railroad telegraph operator down in Georgia," said he, "and I had a pretty narrow escape from being grabbed one day. It was in the afternoon. A gang of darkies came along to where my station was, about three miles from any human habitation. They had in their gang a handsome young white girl, and they tied her fast to one rail of the track, right before my eyes. They then stood there, and pointing reverently at my head said if I interfered in any way they would murder me. Five minutes before the Atlantic express was due they scampered, leaving the girl on the track to be cut in two by the train. It was terrible suspense. I knew I would be called a coward and a cur if I allowed that girl to be killed, but I was afraid to signal the train to stop, because I knew the darkies would kill me if I did. But I hit on a way out of my position anyhow. Just as the train passed my signal station I ran down the track and with a pair of shears cut the wire connecting the signal to the engine, thereby stopping the train. I could tell the railroad officials that the vandals had but the wire so that they could not stop the train. Once the engine had passed me I ran like the deuce and got to the girl before the train. I had just time to release her from the rail when the train came thundering by. The girl was terribly frightened, but not hurt. She was a stranger in the town, and I never saw her after that day. I was afraid to go to the house, but fell midway up the path in a swoon.

When consciousness returned it was to feel some one else lifting me tenderly in his arms, and to hear words of encouragement and words of despair." They earn ease for others, and perhaps reputation for themselves longing all the while for rest. That spot "whence there is no returning."

One day a lady was calling on one of my friend, when in the fifth story of a boarding-house, literally in an attic.

"What a beautiful view!" cried she, going to the window. "But what could you do in case of fire?"

"Run down stairs, I hope!"

"But the stairway is always 'choked' by smoke."

"Get out on the roof, then."

"But could you reach another roof from this?"

"No, our house is lower than the next one."

"Then, my dear, what could you do?" persisted the anxious visitor.

"Oh, sit still and burn, that you may not have the trouble of coming to me to burn me down. That wouldn't be disagreeable," added the tired dressmaker with a sigh which meant was more than half earnest. "I could at least rest till the firemen came!"

Painting a Man Red.

Frank Grattoo, a painter, was charged before Justice Kavanagh at Long Island City, L. I., with throwing a pot of paint over the head and face of Nicholas Redline, completely spoiling the latter's personal appearance for the time being. Redline was employed painting a house in Dutch Kills. He had placed a twenty-five foot ladder against the building from which stood within three feet of the building which he was working on. Grattoo, who had been drinking, undertook to hasten the painter's movements by pulled at the foot of the ladder, causing it to sway. Redline is nearsighted, and, fearing that Redline would upset the ladder, he ordered him to let loose. The paint struck Redline on the head and made him look like an Indian. He then chased Grattoo into the street, followed by a crowd which quickly gathered. He ran into a barber shop, where his appearance caused a panic among the patrons of the place. Some took the paint for blood and fainted. Finally Redline's hair had to be shaved off to the scalp.—Philadelphia Ledger.

She Was Tired of Life.

"I have worked until I am tired out." Thus began a note written by Mary L. Englefield, of Utica. "Bury me in the Potter's field—envy nobody else may do so, I'm sure." A few more words closed her note, and then the girl purchased a vial of laudanum, made her way to the St. Agnes cemetery and swallowed the fatal draught. Some hours later she was found dead. Rest, eternal rest had come.—New York Evening Sun.

Railroad Engineers' Ears.

I have heard a good deal about railroad engineers being color blind. Sometimes, as you may know, an engineers' eyes become so affected that he imagines he sees things on the track. But did you ever hear of an engineer whose ears deceived him? I do. An engineer is always expecting to hear the sound of a whistle. He listens as a rule for this sound in fact; after years at the throttle, he will hear the sound of which I speak when there is none. In some instances the company has had the ears of engineers put to a test by eminent scientists. In fact, I have been told that some companies have men employed who make an examination of the ears of engineers after the engineers have been on the road a certain length of time.—Interview in Chicago Tribune.

A serious accident occurred near Jonestown, Pa., Fifteen young ladies from the Schuylkill seminary at Fredericksburg were thrown from the hack they were riding in at Jonestown in a coach drawn by four horses. Miss Annie Jones, one of the young ladies, the horses broke, and the animals became unmanageable, running away and dashed over a twenty foot embankment, the coach and the young ladies being piled in the descent. The ladies were all more or less severely injured and the driver seriously hurt.

The Marble Theatre Co., which completed a week's engagement at the opera house Tuesday evening, is an excellent company in many respects, and deserved a more liberal patronage than it received, although the last two nights the house was crowded. To show the bitterness existing between the citizens of St. Paul and Minneapolis over the census matter, it is stated that a Minneapolis gentleman applied to the First National Bank in this city for a draft and because he could only get one on St. Paul he went away without it.

Mayor Stivers has called a special meeting of the city council for to-morrow evening, to consider a proposition from Ambrose Tighe, receiver of the Water Co., relative to the extension of the water mains recently ordered by that body. Mr. Tighe, we understand, will make the extensions if the council will agree to take the additional hydrants provided for by the ordinance governing extension of water mains.

Will Shoot Two Days.

The tournament of the Brainerd Gun Club in this city on Thursday and Friday of next week promises to be a very interesting event, and quite a number of local sportsmen from adjacent towns and cities have signified their intention of attending. The prizes and cash purses offered have attracted considerable attention and the tournament will eclipse anything of the kind ever given in the state. To enable parties to reach the city within a distance of 300 miles the Northern Pacific has made an excursion rate of one fare for the round trip. The grounds of the Club have been put in excellent shape and the new house and trap house are receiving the finishing touches by the painters. The electric pulls by which the traps are sprung are in perfect working order, and Mr. M. R. Shedd, the inventor of the device, expects to be able to show them off to such good advantage during the tournament that he will receive orders from two or three outside clubs for their introduction in other parts of the state. The wires are run direct from the traps to the house, underground, and connect with push buttons. The battery is in the house also, and the entire contrivance is a very shrewd one. There are also alarm bells under the puller's stand which are used by the boys who set the traps to indicate to the puller when the traps are ready to be sprung, thus avoiding delay or accidents.

The Club has made arrangements for lunches and refreshments which will be served during the tournament at reasonable rates so that parties who participate in the shoot will not be obliged to leave the grounds during the day. Busses will run back and forth from the fair grounds, where the tournament will take place.

Escaped from the Officers.

On Wednesday night Officers Dorocher and Brockway arrested a man by the name of Billy Harkins for stealing clothes, and were taking him to the lock-up, when, by a quick movement he escaped from the clutches of his captors and ran for dear life. The officers had gotten him to the jail building and one was unlocking the door when he made his break for liberty. He ran across the railroad yards towards the Last Turn saloon, hotly pursued by both officers, who, between them, fired five shots at the culprit, but failed to bring him down. He ran into the front door of the Last Turn and out of the back door, then into the back door of the place adjoining, slamming each door as he passed through in the officers' face. He is supposed to have run out in the street and down towards the river, but this the officers deny that positively, as they lost sight of him as he went out of the back door of the Last Turn. Search has been made for him in every place imaginable that he could hide in, but no trace of him has been found as yet.

He is wanted for stealing a couple of suits of clothes out of an N. P. caboose, belonging to a man by the name of Reilly. He had some of the clothes on when arrested, the officers having a sample of the cloth in their pockets, which was furnished them by Reilly, he having suspected this man Harkins from the first. Harkins is a nephew of the bar-tender at the Last Turn, and was employed as a brakeman some time ago, but recently has been doing nothing.

Notice to Water Consumers.

The Syndicate Arrives.

A special train arrived from St. Paul at 4:35 yesterday afternoon having on board members of the Weyerhauser syndicate, who have been expected for some time. The gentlemen of the party were Messrs. Weyerhauser, Sauntry, Musser, Davis, Laird and Pillsbury. Immediately upon the arrival of the train the party went by carriages to the dam, where the improvements were looked over and the party returned to the city, and Messrs. Weyerhauser and Davis boarded the special, which was waiting them, and were immediately taken back to St. Paul. The balance of the party remained over night, and in company with J. J. Howe this morning went to Gull River to look the plant over at that place. The party are on a tour of inspection, and what conclusions have been reached or just what the import of the visit means has not been disclosed. It is stated, however, that the trip to Gull River this morning is with a view of accepting a proposition which has been made by the proprietors of the mill at that place and the site at Rice Lake which they are desirous of selling in a body. If the proposition is accepted the plant will be removed to this city.

Sixteen Trans-Continental Passenger Trains Daily.

Under the new train schedule which the Northern Pacific Railroad inaugurates June 15th, 1890, there will be sixteen trans-continental passenger trains moving daily on this line, eight east bound and eight west bound, inclusive of 108 local, main and branch line passenger trains running daily west of St. Paul, Ashland and Duluth in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Washington on its 3800 miles of track.

Chas. S. Fee, general passenger agent of the line at St. Paul, announces that under the new arrangement the first through train, the Pacific Express, leaves St. Paul at 6:24 a. m., daily, with a through Pullman Palace Sleeping Car, leaving Chicago daily at 5:30 p. m., via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, running via Helena and Tacoma direct to Portland, and making close connections at St. Paul with all trains leaving St. Louis in the forenoon and Chicago in the afternoon of the previous day, arriving at Tacoma 10:50 a. m. of the third day and Portland the same afternoon.

The second through train, No. 1, the Pacific Mail, leaving St. Paul at 4:15 p. m. daily, making close connections with the "Fast Mail," and all night trains out of Chicago, will carry a through Pullman Palace Sleeping Car, and one or more Pullman Tourists Sleeping Cars, leaving Chicago at 10:45 p. m., daily, via the Wisconsin Central line running through to Portland via Helena and Tacoma. Both trains out of St. Paul will carry Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, and Dining Cars, but free colonist sleepers will be run only on train No. 1, leaving St. Paul at 4:15 p. m.

The Northern Pacific now operates the largest equipment of dining cars of any railroad in the world, twenty-four, and also the longest Pullman sleeping car line in existence, namely: Chicago to Portland via Tacoma, and is the only line running these sleepers to the principal trade centres and pleasure resorts in Northern Minnesota, North Dakota, Manitoba, Montana and Washington.

The recently completed Butte Air Line of the Northern Pacific makes this the shortest route between Chicago and Butte by 120 miles and enables this company to announce a through Pullman Sleeping Car service between St. Paul and Tacoma and Portland via Butte, west on the 4:15 p. m. train, east from Portland on the 7:00 a. m. Atlantic Mail.

SHAKING HANDS.

The Latest English Style as Adopted by New York Anglomaniacs.

The new fashion of shaking hands is absurd, says the Brooklyn Eagle, but it has been adopted, and it will be many years before society is emancipated from its grotesque influence. The old fashion of shaking hands was good enough and simple enough, but the universal desire for a change has abolished it. Formerly when two people met they always swung forward naturally, their hands met, and the arms dropped back in place. The more act of shaking hands was as natural as that of taking a seat or lifting a book. It is far different now. The whole ceremony is limited with deep thought and careful elaboration. A man and a woman meet and both burst into a smile of welcome. Then the woman swings her right arm, which is perfectly rigid, straight out from the shoulder and directly in front of her. When the hand has reached the height of her chin she holds it there, with the thumb toward the face and the palm turned slightly outward. The man who has been approaching her gently takes hold of the hand a good deal as one might grasp the rung of a ladder. To be more slightly, as though intending to press his lips to the lady's hand, and then lets go abruptly and drops his hand to his side. Then the woman drops her stiffened arm and the ceremony is over." This is English. It first appeared in Punch about six years ago and it has since then been extensively copied in British society. Its full adoption in New York occurred at the MacAlister ball, where the society ladies received the 1,400 guests in precisely this fashion during the evening.

The Length of the Day.

At London, England, and Bremen, Prussia, the longest day has sixteen and a half hours. At Stockholm, Sweden, it is eighteen and a half hours in length. At Hamburg, in Germany, and Dantzic, in Prussia, the longest day has seventeen hours. At St. Petersburg, Russia, and Tobolsk, Siberia, the longest day has nineteen hours and the shortest five hours. At Tornea, Finland, June 21 brings a day nearly twenty-two hours in length. At Wardburg, Norway, the longest day lasts from May 22 to July 22, without interruption, that is to say the sun is never set in that time, and in Spitzbergen the longest day is three and a half months.

At Philadelphia the longest day is somewhat less than fifteen hours, and in Montreal, Canada, it is sixteen.

The Knights Templar Convention.

The 25th annual conclave of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, of Minnesota, convened in this city on Tuesday last. The convention was a highly interesting one to those participating in the deliberations. The visiting knights were escorted from the Arlington to the asylum of Acalon Commandery at 9 a. m. by the Third Regt. Band. The assemblage was given an address of welcome by Mayor Stivers, after which the body went into secret session, for the transaction of business which concerned only members of the order, and which continued during the entire day. The selection of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Sir A. Z. Levering, Minneapolis, R. E. G. C.; Sir C. M. E. Powell, Redwood Falls, R. E. D. G. C.; Sir C. W. Hugo, Duluth, E. G. Generalissimo; Sir D. R. Sutherland, Morris, E. G. C. G.; Sir P. H. Hubbell, Winona, E. G. Prelate; Sir A. B. Stebbins, Rochester, E. G. S. W.; Sir A. T. Koerner, Litchfield, E. G. J. W.; Sir J. G. McFarlane, Minneapolis, E. G. Treasurer; Sir Thomas Montgomery, St. Peter, E. G. Recorder; Sir J. W. Nash, Minneapolis, E. G. S. B.; Sir W. H. S. Wright, St. Paul, E. G. sword bearer; Sir A. J. Sovereign, Brainerd, E. G. Warden.

The officers were installed by R. E. Commander W. H. Sanborn, and a reception and banquet followed at the Arlington, which was highly enjoyed by those in attendance, only a few outside the members of the organization participating. Sir Knight John T. Frater acted as toast-master for the occasion, and the first toast, "Our Guests," was responded to by Eminent Sir Knight Rev. G. H. Davis. Other toasts followed in order and were:

"The Grand Commandery of Minnesota," response by Right Eminent Sir W. H. Sanborn, of St. Paul.

"Knight Templarism," response by Right Eminent Sir J. A. Schlener, of Minneapolis.

"The Ladies," response by Right Eminent Sir W. D. Cornish, of St. Paul.

Remarks followed by other guests present and the assemblage dispersed at 2 a. m., at which time the members of the Grand Lodge and several Sir Knights from this city took the train for Duluth where a Masonic Temple was dedicated the following day. The next meeting of the Grand Lodge will be at Rochester in June, 1891. It will be a long time before Brainerd will entertain as distinguished a body of visitors as the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Minnesota.

Mr. J. W. Howie and Miss Addie Gardner were married at the home of the bride's parents Monday afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. J. F. Wells, and left on the four o'clock train for Ottawa, Kansas, where they will attend the Chautauqua. Mr. Howie has for some time been assistant cashier in the First National Bank in this city and is one of our most popular and promising young men, while the bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of J. O. Gardner, an old-time resident of this city. The wedding was a very quiet affair, there being no one present but the members of the two families and a few particular friends.—Kansas Democrat.

Miss Gardner is a niece of John Cochran of this city and was a visitor here two years ago, during which time she made many friends.

Route of the Grand and Subordinate Lodges Knights of Pythias.

At a meeting of the committee on transportation of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of the State of Minnesota, Saturday, June 21st, the Wisconsin Central was selected as the official route for the Grand and Subordinate Lodges to the Bi-ennial Conclave to be held at Milwaukee, Wis., July 8th to 12th, 1890. Special trains, handsomely decorated, will leave the Union Depot, Minneapolis, at 6:25 p. m., and the Union Depot, at St. Paul, at 7:15 p. m., Sunday and Monday, July 6th and 7th. The Grand Chancellor and Officers of the Grand Lodge will leave St. Paul at 7:15 p. m., July 6th. Special attention is called to the fact that these trains will not only carry the Grand and Subordinate Lodges of the Order, but will be open to the public also, and that all trains of the Wisconsin Central pass the Camp Grounds, affording passengers the advantage of being landed there.

Grand Chancellor S. F. Stahl, and Secretary Joseph Rothschild, have issued circulars announcing the programme, as above, requesting that they be advised on or before July 1st, of the number of delegates that may be looked for from several Lodges, so as to make arrangements accordingly. A Soap Bubble.

"A Soap Bubble," with Charles Jerome in one of the principal roles, was presented at the Columbia last evening before a large audience. Jerome, with his songs and characterizations, is a whole show in himself, but he calls in the aid of others but little less capable of amusing audiences. His play is a knockabout farce, which depends for its fun largely upon the capacity of the actors for bringing it out. He is aware of this, and as his desire is to give the public a good entertainment, he has surrounded himself with talent of the right kind. There is considerable singing, interspersed through the play, aside from that done by Jerome himself, the Soap Bubble quartette furnished some enjoyable vocal numbers.—Cleveland Leader.
