THE DIFFERENCE. The St. Paul Dispatch is loud in its support of Speaker Kerr in the Greenback appointment bribe matter.

BLACK HILLS. Don Stevenson and party just returned from Black Hills, ten days out, saw no Indians.

A FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT ON THE N. P. R. On Wednesday morning last at about ten o'clock, our quiet little town was startled by the terrible report, coming flashing over the wires that the passenger train, then an hour past due here from Duluth, had gone through a burning bridge across the Tamarac river.

THE WOUNDED. And fortunately they were not as many as we had anticipated, that their injuries, in every instance, were very slight, no bones being broken, and all being able to walk about quite comfortably.

THE CAUSE. The accident was caused, as stated above, by the bridge being on fire—it was an ordinary pile bridge, about 125 feet long, situated at the end of a short curve running through a cut, where a train approaching from the east could not possibly sight it fifteen rail lengths off.

THE WRECK. The skeleton of the engine, (No. 48.) lay on the west bank, about twenty feet from the track, its full size embedded in the mud (which was as soft as mortar), literally broken to smash.

On the other hand, however, and in the same issue, the Dispatch is equally loud-mouthed in its praise of Mulligan, the witness against ex-Speaker Blaine, because Blaine is a Republican.

NEIGHBORS AND RELIGION.

Incivility of Living Next Door to Second Advent. From the Danbury News.

SOME TALL STORIES.

Reminiscences of California Life—Horace Greely's Little Joke. Jay Charlton, the New York correspondent...

"I am the man from the mountains!" There was no response. This was a challenge to fight.

"But why should their peculiar religious belief make you dissatisfied with your home?" We ventured to inquire.

"Why?" he ejaculated, staring hard at us. "But then you don't know anything about it."

"You'd remember it if you had," he replied, with significant emphasis.

"I'll never forget my experience. That family got acquainted with us, and then it had its revelations.

"Give me another glass of brandy." The brandy was put out, the glass was filled, and the bully again reached forward.

"Give me two glasses of brandy." The two glasses were put out, filled, and the bully the third time reached forward.

"That fellow might have hurt somebody else." Jim Kavanagh, formerly member of Congress from Montana...

A mandarin met his death in the late collision between the Chinese steamer Fusing and the British steamer Ocean.

The commander of a Chinese man-of-war belonging to the Foochow Arsenal fleet was taken suddenly ill, and died at a friend's house.

A European resident lately received the following excuse from his Chinese teacher for some days absence.

Here is a parallel to the celebrated Berkeley Square story. It must be noted that the ghosts of the suicides are distinguished by wearing red handkerchiefs.

A Scotch Footstool. Among the youthful friends of the late Dr. Norman Macleod, was Dugald M—, a poet of local celebrity.

The Spiritualists. The Spiritualists of Minnesota are expecting a large turnout at their mass convention to be held in Minneapolis, 15th to 18th.

A Prudent Provider. Mme. de MacMahon is much more popular with the green-grocers of Paris than was Mme. Thiers.
