ESTIMATES.

The St. Paul Press, of yesterday norning, figures editorially as follows, on the result in Minuesota, which we copy, instead of trying to figure ourself, from the jumbled returns:

Sufficient returns have been receivthe Senate and House. To say that the two successful candidates fought mate of the results on the State the battle against the most formidable enemies that could be found in the lawless excentricities in the vote, and anks of the opposition, and against a such playful disregard of political prestrength that seemed overpowering cedents, that the data furnished by in its proportious, is to only feebly expast experience are to a great extent press the facts. But we met the enemy in open field, and they are ours. We give our Crow Wing county vote in full, and the result in the other ties as Mower, Martin, Camstead, and, in full, and the result in the other four counties as correctly as possible worst of all, Hennepin, go against us, at the hour of going to press. Of course, individually, we cannot but feel highly complimented at receiving uch a vote here at home. For clue to the profound mystery of the so generous a recognition by the good people of the District, we wish to make this public acknowledgement of our most heartfelt thanks—and our cometh or whither it goeth." For worthy colleague, Mr. Benedict, we know shares with us in this feeling, to come in, with their erratic develknow shares with us in this feeling. to come in, with their erratic devel-We only hope our friends may be re-warded, for their confidence in us, in return, by honest, faithful labors in their behalf during the coming session. We promise to do our best, and if our constituents fail to reap benefits from their work on Tuesday last, it will be a mistake of the head, and not of the heart; and they may justly out it down thus: "Poor timber." Our opinion inclines to the mean benot of the heart; and they may justly and is not likely to exceed the latter, put it down thus: "Poor timber."

Our county politics was badly tween the two. There are some mixed, as will be readily seen by comparing the number of candidates with the number of offices to be filled. The local contest was fierce, yet may seem hazardous to risk an opin-pleasantly conducted, and the succession under such circumstances, it is AT PRICES TO SUIT THE ful ones, of course, felt somewhat safe to say that the venturesome Demonstrates, it is jubilant. The gentlemen elected are ocrat who bet that Mr. Davis would not have 5,000 majority has lost his money, and that the enthusiastic Re-publican who offered to bet that he would have 10,000 would have lost if he had found any takers.

The returns indicate that Gen. Junnison, our candidate for Secretary of eneral rule, those who had been able Davis. In other words, he is elected by three or four thousand majority. Ir is astonishing (!) that Mille Lacs cal mistake(!) this fall in circulating tickets for us—spelled two ways, but both intended for the same person— as last fall. The same mistake(!) occurred in that county last fall in cir-culating tickets for Mr. Kellogg; the intention then and now was apparently the same, but the difference then and now it, we can very well afford to do without the 53 votes, and Mr. Kellogg could scarcely afford to lose them. To the friends who supported us in all the counties, and to the pre cincts in Sherburne, Benton and Crow Wing which gave us such over whelming majorities, we cannot thank enough; and can only say, "Absent, but not forgotten." THE Neck-tie Sociable given at the Congregational Society's reading rooms last night, was what might be called an immense success. The rooms were crowded so densely that one could scarcely get standing room. thing good, and the sale of neck-ties was lively. Every one, as fast as he found the shade of his tie, commenced the lady who wore one of the same, and the "matches" were all sorts young men waiting on married ladies to supper, and married men attending young ladies, etc. Grand music, with piano accompaniment, and regular "Gilmore" choruses, was enjoyed, and at last the magnificent cakes were auctioned off at fair rates, making the whole receipts of the eve ning very handsome, which was to be added to the library fund. Brainerd can beat 'em all on jolly good gatherings of all sorts.

WELL DONE .- By reference to the notice elsewhere, it will be seen that our good friend, M. C. Kimberley, Esq., Chief Engineer of the Minnesota and Dakota Divisions N. P. R. The Old Bridge The following, by Miss Emily R. Page, wh lied in Chalses in 1868, is the companion piece o "The Old Canoo":

ered at either arching entrance By a wilterness of leaves.
Clustering o'er the stant old gables
And the brown and mossy eaves.
Is the dear old bridge which often.
Often in the olden time,
Echoed to our ringing footfall
And our voices' ringing chime.

Where, from out the marrow windows, We have watched the day go down, Till the air was full of twilight, Soft, and shadows, and brown; Till the river, gliding past us, Gloom upon its bosom bore, And the shadows, deep and deeper, Crept aleng the winding shore; Till the pale young moon grow brighte And the silver-footed night Scattered sizer along the pathway. Of the ove's departing flight.

Oh! the dear old bridge has echoer
To the tread of many feet,
Whose sweet music long has slum!
Muffled in the winding sheet!
Many voices, too, have sounded
Clear, and soft, and full of song,
Like the ripple of a bird-note
All the ringing roof along.

But the silent angel bushed them,
Many weary years agone;
Yet an echo 'mong its arches
Seemeth still to hoger on.
And, as now, within its shadow,
I am sitting all alone—
Flows the river down beneath me,
With a sad and ceaseless moan,
As if grieving for the lost ones—
They who listened long ago,
Leaning from the narrow window,
To the light waves' julling flow.

But the silent angel bushed them,

And the elm-trees swaying softly,
Let their shadowy dimness fall
Far in on the frowning columns,
And along the darkned wall;
Like the shadows which have drifted
From the death-damps of the tomb
Wrapping up my glad young spirit
In the mantle of their gloom.

And the golden-lingered sunbeams
Sitting through the broken roof,
Weave upon the dusty flooring
Hore and there their shimmering
Seeming like the golden vista
Where my hopes reposed secure,
When the dew of lile's young morair
On my heart lay fresh and pure.

Now, though years have sweet me onwa Down the hurried tide of life, Leaving childhood far behind me, Like a pleasant matin chime; Yet from youth's deserted gardens I am gathering up the flowers Whose sweet fragrance floateth to me, Cheering all the languid hours.

For again the shining pageant Of the long-forgotten past Floats before me with no shadow O'er its sunny surface cast. I forget the many grave-nounds Which lie dark and cold between For the silver lining only Of the frowning cloud is seen.

With the sublight round about me, Bright and glad as long ago, And the river down beneath me, With its soft continuous flow; With the old familiar places All about me everywhere—Come again the pleasant faces. That made earth so bright and fair; And, as then, each passing cloudlet Seems to wear a golden edge, As I muse within the shadows Falling from the dear old bridge.

A new and important fact in silk cul-tare has been i-veloped by the Accli-mation Society or France, namely, that silk of varied color can be produced by feeding the silk-worm on different leaves. Worms fed on vine leaves pro-duced a silk of magnificent red color, while lettuce has been found to produce an emerald green colored silk.

An Ohio farmer, writing under this caption, makes some very good points, He says: It is an undeniable fact that there is as great a variety among tillers of the soil as among men of other avocations, including the professional. The name farmer does not always imply efficiency. There are a great many owning farms and living on them who are only pretended farmers. If a good crop is obtained, no matter of what it consists, it is no credit of theirs. They are always cutting their wood from day to day through the Sumper and Winter, and when the time comes to put in Spring crops there is nothing ready. Their stock is ready to go to the fields, but their ferces are all down, and there is no time now to put them up, for their last, went he sown. So their stock is but their ferces are all down, and there is no time new to put them up, for their out, must be sown. So their stock is kept in confinement in muddy yards, uneasy and louging to range through fields. Their hogs are fed in the mud, when a few plank put down would add much to their comfort. Oftentimes you will see stock of every description, none of which is fit for any market (save the pelt market). They seem to think if life is sustained, growth will take care of itself. Their calves get lousy, and the sheep have tick, and in their shiftlessness they allow these obstacles to remain.

Now, a thoroughly live farmer can't

Tanadian Wild Geese.

It has been stated on reliable authority, and we know it to be correct, that the Canadian wild goose has frequently been domesticated. It is interesting to note with what persistency it retains many of its original characteristics, even under the influence of domestication. The color, for instance is unchanged, even when bred for many generations in a confined state. A prominent characteristic of the Canadian wild goose which has been retained under the longest term of domestication to which it has been subjected, is that it will not breed until it is full size in about three months.

THANKSOIVING PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

By the President of the United States of PROCLAMATION.

The approaching close of another year brings with it the occasion of renewed thanksgiving and acknowledgement to the Almighty Ruler of the universe for the unmumbered mercies which He has bestowed upon us. Abundant harrests have been among the rewards of industry; with the local exceptions health has been among the blessings enjoyed; tranquility at home and peace with other initions have prevailed; fangal industry is regaining its merited rewards gradually, but under the Providence of God surely, as we trust, the nation is recovering from the lingering results of a dreadful sirile. For these and all the other mercles yourhsafed, it becomes us as a people to return heartfelt and grateful acknowledgements, and with our thanksgiving we may unite prayers for the cessation of local and temporary suffering.

I therefore recommend that on THURS-DAY, the 27th of November next, the people meet in their respective places of worship to make their acknowledgements to Almighty God for His bounties and His protection, and to offer Him prayers for their continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this 14th day of October, in the year of our Lord 1873, and of the independence of the United States the 97th.

STATE OF MINERSOTA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT. SPORTSULANT TO INFORMATION OF THE President, and conformable to the usages of our forefathers, I, Horace Austin, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do appoint THURSDAY, the 27th day of November instant, a day of thanksgiving to God for the blessings of the year.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed this first day of November, A. D. 1873.

that I can make money on such low prices.

chines is taken when the needle is up; while the "DAVIS" differs from all these in this: the VERTICAL FEED BAR is close to and in rear of the needle, the feed taking place while THE NEEDLE BEING DOWN THROUGH THE CLOTH, MOVES AT THE SAME TIME, enabling the sewing of ANY NUMBER OF THICKNESS OF ANY LENGTH WITHOUT BASTING; entirely preventing the fulling and puckering of one piece, while the other remains straight; and, at the same time, in a practical manner, will do what no other machine can, to wit:

Take all the Stretch from the Goods

The "Davis" has the most complete attachments ever applied to a Sewing Machine. It will hem, making a wide or narrow hem, without guiding or holding your work in the least. Every machine is furnished with a elf-sewer, a new invention which obviates the necessity of basting or holding your work while sewing. It will braid in the finest book muslin, without puckering the work, as well as heavy cloth. It will bind in the most perfect manner, without either holding the goods or the binding. The attachment for gathering is something new, and excels all others, as it gathers a single piece of cloth or between two plain pieces, or on a single band.

It Will Cord, Tuck, Ham-Stitch, Fell, Gather,

And do any kind of work done by a Sewing Machine, with less changing or adjusting than any machine ever before presented to the public. It will run from the finest lace and muslin to several thicknesses of heavy leather, without changing the tension, with the same needle and thread, and make the same stitch.
