SANTA CLAUS' SECRET.

The Place Found Where He Gets The Most of His Presents.
'Twas the night before Christmas, When all in the house, Not a creature was stirring, Not even a mouse.
The stockings were all hung Around the chimney with care, Hoping good St. Nicolas, Would soon be there.
The children were all tucked Warmly in their beds, With visions of sugarplums Flushing through their head Mamma with her 'kerchief, And in my cap.
Were quietly settling our minds For a long winter nap, When out on the eave's lawn, There arose such a clatter, I sprang from my bed To see what was the matter, I hastened to the window As quick as a flash, I opened the shutters, And lifted up the shade.
There, by the moonlight, Which made it bright as day, I saw six little deer, In a line, so neatly sleigh, With a little fat driver, So lively and quick, I knew in a minute, That it must be St. Nick.
The sleigh was well loaded, With Toys and Christmas Toys, Such as always bring pleasure To little girls and boys.
There were Tin Horses and Drums, And Toys of every brand, And each package was marked, 'From Nutting's New Stand.
And I said to myself, As he came to a pass, 'The Nattering was a Near friend of Santa Claus.'
'I shall see for myself, And I turned with a jerk, As Santa went down the chimney To finish his good work.
I put on my clothing, And hurried fast around, Dressed my warm overcoat, And started off for town.
'The seems strange,' I remarked, 'And I said to myself, 'The place is easy to find, I just follow the crowd.'
I followed all the people, And soon found the store, Filled with Holiday articles, From ceiling to the floor.
The people were all anxious, And they bought more and more, Of the stock of good things.
That packed the room to the door, There were candy, nuts and fruit, Two ornate and Christmas cards To suit the most fastidious.
Toys and Toys for the young, Cigars and pipes for the old, In fact everything that's new, Where the best is always sold.
Now kind, good hearted friends, Let me advise you once more, Don't buy your Christmas presents, Without visiting Nutting's store.
And you will hear Santa Claus say again, 'Peace on earth, and good will to Men.'
Sunday Schools and Church Societies should call as well. He has two ornate, nuts, fruits and candies to sell. The prices and qualities can't be beat Next south of the post-office on Seventh street.

Brained Dispatch.

Incorporated and Published by W. H. BARNER, MINNEAPOLIS.

It will be cheerfully conceded that Barker Spaulding bore an unblemished reputation until he was found out.

A paper in Havana wants somebody to trick a few Americans in that town. The man to do the business is not the editor of the paper, we feel sure.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale said that nine out of ten in a class of girls in one of the city's public schools had never heard of Noah's ark.

A Springfield (Mass.) girl who ran away from college were a black skirt and a black cat. Mearns thought the description is not sufficient to enable anybody to identify the girl.

Believing in the possibility of recovering the iron contained in low-grade ore, and an bringing vast tracts of hitherto worthless manganese into commercial value, Mr. Edson has devoted six years of time and nearly three million dollars to his private enterprise to a process which, according to the Electrical Review, is now perfected and will have a tremendous effect upon the iron industry of the world.

The British taxpayer has learned that he can not afford to neglect the management of his city. He knows that he will be required to pay the cost of his city's expenses. He knows that he will be required to pay the cost of his city's expenses.

The son of Grover Cleveland is to be congratulated that he was born to be called the prince. That title is attached to the name of a young man because the greatest of them.

An old man died, and had been a long time in bed. He had been in bed for a long time. He had been in bed for a long time.

The annual report of the treasurer, General Edwin Stewart, shows that during the past fiscal year the cost of maintaining the ships of the navy is commensurate with the cost of maintaining navy yards and stations.

The London Times says: "The trade of the Mexican republic is increasing with considerable rapidity. Last year the imports amounted to $2,235,547, against $2,320,000, while the exports were $1,224,000 against $1,220,000 the previous year. The increase in imports was spread over all articles, but was chiefly marked in the case of iron and steel and in machinery and implements. British imports were greater in 1906 than in 1905, they only amounted to 12 per cent of the whole import trade in 1906, while they were 12 per cent the year before. The imports from the United States, on the other hand, were 52 per cent of the import trade of Mexico against 47 per cent in 1905. This, our consuls at Mexico observe, shows a marked increase in the interest of American manufacturers and exporters, which is very well explained by the increased import trade, and may even be a part of the very limited share of it they at present enjoy."

Mr. W. T. Sted, having finished with New York, is now asking: "What has happened to him?" It is so curious that the name of a man who is referred to editor Sted is not the same as the name that have helped them.

Whoever is starting in Alaska will be much pleased to learn that their conditions in the north are being improved. It is so curious that the name of a man who is referred to editor Sted is not the same as the name that have helped them.

DIVISION OF CHINA

GREAT BRITAIN WILL BE THE DEAL OR NON-DEAL.

Warning That She Will Oppose the Division of China into Spheres of Influence.

London, Dec. 22.—According to a special despatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai the British squadron will make a demonstration at Chefoo, on the north coast of the Shan-Tung peninsula, as a warning, it is supposed, that Great Britain intends to oppose the division of China without consulting her. It is reported there that Russia has offered China a loan to pay off her indemnity to Japan, and it is believed, says the despatch, that Japan and England are acting in concert to prevent the Chinese from accepting the loan, favoring the idea of a protective tariff, which would result in the capture of the Shan-Tung peninsula.

Legal Notice. In the undersigned hereby gives notice that he is a creditor of the estate of the late J. W. WILKINS, deceased.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1897.

Monroe is a real good town now more the mayor burned up all the gambling tools to be found inside the city limits.

Ar Ottomans cigarette dealers are compelled to pay an annual license of $100, the city council having recently passed such an ordinance.

John Lind has served notice on the populists that he will not be their candidate for governor in 1898 under any circumstances.

The state law which provides that all oleomargarine or butterine offered for sale in this state must be colored a bright pink has been held to be constitutional by Judge Lockren.

MARY ELLEN LEASE will return to Kansas and make an active canvass for the populist nomination for Congress in Jerry Simpson's district.

State Census will soon be honored by the appointment of Editor Hendry to a foreign mission if the Washington authorities are not mistaken.

The Northfield News thinks that if the Sixth and Seventh Congressional districts manage to get together and act as a unit in the next state election it will be sent to St. Paul as in that case the city will be likely to play those two districts against the First and Second, and thus by playing both ends against the middle be in position to capture the swing.

SEAVON NELSON has changed his attitude on the Hawaiian treaty of annexation and will now give the measure his hearty support.

News is wanted from Washington that Tams Dixie has decided to make the run for the republican nomination for governor and that he will have the support of Senators Nelson and Doves and the so-called republican machine.

The formal announcement of the candidacy of R. Van Sant for the republican nomination for governor in 1898 is made in the Winona Republican.

A hurricane in full operation, blasting winds, average lightning, surging waves and towering ships would be considered pretty fair equipment for a melodrama even in this exciting age.

The old contest between the state and the Northern Pacific railroad company for the possession of a large tract of swamp lands in Aitkin county has been decided in favor of the state.

The amount of land covered by the decision is over 4,800 acres, but the decision may involve many other tracts.

The state legislature during the last session made an important change in the tax laws, providing that the taxes on real estate may be paid in two installments without the usual 10 per cent penalty attaching.

At the last session of the legislature changes the time in which the taxes may be paid. If you pay one half the taxes on any piece of real estate prior to June 1, then you can pay the remaining one half any time prior to Nov. 1 without the penalty of 10 per cent attaching.

THE EDITOR'S LOVE AFFAIR.

The following appears in the Minneapolis Tribune from the pen of Rev. G. W. Gallagher, of this city:

"Not available for our columns" the editor wrote on the registration blank form, and indeed it in an envelope with the rejected manuscript. He did not read the envelope. There was something in the story that made an impression on him. He turned to a pile of unsorted mail and looked it over. But the story that was not "available" kept running in his mind. He took the story out of the envelope and read it again. "There is more to it than I thought," he said. "It is a good tale and well published. I believe I will give it a chance." He placed the manuscript on the copy list.

"That story plays the mischief with my head," he said as he typed with his Knight-Templar charm, which was attached to his watch chain by a small gold ring, a woman's name. The editor was 40 years old, a little above middle height, with light brown hair, brown eyes, and a full brown beard. A gray gray hair gleamed here and there among the waving brown locks. The freshman of youth was still in his face. A smile occasionally brightened his features, but his face pained in the evening when his eyes gazed out of the window at the western sky. He seemed to see some one beyond the western sunset. The rest was one magnificent mass of crimson. He might as well have been in a room in the east. He raised his window and gazed steadily at the gorgeous panorama in the heavens. "The sky looks just as it did that night when she gave me the ring," then he turned to the desk, and wrote hurriedly for a few moments, when he paused to take another look at the sunset. He turned to his writing and wrote until the moon was high in the tall city houses. "Everything seems queer tonight," he said, as he laid his pen down and lighted a cigar. "There must be something in the air. What is it anyhow?" He glanced at the clock. Emerson had looked down him with contemptuous contempt. The wise face of Emerson stared at him. "I believe I will change that post. I can't stand that everlasting smile he had and his running up the porter to have him move the exponent of transcendental philosophy out of his seat."

Mr. Clare Mowbray, the editor, did not feel much wiser after that was removed. Finishing a page of manuscript, he came more tired when he was in his chair, saying, "I wonder why I am thinking so much of Elsie tonight? Is it the sunset, or my subject, or has some occult influence entered my brain?" He looked at the calendar hanging on his desk, and said aloud, "Oh, I see! That is the anniversary of her marriage, and I promised to read her last letter every anniversary night."

He then unlocked one of his desk drawers and lifted a package of letters from a drawer. He selected a faded envelope, opened it, and took from it a letter, and a picture. The letter was written in a delicate womanly hand, and read:

"Dear Clare: My father and mother are bitterly opposed to you. I have told them of our love, and that I shall be miserable all my life, if I do not marry you. Father has commanded me to marry John Henderson, a rich man, and told father that I would not do that. These father said I must marry Henderson, and that Henderson had a first mortgage on all of our property, to the amount of fifty thousand dollars, that there was no way of paying the debt. If I did not marry Henderson, father said he and mother were ruined. I thought of poor father and mother and of my brothers and sister, and seemed as if I must sacrifice myself for them. Oh, Clare! I love you only. I will always love you. I promise, if I ever become a widow that I will marry you. Mr. Henderson is twenty-eight years older than I am, and he cannot live many years more. Can you wait for me? Will you wait? Dare I hope that you will wait? Will you give me this joy as my future hope? Will you be content with such a prospect? What else can I do? Meet me tonight at the old bridge. I will give you a ring; it will be the pledge of my love to you. Come to the bridge. Do not disappoint me. Ever yours,

"Elsie."

Mr. Mowbray held the letter in his hand reverently. He looked long and longingly at the fair young form. It was pure, sweet, winsome. The fascination of love was in the eyes. The soft, pale lips fell in waving masses over the girlish shoulders. No wonder she had held a place in his heart through all the passing years. He gazed thoughtfully at the picture and said to himself, "I have waited twenty years for her. Will my dream ever be realized?"

A loud rap at the editorial room aroused him from his reverie. A moment after a messenger boy entered, saying: "A telegram for you, sir." He took it open and read:

"Come."

The post-up envelopes of yours eagerly opened him. But the presence of the boy restrained him. "Give me a blank boy," he said, and he wrote:

"I will start tonight. CLARE."

"Take this to the office and have it sent immediately," he said to the boy.

"All right, sir," said the boy, who went off hastily.

Mr. Mowbray lost no time in procuring his ticket. That very night he was on the lightning express hastening to New York. The train seemed to him to crawl, so eager was he to meet the one whom he loved so dearly.

Who would have imagined the said traveler in the Pullman palace car had a lover's anxious heart beating beneath his coat? But such is life. A lady dressed in black was at the station waiting for him when he arrived.

"Elsie!" said he. "Clare?" she answered. A quick passionate kiss and they walked rapidly away. No one in the boy's group overheard that the reunion of years was completed before their eyes. That night a quiet wedding occurred in the parlors of a New York minister. We leave the bride and groom to the reward that ever belongs to true and faithful hearts.

For a Good Cause. At the instance of a woman, who is a cripple for life because she could not have medical treatment when she was small, the legislature of Minnesota at its last session appropriated $5,000 to be expended by the board of regents, of the state university, in an attempt to cure the unfortunate little people of the state whose parents are not able to give them the medical aid necessary, says the Progress Falls Journal.

The doctoring is all done free by the staff of the medical college on which are the most skillful physicians in the state. An arrangement has been made by the regents with one of the best equipped hospitals in the state for the care and board of the children which is to be paid out of the appropriation. The facts concerning the matter have not been published extensively and only five children have been admitted thus far. However if the newspapers of the state will circulate this information, and if people who know of little or no one who can be helped, will write to Hon. Stephen Mahoney, at Minneapolis, it is quite probable that some of these little unfortunate may be helped if not made well.

Wood will be taken on subscription at this office and those who are prepared to contribute their accounts in this manner will confer a favor by responding. Cash, however, will not be refused.

Key to the Klondike. The Pioneer Alaska railway is the Northern Pacific, and to that company belongs the credit in connection with the Pacific Coast Steamship company, of having inaugurated the sale of through tickets to points in Alaska. The Northern Pacific was the railway to issue a map of Alaska showing the inland passage from Puget sound to Sitka, Unalakleet and Chitkat.

Those intending to go to Alaska early next spring, after the snow on the Dyes and Skagway passes are packed down and the lakes frozen, or at a later date via St. Michaels and the mouth of the Yukon, should remember that the Northern Pacific is the Pioneer line, runs steam heated trains with dining cars, Pullman Standard and Tourist Sleepers from St. Paul to Tacoma, Seattle and Portland; passengers having the option of going via Helena and Butte City, the latter the greatest silver mining camp in the world, also via Lake Tread D'Orville, Idaho, or through the famous Coeur D'Alene mining country.

Early in November the company issued an illustrated folder replete with Alaska and Klondike information up to date. Call on St. Paul, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn., two cents in postage, and he will forward you this map.

GETTING READY Every expectant mother has a trying time to face. If she does not get ready for it, there is no telling what may happen. Child-birth is full of uncertainties if Nature is not given proper assistance.

Mother's Friend is the best help you can use at this time. It is a liniment, and when regularly applied several months before baby comes, it makes the advent easy and nearly painless. It relieves and prevents "morning sickness," relieves the overstrained muscles, relieves the distended feeling, shortens labor, makes recovery rapid and certain without any dangerous after-effects. Mother's Friend is good for only one purpose:—to relieve motherhood of danger and pain.

We can't make you come to here and look over the stock of ours, but if we could we would, because it would be to our advantage to do so. Needn't take our word for it, but just come and see. If you can find better jewelry than we sell, alright. Go away and don't come back again. If you can't, and you think our prices are reasonable, stay with us and let us have your trade. That's our proposition isn't it?

Under the Dome.

The wreck of the Trenton which is the big feature of Lincoln J. Carter's big scenic melodrama "Under the Dome" is an incident calculated to tempt the average American, wild with delight. It will be remembered that in the final moments of its struggle with the waves in the harbor of Apia, during that ever to be remembered hurricane of March 10th, 1889, the Trenton's band assembled on deck and played the Star Spangled Banner.

Never since the world began has the courage of patriotism of these Yankee sailors been exceeded. The wreck of the Trenton in "Under the Dome" is the last of a series of three hurricane scenes. The first show the storm as from the U. S. Consul's house, and the second in a view of the shore at night. In addition to the great hurricane scenes, the action of the play demands several other big scenic spectacles worthy of mention.

These are the Capitol at Washington during a night illumination, several familiar Washington scenes, a view of the coral reef harbor at Apia before the storm, and the big ferry boat scene. In this latter a ferry boat trip from Jersey City to New York is faithfully copied.

As the boat lies in the New York dock about the view. The exhaust of the engines, throbbing of machinery, creaking of the boat, swish of the waves and in fact every minute detail of a real ferry trip are imitated. "Under the Dome" will appear at Slesper Opera house on Thursday evening, Dec. 20.
