TO GIVE a brilliant white light, a lamp needs a thorough cleaning every week. Many are injured by trying to clean the lamp, leaving no drops on the glass and wick, and the lamp is washed in strong soap, rinsed in water, and then dried. It should be filled with fresh oil. The burner should be boiled in soda and water until the oil work is clean. It is freed from dirt and dried. If the burner is broken, it should be replaced, and a new one.
