STAND BY THE SHIP!

Now that election day draws nigh, it behooves all Republicans to stand by the cause of their party unflinchingly, and earnestly. The time is a portentous one; one when every true citizen owes it as a duty to himself, his posterity and to his country, to stand up for the candidates of the Republican party—the party that has once saved the Republic from obliteration, and that is still laboring to bring the ship of State safely into harbor. It is time the people of the country came to a realization of the fact that the country is to-day wavering on the precipice of disaster to almost as fearful an extent as in 1860. The White Leaguers at the South and the ambitious leaders of the Democracy at the North are again laying their plans to get Congress into their clutches, and then the country will be made to dance to music that will very soon shiver our union to atoms, or else cost another million of lives to save it. It is time Republicans are coming to realize that these destructive elements to the welfare of the country are already making fearful inroads toward power, and they even boast that the next Congress will be theirs—and then! God save the country! Let no Republican, nor any man, who loves his country and her institutions, be deceived into throwing away his vote by giving it to the opposition in response to the deceitful blandishments of the destroyer of our peace and best good. Let no Republican give encouragement to the stealthy cause of the White League of the rebellious States. Stand by the ship! and not only vote but work for the cause of liberty, union and law—as much an issue now as the day when Fort Sumpter was fired upon! Do not quibble over little personal likes and dislikes, or thin-laid policy. You are needed, fellow citizens; great issues are at stake, and we must do our duty in this hour of need, regardless of trivial matters, which are apt to be given undue weight to in the momentary forgetfulness of our country's need and our country's danger.

A Success.

From the evidence that has been placed before us, we are led to believe that as a jobber in Sioux scrip and pine land rings, and chief fugleman of all sorts of underhanded games that constitute a blight on the prosperity of our frontier, EUGENE M. WILSON is a most unbounded success.

Happy.

If we ever were happy, personally, it is this fall. Beautiful weather, moderate poverty, easy times, and out of politics, so that no galling truths are being circulated about us, on account of being up for office. Lucky dorg! A clam, on its muscle, is nowhere!

D. C. D.

WE understand, though we cannot prove it, that Mr. Chadbourne, the Democratic candidate for the Legislature is in the city, in disguise. He is around "listening to the talk," and if he can catch a familiar voice, all right; if not, he will hie him hence as he came. Ruffee is here also, and if his competitor makes any points, he has got to "get right up and dust," you know. LATER.—Mr. C. is here, and—"business" in Brainerd is looking up. Three cheers for C. A. RUFFEE, our next Representative!

How Blind

These Wilson men must be, to be sure! The idea of sending a professional lobbyist like Wilson to Congress, who makes it a business of going to Washington every winter as a lobbyist—and Wilson don't deny it, 'cause he can't. "Such a Representative cannot have a particle of influence in behalf of his constituents!"

Now, If

We were a candidate for office, and were delivering speeches, and made it a business to accuse everybody that did not agree with us of being bought and paid for, we should be just foolish (?) enough to be afraid that our hearers would think that we, ourself, might be secured at some price or other. Eh?

For Treasurer.

As will be seen by a card elsewhere, Newton McFadden, Esq., announces himself as a candidate for County Treasurer, in response to the solicitation of friends. Mr. McFadden is a very worthy and capable young man, and would make a faithful and trusty officer.

Every Man.

Regardless of party, on the line of the Northern Pacific, from Duluth to Moorhead, should vote for WM. S. KING for Congress. Any man who does not, will vote exactly against his own interest. Let us not cut our own throats by voting for Wilson.

FOR SALE CHEAP. — The building now occupied by Wm. Schwartz and the Tribune office. The lot is twenty-nine feet front. This property will be sold at a bargain.

COL. KING will carry Hennepin county by 1000 majority.—Mail.

Eugene's Little Dodge.

Eugene M. Wilson, who is the candidate of the Mixed-Mess party for Congress against Colonel WM. S. KING, is playing a little dodge in his declaiming canvass around the "back towns" of the District, which for real unfathomable depth is only equalled on this mundane sphere by his own mental deepness. Eugene has just deliberately sat down and drawn up the copy for a hand bill, reading, in the main, something like this:

GRAND RALLY!
EUGENE M. WILSON AND COL. WM. S. KING will address
THE CITIZENS OF SKUNK VALLEY
on the—day of—1874,
IN JOINT DISCUSSION!
On the political issues of the time, etc., etc.

Eugene sends a lot of these handbills to some pal, at the various points advertised, and everybody of both parties turns out to hear the issues of the campaign handled from both points of the political compass. The hour arrives and the expectant crowd twist their eyes fourteen ways for Sunday looking for the two candidates to take position on the empty nail keg which has been erected by the local Wilson committee. About fifteen minutes after time, Eugene makes his appearance and climbs up to the top of the keg, and after grinning at the folks a little he says:

FELLOW CITIZENS: I feel that I owe you an apology for being fifteen minutes behind time; but I feel sure you will forgive this lack of promptness when I tell you the cause: According to previous arrangement Bill King was to have met me here to address the extemely intelligent citizens of Skunk Valley in joint discussion. Upon my arrival I found he had not come; so I sat on the fence, and lunched on "bronchial troches" for fifteen minutes to give this Bill King time to arrive as per agreement. But he has not come, and why? Yes, why, I ask! Simply because he dare not meet me! He seeks to evade the issue, and now I stand before you ready to meet either him, or the devil, or any other man, on the issue, fellow citizens! promptness and fidelity is a part of my nature, and fearlessness in the defense of the American eagle, the Constitution just as it was before the war, and the defence of you, my dearly beloved, on the floor of Congress, make up the other part of my nature—you bet! (Applause from his side of the audience, and a ghastly smile of pity from the sensible side, who already begin to smell a tall mice.)

Well, this is only a sample brick, just to illustrate the little dodge of the artful little cuss. Of course, there never was any previous arrangement, and he uses these handbills to mislead the people in three ways: In order to get out a respectable audience to listen to his twaddle, in order to get the Republicans, and in order to create an impression that the cause which Colonel KING espouses is an unholy one, or if posessing any merit, he is unable to cope with the great statesman, Eugene, in their discussion.

That little game is too thin by half, Eugene, and the people in the rural districts are not the fools you take them for, by a long shot.

The Schools.

The Board of Education made a formal visit to all the Schools of the city on Monday last, and were not only highly entertained and edified, but greatly pleased at their evident prosperity and the progress being made by the pupils. The schools having been thoroughly classified, or graded, things run noticably smoother than of yore, and as a consequence the pupils are making giant strides in their studies, and seem to be encouraged to go ahead, and apparently take a deep interest in their own advancement. We have three excellent teachers in the persons of Misses Smith and Robinson and Mr. Davis. They are not only respected and thought much of by their scholars, but are highly competent for their respective positions. Brainerd can now boast of as good public schools as they have anywhere, and nearly two hundred of our little folks and lads and lassies are engaged in a noble struggle to reach the golden apple that rests on the top round in the ladder of knowledge—and it does us good to see them.

Home Again.

Judge D. O. Preston, who has been off for three months with the Government Survey of the waters and country toward the source of the Mississippi, has got home again. This survey is being made under Act of Congress for the improvement of navigation on the Upper Mississippi—taking the level of the country, lakes, fall of streams, etc. Friend Preston seems to have "stood the racket" pretty well, though reduced in flesh to a good square fighting weight, and somewhat browned by exposure to the weather. He has again resumed the practice of the law in Brainerd, of which profession he is a member of acknowledged ability.

THE Pioneer is no longer an organ.

MR. WILSON'S ADDRESS.

Hon. Eugene M. Wilson made a descent upon our city on Wednesday, and held a little love-feast with his few political friends here on the public square in the evening. By a large quantity of a very poor quality of drum and fife music (we beg pardon of the drum and fife for naming them in this connection) quite a number were enticed to go out to the platform and hear what Mr. Wilson had to offer in behalf of the cause he espoused, and the Mixed-Mess party he represents—this party is the Northern wing of the Southern White League party.

Mr. Wilson is a pleasant gentleman, and when he has the field all to himself, can make a pleasing and plausible speech, but one terribly full of blunders, and places where his arguments (!) could be razed to the ground were any speakers prerent, on the opposite side, to be heard from.

With our limited space we cannot undertake to reply to his many lame points in detail, nor would we even if we had the space; as, to most minds, nearly all of the points he developed as argument were erroneous in part or in whole on the face of them. We can only mention a few that struck our ear as fair samples of the whole:

If Col. King was responsible for one-fourth the charges Mr. Wilson laid at his door (which charges were quite personal, and the simple echo of the disreputable Dispatch outrages, and Robertson's mad and imbecile ravings,) he is a man of greater parts, more shrewdness and greater mind than has ever been possessed by any other living man since Adam; he must of necessity be, in order to carry out such fabulous schemes as are charged up to him by Hall, the libeler, Robertson the crazy idiot, and poor unfortunate Mr. Wilson who by his party whip is forced to echo the spirit of such heinous libels and disreputable ravings from the political stump to which he has been lashed by the serpent coils of White League authority.

PINE LAND RINGS.

Speaking of Pine Land Rings, Mr. Wilson arraigned the whole party, from President Grant down to the most humble Republican who happened to live within reach of a pine tree—but forgot to tell us what he knew about Pine Land Ring swindles. And for fear some of those who heard his virtuous protestations might think he never was engaged in Pine Land jobs, and, in short, was too virtuous, by half, to live in this wicked world, we would respectfully refer them to the records in the office of the Register of Deeds for Crow Wing county. You see, Eugene had the thing all his own way at this meeting; he knew it, and told just half the story, and that was the half that had the least truth in it.

KING AS A LOBBYIST.

This point can be quickly answered by this statement made by authority in the Evening Mail, and which statement can be backed up by the facts and proofs:

"Col. King has never once accepted one dollar, in money or other valuable consideration, in his life, for the use of his influence over members in Washington; and we challenge any man to show the contrary. Moreover he has never lifted his finger or spoken a word to secure the passage of any measure not exclusively a Minnesota measure. Moreover, in laboring for the success of these, he has frequently gone to Washington and paid his entire expenses out of his own pocket. The charge of venality now made against him by the reckless and unprincipled slanderers, has not even the slightest appearance of foundation, in the facts of his political life.

Further, we charge that Mr. Wilson interested and exerted himself to the utmost, when a member of Congress, to secure the passage of a bill which was an organized scheme of plunder, in which he was named as an incorporator, and which provided for a robbery of the public domain of a million of dollars!"

But then, Eugene had everything his own way, you know, and had no opponent on the stump to remind him that he told only half the story, and the untruthful half at that.

NEWSPAPERS BOUGHT.

Mr. Wilson charged that King had bought up all the newspapers of the District (or nearly all) to use against him, and that was why they nearly all opposed his election. This seemed to us a fair sample brick of the truth used in his address. He thought no one would happen to think that nine-tenths of the newspapers of this District were Republican newspapers, and hence could not consistently support him, a Democrat, against Mr. King, a life long member of their own party—and who has done more for the best interests of Minnesota in any one of the past fifteen years than Mr. Wilson has ever done in his life. But then, you know, Mr. W., had everything his own way, and prevaricated outrageously in regard to the newspapers.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC MATTER.

And now we come to the last but not least of the points (that we can remember) brought forward as the principal feature of his address, and as the feature by which he hoped to prove himself a better friend of our great thoroughfare from Lake to Ocean than Mr. King, and by which he hoped to capture votes through a twisted and deceptive argument which would mystify the masses along the line and wheedle them into the idea that he had discovered a "job," and that he was in fact the only real friend we had and was the only man bright enough to discover the trap laid for us by the candidate of the Republican party.

As we have been credibly informed, Mr. Wilson has been, in all the back rural localities where he has appeared, or in communities antagonistic to any kind of assistance, to any railroad—just on general principles—denouncing without reserve all measures for encouraging railroads of whatever kind, and of whatever circumstances governing the same—including, of course, the modest encouragement now being asked of Congress on behalf of the Northern Pacific. Here at Brainerd, however, he knew that such a broad and sweeping onslaught would not take, so he connived with himself to get up a cock and bull story for our special case. So, he stated that he was opposed only to the plan of the bill asking aid. He asserted that a scheme was on foot to not only have the interest on future bonds of the Road required for construction guaranteed by Congress, but also on all outstanding bonds now held by private parties; he was in favor of the interest bill on new bonds, but not on the old bonds; that it was a most monstrous steal on the people, set on foot by Col. King, whereby he might fill his own pocket. If elected he (Wilson) would oppose the operations of this awful ring, but would favor a bill guaranteeing the interest on enough bonds to complete the Road. Mr. Wilson did not suppose that any one would see his little game, and that such an argument was the merest bosh. Because, in the first place, if we are correctly informed, the bill now before Congress does not ask the interest on the old bonds to be guarnteed—but only on new bonds to complete the road. Cannot Mr. Wilson see that it is entirely needless that the bill should read that way; if the interest on the new bonds is guaranteed, and the Road is completed, will not that raise the old bonds to a par value, without their interest being guaranteed? And as soon as the Road is completed will it not be able to meet, (from the day the last rail is laid) the interest on all of its own bonds, independent of the Government? Is it not, we ask Mr. Wilson, the sole and only intent of the bill now before Congress to get aid to complete the line, so that it may be in shape to meet its own liabilities? If in getting the only encouragement asked by the present bill (the very bill, which it is, that he said here he would support, but elsewhere that he would oppose) the value of old bonds is raised to par, by the Road being placed in position to meet the interest thereon, is that a great swindle and outrage on the people? The ridiculous absurdity of his assertion that there was a big steal in view—and that was all the part of the aid he stood opposed to—must be apparent to any mind, when the only prop to such an illogical assertion is knocked out—which is, that there is no need, even if it were sought, for a steal being introduced. And again, if there was a steal, as he asserts (just to cover up his own bitter opposition to our great enterprise) does he suppose that the Northern Pacific Company would ask for assistance for themselves, by introducing a bill that would also ask for a steal for the sole benefit of private parties who held the old bonds? The members of the Company are probably shrewd enough in business, not to be so over generous as to cut their own throats just to please a few private speculators! Such a proposition is not only ridiculous to the mind of any one, but an insult to the integrity of the members of the Northern Pacific Company, to say nothing of its being another concocted lie made from whole cloth and laid at the door of the true friend of the Northern Pacific—Gen. WM. S. KING. But there is such a thing as overdoing it; and though we have had a high opinion of Mr. Wilson, personally, yet we regret that he has allowed himself to be made a party to the vulgar slanders against Col. King, that are being poured forth from the venal and rotten stomach of such papers as the St. Paul Dispatch and Donnelly's Anti-Monopolist—the Minnesota organs of the Southern White League. But thank God the people of this Congressional District are an intelligent people, and will resent the indignities that are daily being heaped upon them, and the Republican candidate, at the polls on the 3rd of next month.

Why Is It?

Why is it that Eugene M. Wilson, when in any locality where he dare do it, denounces the proposed Aid Bill of the Northern Pacific a gigantic swindle, and pledges himself, wherever it will do, to labor against its passage if elected to Congress. Is it because he was not made the Attorney of the Road that he is thus antagonistic to a bill, the passage of which is of such vital importance to every man, woman and child, in this District? A pretty man is Eugene to send to represent us in Congress.

A LARGE lot of second-hand Furniture, etc., at Cantwell's. 37-3w

HOW IS THIS?

From the St. Paul Daily Pioneer.

The decent Democratic journals having declined to become parties to the promulgation of lies and slanders against Col. Wm. S. King, it has devolved upon the "lying little Dispatch" to fire off the paper bullets of Ignatius Donnelly and D. A. Robertson, the 'wanton libellers' and defamers of private character. It makes a nice team, and the business is congenial to all.

WE are in receipt of a copy of the Titusville (Pa.) Herald, which comes from near the place where we first honored the world with our presence, (our first appearance before the public in a roll of three and a half pounds,) and it is a reliable looking, well edited journal. Its motto, though, is what we calculated to mention: "A political, news, literary, educational and petroleum journal; 'And the rock poured out Rivers of Oil.—Job." That motto sounds decidedly "funny" to we thunderbolts of the Northwestern prairies, where petroleum costs fifty or sixty cents a gallon; and then it is the first intimation we ever had that poor old Job was a petroleum broker. He has always been set up as a model of patience to we of modern times for some reason, so we have heard; and it was probably because when he "busted up," on account of the supply running out just as prices began to come up, failed, or "exploded" in the oil business, like a good many of those Pennsylvania chaps have done after him, he didn't go around getting off "cuss-words," tearing his hair, and raising the devil generally, like many who have been equally unfortunate in modern times; he didn't go around boring for more oil, nor boring everybody he met with the story of his misfortunes, but just sat down to bide his time, with an unheard of patience, and keep the cloths changed on his boils.

THE St. Paul Dispatch, much to its own satisfaction, has at last become a Democratic organ. It might consistently be termed a mud volcano, so regularly and persistently does it spout forth slanders and misrepresentations upon the Republican candidate for Congress, in this District. The man whom it now takes such pleasure in abusing, was, but a short time ago, its favorite candidate for the U. S. Senate. He was put forward with a great flourish of trumpets, and his numerous virtues were recounted, and his name preferred above that of any other man in the State. But as time rolled on an opportunity was presented for it to become an organ, through the ungovernable impetuosity of Gen. Boum-Boum, alias Robertson, and it quickly turned tail, and is now villifying to the lowest depths the man it once professed to love. To become a sluiceway for all manner of political filth, was the terms upon which it was made an organ! No wonder the Pioneer wanted to be counted out.

SOCIAL HALL. — Mayor White has kindly offered the ladies of the Congregational church the free use, for six months, of the pleasant office formerly occupied by Lyman Bridges. The pleasant entertainments and social gatherings formerly held in the Reading Room will now be removed to this larger and more commodious building, and it is the intention of the ladies to make a corresponding increase in the attractions offered. Its use as a Social Hall will be inaugurated with an Oyster Supper on Friday evening, Oct. 30th. The best of oysters—the choicest grapes. Come and see, and bring a friend!

DO we understand that the Princeton Appeal is a Democratic paper—a temperance paper—a paper edited by a minister of the gospel! No, no, this cannot be so; it is certainly a libel on the Appeal; its columns could never contain the outrageous lies that it does concerning the two Legislative candidates in this district, if it was a Democratic Temperance paper, edited by a preacher! No-o-o the report is a libel, we venture.

COL. D. A. ROBERTSON, of St. Paul, the manifesto chairman of the Democratic committee of this Congressional District, will adopt a new plan to kill off Col. King. He will set on a hundred reams of paper and a barrel of ink and hatch out about a million manifestoes, and things, and heave 'em at King all together. That will be a capital plan; for quantity, not quality, is Robertson's hold.

THERE is a gold mine near Deer Lodge, Montana, (as we see by that excellent paper, the Deer Lodge New Northwest,) called the Beecher-Tilton Lode. It is a new diggings, and if it proves as rich as the original, we should like to own some stock.

JERRY MCCARTHY, of West St. Paul, is Donnelly's competitor for the U. S. Senate, in case the Mixed Mess party are in power in the next Legislature. That cooks the goose of Ignatius.

THE Rev. O. H. Elmer, of Moorhead will preach in the Congregational Church next Sunday, morning and evening.

THE Dispatch fairly bristles with lies these days.

COL. KING is thoroughly canvassing Ramsey county with a fair prospect of carrying it.

OUR friend, Supt. J. H. Sullivan, returned a few days ago from a visit to his old home at Hannibal, Mo.

THE little "Lying Dispatch" has been made the Democratic organ for this District. The Pioneer was too high-toned to suit the hardshells.

THE St. Cloud Journal states that Hon. E. M. Wilson orated in that city without changing a vote. That's the way it's operating all over the district.

WILSON'S friends have blowed a good deal about their candidate being high-minded, and that sort of thing, but he is like all the rest, and can pettifog equal to a ward politician.

"A radish has been raised in Sauk Rapids this season that weighed five pounds. Who can beat it?"—[Sentinel.

What an interrogatory, to be sure. No man lives that can beet it.

COURT WEEK.—The fall term of the District Court sets here on Tuesday next—Judge O. P. Stearns presiding. The business of the term will probably be very light. May it always be so, say all, save the lawyers.

MR. WILSON stated in his speech in this place that no man could get a foot of pine land who did not belong to the 'ring.' Now the query comes up, how does he deal in pine lands so successfully? Does he belong to the "ring?"

I. O. OF G. T. — Members of the Brainerd Lodge are requested to meet at their Lodge-room on Monday evening, Oct. 26th, to decide on some course of action. Let there be ONE full attendance. W. W. HARTLEY, W. C. T.

THE cupalo or bell-tower of the Catholic church building is being sided up and suitably ornamented and finished. A neat cross also surmounts the top, and on the whole the work being done will greatly enhance the appearance of the structure.

A BEAR was marketed here last week, that weighed when dressed, 380 pounds. One of the most affectionate embraces of such a creature would be overpowering—if, in that line, he were permitted to get right down to business.

J. C. CONDON, Esq., the accomplished foreman in the N. P. Paint Shops here, has (during the absence of his good wife on a visit to friends in the east) been remodeling and beautifying his residence, adding a bay-window, etc. Mr. C. now enjoys one of the coziest homes in Brainerd.

B. F. HARTLEY, Esq., has been very sick for the past two or three weeks up at Leech Lake Agency with typhoid fever. His many friends here, however, will be glad to learn that at last accounts he was better, and having a good constitution it is hoped he will speedily recover his health again.

MR. WILSON, we take it, is a very absent-minded sort of a man. In his letter to the Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, he says, "I have no charges to make against Col. King." But his speech in this city abounded in personalities and insinuations, in which his opponent came in for a greater portion.

ELSEWHERE we publish numerous extracts from the press of the District, which indicate, if they indicate anything, that Col. King will be elected by an overwhelming majority.—Notwithstanding this favorable showing we hope every Republican in this upper country will do all that lies in his power, to help swell the tide of victory.

CHARLEY RUFFEE, the popular candidate for Representative in this 30th District, has been spending a week or two down through the lower counties, interviewing the people whom he expects to represent the coming winter in the Legislature. "Charley," as he is familiarly termed, is well known and is very popular throughout the District. He will be elected by a handsome majority.

"Another paper will be started in Brainerd."—Herald, Pioneer, and other papers.

Well, why not start it? don't be everlastingly talking about it. We are lonesome for another paper in Brainerd, and as there is abundant room for three or four newspapers here, we wonder that they are not forthcoming.

THE hottest focus of the political sun just now seems to be resting on the territory known as the 41st Legislative District. Its rays seems to be scorching tail-feathers all around, from border to border thereof. Draw it mild, boys, don't say any unnecessarily hard things of one another, nor do anything you may regret after the battle is over. Confine yourselves to legitimate argument, and let the personalities slide.

THE AGREEMENT.

The following agreement has been signed by the conference committees of the two factions in Louisiana affairs:

First. The undersigned announce the following as the result of the conference between the committees of the two political parties of the state of Louisiana:

The committee representing the Conservative People's party pledge themselves to cause all violence and intimidation, if any exists, to cease throughout the state and to assist the constituted authorities in maintaining peace and ensuring a strictly fair and impartial registration and election. Also to the discountenance of acts and threats of personal violence and all improper influences to control the will of electors, and to render assistance and use every effort to subject to the penalties of the law all persons who may commit acts of violence or intimidation, or conspire to do the same.

Two. In order to guarantee a fair registration and election, there is hereby constituted and established an advisory committee composed of five members, namely, Messrs. Albert Voorhees and E. S. Burke, selected by the representatives of the Conservative People's party, and Messrs. S. B. Packard and B. F. Joubert, selected by the representatives of the Republican party, and an umpire, namely, Dr. M. T. Bonzano, who has been jointly selected. This advisory committee is to supervise and carry on the registration throughout the state, on behalf of all parties, to the full extent of suggesting changes in the registration officers and the manner of conducting and carrying on the registration, Gov. Kellogg, in the interest of a fair and impartial registration, of his own accord, pledging himself to act on the advice and suggestions of the Advisory Committee so long as such advice and suggestions are in consonance with, and permitted by, the existing laws of the state.

Third. It is agreed that two persons shall be named by the representatives of the Conservative People's party, who shall be elected acording to law, to fill the two vacancies which shall be created by the resignation in the returning board, within twenty days.

(Signed) D. F. Kerner, for the Conservative Committee of the Conference.

(Signed) A. A. Atocha, for the Republican Committee of the Conference.

AN ARCTIC CONTROVERSY.

A very interesting controversy is liable to grow out of the Arctic discoveries by the Austrian explorers, Payer and Weyprecht. Dr. Hayes has already printed a communication in the New York Tribune claiming that the American Grinnell Land has been sighted further north than the Francis Joseph Land of the Austrians. The Doctor says: "I take some pride in thinking this, as it is not only an American discovery but my own, and has been traversed by no other white man except my one companion in 1854 and my three companions in 1861. I think I may still therefore claim the discovery of the most northern known body of land on the globe, for on the Greenland side Capt. Hall did not extend the surveys of Dr. Kane (which terminated about latitude 80 Deg. 50 min.) so far notrh as he sighted beyond his surveys on the opposite side." The most northern land sighted by the Americans was named Cape Union; that by the Austrians, Cape Vienna. As it is not likely the Austrians will give up their frozen laurels without a struggle, we may look for an exceedingly interesting discussion, and a renewal of the international race to reach the North Pole.

A DUELIST ARRIVED.

Among events of special interest to the Cuban element of New York was the arrival on the 28th ult. of Pio Rosado, one of the principals in the recent duel on the Belgian frontier. Jose Ferrer De Conto, editor of the Spanish journal, El Chronista, the other principal, who was wounded in the encounter, is expected to arrive in a short time. The Cubans were suggesting a demonstration of some kind in favor of Rosado; but the more prudent counseled against it, as the sentiment and law of Americans was adverse to duels, and hence a reception would injure their cause. It had been suggested that legal proceedings would be taken against Rosado by the District-Attorney, and, possibly, instigated by the friends of his opponent in the duel. It is thought, however, that the preliminaries of the duel were arranged in such a manner that the participants are secure from the operations of the law, and that, technically, they are not liable to prosecution by the regular officials. As to private litigation on the part of the friends of De Conti, these latter say that whoever suggested such an action on their part knows nothing of Jose Ferrer De Conto or of Spanish character.

A CUSTOM HOUSE SNARL.

The authorities of the New York custom house are in a curious snarl. When George Macdonald, the Bank of England forger, was arrested at Quarantine in March 1873, he had on him jewelry valued at $2,000. This property was taken from him and handed to the seizure bureau of the Custome House to await the payment of the duty, there being no evidence to shew that Macdonald intended to smuggle them in. They are still in possession of the Bureau. Macdonald's attorneys claim them by virtue of an assignment made by their client; the Bank of England authorities claim them on the ground that they are part of the proceeds of his forgery. Collector Arthur appealed to the Secretary of the Treasury for instructions, and Mr. Bristow sees only one of two ways out of the difficulty. The jewelry should be sold and the proceeds, less the duties, handed over to any duly proven claimant, or the United States District Court must be called upon to determine the matter, so that the government should not be held liable for delivery to the wrong claimant. The latter course will probably be chosen.

OCTOBER ELECTIONS.

Complete List of State and Congressional Candidates.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The "October elections" occur this year on Tuesday, Oct. 14, in six states and one territory, as hereinafter more fully described. In addition to these, the Connecticut town-elections, always political, occur on Monday, Oct. 5, when the people of that state vote on a constitutional amendment doing tardy justice to certain towns now deprived of their equal representation in the Legislature. On Wednesday, Oct. 14, Georgia elects a Legislature on local issues esteemed hardly less important than the congressional issues reserved for the election in November. On Wednesday, Oct. 21, South Carolina holds general elections for county officers throughout the state. The West Virginia election has been wrongly set in political calendars for Thursday, Oct. 22. It occurs Oct. 13, with other states as follows:

[NOTE—The asterisk (*), wherever it occurs against any name, indicates a candidate for re-election.]

ARKANSAS.

Under the new constitution, the ratification of which is to be voted on Oct. 13, the first general election will be held on that day, and, if the constitution be adopted,—of which there is no doubt,—the new legislature will meet on Monday, Nov. 10, when also the new state administration will be installed, vice Baxter and others now in office. The constitutional convention was ordered, June 30, by vote of 80,019 against 8,065, and the convention met on July 14, and adjourned Sept. 14. The conservative state ticket is unopposed, and is as follows:

Governor: Augustus H. Garland; Chief Justice, E. H. English; Associate Justices, David Walker, William M. Harrison; Secretary of State, R. B. Beavers; Auditor, William R. Miller; Treasurer, T. J. Churchill; Attorney-General, Simon P. Hughes; Commissioner of State Lands, J. N. Smithe; Chancellor, John R. Eskin; Chancery Clerk, A. R. Witt.

The election of congressmen this year, in Arkansas, concurs on the old election day, Nov. 3, and on that day the Republicans will assume to elect a legislature recognizing Brooks as Governor, under the Powell Clayton constitution, and will thereon appeal to Congress. Messrs. Heilman and Taylor, candidates for Congress, are regular Republicans in the disguise of Independents. A Blind King's Homage to the Beautiful.

The blind King of Hanover has returned to Paris to have another look at the art treasures of the city, for, although an indefatigable sight-seer when with us a year ago, he could not get through all there was to be seen. This may seem an odd way of speaking of a blind man, but there is not much exaggeration about it. King George sees with the eyes of his daughter, who has a faculty possessed by few. With her father upon her arm, she enters a museum or any public place and begins a conversation in a low, running voice, giving in few words a general idea of the room and of the people in it, then going into details as they go on. The King enters like a man with good eyes, and when on his daughter's arm, never fails to return the salutes addressed to him from whatever direction they may come. It is evident, therefore, that there is some system of telegraph known to the two, and from long habit the King has become so expert that he rarely makes a mistake. At a soiree he is led up to the host or hostess, bows at the right moment, and goes through the ceremony with all the ease of a man who can see. He pays most unexpected compliments, when the daughter, without saying a word, telegraphs that a lady is young and beautiful; and when surprise is expressed King George gallantry replies that he sees with his soul. When I saw him at the Louvre I longed for an opportunity to hear what the Princess said as they went from picture to picture, the King looking intently upon the wall, but could hear nothing but a low hum too indistinct to be comprehended by ears less attentive than those of her father. Her language can not be understood by others, even when not spoken with the usual rapidity. It is very touching to see the love and devotion of this young Princess.

A Darkened Life.

From the Boston Transcript.

In Nashua, N. H., resides a young girl whose pitiful lot excites the deepest sympathy, yet for whom sympathy can do but little in alleviation of the sad misfortune which has darkened her life. When a child she was terribly scalded about the head and face, and, although she survived her injuries, she was thenceforth disfigured for life, and the rosy face of childhood was changed to a mask—a travesty on the human countenance—absolutely frightful in its hideousness. In Lowell, Mass., where she once lived, so great was the horror excited by her appearance that she was forbidden by the authorities to show herself on the streets. At Nashua she ventured out the other day, and several ladies fainted at sight or her, and a call is now made upon the authorities of that place to forbid her appearance on the streets. What a mournful fate is hers! to live through the terrible physical suffering only to endure henceforward a keener mental anguish in the knowledge that she is a thing of horror, to be abhorred and shunned by human kind, with no hope in the future except the grave, which shall hide her deformities from the gaze of her fellow-being!

FITCH-SHERMAN.

The Brilliant Wedding of Miss Minnie Sherman.

The marriage of Thos. W. Fitch, of the engineer corps of the United States navy, to Miss Minnie Sherman, daughter of Gen. Sherman, took place in St. Aloysius' Catholic church, at Washington on the first inst. The marriage was solemnized by the most Rev. J. B. Purcell, Archbishop of Cincinnati, a personal friend of Mrs. Sherman. The church, which seats nearly 2,000 persons, was densely crowded, that number of invitations having been issued. Among the guests were President Grant and members of the cabinet, members of the diplomatic corps, distinguished army and navy officers and prominent civilians, nearly all accompanied by ladies. The number of notable presents exceeded that on any like occasion ever assembled in this city.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by the most Rev. Archbishop Purcell, attended by the Rev. Father Healey, president of the Georgetown College, Rev. Father Mooney, of Brooklyn, pastor of the church to which Mr. Fitch, the groom belongs, Rev. Father Maguire, pastor of St. Aloysius, and a number of other clergymen. The music was Georgias mass in C, sung by the choir of the church, assisted by a double quartette. The bridesmaids were Misses Lizzie and Ella Sherman, sisters of the bride, Miss Phillips, of Cincinnati, Miss Fannie Marcy, daughter of Gen. Marcy, U. S. A., Miss Alice Bartley, of Washington, Miss Maria Patterson, of St. Louis, Miss Ella Ewing and Miss Bessie Smith, of Cincinnati.

The groomsmen were Charles Rae, of the Engineer Corps, Lieut. Hunter, Paymaster Cochran, Edwin Wells, of the Engineer Corps, and Lieut. Russell, of the Marine Corps, Thomas E. Sherman, brother of the bride, and Mr. Galvin, of Boston. The bridal party entered the church in the following order: Lieut. Wood and Miss Ella Sherman, Lieut. Russell and Miss Bessie Smith, Edwin Wells and Miss Ella Ewing, Thomas E. Sherman and Miss Mary Patterson, Mr. Galvin and Miss Alice Bartley, Paymaster Cochran and Miss Fanny Marcy, Lieut. Hunter and Miss Phillipps, Charles Rae and Miss Lizzie Sherman, the bride leaning upon the arm of her father. The groom stood within the sacristy, near the door leading to the sanctuary, and as the bridal party approached the alter he passed through the sanctuary leaning upon the arm of Gen. Hugh Ewing, brother of Mrs. Sherman, and met the bride near the entrance to the sanctuary, where he received her from her father. The entire party approached the alter railing, and after kneeling a short time took the positions assigned them. As the procession marched down the aisle Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered upon the organ. Preceeding the bridal party upon entering the church was Mrs. Gen. Sherman with her brother, Judge P. Ewing, Gen. C. T. Ewing, Senator Sherman, Judge Bartley and Col. Moulton.

All being in readiness, the most Rev. Archbishop entered the sanctuary from the sacristry and proceeded with the marriage ceremonies, the bridegroom receiving the holy communion at the conclusion of the mass. A special blessing was given, and the ceremony ndod.

The bride wore a dress of white silk, trimmed with white satin tnle and orange blossoms, and pearl jewelry. The bridesmaids wore dresses of white silk, trimmed with white illusion, each alternate bridesmaid having her dress also trimmed with pink and blue flowers, those wearing pink passing to the left and those wearing white passing to the right as they entered the sanctuary.

The grcom and groomsmen, with the exception of Thomas Sherman and Mr. Galvin, were in full uniform. Messrs. Sherman and Galvin were in full evening dress. As the procession left the church the triumphant march from Il Propheta was performed. The newly married couple left in the evening at 6 o'clock for a bridal tour through the North and West, reaching St. Louis, their future residence, about the 15th inst. In Brooklyn the bridal party will be entertained by Mrs. Fitch, mother of the groom, and in Lancaster, O., by the relatives of Miss Sherman, residing at that place.

Before the mass Archbishop Purcell read a portion of the Scripture relating to the sacrament of matrimony, and then addressed the congregation. He said that the marriage ceremony had never been performed in the United States under more interesting circumstances than at present. He was told that among those in church were the rulers of this great republic, the greatest nation of ancient or modern times. Here also was the father of the bride, who had achieved such fame as a soldier, and who was a most devoted patriot. There were other brave officers and generals present who had gained the admiration and respect of every nation of the earth. He then referred to the sanctity of the marriage tie, and said when the marriage union was consummated under auspices as were witnessed to-day there was every reason to believe that Almighty God would bless the couple.

The Archbishop next spoke of the family of the bride, referring to her grandfather and grandmother, Judge and Mrs. Ewing, and the noble traits of their characters. He again spoke of the sacrament about to be administered and said marriage is essentially a religious ceremony and not a mere civil contract. It had been raised to the dignity of sacrament by the Saviour of the world. He congratulated the vast assemblage in attendance upon the good order maintained by which was shown respect for the house of God and for our divine Lord as well as His Excellency, the President, and to the bride and groom.

Bishop Wood, of the diocese of Philadelphia, was present, and occupied the diocesan right side of the altar within the sanctuary-rail. He was attended by Rev. Father Boyle, of St. Peter's Church, of this city. The bride and groom, and attendants, were all within the sanctuary-rail during the entire ceremony. The floral decorations in the church were not very elaborate, but in excellent taste. The main altar, as well as those upon either side, dedicated to the Blessed Virgin and to St. Joseph, were filled with cut flowers, and a few plants were distributed near them. The crowd outside the church was so great that the entrance could not be gained for fifteen minutes after arriving at the church. In the church, on the right of the center aisle, the front pews were reserved for the family, and on the left for the President and Cabinet. In the rear of the family seats were reserved for the members of Gen. Sherman's staff. The President having been delayed by an accident, and the ceremony having been begun when he entered the church, he passed down one of the side aisles with Mrs. Grant, followed by Marshal and Mrs. Sharpe, and took a seat near the sanctuary-rail. Senator Sherman, who was in the center of the church with the family, noticed the President at the side, and passing over to where he was, escorted Mrs. Grant to the pew which he left, and then surrendered his seat to the President and took one on the side aisle for himself. The officers of the army and navy present were all in full uniform, and seats were reserved for them and their ladies upon either side of the church. About one-half of the church was left for the general public, to whom invitations had been extended, and the crowd was the greatest in this part of the edifice. The ceremony over, the bridal party returned to General Sherman's residence, and received their friends from 1 o'clock to 4 o'clock.

The bride and groom were in the back parlor, while Gen. and Mrs. Sherman occupied the front parlor. The bridal party received congratulations in front of the niche containing the bust of Gen. Sherman, under a canopy of flowers draped with smilax from which also was suspended a marriage-bell of snow-white flowers. During the reception ceremony the marine band, stationed in the grounds west of the parlor, played appropriate airs. After the guests paid their respects to the bride in the Sherman mansion, they passed on to the adjoining house, occupied by Assistant Postmaster General Roulf, where a magnificent banquet awaited them. The table was set with covers for 1000 persons. Although many were present there was no disagreeable crowding. The residence and its entrances were profusely decorated with palms, century plants, dragon plants, euphorbias maranta, American yucca ferns and numerous exotics. The halls and banisters were wreathed with evergreens and the doors leading into the various rooms were decorated with cedars. The bridal presents were numerous and valuable. They were exhibited in the library rooms.

A RUNAWAY.

On the road to the wedding the horses attached to the President's carriage ran away. The carriage contained the President and Mrs. Grant, and Marshal Sharpe and wife. None of them were injured, though the carriage was smashed. The President immediately hailed another carriage, and his party proceeded to the church, arriving there about five minutes after the service had began.

A Romance of the Orange Groves.

The New Orleans Times tells a very interesting but pathetic story of the life of an orange planter named Landman. Thirty years ago he came into possession, as a squatter, of the Island of Cheniere on the Gulf Coast. He was at that time very young and full of enterprise. By hard labor, year after year, he succeeded in raising one of the largest and finest orange orchards in Louisiana, although he worked alone for years. After a time he married and took his wife to the island, and for years they enjoyed one of the happiest of homes. Children were born to them and their work was remunerative, so that they laid up a handsome sum. Then sickness came, and, one by one, the family died until the father was left alone again. Brooding upon his troubles, he fancied that the spirits of the dead were about him, and soon became an ardent believer in Spiritualism. At this point some greedy land speculators discovered that he had no valid title to his land, and set about in the courts to dispossess the old man of his island home. He would not retain counsel, but relied upon the spirits to help him manage his case. Of course there could be but one issue to the case. There was practically no defense at all. His spirit friends did not help him. He lost his home where he had lived for thirty years, and where his wife and children were buried. When the judge announced his finding and decree, the poor old man arose in court and his sole reply was: "Please your Honor, there is no redress for me in earthly courts; I therefore appeal my cause to the higher courts of the third Heaven." This is an appeal which cannot and will not be laid aside. His compensation will come.

A Brave Officer.

Letters from St. Petersburg, says the Pall Mall Gazette, speak of a remarkable feat of determination on the part of General Trepoff, the head of the St. Petersburg police, who had given in earlier life extraordinary proofs of personal courage. A fearful double murder was recently committed at the Military Academy of the city by a policeman, who, being attached to the female servant of the doctor of the establishment, fancied he had cause to suspect her of infidelity. Having entered the doctor's quarters to upbraid her, he ended by taking up a carving-knife and killing the unfortunate woman on the spot, and then slaying the doctor himself with it in his study. He then locked himself in with the instrument of his crime, and avowed he would despatch the first man with it who attempted to arrest him. The police summoned to the spot were awed by his apparent determination, while some proposed to shoot him as a wild beast, and a party went in search of a fire engine with a view to trench him into surrender. A report of the occurrence reached General Trepoff. Springing into the droshky, which is kept ready for emergencies, the general was on the scene in a few minutes. He ordered the door to be burst open, he then entered unarmed. As he expected, the murderer retreated into a corner, prepared to sell his life dearly. The general approached him unhesitatingly, with the words, "Well, my friend, you have committed a pretty pair of murders, and I hear you are going to stick any one who tries to take you. Now, stick me, for I have come to take you myself." The wretched man was so awed by the quiet and authoritative manner of his former superior that he lowered his weapon and made no reply to the challenge, and two of the police officers who had followed General Trepoff sprang on him and secured him without further resistance. It is not surprising that the St. Petersburg police, in relating the story, declare their chief to be the bravest man in Russia.

Population of British Possessions Abroad.

The English Board of Trade has just ordered to be published in the Colonial Statistical Abstract a statement of the population of the British possessions abroad, which may be condensed as follows: British India, 190,663,623; Ceylon, Straits Settlements, and Labuan, 2,718,282; British North America, 3,748,857; Australia, with New Zealand, 1,978,748; the West Indies, Honduras, and British Guiana, 1,280,268; the Cape of Good Hope and Natal; 855,931; West African Settlements—viz., Gold Coast, Sierra Leone, Gambia, and Lagos, 539,654. Mauritius, 318,584; Hong Kong, 124,198; St. Helena, 6,241; Bermuda, 12,121; Falkland Islands, 811; Malta and Gibralter, 141,918 and 16,454 respectively, exclusive of the military. The total is 202,555,890; and in North America and Australia there has been a substantial increase since the census was taken.

On Reading Dante's "New Life."

BY ELIZA MORRISON COAN.

Of love the tracing pain was thine indeed:
In passionate wild music morning-clear
Thou poured forth the tale of thy career,
Which the young soul renewed by love doth lead.
Thy words without deep tears we cannot read—
Pulses they are from some diviner sphere:
Love's consecration and its anguish dear
Spring in thy heart, and still immortal plead.
O tenderest child of mediæval time!
Unfading glows thy little maiden's robe
Of modest crimson, emblem of the sweet
Perennial passion thrilling in thy rhyme;
And still true lovers pilgrim round the globe
To kiss the print of Beatrice's feet.

The Greeting.

BY F. A. HILLARD.

Go, rose! and give my love good-day;
Bid her arise and come away;
Bid her with haste appear
Unto her lover here,
Ere the hot firmament
Rifle the dews of tender morn,
And all its freshness, newly born,
In fiery day be blent.

Tell her day broadens at her gates—
That Earth in balmy silence waits,
Tiptoe with listening ear,
To catch her footfalls dear;
In all their silent pulses beat
The flushes that adorn
The roseate face of morn,
Her lovelier face to meet.

Tell her each bird that to the day
Warbles its fluttering notes alway,
Now sits the leaves among;
And holds its matin-song,
Awaiting her fair face.
All Nature breathless is;
So bid her, with this kiss,
Come stir the world with grace.

Then shalt thou nestle in her breast,
And for reward there take thy rest,
Until, when thou art dead,
Thy native perfume fled,
Thou shalt a subtler fragrance know,
Distilled from Love's sweet palm,
Than earth can e'er attain,
Or chemic skill bestow.

I hear the lifting of a latch,
And as I bend the sound I catch,
I hear her rustling dress
Move with a soft caress;
And lo! she comes: move, clouds! pipe, birds!
Awake, O Earth, in beauty clad!
Sing, all ye voices! and be glad
With eloquence more sweet than words.

What love, what joy, what kisses sweet,
When day begins and lovers meet!
For now my day's in truth begun
With this uprising of my sun;
I glow and gladden 'neath her reign;
I cry, Fair day! fly not so fast;
And when the morrow comes at last,
I bid my love good-day again.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

The Potato.

The Journal of Chemistry, in discussing the deterioration of the potato, suggests that, if some person of the requisite skill and knowledge were to proceed to South America—the home of the potato—and, seeking the healthiest locality of the plant, and the most vigorous specimens to be found in wild state, bring them by good cultivation to a proper degree of perfection in their native habitat, he might be able to transplant to our climate seedlings of original health and vigor of constitution. The species which now exist among us have suffered so many changes of condition durin, the years they have been under cultivation, they have lost their vitality, and are hopelessly debilitated and diseased. The only hope of recovering the crop seems to be by importing a fresh stock direct from their native wilds.

Danger from Bee Stings.

The sting of a bee prevents, more than any other thing, the advance of bee-culture. Old bee-keepers laugh at this, but it is no light matter. Death often results from a bee-sting. I was assisting a friend to hive a swarm, once, in July. It was a very hot day. We got them hived; but just as we were leaving a bee stung my friend on the temple. I pulled out the sting and we went on into the house. In five minutes, the effects of the sting were fearful. He broke out in little pimples all over the body, and said he felt as though a million needles were running into him. We were alarmed and sent for a doctor. The doctor came and succeeded in overcoming the poison, but it was some time before he felt like himself again. We attributed this curious effect to the state of his health, and the heat he was in at the same time.—National Bee Journal.

Shaking Bees from Combs.

Mr. J. M. Marven, in the American Bee Journal, gives the following way to prevent irritating bees in brushing from combs, in subdividing:

"Use more care in subduing bees, in long, deep or large hives. It is generally best to manage hives, extracting honey, making swarms, etc., during a yield of honey, and before it is sealed with wax, that all the bees may fill their sacs with honey; which they will do if there is enough uncapped, and they are distributed properly. If the honey is not in a fit condition, or of sufficient quantity, food may be given to subdue the most vicious stock. The brush is one or more plantain leaves rolled loosely, sometimes the end trimmed. Weeds, grass, broom, feathers or brushes may be used; and if the articles are scarce, or only one at hand, dip occasionally in water to wash off the odor, which enrages badly managed bees. Use the old-fashioned native or black bees with your deep frames, that drop off the comb like shot off a shingle, at the least handling."

Principles of Pruning Fruit Trees.

In an essay read before the Napa Grange, Cal., by Mr. W. H. Nash he gives the principles by which he is governed in pruning fruit trees:

The vigor of a tree subjected to pruning depends in a great measure on the equal distribution of sap in all of its branches. Prune the branches of the most vigorous parts very short, and those of the weak parts long. Leave a large quantity of fruit on the strong part, and remove the whole or a greater part from the feeble. Bend the strong parts and keep the weak erect. Remove from the vigorous the superfluous shoots as early in the season as possible. Pinch early the soft extremities of the shoots on the strong parts, and as late as possible on the feeble parts, excepting any shoots which may be too vigorous for their position.

The sap acts with greater force and produces more vigorous growth on a branch or shoot pruned short than on one pruned long. The sap tending almost to the extremities of shoots causes the terminals to push with greater vigor than the laterals. The more the sap is obstructed in its circulation the more likely it will be to produce fruit buds.

The leaves serve to prepare the sap absorbed by the shoots for the nourishment of the tree, and aid the formation of buds on the shoots. All trees deprived, therefore, of their leaves are liable to perish.

Milking in Silence.

The London Milk Journal thus comments upon a discussion at a Farmers' Club at West Cornwall, Conn., where a member said he discharged one of his milkers who persisted in talking during milking time, and that, in three days, the increase of milk was equal to the man's weekly wages:

"We fear an increase to such an extent must have been due to other causes besides the one assigned. If the enlarged yield followed solely from the dismissal of the man, we suspect his presence affected the supply of milk in some way apart from his loquacity. We have frequently found a change of servants to prove beneficial.

It may be that talking prevents hens from laying, also. We know we have often experienced a vast increase in the number of eggs bronght into the the house after the removal of a too officious individual from our employ. Besides, our cows have sometimes improved in produce by the same means, but we generally attributed it to cleaner milking by fresh and more industrious hands. It is, however, well known that cows are particularly sensitive to sights and sounds during the time they are milked. Unless they are at perfect ease they do not give their milk freely. They should be daily milked under the same conditions.

Cows that are fed at milking time require their usual meal, or they may become restless or dissatisfied, and put a stop to their bounty. Many of them will only allow some special favorite to milk them. In those parts of the country where women are solely employed to milk, we frequently find one or two tuneful lassies singing at their work, and many cows become so pleased with the rustic harmony as to show evident signs of their approval of the loud, sweet voice, by giving the milk only by being sung to. Everything that distracts the attention of the cow and ruffles her placidity should be avoided when called upon to yield her milk. Her nervous system should not be excited by strange noises, unwelcome objects, or rough treatment, or the effect will be apparent in a deminished supply in the milk pail. It would no doubt be good advice, on the whole, to tell those who milk that they should hold their tongues and keep their tempers. The Connecticut farmer appears to have sufficient reasons, indeed, to say that "speech is silver, but silence is golden."

Useful Recipes.

REMEDY FOR POLL EVIL AND FISTULA.—Take one peck of May apple roots, wash them clean; then put them into one gallon of water; boil it down to one pint; then strain and add one pint of the oldest hog's lard you can get; then boil it down to one pint, and it is fit for use. Grease once a day, every other day, for three days; then stop. I hardly ever rub it on more than two times. I have a mare here now with the fistula, which I rubbed the second time about ten days ago, and it is about gone.—Cor. Cincinnati Gazette.

PRESERVING GRAPES WITH HONEY.—Take seven pounds of sound grapes on the stems; have the branches as perfect as possible and pack them snugly without breaking, in a stone jar. Make a sirup of four pounds of honey and one pint of vinegar, with cloves and cinnamon to suit, or about three ounces of each is the rule. Boil them well together for twenty minutes and skim well; then turn while boiling hot over them, and seal immediately. They will keep for years if you wish, and are exceedingly nice. Apples, peaches and plums may be done in the same way.

PEACH MARMALADE.—Take small and imperfect clings: they will not admit of being removed from the stone in pieces of uniform size and shape, but you can pare them, and after cutting from the stone, place them in a porcelain kettle with one pint of water to two quarts of fruit; boil them until soft; take off, and put through a seive with a wooden potato masher. Then return to the kettle, adding one pint of sugar to every quart of prepared fruit; bring to a boil and seal while hot. It can be sealed without the addition of the sugar, and when eaten let it be sweetened with white sugar to the taste. It then greatly resembles fresh peaches.

BAKED TOMATOES CANNED.—Select tomatoes of a nearly uniform size, or place the largest where the heat is the strongest, so that all will cook uniformly. Two inches or two and a half in diameter is the best size. Bake them in earthenware—in large pie dishes if at hand. Let the heat be strongest on the top, so that the juice will not cook away too fast. An hour's time ought to cook them sufficiently. When tender throughout, they make a delightful dish, served hot. If they are to be canned, the cans should be hot and everything ready before they are taken out of the oven. Then they should be lifted quickly into the cans, and some of the juice turned in to fill up every layer. If the juice is done away, fill up with boiling water, though it will not be so good. Have the juice or water fill the cans even full and seal at once. If there has been any delay in filling the cans, or, perhaps any way at first trial, it might be best to set the cans in hot water, and boil a few minutes to make sure that the air is quite expelled before sealing. These will keep, like other canned tomatoes, an indefinite length of time. When wanted they should be taken out on a pie dish with the juice, heated through in the oven and sent to the table hot.

Holding Him Even.

A paper out in Dakota Territory, the Elk Horn Gleaner, relates the following story of a fellow who solemnly pledged himself not to drink a drop of liquor either inside or outside of a house for two years. Soon afterward he passed a saloon where three of his boon companions were taking their drop in comfort, and he could not help stopping and casting one mournful look of longing within. One of them spied him and invited him to join them. "Oh, no," said he, "I wish I could, but I've sworn not to take a drop either inside or outside of a house for two years." "Oh," says one, "you can have one drink for all that; we'll lift you off the threshold and you can drink half inside the house and half out." So one took hold of each leg and thus raised him up, while the third filled and passed the bottle. He took one long drink and was just drawing breath for another, when one of his supporters shifted a little, and he shouted, "O! hold me even, boys, my soul is in your hands."

Damage Done by Alkali Works on the Mersey.

The alkali works in England, which are distributed along the banks of the Mersey and the Tyne, do serious damage to the vegetation, destroying the trees and crops in the neighboring country and rendering it almost uninhabitable. The value of land for cultivation is thus reduced, and it is thought that the cattle are injured by the deposit of poisonous acid on their food. The various manufacturers causing these nuisances are those of soda, evolving muratic acid gas; of sulrphuric acid, evolving nitrous acid; of ammonia salts, evolving sulphuretted hydrogen, and the process of smelting copper, evolving large quantities of sulphurous acid. A bill providing for the condensation of these harmful gases under the supervision of a government inspector, was read a second time in the House of Lords in the last session, and it will probably become a law before long.

LIBERIA.

One of Dr. James A. Hunt's Pencil Pictures of Liberia, in Western Africa.

Monrovia is the Capital and seat of government of the Negro republic of Liberia. It is nearly five degrees north of the equatorial line, and is within a purely tropical climate, having but two seasons of six months each, the 1st of December being the beginning of the African summer and the 18th of May the commencment of the African winter, or the rainy season as it is called. Monrovia is the largest and wealthiest city in the republic, situated on Cape Mesurado, the highest point of which is more than three thousand feet above the level of the sea. It is a high, dry and beautiful city, of which the Negro ought to be proud, being, as it is, one of the highest points of land on the northern coast of Africa, and therefore free from many of the diseases common to parts lying lower on the west coast. The population must at this time be more than fifteen thousand, and not more than thirty of that number are white persons, who are commercial agents representing the trade firms of England, France, and Germany, with here and there a missionary man or woman laboring in the cause of the Lord, and actuated by the highest of Christian motives. The city is regularly laid out after the fashion of cities in America, and some of the buildings would ornament any city on this side of the Alantic. Trinity Church, which is built of stone, is the most stately structure in the country, and was built by funds furnished by St. George's Church, New York, of which Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tyng is pastor. More than 1,000 people could be seated in it. The First Methodist Church is also a large and well-built house, and is capable of seating eight hundred people. The Providence Baptist Church and the Presbyterian Church are also stone structures capable of seating 600 each. The House of Representatives, the Senate, and the Court-house are stone buildings, which put to shame many similar erections in great America. There are many residences, occupied by the wealthier citizens and foreign ministers and commercial agents, that are not less than elegant. The mansion of the President, built of brick, would not disgrace any square in London.

am often asked where these people found architects and builders? I answer that the same black mechanics who built New Orleans, Charleston, and Savannah built Monrovia, as hundreds of such were liberated by humane slaveholders and sent to Liberia. The poorer classes are improving in their style of building; and instead of the log cabin and bamboo house, they are beginning to build frame, brick and stone houses. It would look curious to an American to step into the hall of the House of Representatives or the Senate and see none but the sable sons of Africa administering law and justice. And it is remarkable to know that in Africa at the present time are the best educated negroes in the wide world—live men like Bishop Crowther, Professor Crumell, Professor Freeman, Professor Blyden, and Professor Johnson. The latter and the first named are both natives of Africa, and all of them in learning could lead Fred Douglass by the hand into fields of thought he never reached before. Liberia is 790 miles long on the sea coast, and no line is defined interiorward. We claim indefinitely east and west.

The British possessions in West Africa are Sierra Leone, Gambia, Cape Coast, Legor, Comasoons, Brass River, Boney Acorde, Elmena, and now Ashantee. The inhabitants under British rule can be numbered by millions.

Liberia is the American Republic settled by negroes fron the United States, beginning as far back as 1825. Who, and what they were, and why they were not fitted for pioneers, is easily explained. The colored population in the United States, with the single exception of the fields hands of the south, and a few rare cases in the north, have been employed in every way imaginable to unfit them for pioneering. Even here, in the United States, surrounded by civilizing influences and the restraint of law, much less to think of such a class pioneering in tropical country, where they are as distant from a brotherly sympathy with the aborogine as any white nation could be as a class. Here and there a negro may be found who is proud of his ancestry, and only here and there.

"Sold" on the Boulevards.

A wicked sell was practiced the other day on the Boulevard des Italiens, apropos of the recent escape of Marshal Bazaine. A lady passing along the Boulevards saw quite a number of persons collected at the corner of the Rue de Grammont, all looking upward at the roof and upper stories of a particular house. She stopped and asked one of the bystanders what was the matter; "Madame," he answered solemnly, "in yonder house an illustrious fugitive has taken refuge—one that I need not name. He is gray, he is fat, he is old, yet he has made his way from the house of his mistress over the roof to yonder house, which is now surrounded. He cannot escape again." "His mistress? Horrors!" cried the lady, "and he with so devoted a spouse?" "Alas, yes," was the reply; "he is a gay old bird, as we all know!" The lady expecting to see the police come out with their prisoner, waited for a long time, but waited in vain. The crowd dispersed, and no one appeared, and finally she asked a policeman how long it would be before the men would bring out their captive. "Ah, Madame, he is by this time, in his cage, with a chain round his leg." "What cruelty!" ejaculated the lady. "Not at all; when parrots fly away they must be chained up when they are caught. This was a very valuable one—an Australian grey parrot—and we had no end of trouble to catch it." Imagine the wrath of the deluded female.—Paris Letter to Phila. Press.

Best Organs on Most Favorable Terms.

The new terms offered by the Mason & Hamlin Organ Company, for the sale of their celebrated instruments, create dissatisfaction with many dealers, who declare that they will greatly injure the business of selling other organs, especially by peddlers. By these terms a person is allowed to hire an organ, paying only a reasonable rent for it—having the privilege, of course, of returning it at any time after six months, or of purchasing it at any time. If the purchase is completed within a year, the whole cost of the organ is only five to ten per cent. more than if all cash had been paid at the beginning.

Dealers say this is much too small a difference for the accommodation in time, and privilege of returning, given.

The Mason & Hamlin Company are determined to try the experiment thoroughly at least, being confident that their organs will prove so attractive and satisfactory in use that scarcely any will ever be returned to them. Circulars with full particulars can be obtained by addressing them in Boston, New York, or Chicago.

Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, &c.

A few months after having commenced the manufacture of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the proprietor began to receive numerous letters from all parts of the Western and Southern States bestowing the most unbounded praise upon it for having promptly cured the writers or their friends of Fever and Ague, or other forms of miasmatic, or malarious diseases. He was repeatedly urged to make known the wonderful virtues of the Discovery in the cure of Ague and kindred diseases. He always replied that it was not intended for a "cure all," and should he recommend it to people as a remedy for so many different forms and classes of disease, he feared those who had never tested its virtues would at once class it among the numerous humbugs of the day. This answer was satisfactory to no one; they argued that the whole country ought to know it at once, and expressed their astonishment at his indifference to the subject. His ear and heart being at all times open to the call of suffering humanity, he has at last, after having received testimony from hundreds who have been speedily cured by it, and many of them after quinis and all the usual means had failed, consented to make the matter known.

Ladies Desire what Men Admire. And this little thing is Beauty. What do we say is beautiful? A transparent complexion and a luxurious head of hair. What will produce these? Hagan's Magnolia Balm will make any lady of thirty appear but twenty; and Lyon's Kathairon will keep every hair in its place, and make it grow like the April grass. It prevents the hair from turning gray, eradicates Dandruff, and is the finest Hair Dressing in the world, and at only half ordinary cost. If you want to get rid of Sallowness, Pimples, Ring-marks, Moth-patches, etc., don't forget the Magnolia Balm, ladies.

To Correspondents.

In answer to scores of letters we state: The Fifth Gift Concert of the Kentucky Public Library will positively take place November 30, 1874, and there will be no postponement. The capital prize will be $250,000. For information concerning this matter, drop a line to Gov. Thomas E. Bramlette, Louisville, Ky.—Com.

THE new dining hall for Harvard College will be ready for occupation on the 1st of October. On this subject the Boston Advertiser says: "It is certainly to be expected that there will be no more 'biscuit wars' between the students, now that such an elegant dining hall has been procured for them, and those bread and butter 'skirmishes' which have been for years indulged in at tea on class days must at last be done away with, and we venture to predict that beyond an occasional rush at the doorway there will be no miniature riots at meals."

"AND NOW," said a Pennsylvania political orator, warming up as he approached the climax of his speech, "let us conduct this campaign, fellow-citizens, upon the principle enunciated by the immortal Lincoln, 'With malice toward all, and charity to none.'"

Awake, ye slumbering brains, awake! the time has now arrived;
Unite again, in towering strength, and let it be revived;
Its life is not extinct as yet, the spark is not yet dead;
Then organize, and show the world that Brainerd's still ahead.

Our citizens have surely proved, they genius do not lack,
The material is not wanting, there's naught to keep us back.
Then sound the 'larm, send forth the cry, 'tis death to retrograde!
A city cannot prosper while its institutions fade.

Let "Onward" be the watchword, and knowledge be diffused;
The people be enlightened, instructed, and amused;
Every other institution our society will outvie,
If we agitate the matter, and do not let it die.

PROGRESS.

Brainerd, Oct. 22, 1874.

"MONDAY—washing; Tuesday—ironing; Wednesday—baking; Thursday—scrubbing; Friday—washing out a few things that were missed; Saturday—more baking, scrubbing, and an immense sight of work, by way of getting things ready to enjoy a little comfort around the house the rest of the week."

There! Mr. Editor, I have read a great many smart, funny and witty articles in your paper, but never a truer or more sensible one than the above, and I have stopped in the midst of my housework, sweeping, dusting, washing dishes, cleaning lamps and baking, (this is Wednesday,) for the express purpose of telling you so. Wash Monday, iron Tuesday, bake Wednesday, &c. That is just the programme, and for what? "A little comfort the rest of the week!" It sounds rather funny, but I think it decidedly serious. Six days of hard work to be able to rest one. And then when we come right to the point, the one who has during the week gone through with all of the above work, gets very little rest.—The head of the house rises an hour or two later than usual, dons his carefully prepared clothes, walks calmly out to a comfortable breakfast; after which he smokes his cigar and reads the papers, and when church time arrives wonders what the deuce wife is thinking about that she is not ready. And "wife," what has she done? Risen at the usual time—no extra sleep for her—laid her husbands clothes where he can find them, for men do hate to look for anything, (ten to one if they find it even by looking,) put her house in order and prepared breakfast, after which she dresses the children for Sunday School, washes her dishes, gets things ready for lunch, and if the church bell rings before she has accomplished a day's work, and is dressed for church, is it to be wondered at? This is merely her morning's work, and if we follow her through the day, it will plainly be seen that she gets very little rest, and when at night she pillows her tired head, her last thought is, "To-morrow I must wash."

Three months ago, I began learning to do housework, and I have served a faithful apprenticeship at it, and now I can say, "I know how to do housework," but, like the man who could eat "biled crow," I must confess, "I don't hanker arter it," and just because one is never through with it—

"Man's work lasts from sun to sun,
Woman's work is never done."

Oh, dear! while I've been writing to you my pies have burned black; the baby has tipped over the kerosene can; everything has gone wrong, and if I don't hurry and make up for lost time, I shan't have even one day of comfort this week.

Yours, L.

Minneapolis, Oct. 14th.

Democratic View of the Situation.

FROM A DEMOCRATIC STANDPOINT.

HUNDREDS OF DEMOCRATS SUPPORTING KING.

From the St. Paul Pioneer.

We have alluded elsewhere to the damaging effect which Piff-paff-pouf Robertson's campaign is having upon the Democracy of the district. The Eagle, the Democratic organ of Wright county, expresses its disgust by openly espousing the cause of King, declaring that—

"The struggle has almost, if not entirely, ceased to be a party contest. Long-tried and earnest Democrats are supporting King with a power that alone would nearly elect him, and the conduct of the District Committee has sent into his ranks hundreds more."

Elsewhere The Eagle says:

"After a portion of the St. Paul and Minneapolis leaders of the Democracy have put up a job to elect Col. King to Congress, the other portion, headed by Col. Robertson, of St. Paul, have issued an address to the people of this district, which is such an abusive and outrageous personal attack on Col. King, that the rest of the Democracy now threaten to vote for him as a rebuke to the Committee for sending out such an address.

Between these two factions, Col. King seems likely to get pretty nearly all the Democratic votes of the lower end of the District. Well may Eugene Wilson exclaim: "Save me from my friends!"

Wadena "Currents."

Ye Tribune Pair:

Didst think we were no more forever on this terrestrial sphere? Well the facts are, Huckleberry No. 2, managed to inveigle us out of our pencil, and we have been "working out" for a few days, and now have a new five center, and "Richard is himself again," and now for these

"CURRENTS."

Messrs. A. N. Peach & Bro., are building a nice new store on Front Street just east of the Wadena Hotel. They are also erecting a grain elevator just east of the lumber yard; both buildings will be ready for biz, in about thirty days.

CHARLIE PEAKE is going to "forward march" his store on to Front Street, "next door" to Peach & Bro. But he will sell goods "enroute" just as though he wasn't moving. Mr. Hoyt has just built a neat little house near the residence of the Rev. Dr. Kerr.

A. G. PEAKE, (single,) is putting up a nice little cottage, with bay window and sich, on his farm, about one mile south of town. We suppose Alvah won't keep house there alone this winter, but you know somewhere somebody says something about building the cage and then catching the bird. Well, we wont say anything about the bird, but we kinder guess its mostly so-er-ie; never mind now, "we pass" for a future item, the kind for which you set-em-up for a dollar and a piece of the cake, and where the editor says lots of nice things about many "happy returns" and a pleasant voyage adown life's billowy sea of fundamental happiness, or words to that effect. Guess, perhaps, we've got it a little twisted.

PERSONAL.

Sheriff McKay of Crow Wing county, (guess you know him,) put in an appearance one day last week, and smiled on a few of our honest folks kind of bland like, you know, and told them as how they were to come down on jury somewhere about the 4th Tuesday in Oct. Now, our people are usually smiling, and good natured, but if you had gazed on these "gentlemen of the jury" after Mc. had gone, you would certainly have come to the conclusion that they were about as cross and sour a looking set of fellow citizens, as it was ever your misfortune to gaze on. They have come to the conclusion to go for "Granger Donnelly," and have him, when he introduces his bill this winter, to-wit: "An Act entitled an Act to prohibit hopple grasses from 'laying any eggs' along the line of the N. P." etc., just add a little section that will bust this grand jury from "setting" anywhere along the same line. Well, anyway, Mc. is a good boy, and we fellows, what can't be jurors, just like to have him come up and see us, and take a smile-ing smoke. Come again, Mc. and stop longer.

Well we cant dish up any more "currents" just now, but we are just going to sleep nights with one eye open for about a week, and give you a red hot political hash-up of Anti-Monops in the 41st District—you bet!

Your blooming
HUCKLEBERRY.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CROW WING COUNTY.

In response to numerous requests I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of TREASURER of Crow Wing county, subject to the will of the people.

Very respectfully,
N. McFADDEN.

Oct. 24, 1874.

WE SEE by the Audubon Journal that L. G. Stevenson, well known, politically, in the counties west of here, recently killed a valuable horse in his efforts to "see a man." "Steve" unfortunately for himself, takes more stock in politics, and has the least success, of any man we know of, and he is always on the off side, too. Although the "Reformers" would not allow him in their pow-wow at Fergus, he falls in with them, and kisses the hand that smites him. That's the kind of a clothes-pin he is.

How Wilson Conducts the Campaign.

From the St. Paul Press.

In Eugene M. Wilson's recent letter to the chairman of the Republican Central Committee, he said "he had made no charges against Mr. King's private character," and for this reason declined to accept Mr. King's challenge to discuss the issue of character before the people. It now turns out that, in this averment, Eugene was guilty of departing from the strict line of historical accuracy. To put it mildly we deeply regret to say that Eugene lied. The Sauk Center Herald says that in his speech at that place Eugene made substantially the same charges against Col. King that were made by the delectable firm of Latter Day Saints of Donnelly and Robertson. He made no attempt to substantiate them, but contented himself with vague and general imputations.

And here we have a beautiful revelation of the character of the Democratic candidate for Congress. A man who is thus capable of sneaking off into remote and isolated rural districts to make cowardly assaults upon the private character of his opponent, and then, when challenged to meet Col. King in joint open discussion upon the full issue thus raised behind his back denies that he made any private charges against him as a pretext for declining the challenge, proves himself a—well, a sneak and poltroon of the first water. We knew that Eugene was a very small potato, but had no suspicion that he was so exceedingly small and pitiful a creature as his conduct in this matter proves him to be.

If the time ever comes for the explanation of the mysteries of this world, we shall be glad to know why the young man who remarks on leaving church, "I can preach a better sermon than that myself," is content to wear out his life over a counter at $50 a month.

TO THE PUBLIC! I desire to say to my patrons that the State Atlas of Minnesota is now in press, and that the delivery will commence about the middle of November in the northern portion of the state and work southward. Having been requested by a number of my subscribers to furnish them with a better quality of binding, I will bind in morocco, gilt edges, stamped gilt back, extra with Ellsbury's Chronics of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Winona, 15x27 inches. The extra cost will be four dollars per copy. Orders for the extra binding must be sent to this office immediately. Delivery agents will not be allowed to sell atlases, but only furnish copies to subscribers. Having spared neither trouble or expense to make this the most complete work of the kind ever published, I will place it in your hands as near perfect as was possible to make it, and hope it will more than fill your most sanguine expectations.

Yours truly,
A. T. ANDREAS.
