CLEAN the streets. Fifth street is a mass of filth and should be cleaned.

MINNEAPOLIS seems to have all the jam, ice jam, log jam, etc., and for once St. Paul is not envious.

THERE is some advantage in winter after all. There is no danger of one getting run over every minute by an amateur bicycle rider.

SPRING has come, and the patient pedestrian again gets off into the mud and sand to let the heavy fiend monopolize the sidewalk.

FRIDAY April 30th is Arbor day. Let every one observe the day by by planting trees. Nothing beautifies a city more than beautiful trees.

THE floods at Fargo this week carried off 14 blocks of cedar paving and 30 miles of fence. It is a sickening case of this kind it is a good scheme to have paving that won't float.

BRAINERD isn't a bad place to live in after all. While almost every other town in the state is flooded and in danger of destruction, this city sits high and dry, suffering no inconvenience, whatever.

CARTER HARRISON, JR., was elected mayor of Chicago on Tuesday, receiving a larger vote than all the other candidates combined. It was very fortunate for Carter that he is a son of his father.

THE attorney general has given an opinion that the adoption of the constitutional amendment on saloons is a subject matter for removal from office. Under this opinion there are several people in Brainerd illegally holding office.

THIS is a peculiar age. There are a lot of people who are continually denouncing trusts because they prevent competition, and also department stores because they are too sharp competion for smaller concerns. It is pretty hard to tell what some people want.

THE people of Superior, Wis., have peculiar taste, to say the least. On Tuesday they elected Rev. Starkweather mayor, after he had been impeached for extorting money from policemen, firemen, and others. But, then, if they prefer a man of that kind, they ought to have him.

THE legislature has passed a law changing the bounty system and the new law takes effect at once. Under the provision of the new act the bounty will be $5 for all full grown wolves male or female for the first five months of the year. For the remaining seven months but $3 will be paid. For cubs but $2 will be paid at any time. It is also a provision that the whole carcass must be presented to the county auditor. Every one should keep these provisions in mind or some one will loose a bounty some day by not complying with the new arrangements. It will likely happen that some man who don't read the papers will loose at one time enough to pay for a good many or four years, says the Todd County Argus.

Recent Meeting of the N. M. E. A.

On Friday, March 26th, the teachers of the city schools, together with many from adjoining towns, met in the High School building of the city at the opening session of the Northern Minnesota Education Association. Co. Supt. J. A. Wilson, who had been instrumental in calling the association, opened the meeting with a few timely words relative to the nature of the association and the circumstances which led to the calling of the meeting. Rev. R. C. Opie gave an address of welcome, followed by Rev. W. H. Travis, who spoke of the teacher and the motives which should prompt him in his work. Geo. R. Kleeberger, president of the St. Cloud Normal school, gave an interesting and instructive address on "The Ideal Teacher," after which W. G. Smith, editor of the School Education, stepped to the platform and conducted a conference on "Ways and Means," during which many current interesting ideas and methods were brought out. The programme was interspersed with music by the school children.

The evening meeting of the association was held at First Congregational church. Supt. Wm. Angus, of Wadena, read a paper on "The Home and the School," setting forth the relation which should exist between the two. President Kleeberger followed with the address of the evening on the subject of "Child Study." President Kleeberger treated his subject scientifically, and his address proved both interesting and instructive, and made a marked impression on his audience. Very enjoyable music was rendered at intervals during the evening by the members of the Star and Banner Quartettes.

Saturday morning the association again met in the High School, and a permanent organization was effected. Geo. R. Kleeberger being elected president. Principal Alvin Emly, of Aitkin, read a paper on "The Course of Study," emphasizing the fact of the large number of studies crowded into the curriculum of our modern schools. The customary vote of thanks were extended, and the association adjourned to meet next year at St. Cloud.

Hardy was driving across the track at the time in question, and passenger train No. 2, which was lying at the depot, started up and ran into him killing both horses and injuring him quite severely.

W. E. Seelye, of Brainerd, was in the city last night. He is a gold assayer and is interested in the Rainy Lake gold fields and returned only a few months ago from a trip to the interior of Alaska in the interest of a railroad scheme. Mr. Seelye states his belief in the future of the Rainy Lake country as a gold producing country. The miners are also making some rich strikes in the Yukon river country, Alaska.—St. Cloud Journal Press.

An ice gorge Saturday threatened to take out the wagon bridge and also the Northern Pacific bridge across the Crow Wing. The company had the ice below its bridge blown up with dynamite, thus opening the channel and the danger averted. When the ice began going out it brought down Hatcher's old wanigan, which had a hard time getting under the bridge. The bridge suffered some from the ice flow but was held in place by cables. It will soon be at work repairing the bridge and putting in a new floor.—Staples World.

POLITICAL PHRASES.

Many of Them Due to English Historians and Statesmen.

An "unfettered press" is one of the historical phrases of our language, but not every reader knows that it was coined by the celebrated Richard Brinsley Butler Sheridan. When speaking on the liberty of the press, the orator thrilled the house with the following sentence: "Give them, a corrupt house of lords, give them a venal house of commons, give them a tyrannical prince, give them a truckling court, and let me have but an unfettered press, I will defy them to encroach a hair's breadth upon the liberties of England."

The "fourth estate" is a term that is constantly applied to the press. Its origin is generally traced to Macaulay, who in his essay on "Hallam's History," in 1828, writes: "The gallery in which the reporters sit has become a fourth estate of the realm." But Hazlitt, the famous literary critic, had some five years earlier written in his "Table Talk" a sentence that must have given the idea to Lord Macaulay. Speaking of Cobbett, Hazlitt says: "He fillips the ear of the public with a three men beetle, he is the most formidable single-handed paper antagonist, he lays waste a city editor or a member of parliament and bears hard upon the government itself. He is a kind of fourth estate in the politics of the country."

"Looming in the future" was the invention of Lord Beaconsfield. In June, 1852, then Mr. Disraeli, he issued an election address to his constituents, the electors of Buckinghamshire, in which the following occurs: "The times are favorable to such an undertaking. Juster notions of taxation are more prevalent than heretofore. Powerful agencies are at work which have introduced new phenomena into human and altered the complexion of the fiscal world, and the possibility of greatly relieving the burdens of the country seems to loom in the future."

"Men, not measures," is now a historic phrase. It was first uttered by Mr. Canning in the house of lords in opposition to the Addington ministry, when he said: "Away with the cant of 'measures, not men'—the idle supposition that it is the harness, and not the horses, that draws the chariot along. No, sir; if the comparison must be made, if the distinction must be taken, men are everything, measures are comparatively nothing. I speak of times of difficulty and danger, when parties are shaken, when the precedents and general rules of conduct fail; then it is that not to that or to this measure—however prudently devised—but to the energy and character of individuals, a state must be indebted for its salvation."

A "gigantic innovation" is a phrase that was originated by Mr. Gladstone in a debate that took place in July, 1860, on the action of the house of lords in rejecting the bill for the abolition of paper duties. "It appears to me," said Mr. Gladstone, "to the determination of one moiety of this house that there shall be no debate upon the constitutional principles which are involved in this question, and I must say that, considering that gentlemen opposite are upon this occasion the penitence of a gigantic innovation—the most gigantic and the most dangerous that has been attempted in our time—I must protest most upon the prudence they show in resolving to be its silent partisans."—Scraps.

A Horse's Teeth.

Every horse has six teeth above and below. Before 5 years of age he sheds his middle teeth. At 3 he sheds one more on either side of the central teeth. At 4 he sheds the two corner and last of the fore teeth. Between 4 and 5 the horse cuts the usher tusk. At 5 will cut the upper tusks, at which time his mouth will be complete. At 6 years the grooves and hollows begin to fill up a little. At 7 the grooves will be well nigh filled up, except the corner teeth, leaving little brown spots where the dark brown hollows formerly were. At 8 the whole of the hollows and grooves are filled up. At 9 there is very often seen a small bill to the middle corner teeth, the point of the tusk is worn off, and the part that was concave begins to fill up and become convex. The squares of the central teeth begin to disappear, and the gums leave them small and narrow at the top.

Couldn't He Too Bad.

"Do you think," said the lady who was shopping, "that anybody would steal this umbrella if I were to leave it for a few minutes?"

"Really, madam," replied the clerk, "I shouldn't like to venture an opinion without first examining the umbrella."—Washington Star.

Connubial Mysteries.

"A man who is just married tells his wife everything."

"Yes!"

"And after he gets better acquainted with her he doesn't tell her anything."—Chicago Record.

"HAUNTED" HOUSES.

The Foolish Superstition That Deems Them Unlucky Abandoned.

Probably the majority of people have been momentarily struck from time to time by the sight of deserted houses of a sad, deserted appearance, curiously suggestive of rats and romance, which occur at intervals in the streets of London and most other big human hives. There they stand year after year. No one occupies them; no one seems to make inquiries about them or to regard them as habitable; generally they crumble through sheer damp and dismay or are eventually razed by the legalized "housebreaker." Of course many houses answering to this description stand empty for years pending decisions in the court of chancery or because the sanitary authorities have seen fit to condemn them, but it is a fact that hundreds of such houses remain vacant simply because of some queer local aversion or superstition which has gradually surrounded them with a fatal atmosphere of ill luck. Call a house "haunted," and with many people the ghost is taken for granted.

Occasionally the reasons why certain dwelling houses should have been marked out and shunned in this way are humorous to a degree, not to say ridiculous. The writer knows of one substantial pile, standing in a northwest suburb, which has been practically doomed to perpetual emptiness solely through a local report that a dastardly crime had been done in one of the rooms. Not an atom of base for this rumor was to be had, but in a short space of time the belief obtained such credence that it was no uncommon thing for one or more morbid sightseers to be found staring up at the blank windows and speculating as to the nature of the deed.

Finally the street urchins took every opportunity to riddle it with stones, while every possible tenant was solemnly warned against occupying the premises. The despairing owner reduced the rent from time to time, but a bad construction was placed upon this action, and the building is now an uninhabitable shell.

Another house, in the very next street, had stood tenantless for a long time for a somewhat similar reason. It appeared that the last occupants had mysteriously disappeared, owing money in all directions. This was unprecedented occurrence in itself, but it so happened that a local busybody discovered that one of the upper rooms had a false floor, which was duplicated in the passage below, and immediately there were whisperings as to foul play. An investigation disproved this theory, but the rumor had gone forth, and that house was doomed. Recently the last stone in copings were found to be nothing more than blotches of red paint made no difference. They were red. Instantly the story was noised abroad that they must be lifeblood.

Even those people who pride themselves on not being influenced by such idle gossip very naturally do not relish occupying a house that is pointed at and "talked about," while they can obtain one with no such notoriety attached. As a landlord bitterly remarked to the writer recently: "Let a house be singled out for local suspicion and whispers, it is almost certain to be doomed to future emptiness. No one cares to risk the matter to the test."—Household Words.

Lost His Horse, Drives a Cow.

In Springfield, O., there lives a venerable citizen who is known as Father Danforth, the crusader. Recently he has taken to driving a cow in harness.

Father Danforth is quite a character, and he is always given a hearty welcome wherever he goes. His horse died some time ago, and he thought he would try hitching up a cow. He came to the town of business good naturedly, and after a few lessons became manageable with the bridle. It can now be driven anywhere that a horse can. Days forth then tried an older cow in harness and met with success, and after several months' training both cows and sells the milk, establishing what is known as the White Saloon.

Danforth also conceived the idea that leaves could be utilised as food for cows, and he has been feeding them right along. He has recently established a business, where leaves are handled and baled for sale.—Cincinnati Post.

Worth Seeing.

"Every year," said the professor, "a sheet of water 14 feet thick is raised to the clouds from the sea.

"What time of the year does that happen, professor?" asked the freshman from the city.

"At the time of the light first shock of earthquake," replied the professor, with a dazzling smile.—Indianapolis Journal.

AURORA ON THE YUKON.

The Play of Northern Lights on Snow Banks and Frozen Rivers.

During the winter months the aurora on the Yukon is very brilliant and intensely beautiful. It commences early in August and lasts, with more or less brilliancy, throughout the long arctic winter. It generally commences upon the setting of the sun, although in midwinter it has sometimes been so bright that it was visible at noon, while the sun was shining brightly. The rays of the light first shoot forth with a quick, quivering motion and are then gathered and form a great arch of fire, spanning the heavens. It glows for an instant like a girdle of burnished gold; then, unfolding, great curtains of light drop from it.

These royal mantles of bright orange, green, pink, rose, yellow and crimson are suspended and waved between heaven and earth with an invisible hand. The rapid gyrations and scintillations of light and shifting colors are intensely and superbly bewildering.

The whole phenomena of waving wreaths, flickering flames, rays, streamers, bands and fashioning of colors, the strange confusion of light and motion, now high in the heavens, then dropping like curtains of gold and silver, sparkling with a wealth of rubies, sapphires, emeralds and diamonds, penetrating dark arches and darting through somber green forests, lighting the whole landscape as with a thousand electric lamps, form a picture of which words can convey but a very poor idea. This unwarming light, as it flashes along the frozen rivers, the great banks of snow and reveals the huge mountains of glistening ice and black lines of fir, indeed is of the purest arctic cast and causes one to button his coat closer over his chest, and, with a shiver, he is glad to seek a light of less brilliancy, but one of life giving warmth.

At the breaking up of the winter the hours of sunshine are rapidly increasing and continue so until midsummer, when the sun beams shine twenty hours out of the 24, while on the high mountain peaks it is for a period of several days in June not entirely out of sight during the 24 hours. During the months of July and August the weather becomes very warm and even hot, and miners are glad to seek a shady retreat in which to do their labor. After this period the hours of sunshine gradually decrease until, during the shortest days, the sun shines but four hours out of the 24. But at this period the aurora is very intense and helps very materially in driving the darkness from that dreary land. The thermometer goes down to 70 degrees below zero in winter, but the atmosphere is very dry, and consequently the cold is not so perceptible as one would imagine.—Alaskan News.

THE RETIRED BURGLAR.

A Most Uncomfortable Situation and How He Escaped From It.

"At the end of a farmhouse that I was looking around one night," said the retired burglar, "I found an extension containing a single room, that appeared to be used as a washroom. I thought if I went in through this extension I should be less likely to wake up the folks in the house, and so I got in at a rear window and started for a door at the other end, opening into the main part, which I hoped to find unlocked, but I never really did find out whether it was unlocked or not, for when I had got about half way across the room I stepped through a hole in the floor and dropped into a cistern.

"I suppose that of all the uncomfortable places a man can get into one of the most uncomfortable is a cistern. It is a very difficult place to get out of, and it may be impossible to get out of it without help. The water in this cistern was just above my head, but I could swim, and the water wasn't very cold. I kept afloat and felt around the walls endeavoring to climb out by it, did find something, the pipe from the pump, but it wasn't of any use to me, for it left the cistern just where the walls began to arch over to form the top. If it had run up under the arch a little, it might have helped me to reach the edge of the opening, but it didn't. It started out from the top of the straight wall. It was on the side toward the house, and I suppose this cistern must have been outdoors, and they built the extension over it.

"I kept paddling all the time to keep my head above water, and every now and then I looked up at the opening I had dropped through. I could see out the outline of it by the starlight in the washroom, and I wished they hadn't left the cover off. And how I did wish I could get there! But that was impossible. But from the nearest I could get to it was about two feet away. I found that by making one more effort I could reduce that distance to about 1¼ feet, but that was all, and it might as well have been 1¼ miles.

"Paddling around in the water one of my feet struck my tool bag, lying on the bottom, where I had dropped it when I first went down. The little bound from that, instead of from the floor of the cistern, which I had touched a few times before, threw my head a little higher out of water than usual, and then I found the satchel with both feet and stood on it. That gave me the first rest I had had since I dropped into the cistern. It raised me up so that my head was clear of the water down to just below my mouth, and I could keep in that position without very much effort and breathe easily. It was a very great relief.

"Then, of course, there was a chance to think things over with some kind of comfort. I had my jimmy in my bag, a useful tool in many ways, and no doubt I could have got out of the cistern by the aid of it, but the work would have been very difficult, and it would probably have taken too long, and as a matter of fact I had already thought of a much simpler way of getting out. Standing on the bag not only raised my head above the water; but, of course, it raised me just so much nearer the opening at the top of the cistern. If I could get something a little higher still to stand on or two higher, or even less than that, I could reach the rim, and, of course, the thing to do was to end this bag up and stand on that. This seemed so extremely simple that you may wonder I hadn't thought of it before, but the falling into the cistern had been in the nature of a surprise to me, and I hadn't got around to this idea yet. I would have thought of it in time, even if I hadn't happened to strike the bag with my feet.

"Well, I balanced myself on the bag as it was until I had got a good rest, and then I bent down in the water and ended the bag up and got one foot on it to hold it, and then I stood up in the water again and got the other foot on it. Then I found I could reach within six or eight inches of the rim of the cistern. But it was a mighty shaky support, rigid as I could make it with the bound in it; but not fixed, it was wabbly and of no use unless I could get it right to the top of the body when I jumped. But I steadied it up under my feet and trued it up the best I could and made a spring from it. I caught the rim of the cistern with both hands, and then I raised myself up and chinned it. Then I got my right elbow up over and to the floor, and after that it wasn't very long before I had worked myself up over the edge and out, but I didn't try to do any more work that night."—New York Sun.

The melancholy days for the bandstand are in the new cabinet. They can't beat Chicago.

There is a bright side to everything. The city of Canton, Ohio, is now enjoying a brass band famine.

A trust has been formed by the manufacturers of bourbon whisky. The terms are in the hand have determined to put it down.

Turkey claims to have bought three American ironclads. The sultan evidently wishes to discover a few more sand-bars in the Mediterranean.

Mr. Cleveland is now experiencing the exclusiveness that is secreted in the ex-presidency. Nobody pays the least attention to the number of ducks he kills.

By the way, who is it that is trying to recover the American flags captured by the Britishers during the war with that country? There has certainly been no governmental action taken in that direction.

A preacher at Normal, Ill., says he uses beer because he is suffering from nervous prostration, resulting from being held up by a footpad. We have often wondered at the enormous consumption of the amber beverage.

Right here we wish to call your attention to a remarkably good man, in at least one respect. Stratton, the Cripple Creek millionaire, refuses to go into any stock-market gambling schemes. "What I'm trying to do," says he to promoters, "is to keep my money down within the limits of decency." Are you not pleased to know that there is one rich man who has not designs on the entire earth?

And now Dr. Lyman Abbott of Brooklyn tells us that one of the Psalms David wrote but fifteen. David, therefore, is not the poet many supposed him to have been. Then comes Rev. Wilton Lloyd, a congregational minister in New York, who solemnly avers that the story of Balaam and his ass is no fairy tale true. In other words, Mr. Lloyd does not believe the ass spake with the voice of a man.

A WORLD OF SEA.

Representative Donovan of Bay City has introduced a bill in the Michigan legislature to keep baseball fans inside from going on in their single cussedness." In explaining the bill Mr. Donovan said: "We don't think any penalty for men who have done the best they could and have been fitted, or so honesty that no game would be won at them. These two classes will be exempt from all the penalties of the bill." The ministers and justices are much pleased with the bright prospect for increased business.

A negro who died the other day in a St. Louis hospital was probably the fatest woman ever known. She weighed 600 pounds and when she was taken to the hospital it was almost impossible to get her through the door of the ambulance. She broke the stretcher on which they carried her up stairs, and it took six strong negroes to move her. When she reached this city she was over half an hour to ascertain that she was really dead. The layers of fat between the heart and the lungs were so thick that it was impossible to discern the ebbing and flowing of the blood.

A romantic story comes from Holly N. J., concerning Frank Rice, formerly of that place, but now a wealthy California mining man. and Miss Lizzie Franke. The two were married recently in Pennsylvania in 1881, but agreed to keep the marriage secret until success should have crowned the efforts of the bridegroom in the far west. Sixteen years elapsed before the desired result was attained, and a few days ago Rice returned to Holly and claimed his wife. During all this time they guarded their secret so well that their nearest friends never once suspected the true state of affairs.

An aged Chicago spinster, with the usual fondness of her kind for cats, has recently had an unpleasant experience on account of them. She had an unusual number of feline companions; in fact, about thirty gathered in her apartments, and the neighbors have made a complaint to the health officers that cats are not the desired in the neighborhood in such numbers. The woman has occupied the same rooms for eight years, and the landlady says that her door was always kept locked to keep out intruders. The health officer has ordered the cats to be moved, and great is the grief of their fond mistress.

Germany's fifteen largest landowners own between them 9,000,000 acres of German soil. Prince Wittgenstein has 1,000,000 acres, next comes the Duke of Arenberg with 890,000, then in order the Prince of Thurn and Taxis, the Duke of Brunswick, Prince Salm Salm, the Prince of Talleyrand-Sagan, who is a French subject, the Prince of Hatzfeldt, the Duke of Leuchtenberg, Prince Bentheim, Prince Lowenstein, the Prince of Fried Crown-Dietrichstein, the Queen of Roumania and Prince Fugger. Many of these have large estates outside of Germany as well.

An Atlanta clergyman denounces the "beautiful women, members of our churches, who gamble for prizes at cards, against the law of both God and man." Such gambling is unlawful and must be over, with the fair members of his church, at least.

The offer of Andrew Carnegie and other rich men to loan the State of Pennsylvania millions of money with which to rebuild its Capitol, causes the suspicion that they want either to clear their consciences or obtain some more favors.

A woman in Milpitas, Cal., is said to have invented a novel and effective cure for despondency and kindred evils. She makes it a rule to laugh three times a day, with occasion or without, and is now enjoying excellent health and spirits. She can laugh, everybody.

The recent murder of a young lady in a railway carriage in England is causing the English railroad companies to think of adopting the style of coaches used in this country. Nobody is ever murdered in them, but occasionally a man is robbed.

President Hottman of the defunct Mullaugh bank of St. Louis, says he was hypnotised by a liquor dealer named Teucher, bto loaning him $80,000 on worthless security. If there is anything in games the banker's story is rot and the liquor man only a voucher.

The appointment of John Hay as ambassador to England gives an irreverent paragrapher a chance to say that the author of "Little Breeches" has a most flattering opportunity now for "looking around the throne."

OUTLOOK IN RED RIVER VALLEY IS BRIGHTER.

It Is Not Expected That the Red Will Rise Very Much Higher—Fargo Gets an Awful Soaking—Sewerage System Overtaxed.

The Lower Jim Valley a Vast Sea.

Fargo, N. D., April 6.—During one hour Sunday the water in the Red river rose only half an inch, and the indications are that the limit will be reached some time to-night. During the last seventeen hours the water has risen eighteen inches. The water has now reached such a height that the Keeley institute has been flooded, and many families in the Island Park residence district have moved out. Bishop Shanley and Sister Superior Nicholas being among the number. Both passenger bridges between Fargo and Moorhead are closed, and the water is two feet high on Front street and Northern Pacific avenue, and four blocks of paving are loaded toward Winnipeg. Rooms are being put in readiness for the change in the streets. The water is nearly up to the cross-ties on the Northern Pacific bridge, but trains have been sent over in both directions, though great care has been taken to keep weights on the bridge at all times. The Shoyenne river, which is the highest it has been at last and is flooding the prairie to Fargo and the people of Fargo fear that, many families will be compelled to move unless the water recedes. Basement in town is flooded, including the press rooms of all the newspapers. Considerable damage to the damage caused by the flood. At first the people on the north were the sufferers, but now all people are catching it, and it is feared some of the buildings will be damaged by high water in their basements.

Grand Forks.—The river is rising three inches an hour, and reports from the south say that they are making arrangements to move out. Indications are that the water will be higher than ever before.

In the reign of Edward III. there were at least three hundred and fifty weavers and fullers in Witney, and their united labors formed the finest woven blanket. They were the first persons who manufactured that comfortable material which has ever since been called by their name and which was then used for ecclesiastic clothing.

FROM THE CAMP

A Secret Handed Down by the Indians to a Generation that is the Cause of Thanksgiving to Many.

Their Knowledge of Health

Thousands To-day Who Have Availed Themselves of Their Medicines Praise the Instinct by Which They Learned Nature's Secrets.

Did you ever get up in the morning with a bad taste in the mouth, a furred tongue, dull pains inside head, aches at the stomach, no appetite, and during the day by accident or fate right shoulder blade, a difficulty in breathing, spots before the eyes, a dry cough, cold hands and feet and hundreds of other similar distressing sensations? If so you can make up your mind that your liver is out of order, and as soon as you have made up your mind to this, the sooner you make up your mind to get it into healthy condition the better it will be for you. Nothing leads to such serious results as disease of the liver, as shown by the above symptoms. Poisons are then allowed to circulate through the body remain in the system. They soon become chronic and lay the seed for organic. They hinder them from performing their functions, and destroy the tissues. The blood becomes frightfully corrupt and it is but a short time before the sufferer is completely prostrated with an illness that is apt to keep him many weeks from his work, if indeed he succeeds in ever again getting well. Wisdom advises all sufferers from such complications to resort to that great remedy that was known and used by the Indians, Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. For a disordered condition of the liver, as well as all affections of the kidneys and stomach, and for purifying the blood, this positively matchless remedy. The following is this connection, will explain itself, and is worthy of careful consideration:

Mrs. Kinnie Indian Sagwa Co., Dear Sirs:—I have been a sufferer from a disordered condition of my liver, which was brought on by malaria, and accompanied with a terrible stomach trouble. I experienced the most severe sick headaches. I at last took Kickapoo Indian Sagwa and in less than one month's time was entirely relieved. I am almost as well as I ever was. Yours respectfully, Carrie B. Pryor.

Kickapoo Indian Sagwa will do for any one what it did for Mrs. Pryor. It takes but a few days to know the good results that may be expected and in a short time, if persisted in, cures are always accomplished. This remedy can be bought of any druggist for $1.a bottle.

Periodical Sick Headaches,

Of Interest to Women, Because in This Case They Proceeded From an Ailment Peculiar to the Sex.

From the Herald Democrat, Hood, S. D.

A few years since, J. W. Kelley came to Huron, South Dakota, from Osceola, Iowa, and purchased an interest in the Kelley City Mill, an immense structure, having a capacity of 400 barrels per day. He soon after his arrival Mr. Kelley's family removed here and some months later they were joined by his daughter Jessie and family, he having purchased an interest in the concern, and they became known as the Mr. Kelley & Son. Since their arrival they have built up an immense business for their patent roller flower, and ship many carloads every month to eastern and southern points.

When they came to Huron, Mrs. J. W. Kelley was in very delicate health and a change of climate and conditions seemed to be necessary for her benefit. Residence was only temporary, however, for after a few months residence here she joined into the band for her confidence that had been her portion for thirty-nine years. Her ailments were those peculiar to women, and which women can best understand. In addition to those troubles Mrs. Kelley was a sufferer from severe sick headaches. This would come upon her at intervals of about two weeks, continuing for two, three or four days, much of the time coming in the night, so that she had no rest. Besides this affliction she was quite unable to do her housework, and her religious duties at the church. This worried her greatly, for she is a devout Christian and lives consistently to her profession. As Rev. B. H. Burst, pastor of the Congregational church, of which Mrs. Kelley belongs, said of her one day during a talk on her ailments:

"Mrs. Kelley is indeed a true mother in Israel; she is respected and loved by the faithful and devoted—a Christian in the true sense of the term."

In replying to inquiries touching her case Mrs. Kelley said:

"I am sixty years of age, and was born in New York state, where I lived for many years, then removed with my parents to Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Dakota. For years, then went to Iowa, remaining there for three years. Then I went again or more. I have been troubled with my health in a similar way for the past twenty-five years. During that time my husband has spent almost the entire amount of money being physicians and buying medicines, but found no relief. Physicians told me the womb was badly diarranged, and that an operation for relief could be afforded till the change of life had fully taken place. I knew my case and for a time ceased doctoring almost entirely. Finally, in the spring of 1895, I took medicine, both of the old school and near, and used no more doctors' stuff in any other way.

"About a year ago my son read in some newspaper an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He read aloud to me and as I hesitated because I had tried so many patent medicines without receiving any, he much sought and long hoped for relief. But he finally brought them home, and I finally decided to give them a trial. Almost from the first I experienced relief, and after using the first box a change for the better was so apparent that I took courage and continued to use them strictly according to directions, until a short time since. I am so much better, as any one can see, that I have gradually discontinued their use, and I take them now, but not regularly. I am a firm believer in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and have no hesitancy in recommending them to any one who may be similarly afflicted as myself. What they have done for me they will do for others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a failing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, pleumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, pallitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers or may be had by mail from the address of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

A Strange Legacy.

An original bulletin of the Mons, who, during his lifetime was fond of good living, has just died, leaving a legacy of £1000 to five friends under the following extraordinary conditions: The legacy must be spent at dinners served in different restaurants and the deceased had stipulated that at each meal a certain special dish and particular wine, of which he was very fond, shall be served, and that at dessert his memory shall be drunk. Furthermore the five companions must dine in black clothes and black gloves and must enter the dining room preceded by a ring and the sound of an organ. The first dinner took place at Brussels yesterday, and the injunctions were carried out to the letter. Of the five friends, two are from Brussels, one from Antwerp, one from Mons and one from Charlgrol.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Ponder Over It.

A prominent building owner, with years of experience, gave the following instructions to his architect: "I have had my experience with carpenters and other goods claimed to be just as good as Alabastine, and want to especially the durable Alabastine on all my walls; do not put on any other manufacturer's dope, if they furnish it free, because the Alabastine is right, and when I cease to do work I will come to have confidence in myself or my own judgment."

Smelling Salts Intoxicate.

It has lately been discovered that the constant inhalation of smelling salts will cause drunkenness.

So great a hold has the smelling-salts habit gained upon some fashionable ladies that a London physician in his experience all the cruises of inebriety is deriving, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers or may be had by mail from the address of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The "Prodigal Father" at the opera house on Wednesday evening was a first-class specialty company. There was not much of a plot, only sufficient to introduce a great many laughable scenes and incidents. The specialty work was fine throughout, the county girl, by Miss Melville, being especially fine.

The Mississippi River Boom company has given W. T. Blakely, of Minneapolis, a contract to get out 100 car loads of piling along the line of the B. & N. Six men were arrested Sunday night in the rooms over Kelleher's saloon, charged with gambling. Ten dollars apiece were put up for their appearance before his honor, Judge Aldeman, the next morning. Two forfeited the amount by not appearing, and the others plead not guilty, and their trial was fixed for Saturday, at 2 p. m. They deny the allegation that they were toying with the festive poker chip.

Several of the more thoughtful ladies of the city, have recently been removing their hats when seated in entertainment at the opera house. If they thoroughly understood how pleasing such action is to those who occupy seats behind them, and how much it is appreciated, we believe all the ladies in the city would adopt the custom. The custom in almost all other cities throughout the country is general, and should be practiced here.

Severn Koop has purchased the fine residence property of E. O. Gates on Third street north, between Juniper and Ivy streets. Mr. Gates and family will move east. It would have been the finest residence in the city, but the purchase of Mr. Gates' property will put a stop to the building.

Installed New Officers.

Brainerd Division No. 7, U. R. K. P. installed new officers for the coming year on Wednesday evening, Major O. H. Havill, of the 3rd Minn. Regt. U. R. K. P. conducting the installation exercises. The division has not had a meeting for over a year and has fallen into a state of what Grover Cleveland would term nauseous desuetude. A few days ago Major H. D. Powers was in the city and it was determined to insure new life into the organization, and a meeting was held and new officers elected. It is proposed now to get actively at work and make the division one of the best in the state. The officers installed were:

Sir Knight Capt.–W. A. M. Johnston.
Sir Knight Lieut.—F. A. Farrar.
Sir Knight Herald—Wm. Brown.
Sir Knight Recorder—J. R. Smith.
Sir Knight Treas.—C. D. Johnson.
Sir Knight Sentinel—E. H. Jones.

An Old Settler Moves Away.

Wm. Shontell has sold his residence and greenhouses on 8th street south, to Wm. Dodd, and will remove with his wife to Shelby, Oceana County, Mich. Mr. Shontell's removal will be greatly regretted by the people of this city. He was one of the very oldest settlers of this vicinity. He came here in May of 1871, before a single house was constructed in this city. Every one here then was living in tents. He was then employed by the R. R. Company, afterwards he went to farming, spending 16 years of the time here on his farm a couple of miles south of town. He was on the police force for seven years, three of them as chief. In whatever position he has been placed, he has been the same, honest, industrious and upright citizen, hence his departure will be greatly regretted. Mrs. Shontell has recently fallen heir to considerable money, and the desire to be among Mrs. Shontell's people was the chief cause of his removal. Mrs. Shontell left yesterday and Mr. Shontell goes to-morrow or Monday.

Funeral of Chas. L. Bjorkgren.

The funeral services of Chas. L. Bjorkgren, whose suicide was noted in these columns last week, occurred on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, under the direction of White Cross Lodge No. 30, Knights of Pythias, of this city, over 60 members of the lodge attending in a body. The services were held at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. Canon Pentreath, assisted by Rev. Williamson, conducting the services. The remains were escorted to Evergreen Cemetery by the knights, where the K. P. funeral services were read, and the remains were interred in the lot belonging to the lodge. Deceased was a member of Zeph Lodge of the order, but the local lodge did everything possible to gratify the friends of the deceased.

Nearly Slugged to Death.

Andrew Wallace, of East Brainerd, had a narrow escape from death on Sunday morning at the hands of an unknown assailant. Mr. Wallace tends bar for his brother, Jim Wallace, and was on way home between 1 and 2 o'clock that morning, when, just as he was going on the East Brainerd bridge he was struck on the back of his head by a blunt instrument of some kind, which rendered him unconscious. When he regained consciousness he found himself under the end of the street car trestle. He was covered with blood from wounds on the head. He staggered to his home where he was taken care of and Dr. Hemstead summoned. He has three deep cuts on the back of his head, evidently done with some blunt instrument, and a bad contusion on the neck. An examination of the road indicated that he had been struck in the street and dragged to the trestle and thrown off the edge and left for dead. Mr. Wallace had no money with him, hence his assailant realized nothing if robbery was the occasion of the assault. No clue to the guilty party has yet been found. Mr. Wallace is recovering from his wounds, being able to sit up now.
