THOSE RELIEF MAPS.
Believing that the educational interests of our city are imperiled by the present unfavorable attitude of the Board of Education, I deem it my duty as one whose interest is common with that of the general welfare of the city to call the attention of the public to certain transactions of the above Board. We are all aware that the present tax levy is extremely high, yet none will object to the expenditure of the public money when judiciously disbursed. On October last the Board of Education purchased from the Central School Supply House, of Chicago, a set of so-called relief maps at a cost of $300. These maps were at that time declared by competent judges to be inaccurate in their execution and utterly worthless in price. The person who at that time appeared as the strongest advocate against them on the above grounds was the present Superintendent of our Schools. The following is a letter from Superintendent Parr, of St. Cloud, Mr. Parr is recognized as a strong and reliable man whose opinion as a public educator we are compelled to recognize:

THE INSURANCE RATES.
The insurance rates for this city have not been adjusted since July, 1895, and it is expected that within a very short time W. R. Burch, the new inspector who succeeds J. B. McLaren for this district, will visit Brainerd for the above purpose. The natural condition of things existing when the examination or inspection is made will have a bearing on the rate that is fixed and it is a good deal with our citizens whether the rate is raised or lowered. Piles of rubbish, old boxes, barrels, straw and such things in the rear of business houses and in the alleys that go toward making a rat-haunted are all noted and the man who carries an insurance has to pay for it in an increased rate which when once fixed cannot be changed by the local agents no matter how much they might desire to do so and it stands until the next adjustment made by the inspector which may not be for some years. New maps of the different districts have been made and it is hoped that the general public for their own good will see that their premises are cleaned up so they may get the benefit derived from such action. Insurance policies that are written in the city all pass through the hands of the inspector who is located at Duluth for his approval as to rates, etc. before they are approved by the company in which the insurance is taken.

BRAINERS, MINNESOTA

In the period the increased circulation of the past few years it has been during the last thirty the government will be brought through the profits and wonder what else it will be saved for.

The girls of a town in Illinois will play football. They will wear in short dresses and play in bloomers. The society and the church will have their own way until they have murdered each other to the last girl. For, of course, having decided to play the manly game, they will play it as men do.

A man will be more gratified for the loss of a desired object than he could have been pleased with the enjoyment of it. For though the possession of an imaginary good does not make us happy, the absence of it may make us miserable, because in the enjoyment of an object we only find that there is pleasure which it is capable of giving us, but in the absence of it we not proportionally grief to the real value it bears, but to the value our fancies and imaginations set upon it.

Here is a straight tip from a newspaper called Brain. It says there is but one right way to make money, and that is to hammer your own occupation, your business, no constant, or so presently, no thoroughly into their people's heads that if they walk in their sleep they will be ready to do their steps toward your store. The newspaper to your favor to build up your criticism. It helps to support you in the community that helps you. When the day comes that the newspaper says to the people to write the epitaph.

If a stomach be not indigestible may not the time come when the source of distress shall be practically unknown? With the abolition of druggists the better business man find his occupation a chameleon one that will change color with the wind and the moon like a chameleon and like a deer the politician and the wide conductor would cultivate a mystery and the motorist would stop at street corners in wet weather; and the lawyer would study St. John more than Jerome; and every woman would have the rights of pedestrians, even more, would be tolerated as honest; the anarchist would have to care his living, and the demagogue would be out of a job.

When the unemployed can become not self-supporting but wealth-producing, the burden of civilization will be in a fair way to be solved. The colony of Victoria, Australia, has brought about this result by establishing village settlements near sheep lands, and maintaining the settlers while they remained the waste and raised a first-class class of hardy families that once were homeless now live in comfort on these formerly worthless lands, and the result is the value of the reclaimed tract has more than covered the government's expenditure. Over such an achievement, philanthropists might wonder who should be better friends than they are, are fully justified in shaking hands.

Germany are adopting American machinery for their manufactures and American ideas as well. The English manufacturing process being probably for the effect it may have upon his workmen—that if he cannot afford American machinery and methods in Great Britain he will have to put up with the aid of American machinery and they may be able to excel all the world save this great which they are drawing new inspiration. But they cannot get the American pace. Having caught up with them, we can pass them—distance them, perhaps—in all the world there is no such combination of excellence as in these United States of America.

Unfortunate borrowers frequently pay each a debt two or three times over. In the form of interest, and then, falling once to yield their monthly tribute, lose all the belongings of the home, from bed to cooking stove. It is therefore distinctly in the line with the purpose that the Salvation Army should propose to open loan offices where a poor man may obtain money, in an emergency, without enabling himself for life to a "vicious mort-gage." Some churches have already yielded a fair return on capital, there seems no good reason why philanthropists in every community should not endeavor to keep it out of the hands of borrowers.

A few persons have done a profitable business in tree planting in this country, but this occupation will probably not be followed by individuals, as the time required for trees to mature is too long. Governments do not die the individuals, and for this reason certain economic industries are more suitable for individuals to control than for individuals to undertake. Tree planting is one of comparatively few businesses which we believe the government can prosecute more successfully than any private individual or corporation.

WORK OF CONGRESS

Washington, Jan. 27.—For more than six hours the senate had under discussion the Teller resolution providing the payment of principal and interest on the bonds of the United States in silver. By agreement the Teller resolution was divided into sections. The debate was devoted to sections which characterized that resolution as unconstitutional. It was agreed to vote on the resolution at 5 o'clock. The time was consumed by Mr. Teller of Colorado, the author of the resolution, and Mr. Duggan of Virginia, who supported the resolution, and by Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts and Mr. Tamm of Connecticut, in opposition to it. Mr. Hoar's time expired at 10 o'clock. Mr. Tamm proposed that the senate should be adjourned until the following day. No other business was transacted.

The house devoted another day to the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, most of the time being consumed as on the previous days, in discussing extraneous matters. By the next intervening Friday of the day was the debate on the question of reducing the mail service from the large cities owing to the failure of the post office to carry the estimated expense of $10,000,000 to the present rate of $10,000,000. This was the last night session of the congress for many months. It was urged an immediate adjournment to the end of the session. The committee on the Teller resolution, and Chairman Cannon, of the committee on appropriations, reported the result of their investigations. The committee reported that the Teller resolution could not pass a majority vote.

The committee also reported that the Teller resolution would be a serious blow to the credit of the United States. It was stated that the resolution would be a serious blow to the credit of the United States. It was stated that the resolution would be a serious blow to the credit of the United States. It was stated that the resolution would be a serious blow to the credit of the United States. It was stated that the resolution would be a serious blow to the credit of the United States.

Washington, Jan. 26.—At 6 p. m. today the senate will vote on the Teller resolution and the Teller amendments thereto. The Teller resolution is to pay the principal and interest on the bonds of the United States in silver. The amendments are to reduce the mail service from the large cities. The debate on the Teller resolution will be held in the morning. The debate on the mail service reduction will be held in the afternoon.

Washington, Jan. 25.—After a debate which was a model of courtesy and high mindedness, the senate today passed the Teller resolution. The resolution provides for the payment of principal and interest on the bonds of the United States in silver. The resolution was passed by a vote of 54 to 45. The amendments to the resolution were also passed. The debate was a model of courtesy and high mindedness.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1898.

Tax appearance of the St. Paul Globe under its new management is much improved.

This supreme court of Minnesota has decided that a man born in the country of foreign parents is a citizen without naturalization.

The month of January was the warmest with one exception for 76 years, the exception being January, 1822, according to weather records.

News has just been received of the murder of a Minnesota man in the Alaska gold fields.

In Ohio the legislature is considering a bill to abolish the death penalty and substitute solitary confinement for life.

The coming term of court which opens on March 1st will be the last opportunity offered for taking out circuit papers before the expiration of those who have not already taken them out should do so at this term if they desire to be eligible to vote.

Was not give Butcher Weyler a life sentence instead of locking him up for two months if the United States had to deal with him instead of Spain he would have plenty of time to think over his past behavior and warn him against the balance of his days.

A Little Falls laborer sent a farmer for wages claimed to be due but the farmer's daughter came to his rescue and swore that the man had been more than paid for the value of his labor in kenne delivered by herself.

The babies are more numerous in Idaho than the gold is in Alaska. There are millions of them, and their deductions, which heretofore have been confined to young trees and growing crops, have extended to vegetation of all kinds, even the wild prairie grass, resulting in great loss to stockmen.

The uncertainty of the political complexion of the Minnesota Times gives its readers that tingling feeling, especially where it attempted to offer advice first to one party and then another.

The Times is endeavoring to give Emus a boom for the gubernatorial nomination and predict all manner of things that the republicans of Hennepin county will do should Capt. Van Sant be successful in his efforts in that direction.

Succ. Carran's mayor, W. D. Townsend, will serve out his term as such officer regardless of the action of the city council which body has spent the better part of a year trying to oust the mayor from office because he refused to sign an order for the expenditure of $1,750 in the purchase of an old brewery site for the city, only to meet with defeat in the end.

Most of the people who imagine that Alaska will be dug over before they can get there to gather a part of the gold and who are breaking their necks to reach the Klondike will be doomed to disappointment. Transportation companies are responsible to a great degree for the stories of fabulous wealth picked up in a few weeks and in many instances the amount of money realized by individuals are magnified many times. There is no doubt but there are rich gold diggings in the Northwest territory but not all of them will be discovered this year.
