The Italian cabinet announces that though no pecuniary assistance will be extended to exhibitors at the World's Fair they will have the government's best wishes. Thanks, anyway.

A woman offered a prayer on a New York street, and was for a moment the center of attention. The examination, however, established her sanity. It is now known that a prayer may be made in that city without arrest.

Forty-seven per cent of all college students in this country at present are men, and nearly two-thirds of all our colleges are co-educational. At no time has the women of the United States promised to be better educated than the men.

It sounds like a moon statement that the grain yield of North Dakota this year will average a million dollars more than that of last year, or $50,000,000. There is room for congratulation if it is in the vicinity of the fact.

A PROMISE American financier says that now we are shipping so much to Europe, and the nations there find how independent countries are on one another at the present time, it would be wise to make another effort to secure international tussles.

A cat at Ansonia, Ct., claimed a robin the other day, but before it had time to kill the bird four other robins, one by one, came to the rescue. The panther made a determined attack upon pussy that was glad to see the feathered prey get away.

LILLIAN Russell refused to sing in a theater the other day until all the dainties had been taken down. This was because she thought the audience interfered with the acoustic properties of the house, not as some who have seen the statuesque Lillian might suppose because she was opposed to dainties at all times.

The latest fashion in Parisian society is to wear corsetless for young mothers, to which only young married couples are invited. The latest mode is to wear corsets for the sake of the children, and to wear corsets for the sake of the children, and to wear corsets for the sake of the children.

OSM concern at Waterville, Me. made last year enough cloth to make them think that they were making a fortune. They are now making a fortune, and they are now making a fortune, and they are now making a fortune.

HEAR Watson has been summing up the situation with regard to a union of the Twin Cities, and reaching a conclusion. He has reached a conclusion, and he has reached a conclusion, and he has reached a conclusion.

THE Pringle, one of the oldest families in the city, has been making a fortune. They are now making a fortune, and they are now making a fortune, and they are now making a fortune.
