The Postal Telegraph. Four years ago, Mr. Gardner G. Hubbard, of this city, in answer to the Board of Trade, stated that the tariffs of the Western Union Telegraph Company were high, arbitrary and irregular.

Chippewa Raisin in Illinois. I read some time ago about corn-raising in Ohio, where one man stated that he had raised 56 bushels per acre.

Passenger Pigeons. Most boys and girls who live in the country have seen wild pigeons, and know what graceful birds they are.

Planting Nuts. The raising of the seedlings in question is not a difficult operation, providing the laws of nature are not violated.

A Nice Young Lady. The Italian journals relate that the environs of Calanzara, Calabria, are infested by a band of brigands.

Fultz Wheat. In Yates county, New York, a careful experiment was made by a correspondent of the department with Fultz and Treadwell wheats.

A Pleasant Haze. The New Bedford Mercury tells the following wonderful tale of college hazing: "It occurred, if we remember correctly, in 1862. It was noticed by some sophomores that two country boys had begun their housekeeping in a room on the ground floor of one of the college buildings."

Conclusive Evidence. Digsby, the other day, found some money in the street. "Ah!" said he, with a knowing look, "papers have been saying that money is tight, but I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't found it in the gutter."

Very solid and durable walks, either for garden or road, may be made by mixing melted asphalt or bitumen with screened gravel or coarse coal ashes.

The Song Sparrow. In this sweet, tranquil afternoon of Spring, while the low sun declines in the clear west, I sit and hear the white song sparrow sing.

Death touches all; the light of day is over, and the darkness of the night is closing in. The stars are still the pathway lies, and the fading sunset from the west.

And the old bird, with its wings spread, and its feet tucked up, and its head bowed, and its eyes closed, and its heart at rest, and its soul at peace, and its spirit at home, and its life at an end.
